On the call of the County Auditor pursuant to chapter 230 of the Laws of Minnesota for the year 1905 and Acts amendatory thereto the County Board of Pennington County met in the Office of the County Auditor in the City of Thief River Falls at 2 o'clock p. m.

Meeting called to order by Chairman Commissioner Wold.

Members present: Commissioners Wold, Larson, Peterson and McGinn.

Members absent: Commissioner Aubol.

The petition of A. C. Tvedt and others for a public Drainage Ditch came before the Board and the following orders were made:

Order Appointing Viewers—Ditch Proceedings.

In the Matter of the Petition of A. C. Tvedt and others for County Ditch No. 63 in the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota:

STATE OF MINNESOTA,)
County of Pennington,)

WHEREAS, A petition bearing date the 20th day of October, A. D. 1915, signed by A. C. Tvedt and others praying for the establishment of a ditch in said County, designated and numbered by the County Auditor as County Ditch No. 63, the route of which is fully described in said petition, together with a proper bond accompanying the same, has been filed with the County Auditor of said County; and said County Auditor has given due notice of the pendency of said petition, and the said notice has been published and served as by law required; and hearing had on said petition pursuant to said notice; and the said County Board of said County have heretofore duly appointed a competent engineer, to-wit: Glenn H. Martz, to make a survey of said ditch.

NOW THEREFORE, We, the County Board of said County, at a Special session held this day, do hereby appoint Gust Naplin and R. M. Johnson and Walter McAndrews, three resident freeholders of said County, who are not interested in the construction of said proposed work, and not or kin to any of the parties known to be interested therein, to be viewers of said proposed work and of the route thereof. The said viewers shall first take an oath to faithfully perform their duties as such viewers; and thereafter, having received a certified copy of the petition for said ditch and of the order appointing them such viewers and of the order of the County Auditor of said County designating the time and place of the first meeting of said viewers, shall meet at the time and place specified, in the order of the County Auditor aforesaid and shall proceed to view said proposed work, and the land damaged or benefited thereby; and, having completed said view and examination of said work, shall make and file their report thereof with said County Auditor of said County within thirty days from the date of their first meeting. In said report they shall in tabular form give the names of the owners of each tract of land to be benefited or damaged by said proposed work, the description of each tract of land so benefited or damaged (said names of owners to be the same as appear on the County tax duplicates of said County, and the description to be given in legal form), and the total number of acres in each of said tracts, the estimated number of acres in each tract of land to be benefited or damaged (as the case may be), the number of acres added to any tract by the total or partial drainage of any meandered lake, or the change of any water course and the location and value of such added land; the damage, if any, to riparian rights pertaining to any tract, and the amount that each tract of land will be benefited or damaged by the construction of said work. In case said ditch drains, either in whole or in part, any public or corporate road or railroad, or benefits any such road so that the roadbed or traveled track of any such road will be made better by the construction of said ditch, said viewers shall estimate the benefits arising therefrom to said road, roadbeds or railroads, and report said benefits, together with the names of roads and other particulars necessary to identify the corporations, private or public, to be benefited thereby, and amounts of benefits to each; they shall report as part of such tabular statement the damages awarded to each municipal or other corporation for injury to any road or roadbed, and from the necessary construction and maintenance of any bridge, culverts or other works rendered necessary by the establishment of such ditch, stating the same separately. They shall also report the total estimated benefits in respect to said ditch entire, and branches thereof, if any, and also whether or not, in their opinion, the estimated expense of the construction of said ditch including the damages assessed therefor, is greater than the utility of said proposed ditch; and whether or not said proposed ditch is impracticable for any reason, and if so, stating the reason why it should not be constructed. In making said view and survey of said proposed work and their report thereon, the said viewers shall proceed according to Chapter 230 of the General Laws of 1905.

Johnson and Walter McAndrews, three resident freeholders of said County, who are not interested in the construction of said proposed work, and not of kin to any of the parties known to be interested therein, to be viewers of said proposed work and of the route thereof. The said viewers shall first take an oath to faithfully perform their duties as such viewers; and thereafter, having received a certified copy of the petition for said ditch and of the order appointing them such viewers and of the order of the County Auditor of said County designating the time and place of the first meeting of said viewers, shall meet at the time and place specified, in the order of the County Auditor aforesaid and shall proceed to view said proposed work, and the land damaged or benefited thereby; and, having completed said view and examination of said work, shall make and file their report thereof with said County Auditor of said County within thirty days from the date of their first meeting. In said report they shall in tabular form give the names of the owners of each tract of land to be benefited or damaged by said proposed work, the description of each tract of land so benefited or damaged (said names of owners to be the same as appear on the County tax duplicates of said County, and the description to be given in legal form), and the total number of acres in each of said tracts, the estimated number of acres in each tract of land to be benefited or damaged (as the case may be), the number of acres added to any tract by the total or partial drainage of any meandered lake, or the change of any water course and the location and value of such added land; the damage, if any, to riparian rights pertaining to any tract, and the amount that each tract of land will be benefited or damaged by the construction of said work. In case said ditch drains, either in whole or in part, any public or corporate road or railroad, or benefits any such road so that the roadbed or traveled track of any such road will be made better by the construction of said ditch, said viewers shall estimate the benefits arising therefrom to said road, roadbeds or railroads, and report said benefits, together with the names of roads and other particulars necessary to identify the corporations, private or public, to be benefited thereby, and amounts of benefits to each; they shall report as part of such tabular statement the damages awarded to each municipal or other corporation for injury to any road or roadbed, and from the necessary construction and maintenance of any bridge, culverts or other works rendered necessary by the establishment of such ditch, stating the same separately. They shall also report the total estimated benefits in respect to said ditch entire, and branches thereof, if any, and also whether or not, in their opinion, the estimated expense of the construction of said ditch including the damages assessed therefor, is greater than the utility of said proposed ditch; and whether or not said proposed ditch is impracticable for any reason, and if so, stating the reason why it should not be constructed. In making said view and survey of said proposed work and their report thereon, the said viewers shall proceed according to Chapter 230 of the General Laws of 1905.

The County Board of Pennington County, Minnesota,
By PETER C. WOLD, Chairman.

Dated this 15th day of February, A. D. 1916.

Attest:
T. P. ANDERSON, County Auditor.

Resolution Appointing Engineer in Ditch Proceedings.

In the Matter of the Petition of H. G. Borden and Others For Locating and Constructing County Ditch No. 64 in the County of Pennington State of Minnesota.

County of Pennington,)

WHEREAS, A petition bearing date the 22nd day of December, 1915, signed by H. G. Borden and others praying for the establishment of a certain Drainage Ditch in said County, designated and numbered by the County Auditor as County Ditch No. 64, the route of which is more fully described in said petition, and a proper bond accompanying the same, have been filed with the County Auditor of said County, as by law required:

AND, WHEREAS, It appears by satisfactory proof to the County Board of Pennington County, that due notice of the pendency of said petition, and the time and place at which the same would be heard, has been given as required by law;

NOW, THEREFORE, We, the County Board of said County, at a Special session held this day, do hereby appoint Glenn H. Martz as a competent and experienced engineer, at a fixed salary of $5.00 per day, to make an accurate survey of the line of said Ditch from its source to its outlet, as provided and specified in and by Chapter 230 of the General Laws of 1905, and after completing his duties as such engineer to make and file his report with the County Auditor of said County, on or before the 15th day of March, 1916.

Dated February 15th, 1916.

BY THE BOARD,
PETER C. WOLD, Chairman of County Board of Pennington County.

Attest:

To Whom It May oncern:

We, the undersigned, have this day examined the books of the Secretary and Treasurer of the Thief River Falls Co-Operative Creamery Co., and find them correct and hereby accept above report.

FRED COPP, HANS ANTON, NELS BURTNES.

The difference in price of high grade butter and the lower grades is getting wider every year. Therefore our aim ought to be, to better the quality of butter rather than to increase the quantity, and to do so it requires a better quality of crean.

HENRY HANSON, Secretary.

CITATION FOR HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION.
ESTATE OF MATHILDA LIND.

State of Minnesota, County of Pennington, in Probate Court.

In the Matter of the Estate of Mathilda Lind, Decedent.

The State of Minnesota to Elvira Lind, Blanche Lind, Iver Lind, Sigrud Lind, Albert Lind, Eunice Lind, Elmer Lind, Axil Lind and Bennie Lind, all persons interested in the granting of administration of the estate of said decedent:

The petition of Iver K. Lind having been filed in this Court, representing that Mathilda Lind, then a resident of the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, died intestate on the 29th day of January 1916, and praying that letters of administration of her estate be granted to Sigrud Lind and the Court having fixed the time and place for hearing said petition.

THEREFORE, YOU, AND EACH OF YOU, are hereby cited and required to show cause, if any you have, before this Court at the Probate Court Rooms in the City of Thief River Falls in the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, on the 13th day of March, 1916, at 10 o'clock a. m., why said petition should not be granted.

WITNESS, the Judge of said Court, and the Seal of said Court, this 15th day of February, 1916.

WILHELM MICHELET.
Probate Judge.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

St. Hilaire News

Masquerade Ball.

The St. Hilaire Fireman's annual masquerade ball was held Friday night, the eighteenth, at the Imperial hall, and proved to be a grand success in every way. Not only the local people were present but a large crowd of people from the country adjacent to our village and also a number of people from neighboring towns.

Many and various fine costumes were to be seen. Miss Olive Patterson representing an "Indian Princess" was awarded the ladies' prize for best appearance, and Lawrence Wilson as a "Soutern Gentleman," received the corresponding gentleman's prize. Miss Lilly Johnson impersonating a "Dutch Girl," was awarded the ladies' comic prize and Elmer Burkee and Furdie Hall as "Piedro and Monkey" received the gent's comic prize.

The St. Hilaire orchestra furnished music for the evening. A delicious luncheon was served at mid-night at the Central hotel.

The dance continued until the small hours of the morning and all present had an excellent time.

Moving Picture Show.

The new moving picture show here was installed here last week and is being operated by Harry Dybvick of Thief River Falls, and Selmor S. Benson of this village. It is in full swing now and shows are to be given every Wednesday and Saturday nights. The boys have put on some first-class pictures and their efforts are being rewarded by good-sized crowds at the performances. The new electric lights have helped greatly to make these shows a success and the St. Hilaire people can now attend moving picture shows here that are equally as good as any you can find elsewhere.

Mr. Keller Receives Sad Tidings.

C. Keller left here for Waseca, Minn., last Saturday and returned home on Thursday. Last Friday Mr. Keller received word that his brother, who had been employed in North Dakota, had been found dead, and in response to the news, Mr. Keller left for his brother's home expecting to arrive for the funeral. Upon his arrival he found that the state authorities of North Dakota were holding the body for investigation. The officials have a suspicion that Mr. Keller's death was due to some foul play and are therefore delaying shipment of the body.

Afternoon Party.

Mrs. Ira Johnson entertained Saturday afternoon at her home, the Central hotel. The party was given complimentary to her sister, Mrs. Forselle of Thief River Falls, who has spent the week-end here as a guest of Mrs. Johnson. A very pleasant afternoon was spent and an elaborate luncheon was served. The guests present were: Mesdames R. Wallin, Larson, Aaberg, Burkee, Jackson, Johnson, H. Olson, W. Olson, and the Misses Lillie Johnson, Hazel Wallen and Olga Swenson.

The Misses Monghild and Hilga Kalland were at Thief River Falls Tuesday between trains, transacting business.

Glenn H. Martz left Tuesday afternoon for Red Lake Falls, where he expects to be engaged for a few days.

Ed. A. Aubol was at the county seat between trains Tuesday.

Messrs. Victor Brink, Sever Skollam and Knute Nash spent Tuesday at Thief River Falls.

The St. Hilaire Concert Band appeared on the street Tuesday evening and rendered a few very fine selections.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Gus Larson last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Fellman spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Fellman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Satterberg.

A number of young people called at the Carl Johnson home Monday evening and spent a very pleasant time. The evening was spent in games and cards. A delicious luncheon was served. Those present were: the Misses Olga Fricker, Louise Wilson, Echo Olson, Mae Barragy, Selma Hoff, Olive Porter and Mrs. Hall.

The St. Hilaire public school did not observe Washington's birthday as a holiday this year. School was in session to make up for leave taken the day after Thanksgiving.

Miss Shelland of the State University, will be here the second and third of March and will hold meetings in the Riverside school, the August Swenson school and also in St. Hilaire. She will lecture on the advantages of consolidated schools.

Reverend Torgenson, pastor af the Norwegian Synod church of Grand Forks, North Dakota, gave a lecture at the Imperial hall on "Iceland." A large crowd was present.

Mrs. Forselle of Thief River Falls, came down from that place Friday to visit with her sister, Mrs. Ira Johnson.

Miss Anna Patterson and Miss Turner of the Thief River Falls faculty, came down Monday evening and returned Tuesday morning. They visited at the Dan Patterson residence.

Mauritz Brink, operator at the Soo depot at Thief River Falls, spent Sunday at his home in this village. He returned Sunday evening.

James Walker of Thief River Falls was in town Monday evening and returned to his home Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Whalen went to Red Lake Falls Sunday afternoon, returning the same evening.

Don't forget that Friday, the 25th, is the date set for the band boys to give their second concert, and as this will be even better than the last we can all look for a good thing Friday night. Be there, show your appreciation and help the boys along.

W. Wicks and Charles Biglow were out at the August Swenson district Friday afternoon to make arrangements to have Miss Shelland lecture on "Consolidation of Schools."

Ed. Dahl was a Thief River Falls caller Wednesday between trains.

Misses Mae Barragy and Olive Porter were guests at the Miron Elliott home for dinner last Wednesday.

Mrs. Dan Patterson and Mrs. Charles Patterson under the auspices of the Ladies' Civic club, called at the school-house Thursday and spent the afternoon visiting the various rooms.

Don't forget that Senator Frank M. Nye is to be with us Saturday, the 26th, at the Imperial hall, and will give an address on the "Lincoln Democracy." He is an orator of high standing and would certainly be worth going miles to hear, so it is an opportunity the St. Hilaire people cannot afford to let slip by without taking advantage of. He is giving his service free and the proceeds are to go to the Ladies' Civic club.

Miss Emmie Brink of Crookston, arrived at St. Hilaire Friday to visit at the home of her brother, O. W. Brink.

Mr. Fossum of Emerado, came Thursday to visit with his friend, Rolland Trask. He returned Saturday.

Miss Olive Porter spent Saturday at her home in Thief River Falls.

Miss Anna Patterson spent Sunday at the home of her parents. She returned to Thief River Falls Sunday evening.

Mrs. R. Wallen and daughter, Hazel, shopped at Thief River Falls between trains Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurst and family drove to Thief River Falls Wednesday evening and attended the lecture given by Dr. Vincent at the auditorium.

Ed. Gestie of Fargo, was in town Wednesday between trains and visited at the home of his sister, Mrs. Carl Johnson.

Mrs. H. Stewart, who has been visiting at the H. Roth home, left for her home in Iowa Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patterson and Messrs. A. Hed, Ole Olson, Gus Fellman and Olof Aaberg attended Dr. Vincent's lecture at Thief River Falls last Wednesday evening.

Ole Olson was a Thief River Falls visitor last Friday. He returned Friday afternoon.

Mae Brown, who is head clerk of the Wolfe Ladies' Furnishings store at Grand Forks, North Dakota, came home last Tuesday to visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Amble. She returned to her employment Saturday afternoon, accompanied by her sister, Miss Cleo Amble, who attends the Grand Forks University and came home Thursday to attend the Firemen's annual ball.

The N. E. Beebe family and Miss Alice Hall attended the last number of the Thief River Falls Lyceum Course last Thursday evening when Dr. Vincent of the Minnesota University lectured at the Auditorium.

K. O. Gigstad was a Thief River Falls visitor between trains last Wednesday.

Andy Dahl, who is teaching a term of school at Shelly, came home Saturday morning to spend a few days with his parents. He returned Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Albert Severson stopped at Thief River Falls between trains Wednesday.

Mrs. A. Jacobson of Sanders, spent Friday and Saturday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Amble.

Mrs. Henry Olson visited with friends and shopped at Thief River Falls Wednesday. She returned on the afternoon train.

Reverend Theodore Gryting spent several days at the county seat transacting business. He returned home Friday.

Fred Soderberg and son, Walter, returned from Warren Wednesday morning, where Walter has been taking medical treatment.

Mrs. C. C. Elliott and Mrs. Charles Biglow drove out to W. Adam's home last Wednesday forenoon. They spent a very pleasant day and returned home in the evening.

DAHLE HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Must Answer Before Grand Jury On Charge of Causing Death of Olaf Vatne.

NEWELL FOR BLINDPIGGING

Thief River Falls Druggist Must Answer To Charge of Peddling Booze At Goodridge Store.

Jens Dahle, arrested last week charged with having caused the death of Olaf Vatne of Star township, was given a preliminary hearing before Justice N. W. Tarrant on Monday, at the conclusion of which he was bound over to the grand jury at the June term of the district court on a charge of first degree manslaughter. County Attorney H. O. Kjomme conducted the examination for the state, while G. Halvorson appeared for the defendant.

Tollef and Kittle Vatne, brothers of the dead man, were placed on the stand to tell what they knew of the movements of Olaf on the day preceding that on which he met his death. Their testimony contained nothing in any way bearing on the occurance. Dr. H. W. Froehlich and Dr. J. E. Douglass of Thief River Falls, who with Dr. Adkins of Grygla, performed the post mortem examination on the body of Vatne, were the next witnesses and testified as to the nature of the injury that resulted in the death of the latter. Their evidence showed that there was a displacement of the vertebra about 18 inches below the head caused by the separation of the connecting segement between the sixth and seventh vertebra.

Ole Danielson, the only other man present in the house when the altercation took place, testified that he had been drinking and fell asleep and did not know how or when the trouble started. He woke up, however, long enough to hear Vatne remonstrate with Dahle concerning his behavior and language, and to hear the latter threaten the former. According to this witness, Vatne then approached the telephone with the evident intention of calling for help. He was grabbed from behind by Dahle, who threw him down and kept shoving him violently against the floor. Things quieted down after this and witness again fell asleep. He did not awake until near evening when he summoned help. Danielson speaks English but imperfectly, and county auditor Anderson acted as interpreter.

Dahle claims that he is unable to remember anything concerning these occurances. He is very nervous and downcast.

The case against Dr. Newell of Thief River Falls, charged with illegally selling intoxicating liquors at his Goodridge drug store came up for preliminary hearing on Monday, before Justice Tarrant. At its conclusion he was bound over to the grand jury at the June term of court.

Harris Hagestuen, 18 years of age, testified that he had bought a pint bottle of brandy at Dr. Newell's store on February 11. Witness also testified that the bottle had been sold to him by Dr. Newell himself after he had admitted that he was not of age. Andrew Fastlund was very positive in his testimony that he had secured a bottle of brandy from Dr. Newell and that its contents intoxicated him. Evan Shulestad also secured a quart of alcohol at the same place, according to his testimony. Jens Dahle, in jail charged with having caused the death of Olaf Vatne, also stated that he had asked for a quart of alcohol at the Newell drug store and had received it.

County attorney Kjomme and Sheriff La Bree say that they are going to employ all the resources at their command to stop illegal liquor traffic, and in this they will be upheld by the people all over the county. The sale of liquor is prohibited by law in Pennington county, and these officials are determined that the law shall be observed.

City Attorney Theodore Quale is defending Dr. Newell, a circumstance that has given rise to considerable comment.

Mrs. J. Linde Called by Death.

Mrs. John Linde, 1011 Horace avenue north, passed away this afternoon at one o'clock, after an illness of three weeks, death being due to typhoid fever. Three weeks ago she contracted a severe cold combined with la grippe, which later developed into the cause of her death. Last evening her condition was considered very grave by attending physicians. but this morning a slight improvement was noticed for the better. Later on in the morning her condition changed and she sank rapidly, death ensuing shortly afterwards. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon, March 5, at the Norwegian Lutheran church, after which the remains will be taken to Greenwood cemetery for interment. The services will be in charge of Rev. I. T. Aastad, pastor of the Synod church, the deceased having been a long and fatihful member of that church denomination.

Mrs. John Linde was born October 4, 1864, at Lower Telemarken, Norway, making her age at the time of death 51 years, 4 months and 27 days. In 1867 she came to America with her parents at the age of three years. They landed at New York and from that place went to Kandiyohi county, Minnesota, where they resided on a farm.

Mrs. John Linde, whose maiden name was Caroline Romness, was married June 25, 1892 to John Linde at Belgrade, Minn., and to this union were born four children, all of whom survive as follows: Agnes, Clara, Coleman and Oscar. All of the surviving children were present at their mother's bedside when she left this earthly life and passed to her reward. Other survivors of the deceased are: John Linde, husband; Mrs. O. A. Fosse, sister, Thief River Falls; Peter Romness, brother, Lancaster; John Romness, half brother, Belgrade; Gunder Romness, half brother, Canby, Minn.

In the death of Mrs. Linde, a dear and beloved mother has been called away and a vacancy has been made in the home that can never be filled. She was a christian woman, a woman of rigid honesty, sterling worth of character and unfailing friendship and will be greatly missed.

The Times extends its most sincere sympathy to the bereaved members of the family and relatives.

CONTRACT FOR DITCH 41 WILL BE LET ON MAR. 27

Work May Be Taken As One Job or In Sections of 100 Feet.

Bids for the construction of Judicial ditch No. 41 in Pennington and Red Lake counties will be opened by County Auditor T. P. Anderson at Thief River Falls on March 27.

The estimate of the engineer of the amount of excavation necessary in this work is 18,670 cubic yards and the estimated cost of its removal is $1,867.00. The notice advertising for bids advises that the job may be taken as one entire contract or may be cut up into sections of 100 feet each.

This ditch will have its beginning at about the center of the line between Mayfield and Wyandotte townships and the flowage will be in a southerly direction to the Red Lake river. The total length is but two and three-fourths miles, so that but a small proportion of the work is in Red Lake county. Engineers are working on another ditching project in Mayfield township and will soon have their report ready to be acted upon. These ditches will drain a large territory of excellent land heretofore impossible of cultivation because of its low, swampy nature.

INCREASE OF BAIL TO BE ASKED IN CASE OF DAHLE

Judge Tarrant And County Attorney Kjomme Deem $500 Insufficient As Surety.

Municipal Judge N. W. Tarrant and County Attorney H. O. Kjomme after a conference decided that the bond asked to insure the appearance of the prisoner is insufficient, and a larger sum will be demanded. Mr. Kjomme maintains that the subject of bail in a first degree manslaughter case does not come under the jurisdiction of the municipal court, and has requested a decision in the matter from District Judge Grindeland. Pending the arrival of this Dahle is held in jail. He has been unable to secure even the $500 demanded at the preliminary trial for his release. In case it is found that the municipal court has the right to fix the bonds in this case, Judge Tarrant is convinced that sum should be larger and will so stipulate.

CITY CURFEW ORDINANCE AGAIN WARNS CHILDREN

In another column will be found the notice signed by Chief of Police O. E. Berge, calling attention to the fact that the curfew ordinance of the city went into effect on March 1. This means that any youngster caught on the streets after 9 o'clock must present a good excuse for his or her presence there or get into trouble with the police department. This order will not apply to anyone having legitimate business to attend to after that hour, but boys and girls congregating on street corners or other places will be asked why they are not at home. It is a good ordinance and will be enforced, according to the chief.

WETS WIN IN RED LAKE FIGHT

By Vote of 930 to 710 People There Elect To Continue Saloons.

COUNTRY DISTRICTS EVEN

The people of Red Lake county on Monday indicated in the most unmistakable manner that they wish the licensed saloon to remain in their midst. The proposition to make the county dry was lost by a vote of 930 for license to 710 against. The country precincts were pretty evenly divided, but the city of Red Lake Falls went on record against the drys by a vote of 358 to 52—practically seven to one.

Much interest was evident throughout the state over the outcome of this election, Red Lake being the only county in this section in which liquor is now permitted to be sold.

The heaviest dry vote was cast in the town of Equality, where the result showed 111 against license and but 16 in its favor. The most emphatic protest against a dry county was recorded by the Third ward of the city of Red Lake Falls, where there were but 24 no-license votes cast out of a total of 202.

There is a possibility that the entire proceeding may be declared illegal. The state law says that no option election shall be held less than 30 days prior to a primary or general election. The primaries in Minnesota are to be held on the 14th of March, while the Red Lake election was held on February 28. Opinions differ as to just what effect, if any, this will have.

Following is the result by precincts:

	For License	Against License
City of Red Lake Falls—
First ward	91	12
Second ward	89	16
Third ward	178	24

COMMERCIAL CLUB LUNCH TUESDAY EVENING, MAR. 7

Eats, Music, Speeches And Reports Will Go To Make Up Interesting Time.

The Commercial club will give another of its justly famous "stand-up" lunches at supper time on Tuesday, March 7. The members of the newly organized Boys' Commercial club will assist in the serving and will be found very useful. There will be singing by the quartette, some instrumental music, a short address or two and reports on certain matters now pending before the club. An informal talk over the work to be undertaken by the organization in the near future will also be a feature.

NORWEGIAN LUTHERANS HOLD MID-WINTER MEET

Red River Valley Home Mission Society Meets At Zion Church Here.

The mid-winter meeting of the Red River Valley Home Mission society was held at the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church in this city this week, closing its sessions on Wednesday afternoon. Including Rev. A. L. Larson, pastor of Zion church, there were 12 delegates present, as follows: Rev. E. Haagaard, chairman, Perley; Rev. O. Norness, secretary, Beltrami; Lars Hatele, Maple Bay; P. J. Hushagen, Fosston; R. Skue, Beltrami; Rev. P. A. Noikem, Park River; A. S. Steenes, Charles Ness, B. K. Rustvuld, G. Christianson, P. A. Mork, Beltrami.

Reports of the progress made in the work during the past year were read and found most satisfactory. The topic of general discussion was the fifty-third chapter of Isiah.

FATHER AND SON WILL BE GUESTS

BOOST Y.M.C.A. MOVEMENT

E. J. Jewett of St. Paul, To Be Principal Speaker—Banquet To Be Given At Hotel Brumund.

Arrangements are now practically completed for the father and son get-together banquet to be held for the purpose of furthering the movement for the establishment of a Y. M. C. A. branch in Thief River Falls. The date fixed upon is March 15; and the Hotel Brumund has been selected as the place.

The principal speaker of the evening will be E. W. Peck of St. Paul, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who will have for his topic: "Association Aetivities the World Over." Mr. Peck's work has taken him all over the civilized world during his connection with the organization, and his address is authentic, interesting and enlightening. Another of the speakers will be E. J. Jewitt of St. Paul, who will more specifically outline the advantages accruing to the people of a city such as Thief River Falls through the maintenance of a Y. M. C. A. branch in their midst.

President George G. Johnson of the Commercial club, will act as toastmaster, and Mayor F. H. Gambell has been requested to preside at the meeting to be held after the supper.

The committee in charge insists that fathers bring a son with them—if not their own, then someone else's. In cases where the son has reached an age he may be expected to take the greater interest of the two in matters of this kind, it has been suggested that he bring his father. The meeting will be good for both.

The supper will cost one dollar for one father and one son, or at the rate of fifty cents per plate.

To judge by the amount of interest evidenced in the matter, there is no doubt but that a Y. M. C. A. here would receive the very strongest support. Among the business and railroad men who have been approached on the subject the sentiment is decidedly favorable, and others are only waiting to see a start made in order to join the movement.

THIEF RIVER FALLS MEN IN FAVOR OF CUMMINS

Northwestern Minnesota is strongly in favor of Senator Cummins as the Republican nominee for president. The only danger is that the voters may split their votes between the fourteen candidates so that Estabrook delegates will be chosen, and in the interviews given below particular attention is called to the importance of marking ballots for the four accredited candidates for delegates at large and the two for district delegates. The interview follows:

Good, Conservative Ideas.

I am heartily in favor of Senator Cummins of Iowa for the Republican nomination for president. He is a western man of progressive ideas and understands the needs of this section of the country. He is right on Canadian reciprocity, has good conservative ideas on national preparedness, and I for one, will vote for delegates as his committee recommends, namely: Jacobson, Van Sant, Larson and Rahn, national delegates; Anderson and Widsten, district delegates.

H. E. Ives.

A Representative Delegation.

All the candidates having pledged themselves to the Cummins' candidacy a delegation should be sent that represents all factions in the party, so that no matter who the nominee may be he will have a united party back of him. This in my opinion would be accomplished by sending Rahn, Eberhart, Jacobson and Larson as delegates to Chicago.

Wilhelm Michelet.

Found No Opposition to Him.

There is no doubt in mind but that Cummins will get a large majority in this county, as I have found no opposition to him, but the trouble is that there will be 14 names for delegates at large in the primary column, with only four to be elected, and three names for district delegates with but two to be elected, while the Estabrook delegates are only the proper number. I trust that all bona-fide Cummins men will check off the names endorsed by the Cummins organization and not scatter their votes among the balance, and in that manner run the danger of getting Estabrook delegates.

In order to win this year we must run a peaceable man like Cummins, for such war talk as Roosevelt and Root are putting up has absolutely no backing in this part of the country. Jacobson, Larson, Van Sant and Rahn at large, and Anderson and Widsten for district delegates are the names that should be checked by all bona-fide Cummins men in order to keep together.

Andrew Trovaton.

Favors Eberhart As Delegate.

Cummins, of course, is a decided favorite, and will receive the votes of the delegates sent from Minnesota. I am, however, strongly in favor of Ex-Governor Eberhart as one of the delegates. He is in my estimation, one of the biggest men in the Northwest, and assuredly deserving of this honor at the hands of the party. Anyone whose business has taken him east will tell you that A. O. Eberhart is regarded very highly there, being in many quarters easily the best known man in Minnesota. Send Cummins delegates by all means, but do not cast doubt on the sincerity of the people in sending such a delegation by leaving out the best known Republican in the state. My choice for delegates is Eberhart, Van Sant, Jacobson and Larson, with Widsten and Anderson as the district delegates.

C. L. Hansen.

Vote For Candidates Endorsed.

The only logical way for the Cummins men to vote under the present circumstances is for the candidates endorsed by the Cummins manager in the state, otherwise their votes will be scattered among 14 candidates, with only four to be chosen at large. In this way one is sure to get real Cummins delegates; otherwise we are likely to get Estabrook men, or Root or Roosevelt men.

Jacobson, Van Sant, Larson and Rahn at large, and Widsten and Anderson for district delegates, are the names to be remembered by those who favor Cummins.

E. A. Mostue.

Minnesota For Cummins.

Minnesota is for Cummins--there is not the slightest doubt about that. The delegates sent to Chicago will be Cummins men unless voters so scatter their votes that the delegates for some other man are elected. Voters should remember that there are but four delegates-at-large to be chosen, and but two district delegates. To scatter the votes among the fourteen candidates indicated as for Cummins on the ballot might result in the choice of men favorable to Estabrook or some other man.

Vote for the four delegates endorsed by the state committee having the Cummins campaign in charge as well as for the two district delegates. the former are: J. F. Jacobson, S. R. Van Sant, O. J. Larson and A. D. Rahn, and the latter, Widsten and Anderson.

G. Halvorson.

Would Strengthen Delegation.

I am for Cummins. I am also for the Cummins delegation as outlined by the committee, except that it seems to me Ex-Governor Eberhart should have been included and a less-know man left off. I do not think it would look particularly well for the state of Minnesota to show up at a Republican convention with a delegation from which had been excluded the man twice elected to the highest office by the people of the state. It seems to me that this would indicate no particular amount of unity among the Republicans of the state. To leave off the delegation one of the best known men in the country and place thereon someone never heard of before this election, doesn't look like good politics to me. Nor would it be a square deal.

W. W. Prichard, Sr.

Do Not Vote Them All.

Voters should remember that there are but four delegates at large to be elected at the coming primaries, and only two district delegates. While there is not the slightest doubt but that the state is overwhelmingly for Cummins, there is a possibility of a mixed delegation being sent to Chicago if the people are not careful to vote only for the delegates selected by the Cummins committee. These are Jacobson, VanSant, Rahn and Larson, and votes cast for others will only serve to confuse matters. The two district delegates are Widsten and Anderson, and no more should be voted for.

Do not throw away Minnesota's chance of being the original Cummins state by marking your ballots for any other person as delegate.

WHO WILL WIN CHAMPIONSHIP?

All Eyes Are Centered On Big Battle To Be Staged On Gym Floor Friday.

TEAMS EVENLY MATCHED

Both Thief River Falls And Fosston Teams Have Lost One Game—Locals Appear Strong.

Followers of basketball are actively discussing the big game scheduled to be played on the floor of the Lincoln gym tomorrow (Friday) evening, in which the Thief River Falls high school teams will clash for the district title.

While many different views are expressed by those who follow the game so closely that they usually know what they are talking about, the general opinion seems to be that Thief River Falls will not be defeated no matter how strenuously Fosston may try to put a crimp in the local quint. Thief River Falls will make a genuine effort to floor Fosston, but how big the score will run when the closing gong is sounded, disclosing the champions of the district, is a question that wise men are not attempting to answer.

There is no doubt that Fosston will enter the contest with great speed, particularly at the start. Their team work is brilliant and when these two are combined a first-class exhibition is promised. Fosston completely outplayed McIntosh recently on the latters floor. Yet Fosston failed to wallop Thief River Falls two weeks ago, when the former team was defeated on their home floor by the local five by a score of 19 to 17. Thief River, on the other hand will go into the affray with speed and more speed, and furthermore with a determination to win.

Equipped with remarkable teamwork and basket shooting ability and playing on their home floor, Thief River Falls, in the opinion of many competent students of basketball, will without a doubt, secure a win. In accomplishing this feat, the district title will be cinched, insuring the local high school team a trip to Northfield to compete for the state championship.

Both teams are lacking of clumsiness and both understand the fine points of the game, but Thief River Falls ability to shoot baskets from a long distance will undoubtedly spell defeat for the visitors. the fact that Fosston is dangerous so long as they can successfully operate their accurate passing, would seem to indicate a severe offensive fight by the Thief River Falls team.

The game will be called at 8:15 sharp. Thief River Falls should turn enmasse and cheer the coming champions.

BUILD LEVEES TO HOLD BACK SURPLUS WATER

High Water Is Feared Here Because of Deep Snow In Valleys.

Senator D. P. O'Neill and Gay Halvorson of Thief River Falls, have charge of a crew of men at work building levees near Hickory, fear being entertained that when the snow begins to melt the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers will be unable to carry off the surplus, thus causing an inundation of a large tract of farming land. The heavy snow fall during the past winter has made the danger from flood of this kind greater than for many years. Power companies operating on the streams, county governments and individuals are contributing toward the cost of the work necessary to hold the flood in check. A revetment is being rushed to completion and it is thought that this will be sufficient to ward off the threatened flood until the danger is past.

Township Elections March 14.

County Auditor T. P. Anderson has this week sent to all the town clerks of the county the necessary notifications and blanks for the township elections to be held on March 14. Supervisors, clerks, treasurer and road overseer are the officers to be chosen.

Holstein Breeders Will Meet.

Secretary F. T. Satre of the Pennington County Holstein Breeders association, announces that there will be a meeting of that body at the Commercial club rooms in Thief River Falls on Saturday, March 11. There are a large number of dairymen in the county who are strong supporters of this class of cattle, and the meeting should prove one of unusual interest.

POOR ADVERTISING.

A lot of stuff printed in the newspapers of Minnesota during the winter months has done the state no good. From practically every section have come stories of wolves having been seen, and with such fidelity have these stories been told and repeated that anyone on the outside reading them would be excused for believing that the editors considered the animals an unmixed blessings and one of the greatest drawing cards of the section. It is altogether likely that an occasional wolf may have been encountered out in the wilderness during the past severe winter, but this only makes so many less wolves, as they were probably scared to death at the sight of a man. People in the more heavily settled sections of the East and South believe that a wolf is some sort of monster that lies on schoolhouse steps waiting for the children to come out in order to devour them wholesale, when as a matter of fact he is the most cowardly brute in creation and has never been known to attack anything single-hand'ed. The stories are ridiculous, and are paid no attention to where wolves and their habits are known. For a developing section to advertise their presence, however, is a mistake, as there are still a large number of believers in Little Red Riding Hood stories among the people of less enlightened sections.

There is another attitude assumed by some newspapers, the wisdom of which the Times very much doubts. This is the taking to task of the people of St. Paul for holding a mid-winter carnival. It is not likely that anyone would get a wrong notion of the state from being told that ice forms here in January and it might help some to allow the impression to get abroad that we are glad of it and know enough to make the fact an asset instead of a drawback. At any rate, it is certain that the holding of the carnival has not done near the damage that the criticism of it has.

A SENATOR FROM MINNESOTA.

(New York Times.)

Is Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota, who had his hour of glory as a "trustbuster," about to undertake the "busting" of that robustious friend of "the people" and inexorable judge of judges, Moses Edwin Clapp? So dispatches from the Gopher state shamelessly relate; and the clarion Clapp is said to be worrying about his "fences." His term in the senate ends on March 4, 1917. It would be a holiday for the accoustics of the senate chamber if that unsparing voice should reverberate in it no more.

Mr. Clapp has lately added two more achievements to a "record" to which even Mr. LaFollette must accord a sympathetic approval. Mr. Clapp would have the United States sneak out of the Philippines, which it holds in trust for the Fillipinos. He would prevent the United States from preparing itself for national self-defense, and against the contingencies of the future. He would leave his country naked to its enemies; the Fillipinos to cut one another's throats until a master power stepped in to take possession.

We don't know anything about Mr. Kellogg's policies; nor is "trust busting" a special recommendation of character, but it would be interesting to find out if the Republicans and Progressives of Minnesota have any further use for an opponent of preparedness and a friend of "scuttling," like Moses Edwin Clapp.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, has declared his intention to again enter the contest for the Republican nomination for president. The mercurial Badger has not been in the limelight to any great extent of late, although at one time his following was not to be dispised. He stood particularly well in Western Minnesota and the Dakotas, but at this time it is doubtful if he can go into the convention with even the endorsement of his own state. He is not opposed to a larger army and navy, but believes that the soldiers "should not lead wasteful, useless lives, but in times of peace should be employed in social service for the government." All of which may mean something, but it is pretty hard to tell just what it is.

The Times is glad that an agitation has been started having for its object the changing of the name Thief River Falls to something more appropriate and convenient. Indications are now that the city will be a point of considerable importance on the route of the Jefferson highway, and as it is already admittedly the foremost city of Northwestern Minnesota it should have a name that can be used without sending with it glossary explanations of its meaning. It is long, cumbersome and misleading. The city is not even situated on the stream from which it is generally supposed to derive its name, and that stream has no falls in its entire course. Nothing more inappropriate than Thief River Falls could well have been devised for the city and it is time to change it. "Pennington" or "Pennington City" have been suggested, and while either one would be an improvement, the former is easily preferable. One of these days the postoffice department will discover that time is lost in writing out the entire rigamarole and order all mail addressed to "Thiefriverfalls" the same as has happened at Littlefalls, Bigfork and other places where the people insisted in filling the name of their town full of useless capitals and spaces.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachussetts, in the role of a supporter of the policies of President Wilson is rather an unusual sight—even more unusual than would be the united support of the senators of the president's own party. He maintains that Americans have a perfect right to take passage on any neutral ship they may choose, regardless of whether or not it is armed. Lodge and other Republican senators uphold this contention with all their power while many senators of the president's own party in congress insist that the country go on record as warning its citizens off the high seas during the war. There is no doubt but that the people will endorse the Wilson-Lodge attitude in this matter as against that assumed by Bryan, Ford, and visionaries of a similar bent of thought and action. That an American citizen shall be prevented from sailing the seas in pursuit of his own business because people of other nationalities want to use the ocean for fighting purposes is something that cannot be seriously considered. The country is behind the president in this matter.

The article printed in the Times last week suggesting that the city of Thief River Falls again take up the matter of acquiring the dam property here, seems to have created considerable comment—most of it favorable. That the people realize it would be a good time for the city to own this water power and dam is certain, but whether or not this is the best time to take the steps necessary to secure them is another matter. The Times believes, however, that when all the arguments, for and against, have been presented, those in favor of the purchase will be found much the best. The city needs the improvement, its cost will never be less and may be considerably more, while further consideration of the proposition has convinced many who were opposed to the purchase several months ago that they were mistaken. At any rate, the matter is being much discussed and there is no doubt but that some action looking toward the securing of the property will be taken before long.

The Times with this issue enters upon the sixth year of its existence, and the publisher believes himself justified in taking some pride in its appearance and success. It has been our aim since taking charge to so conduct the Times as to merit the confidence of our readers and the patronage of our businessmen, and we believe the result shows that we have succeeded. The circulation of the Times is now 2800 copies every week, and the list is steadily growing. Our news service covers the county and surrounding section and it is our aim to steadily extend this feature. The merchants, particularly of Thief River Falls, prove by their patronage that they appreciate the value of the paper as an advertising medium and any improvement made in the publication has been largely with the object of securing for them the best results for the outlay made.

But little discussion is heard concerning the United States senatorship since Frank B. Kellog signified his willingness to become a candidate. There is no question but that at this time he is a strong favorite over either Eberhart or Clapp. In fact, his entering the field practically eliminated the former governor, and his task will undoubtedly be the defeat of Senator Clapp. Mr. Kellog refuses to make a spectacular campaign in order to gain the office, and this decision on his part will not hurt him with the people.

Unless voters at the primary election exercise a certain amount of care in the marking of their ballots, it is quite possible that Estabrook delegates may be sent to the national convention. There are but four delegates-at-large to be chosen and there are fourteen candidates for the place on the Cummins ticket. Should the votes favoring the Iowa senator as the presidential candidate be scattered among the fourteen, while the votes for Estabrook were united on the only four for which it is possible to vote, it might easily happen that these four would slip through. The four Cummins delegates that seem to have been united on by the Republicans of Minnesota are Samuel R. VanSant, O. J. Larson, A. A. D. Rahn and J. F. Jacobson. Confine yourself to these in the voting and avoid the possibility of a split delegation. As district delegates for Cummins the accredited candidates are Martin Widsten and A. G. Anderson.

Amendment No. 1 to be voted on at the next annual election is of very great importance to the people, particularly those residing in those sections having large areas of undeveloped state land. The amendment provides for a revolving fund of $250,000 which may be set apart from the fund derived from sale of school lands to be used in constructing roads, ditches and fire-breaks through, in and around such lands and in their clearing. This reclamation work will cost the state nothing eventually, as the cost is added to the price of the land. There are thousands of the best agricultural acres in the state only needing something of this kind in make them productive. The trouble is that people living a short distance from the actual location of the lands do not realize their importance.

The county attorney and sheriff should have the backing of every law-abiding man and woman in Pennington county in their efforts to stamp out illicit liquor selling. The offenders may not be many, but they constitute a menace. The people voted this county dry because they did not wish liquor to within its borders, and will most certainly see that their wishes are respected. A blindpigger or bootlegger can no more be permitted to flourish than can any other kind of law-breaker. We may not all be of one mind as to the advisability of prohibiting the sale of liquor, but we should all be agreed that if it is a good thing to obey the law when it says that the stuff shall not be sold. Contempt for this one law will soon bring contempt for others. The effect upon the people of being permitted to disregard this law would be worse for them in the long run than being permitted to drink the stuff sold for whiskey at the blind pigs.

"Buy Your Easter Clothes in New York." This advice is seen in letters a foot high on bill boards about the city. No one follows advice given through the medium of bill boards, but that is not the fault of the people owning the boards nor of the advertisers. The citizens of Thief River Falls are simply too intelligent to be taken in by advertising of this kind. They buy their clothes and everything else where they can see what they are getting and do not have to wait two months for their purchases to arrive. And the merchants do their advertising in newspapers, which is the only kind to which any real attention is paid.

Eats, Music, Speeches And Reports Will Go To Make Up Interesting Time.

The Commercial club will give another of its justly famous "stand-up" lunches at supper time on Tuesday, March 7. The members of the newly organized Boys' Commercial club will assist in the serving and will be found very useful. There will be singing by the quartette, some instrumental music, a short address or two and reports on certain matters now pending before the club. An informal talk over the work to be undertaken by the organization in the near future will also be a feature.

You are very urgently requested to grace the occasion with your presence.

HOCKEY CUP IS RECEIVED BY NORTHWEST CHAMPS

The Thief River Falls Hockey team this week received the silver cup awarded them as champions of the Northwest at the outdoor sports carnival in St. Paul. The trophy is of silver, 18 inches in height and mounted on a black ebony pedestal. On one side is engraved the following: "Northwest Hockey Championship," while the other side contains the name of the donating carnival committee. The trophy will be displayed in the different stores of Thief River Falls, together with clippings from the Twin City and other state papers referring to the splendid showing made by the team at the meet.

On a date to be decided upon later—probably during the last week in March—the hockey club will present a play at the Auditorium, the proceeds of which are to be used for the purchase of medals for the members. The play selected is "What Happened to Jones," more concerning which will be found in the Times later.

Commercial Club Notes

On Monday, Feb. 21, the directors approved the plan suggested by the secretary of organizing a Junior Commercial club among the younger men of the city, ranging between the ages of 17 and 20. On Tuesday, Feb. 22, the organization was perfected with eight charter members, officers elected and plans outlined. On Thursday, Feb. 24, an item appeared in a Minneapolis newspaper giving in brief the plan of the new organization, names of officers and other information. On Friday, February 25, a letter received by the Commercial club from a city in southern Minnesota, the writer stating that he had read of the organization of a junior Commercial club here and asking for details of the plan as the club in his city had for some time been considering the same idea. Rather a suggestive argument in favor of publicity and also an example in the chain of continuity.

It was noticeable at the regular meeting of the Commercial club last Thursday evening, that a number of the young men who have recently been organized as members of the Junior Commercial club were in attendance and that the boys gave the discussions careful attention. The writer feels confident that with the proper degree of encouragement, this auxiliary department of the club will prove of great advantage and an aid to the parents of the city in the proper employment of the leisure hours of their sons and in the stimulation to community pride and interest in the younger element.

In the list of committees published in the local papers last week, the new House committee was unintentionally omitted. This is an important committee in the fact that the club lunches and entertainment of visitors at the club rooms come under its jurisdiction and there is considerable actual work to be done by the members. The secretary is chairman of the new committee and will have two active associates in the work in Joseph Lutz and David H. Backus. The fact that both Mr. Lutz and Mr. Backus have offices in the same building as the club headquarters will be an aid to systematic and prompt work.

Just as there is character indicated in handwriting, so is there in the actions of those who enjoy the privileges of a club room. The man who mutilates magazines and periodicals, throws the daily papers on the floor after reading them, leaves the card table in a littered up condition, wantonly drops the ashes of his cigar on the floor, expectorates here, there or anywhere most convenient and in other ways indicates an absolute disregard for the rights of others as to club room enjoyment, will nine times out of ten be found lax and careless in his own business methods and affairs. (Not copyrighted).

The boys' Commercial club will make their own reports to the executive committee of the regular club. These will be in the nature of an account of the work done by the auxiliary organization as well as an outline of the things they propose doing. In everything possible the boys will be allowed to make their own governing rules, these being at all times subject to the approval of the executive committee.

At the meeting on Thursday evening a communication was received from the county board of Roseau county relative to the condition of the highway between Strathcona and Middle River, and suggesting that the club make an attempt to secure aid from Pennington county in improving the stretch. The matter was discussed and Secretary Lincoln was instructed to write the Roseau authorities to find out just what action they had in mind. In this connection the suggestion was made by C. W. Latta of Holt, that it might be better to look after a road or two nearer home before taking up matters 30 miles away and in another county. He had in mind particularly the road running westward from Thief River Falls, which he claimed was in very bad condition.

The Commercial club may incorporate. A committee composed of C. A. Pitkin, M. C. Cutter and Secretary Lincoln was authorized to draft a consititution and by-laws to be presented at the next meeting of the club. Mr. Pitkin explained fully what would be necessary in order to form an incorporation, and told of some of the benefits that would acrue from such action.

The Great Northern railroad will probably be asked by the business men of the town to erect a suitable depot on or near the site of the present structure. This matter has been in the hands of a committee for some time, and the members are unanimous in the opinion that the business given the railroad by the town warrants something better in the way of depot facilities than are now provided. The proper railroad officials will be approached on the subject and given an opportunity to state just what their intentions are in the matter before it is taken up with the railroad and warehouse commission.

The matter of a physical connection between the lines of the Northwestern Telephone company and the Tri-State company in this city was taken up and discussed at the meeting Thursday, and referred to the city attorney for his opinion. The result of an attempt to make such connection obligatory now being made in other cities will be awaited before any definite step is taken by the club here.

C. L. Hanson, on behalf of the Jefferson highway committee, reported that the route of the proposed road depended almost entirely upon the recommendations of the engineers to whom had been left the selection. Just at this time, therefore, there is not much can be done to further the project. Mr. Hansen also advanced the idea, entertained by many, that the name of the city should be changed. There is no doubt but that a move in this direction would be heartily endorsed by our people. The present name is a misnomer, is cumbersome, doesn't mean anything in particular, or if it does mean anything it is something disagreeable, is too long, contains too many capital letters for convenient writing and sounds like the handle applied to some little postoffice on a star route.

HOLT POSTMASTER HELD; SHORTAGE IS CHARGED

K. O. Flakne Accused of Not Making Proper Returns of Government Moneys.

K. O. Flakne, postmaster at Flakne, a small inland town near Holt, in Marshall county, was arrested Saturday by Postoffice Inspector W. H. Fleming and Deputy U. S. Marshal Frank W. Tufts, of St. Paul, charged with not making proper returns of moneys belonging to the postal department. He is said to be short $140 in his accounts.

Flakne was brought to Crookston late Saturday afternoon and taken before U. S. Commissioner W. P. Murphy, where he had a hearing. He was held for trial to the federal district court at Fergus Falls, in the sum of $1,000 bonds being furnished by friends of the accused.

PENNINGTON BOYS WILL GO FREE TO STATE FAIR

One For Pigs; Another For Corn—County Can Help In Stimulating Interest.

George Homme of Highlanding, has been selected by the state fair board of awards as one of the boys who will secure a free trip to the fair for the excellent record made by him in the pig raising contest. This competition was inaugurated by the fair managers to stimulate interest in this branch of the live stock industry among the boys of the state, and the rivalry for honors has been keen. Homme applied himself diligently to the work of raising a prize winning pig and his success is well merited.

One other student from the agricultural department of the Thief River Falls high school will also be awarded a free transportation to the fair. This trip comes to the school for the excellent showing made in corn growing. The boy to whom this honor will fall has not yet been selected.

A matter to be shortly taken up with the board of county commissioners is the proposition made by the State Shorthorn Breeders association. This is a boys' calf feeding contest. The Shorthorn association offers a prize of $25 to the boy in each county who shall have secured the best results in the feeding of a calf to be exhibited and judged at the various county fairs of the state. The conditions are that to the purse put up by the Shorthorn breeders, the county wherein the boy resides adds a similar amount. One of the stipulation of this contest is that the calf must be sired by a pure bred bull, but may be out of a thoroughbred, grade or scrub cow. In a county such as Pennington, where dairying is fast becoming the main agricultural occupation, a contest of this kind would create much interest. The experience gained by the boys in striving for the prize would be worth more than the cash prize and the money would be a good investment for any county to make.

THEY ALL DEMAND IT.

Thief River Falls, Like Every City and Town in the Union, Receives It.

People with kidney ills want to be cured. When one suffers the tortures of an aching back, relief is eagerly sought for. There are many remedies today that relieve, but do not cure. Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results to thousands. Here is Thief River Falls evidence of their merit.

Mrs. A. Criek, 221 Atlantic Ave. N., Thief River Falls, Says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in our home with satisfaction. A year or so ago, one of my family used them for pains in the back, brought on by hard work. The trouble quickly yielded to Doan's Kidney Pills. That there has been no return of the complaint is proof that Doan's Kidney Pills cure to stay cured."

CROOKSTON VANQUISHED IN SPIRITLESS CONTEST

Thief River Falls High School Basketball Five Win Game By One-sided Score.

The Crookston high school basketball quint was literally "swamped" on the floor at the Lincoln gym last Saturday evening, when the locals took them into camp by a score of 54 to 5.

From the tip-off to the sounding of the closing gong, Thief River Falls scored continually. Thief River Falls displayed an offense that was remarkable while Crookston's took a complete downfall. The contest was scheduled merely as a practise game for the "champs" in preparation for the big game this Friday. After the first half Coach Johnson replaced the regular men with the "coming champions." For the second team every man played splendidly and is deserving of great praise. Their guarding and team-play were spectacular.

During the first half Crookston found the hoop but once while the local quint dropped in twelve field baskets and a foul goal. Score 26 to 2. When the boys entered the last half, they were determined to pile up a score that would surpass the 50 mark. The period closed with thirteen baskets and two foul goals for the locals, while Crookston scored three points through free throws. Final score, 54 to 5.

The line-up:

T. R. Falls	Position	Crookston
Brown	l f	Carlyle
Conner	r f	Wolseth
Linde	c	Sherman
Schmitt	l g	Cornelius
Holzknecht	r g	Johnson

Field baskets for Thief River Falls: Brown, 9; Conner, 4; Linde, 5; Holzknecht, 4; Fasel, 1; Tandberg, 2. Foul goals: Conner, 2; Fasel, 2.

Field baskets for Crookston: Carlyle, 1. Foul goals: Sherman, 2; Cornelius, 1.

BETTER CATTLE IS THEIR AIM

SHOULD STICK TO ONE TYPE

Discover The Non-Paying Cows By Testing Output And Build Toward Higher Standard.

A meeting that was of great interest and that should prove of much profit as well was that of the Pennington County Breeders' association held in this city a few days ago. The experiences related by those present in their attempt to secure a better grade of dairy cow showed that intelligent study is being made of the subject and that all work along this line is sure to repay the dairyman for any time, trouble or money he may expend.

After the meeting at the Commercial club rooms had been called to order by President Albert Johnson of the association, those present were addressed by R. L. Donovan of the extension division of the University of Minnesota agricultural department, his remarks being particularly devoted to the value of cow testing. The speaker said that by weighing and testing the milk night and morning on the first, tenth and twentieth of each month and having a test made of a mixture of night and morning milkings once each month the non-paying cows could be discovered and weeded out.

Purebred sires, said Mr. Donovan, had been responsible for an increase of 100 per cent in the output of herds in Minnesota, and he urged upon every farmer the importance of heading their herds with a registered bull. The day of hit or miss methods is past in this industry, according to the speaker, and the men who are making a success are the ones who are sticking to some particular breed of dairy cow and retaining the offspring of the best individuals. Mr. Donovan said he realized that there exists a wide difference in the opinions of dairymen as to what breed of cow is best. This is not so important, as he views it. A man should, however, take up the breed that best suits him, whether it is Guernsey, Holstein, Shorthorn, Red Polled or Jersey, and consistently strive to secure the best of its kind.

Mr. Donovan's figures showed that there is a wide divergence in the output of different individuals of the same class and demonstrated the influence of a pure bred sire from high testing ancestors on a herd of grade cows. The test was improved from one-half to one per cent on the first cross, this being steadily improved as the influence of the sire became more apparent in the offspring.

Prof. H. E. Werner, head of the agricultural department of the Thief River Falls schools, gave a talk on the value of feeding a balanced ration, and had worked what had proven to be a very satisfactory system. He showed that by feeding a roughage of alfalfa and corn silage the cost of production could be greatly reduced. He also advised using a mixture of grains, as one grain will aid in the digestion of the other. As an instance the speaker stated that if. in feeding barley, a little oil meal were added the latter would disolve parts that would otherwise go undigested and thus be worthless as food.

Henry Pope read the milk tests from his herd of a few years ago and compared them with results obtained in 1915. There is not at this time a cow in his herd testing under four per cent, and this result has been brought about entirely by the use of good Guernsey sires. Peter Engelstad said that he also had steadily improved his herd until at this time he has none but grade and pure bred Guernseys. He is well satisfied with them.

Albert Johnson stated that he finds a great improvement in his milk test since his grade Guernsey strain began to predomonate. He hopes in the near future to have all pure bred and grade cattle of this kind.

Harry Woolson told of his trip to the East for the purpose of purchasing pure bred Guernseys. He said that in spite of the fact that there were more good cattle of this kind in the country than ever before they were never as high as now.

The luncheon at the club rooms was attended by about 30 people. At the business meeting it was decided to hold a picnic of the association in June.

May Join "White Sox."

H. W. Hoffmeister, manager of the Evelyn Club, leaves tomorrow for Duluth, where he will report to Darby O'Brien, manager of the Northern League base ball team of that city. Mr. Hoffmeister received notice last week to the effect that as the season will soon open all the candidates for position on the team will be expected to be present and prepare for a tryout. Henry says that he is not particularly anxious about playing ball, inasmuch as he will have to put someone in charge of his business here in case he is retained after the spring trials. In case they do not let him play ball he says that he will return to Thief River Falls and play pinochel.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following is a list of the unclaimed letters at the post office of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, for the week ending February 26, 1916. If not called for in two weeks from the above date they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office at Washington, D. C.: Mr. Wm. Best, Mr. George Coe, C. K. Claypool, Mr. Elmer Ellingson, Miss Anna Gullickson, Mr. Ed. Grindeland, Mrs. J. Flint, Mrs. Leona Hacalmen, Mr. B. B. Hammer, Mrs. M. O. Hess, Mr. E. Johnson, Miss Lina Kvalhem, Mr. C. J. Matheson, Mr. P. Norbey, Miss L. Rucks, Mr. Frank V. Steele, Mr. S. V. Sherlin, Mrs. Sarah Trontvet, Mrs. Annie Thorstensen, Mr. A. R. Wendt, H. S. Williams, Mr. Wieberg. When calling for the above letters please state that they were advertised. John Morgan, P. M.

KELLOG IS CANDIDATE FOR UNITED STATES SENATE

St. Paul Man In Letter To R. G. Dunn Announces That He Will Heed Call.

The action of the members of the Minnesota Editorial association in endorsing Frank B. Kellog for the United States senate seems to have had the effect of overcoming that gentleman's disinclination to entering the race. In a telegram to R. C. Dunn, former state auditor and publisher of the Princeton Union, Mr. Kellog outlines his position and states the conditions under which he permits the use of his name. The candidacy of Mr. Kellog is meeting with strong endorsement in every section of the state and with the practically united support of the Republican newspapers, he has a very decided advantage over any opposition that may develop. The communication to Mr. Dunn follows:

"I have received the petition signed by Hon. G. S. Pease and seventy-one other editors in Minnesota, requesting me to permit the use of my name as a republican candidate for United States senator at the ensuing primary election, pledging their support and stating that they believe I can be elected without engaging in the kind of a campaign I declined to make. I have also received many letters and telegrams from other friends throughout the state to the same effect.

"Under these conditions, I have decided to comply with their request, and authorize you to state that I will become a candidate. I am willing, as I said in my letter, to make speeches defining my position on the great questions confronting the American public, and use all honorable and reasonable means, through the press, to disseminate these views among the people. So far as I am concerned, this must be a campaign of public issues.

"I have come to this conclusion after careful consideration, for I realize the great responsibilities of the office, especially during this period of great world conflict and national peril, and the difficulty of meeting the high expectations of my friends. I feel deeply grateful for the splendid endorsement of the press throughout the state and for the many offers of support and expressions of encouragement I have received. I hope to be worthy of this confidence.

"I have already taken steps to withdraw from all business and professional connections, so that I may, if elected, devote my entire time and all the ability I possess to the interests of the people of the state and the nation."

"MARY PAGE" SERIAL IS "BEST EVER PRODUCED"

Story To Appear In The Times And At Grand Theatre Is a Hummer.

From the big cities where the great film play, "The Strange Case of Mary Page" is now being shown comes reports of its being received with the most unqualified approval. The story of two young men, Philip Langdon, who loves Mary and defends her, and James Pollock, who also loves Mary and persues her, is one of the most absorbing ever filmed. It is the perfect mystery story, filled with such variety of action as has never yet been successfully attempted in a photo play. This story has lately been showing in Minneapolis, and the reports are to the effect that nothing like the crowds that are seeing it have yet been recorded by the houses fortunate enough to secure it. The fact that the Minneapolis Journal is running the story as a serial is enough to guarantee its excellence.

"The Strange Case of Mary Page" will be run for the first time outside the larger cities in the Thief River Falls Times, and the opening chapters will commence with the issue of March 9. The first two reels of the play will appear at the Grand on Monday and Tuesday, March 14 and 15.

INTERESTING HAPPENINGS IN NEARBY TOWNS

They Weren't Feeling Right.

Roseau Times:—They should not of come, but they did. The Thief River Falls hockey team after winning the championship in a series of games at the St. Paul carnival and defeating the Crookston team which claimed the championship of the northwest, for the first time met a real hockey team at Roseau on Tuesday. The day was ideal and the ice just right. Ray Gilbertson refereed the game with the utmost fairness. The first half demonstrated that Thief River Falls has a good hockey team in embyro. The score for the first half was 4 to 0 in Roseau's favor. In the second half, Thief River Falls scored twice and the game ended with a score of 7 to 2 with Roseau an easy winner. The Roseau hockey players have had years of training while the Thief River Falls boys just got into the game this year. Now they know what a hockey game is and will benefit by their defeat.

Wolves Slain by Thousands.

Roseau.—The slaughter of wolves in the northern part of the state, by reason of deep snow, has run into the thousands. Up to noon of the 24th the record of wolves killed in Roseau county for month of February was 273. The highest day's record was 44 bounty warrants issued, the next 40. 26, 25. The reports of wolves killed in other counties run proportionately as high and the wolf family will be greatly lessened for coming years.

Small Error—Much Trouble.

Greenbush.—A special election must be held again, according to the Tribune, to vote on electric light bonds. All the proceedings were in regular form for the first election except a slight difference in the wording of the notice of election. The notice posted by the clerk read that the election was to be held "in the village hall," while the published notice read that the election was to be held "in the regular polling place," of course the regular polling place is and has been the village hall for the past four years, but the attorney for the bonding company deemed that it was necessary to have another election to rectify this error. This seems like a trivial matter, but the papers require that every word be correct, so there is nothing to do but hold the election and comply with the conditions of the bonding company. The election will be held in the village hall March 6.

Fish Are Menaced.

Crookston.—Fish are in danger of suffocation in Maple lake, near here, and Grand Forks and Crookston owners of cottages at the lake are making energetic efforts to save them. The tremendous fall of snow which has borne the ice down, causing a flood of water to cover the ice, brought on a second coat of ice, and it is almost impossible to provide the fish with air. In many other Northern Minnesota lakes like conditions prevail.

Wolves Are Bold.

St. Hilaire.—While driving out home last Saturday evening, Oscar Carlson had the thrilling experience of being trailed by four wolves. Mr. Carlson had been in town to secure half a dressed hog at the market and he had it along in the sleigh. The wolves, evidently scenting the fresh meat, followed close behind the rig from the Lundberg farm up to within ten rods of the Carlson buildings. Several times the animals were within touching distance of the driver but did not offer to molest him.

Log Thieves Fined.

Bemidji.—Charged with stealing logs of the Crookston Lumber company, which were located near the outlet of the Mississippi river at the east side of Lake Bemidji, Andrew Anderson and John Thompson were fined $25 each in municipal court. The fine was afterwards suspended by Judge D. H. Fisk on the recommendation of City Attorney Russell and the lumber company.

Bought Band Instruments.

Goodridge.—A band for this village is now a certainty. Those having the matter in hand have decided to purchase the instruments offered by the Germantown boys. Last week Register of Deeds, N. J. Anderson, who is a good musican, came up from Thief River Falls, to inspect the instruments, and he said that they were worth all the Germantown boys asked for them and arrangements will be made to acquire them at once.

Grygla Commercial Club.

Grygla.—A Commercial club has been organized here with an initial membership of 28. The slogan of the new organization is "Grygla, the Biggest Town of Its Size." The first and greatest object of the club will be to secure an extension of the Soo railroad to the little town, which is now 20 miles from the nearest point from which shipments by rail can be made. As an inducement for the road to at once extend its lines to their town the people of Grygla hold forth the fact that their town has a drug store, one hardware and machinery store, a confectionary store, three banks, a newspaper, two hotels, a restaurant, two blacksmithshops, a shoe shop, a harness shop and last but not least, one of the best creameries in the northwest.

Pastor Called Suddenly.

Crookston.—Rev. O. H. Wilson, pastor of the Scandinavian M. E. church here, died suddenly at his residence shortly after midnight Friday. He was 59 years of age and for three years past had been pastor of the church at Crookston. Rev. Wilson leaves a wife and one son, Oscar, who resides at Milan, Minn.

Marshall County Man Winner.

Warren.—A. D. Vandsickle of Marshall county has been notified that he had won the grand championship sweepstakes on wheat and the grand championship sweepstakes on oats at the state farm crops show held at Worthington, Minn. As he has won both these prizes three times during the past five years, the beautiful trophies that are awarded the holder of first place become his permanent property. It is a great honor that Mr. Vansickle has won, an honor in which Marshall county shares for the grains that were found superior to all others were raised by a Marshall county farmer on Marshall county soil and they show what kind of farmers dwell in Marshall county and the kind of crops its soil produces.

Sues Saloon Keeper.

Bemidji.—Albert Brabetz, the young Nymore barber, married and the father of two small children, was intoxicated when he lay down in the snow on the night of January 31 and became so badly frozen that, if he lives, his feet and hands must be amputated, according to legal charges made by Leora May Brabetz, the frozen man's wife, who names Emory Jarvis as the person who sold the liquor to her husband. For injuries sustained by her husband Mrs. Brabetz demands of Jarvis $10,000 damages.

Its Worth Realized.

Sunbeam.—The Commercial club of Thief River Falls is not only a credit to their city, but to Pennington county as well. They have gained the confidence of the farmers by taking an active interest in their welfare, and the farmers no longer consider them as kid gloved dudes, but an organization for the upbuilding of Pennington county. The people of Thief River Falls fully realize that the future growth and prosperity of their city depends on the prosperity of the farmers, and we have got the soil on which a working farmer can prosper. and we are pleased to note the encouragement that is being given them by the Commercial club of Thief River Falls.

McIntosh Meets Defeat.

Fosston.—The old time rivals of the eastern end of the county met in a game of basketball Friday night that was one of the most exciting contests of the year. The game was played on the McIntosh floor and there was not a dull second throughout the whole engagement. Fosston scored first, but the Mac's rallied and put the ball through for several baskets, the score at the end of the first half standing 12 to 7 in their favor. Several long shots were made by them in this half and although the invaders had the ball between themselves more than half the time they were not able to locate the basket.

McIntosh also led in the first of the second half, but the east-end tossers now took a spurt and Fogelberg started with a sensational shot from beyond the center of the floor. Their fast and accurate team work combined with good shooting could not be checked by the representatives of the McIntosh school, the final score reading 27 to 18 in favor of the former.

Famous Bull Is Sold.

Moorhead.—E. C. Schroeder, owner of the Holstein farm four miles east of this city and reputed to be one of the biggest blooded stock raisers in northwest, this week sold one of his 3 year old pedigreed Holstein bulls for the sum of $5,000. The sale was made to John Erickson, a well-known stockman of Waupaca, Wis., who has been inspecting the stock at the farm for a week. The bull is out of one of Mr. Schroder's cows, who has been named world's champion in Chicago and several of the national livestock shows that have been held in the United States during recent years.

FLOWER SEEDS TO BE GROWN HERE

Larimore Man Will Soon Establish Branch Gardens at Thief River Falls.

WANTS RIVER BANK PLOT

Four or Five Acres Will Be Laid Out As Landscape Garden—Free to Public.

S. F. Mercer, owner of large flower seed gardens at Larimore, N. D., has been here this week looking over the situation with a view to the establishment here of branch gardens. Mr. Mercer has been located near the North Dakota city for years and has built up a large demand for his seeds, particularly throughout this section of the country. In considering Thief River Falls as the location for the branch garden, Mr. Mercer was particularly influenced by the ease with which any plot on the river bank could be irrigated, water at the right time during the growing season of the flowers being one of the primary requisites in his business.

The enterprise will require from four to five acres of land and Mr. Mercer is in the market for a plot of this kind. His plan is to lease at the outset and may later put in a hot house and make the plant an all-year producer.

Flowers will be raised for the local market and for shipment, and a regular business in cut flowers and plants will be conducted in connection with the seed trade. The plot will be laid out in landscape garden style and will be a decided addition to the attractions of the city. Mr. Mercer says that the public will at all times be welcome at the garden and that it will be his intention to make visits there both pleasant and instructive.

One of the items to which particular attention will be paid is the cultivation of sweet peas. A very large percentage of the seed for this flower has heretofore come from Europe, and with the supply from there practically cut off because of the war an excellent market for the home grown product is created.

Mr. Mercer will return early in May to make final arrangements. He asks no concessions of any kind whatever except the good will of the people, and of this he has been assured by the Commercial club, to which organization belongs the credit of having secured this additional industry for the city.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TO BE HOME OF SOO AUDITORS

New Orders Make It Necessary For Them To Live Near Headquarters.

C. F. Pillstrom and L. E. Gilhausen, auditors for the Soo railroad, will shortly become residents of Thief River Falls and will make this point their headquarters. Mr. Gilhausen's district embraces the stations from this city to Glenwood and from Plummer to Moose Lake on the Duluth-Superior division of the road, while Mr. Pillstrom looks after the stations from Thief River Falls to Emerson and Kenmare and also from Fordville to Drake.

A new order issued by the officials of the Soo line makes it necessary for the auditors to live at the most convenient point within their districts, and Thief River Falls comes under this head as far as it concerns the above officials.

Big Wold Sale Draws Crowds.

The big money-raising sale being conducted by Wold & Co. is drawing great crowds of bargain seekers. This high-grade stock of women's goods is put on sale at sacrifice prices and the people are flocking in to get advantage of the reductions while the best of the stock yet remains. The big double page ad in the Times last week gave notice of the sale to the people in every corner of the county, and on Saturday, the first day, the big store was crowded from morning till night. As will be seen by the announcement on another page, the big reductions extend to every department of the business.

Deer mister Editer: Seems to me I hev heerd thet ther is a pervishun in the statyuts uv our grate state relatin tu the keepin uv things witch are a publick newsence. (Say, but woodent them durty injuns up at Red Lake hev the time (supe) uv ther lives, ef they could swoup down on Thief River Falls some dark nite an carrie of bout forty leven uv them miserbel wurthless dawgs?. But shh, hold on here, I dident meen to squak quite so seun, only mister Editer, wen a feller hez had a bad taste in hiz mouth over sumthin thets bin botherin him ter ni onto fore yeers, why it finnelly gits perty hard tryin not tu squak. Yes ser mister Editer, thet is how long it is since me and my wife cum to liv in the fewtcher metroppellis uv the Red Lake River Valey uv the Yewnited States uv Americky.

Yew bet the taun hez bin growin sum sence we cum here tu liv, grewin like sixty. So hez its repertashun. My but woodent I like to see it go pop shute clean ahed uv itself, so ez it culd reely seeitself fer wunct ez it is, an thet without turnin tu look back. It mite help tu make mor uv our sitezuns brase up an dew away with sum mor uv them publick newsences sech as wurthless dawgs, sundy shows, an uther sundy dewins witch helps peepul tu haller the Lords day tu uther things sted uv tu the Lord, an so underminin the blessins uv the church an hom. Them things mister Editer, wood caunt like sixty on the long end uv reppertashun, ef we only dident hev em round.

Say mister Editer, beetwene me an yew an wishin it wuzzent so, did yew no ez how thet mewnicerpel or comewnity sundy picknick witch wuz held last sumer giv the repertashun uv Thief River Falls a mittey big boost? Wall sir it sur e did, rite toards the dump heep. An the seeryus thing about it is thet the bulk of the peepul doant seam to realiz it. Yew no, the feller mhot habitchelly gits so drunk thet he doant no it hiz self is prety bad of. They aint mutch hope him without he ether takes the Keylie cure er else gits Jennywine salvashun.

I spose our toun gits its good advertizin an its bad advertozin, same ez enny uther taun, wether we like it er doant like it. An then tew sum peepul aint pertickler bout the kind uv advertizin they gits jest so long ez they gits lots uv it. Sech peepul bites quick and expecks uther folks tu bite quick wen thare lookin fer a plase to low kate an heer uv a plase whot hez lots uv advertisin sech ez as our taun. But I reckun mister Editer ez haw peepul whot diskrimnates, speshully ef thay hev got sum kids witch thay wish tu trane up in the feer an admonishun uv the Lord, sech peepul mister Editer, takes the trubbel tu think twict an kinder balance up the bad advertizin over agin the good. Mister Editer, yew jest otter see sum uv them folks look sideways and kinder kross ide wen they reed a bout our sundy picknicks an sech doins. Wun feller daun south sez tu me, "Hev yew got enny Chrischuns up ther?" I sez, "Yas a few." He sez "It dont look like it wen thay cares so little fer the Lord thet thay trys ter fergit him ez hard ez thay ken on the Lord's day."

Whot'ud our taun bee like mister Editer in a hundred yeers frum naw ef the folks we perswade to lowkate heer er awl of the morelly undiskriminatin kind witch doant luv the Lord an whot doant care pertickely whot kind uv advertizin thay gits jest so long thay gits lots uv it? I bet mister Editer, it wood bee sumthin like the plase where it smokes awl the time cause thay doant low enny budy round whot luvs the Lord. Thay say the ministers sumtimes reeds about it in the bible.

Wal naw, I cum ni fergittin awl a bout them dawgs, did'nt I mister Editer? I got so all fired riled up over thet sabbeth desserkrashun biznis. Ez I was sayin, them dawgs hez bin on my conshens fer ni onter fore yeers.

I spose most every budy hez thare noshuns et sertin seessuns. My noshun evry spring a bout the furst uv May is tu plant gardin sass, an a bout thet time my wif's noshun is ter plant flours. Waal bout the time we gits the feelin kinder prowd like over our wurk, an sniffin the air tu see ef the seeds aint sprautin, long cums them dawgs, yaller dawgs, littel dawgs, black dawgs an white dawgs, brown dawgs an spotted dawgs, littel dawgs, big dawgs, dawgs with tales an dawgs without tales an dawgs uv every culler, breed an no breed, an in less than three jiffies bout haf uv our little garden seeds is trompt inter the meller dirt so all fired deep thay never kin git out, an the korn an uther big stuff is skratched out so fer thet thay never ken git in. But then mister Editer, them dawgs wuzzent tu blame. So Idissided I'd billd a fens round our frunt yard whot wood perteckt my wif's flours enny how. But that dident dew enny good for yew no mister Editer the same peepul whot keeps them wurthless dawgs an lets them run awl over makin trubbel fer uther folks hez got a lot uv kids growin up jest like thare payrents, only I spose wen thay gits growd thay will care less fer uther peepuls rites then the ole folks dew naw, an them kids keeps runnin in an out uv the yard tu shute burds er sumthin an never thinks uv shuttin gates. An hu ever node a dawg whot diddent no a nuf tu go threw a oppen gate? An then wun mornin tew uv them big dowags wran rite up onter our frunt steps an crunched out eight uv the nine lives frum our littil gal's kittun awl tu wun tou—dem gulp. My wife hed tu make kat kordgel an broken hart sav fer a hull week.

A feller kant set enny thing doun fer a minit aut uv doors, ether, 'thaut 'long cums wun uv them miserbel dawgs an slap splash plants hiz trade mark rite onter it. Yes, ser, mister Editer, thet's jest whot wun uv them critters did tu my seut kase not long ago. It woodent hev bin so bad if it staid on the out side; but wen I oppened the seut kase, my best new Sunday nectye wuz jest spiled, an sum paper an enverlups whot I wuz goin tu use fer ritin letters wen I got lownsum wuz writ (wet) awl over with yaller ink. I cum mittey ni cussin, thet time, mister Editer. But then I thot ez hav the dawgs wuzzent so mutch tu blame ez the folks whot kep em; an enny feller whot keeps a miserbel wurthlis dawg an lets him run awl over toun pesterin evry budy cums mittey ni bein a cuss awl reddy without my sayin so; so I dident cuss.

But the Klimmix uv the hull dawg quaschun, mister Editer, struck me not over a munth ago wen I wuz lyin in the Phyzishuns hospetul an tryin tu bee a pashunt after a paneful opperashun. I swan, mister Editer, the way them dawgs congergate evry nite a round thet hospetul an bark an yalp an whyne an hauel is sumthin skandilus. Think uv it, mister Editer, wen a lot uv pashunts is lyin ther with thare nerves awl skrewd up tu kingdum cum with barin pane, ter hev bout seventeen uv them critters brake out in sich a wuff-wuff-whang-ter-ru-ee-e hauelin mach rite in the middel uv the nite. Why ef a pashunt wuz supersteeshus he mite uv dide fore mornin thinkin ez hou the devil an awl hiz angells wuz cummin rite then an ther tu take him strate doun thru the suller flore tu the bottumlis pitt. Hu nose, mister Editer, but thet nite culd reely happun? An then folks wood blame the docters.

Fore I left the hospetul, mister Editer, I told wun uv the nurses thet if she wood git the janiter tu slip out sum nite an ketch a few uv them dawgs whot houels the most outlandish an make sassage uv em, I'd cum back in the hospetul an help, ete the sassage, ef the wrest uv the folks ther shud git stuck on the job,—hopin thay woodunt git stuck.

Enny hou, it's a publick newsence tu hev them dawgs a round the hospetul; an it's a publick newsence tu hev awl them wurthlis critters runnin awl over toun a pesterin folks round the house an on the strete an evry whare yew go. An so I thot, mister Editer, if yew culd find a littel spase in yewer paper whare I mite jest giv the peepul a hint whot mite jar thare coushens, why mabey sum uv em whot haint reely got no call ter keep a wurthlis dawg mite take pitty on thare feller sitezuns, speshully et the hospetul. An plese hury up, mister Editer, cause I doant want tu go back ter the hospetul tu help ete dawg mete.

Some Of The Results Obtained At My Clinic.

Having been aware of the short comings of medicine and surgery in treating diseases, I equipped my office years ago with the necessary apparatus for the carrying out of Nature Cure teachings in my practice, and below is a list of cases to show the results I have been able to obtain by so doing:

In the spring of 1913 I treated two cases (a man and a woman, both middle aged) for Chronic Articular Rheumatism of four and seven years standing, respectively, with complete relief in two and three weeks' treatments. In the early spring of 1913 I treated two young men and in the summer of 1914, another young man, all for Sciatic Rheumatism, for about two weeks each with complete relief and no signs of any return since in any of the cases.

I recall four cases of Pneumonia (two young men and two young ladies) where the disease was broken in 24 hours.

I have treated several cases of Eczema with curative results; but one case in particular that I treated in the fall of 1912 was that of a young lady with a very chronic type of the disease of several years standing, who after having tried all sorts of doctoring with no avail, was completely relieved under my care.

Several cases of Acute Rheumatism have been cured in the shortest possible time under my treatment. All sorts of skin and veneral diseases are rapidly cured by Nature Cure Methods.

Any other disease, no matter of what nature, such as: Asthma, Bronchitis, Pulmonary Tuberculosis, Liver, Stomach, Bowel (including Appendicitis), Kidney, Nervous and generative organ troubles, as well as diseases of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, etc., are best handled by Nature Cure Methods.

The most remarkable cure I have obtained is that of a young boy who, after having been given up by two of the leading Thief River Falls physicians for Abdominal and Lung Tuberculosis, was cured by my methods four years ago and is well today. Since then I have relieved a girl for Tuberculosis of a Kidney by the same treatment and I have at present a boy under my care who was entirely crippled three years ago with Rheumatism and Hip and Ankle Tuberculosis in connection, but who is now progressing nicely toward recovery.

Respectively submitted,

Mr. Phillstrom, who has heretofore been making his headquarters at Minneapolis, will hereafter make Thief River Falls his residence. A. Gillhausen, who also acts in the capacity of traveling auditor and who has been residing at Minneapolis, will make his home in this city with Mr. Phillstrom.

On crossing the Soo tracks yesterday evening, a horse belonging to some unknown farmer, was thrown to the crossing, when the animal happened to step in such a manner that its shoe became wedged between the rail and the plank. Immediate action was necessary on the part of the owner as several night trains were due. After procuring an ax, a part of the plank was chopped off and the animal released.

J. J. Kelley, one of the prosperous farmers residing near Rollis, spent a few hours in the city today, while enroute to his home at Rollis after having spent a few days at St. Paul, where he purchased a flat on Wabush avenue. Last year Mr. Kelley raised the largest crop in the vicinity of Rollis. The acreage yield realized from the 600 acre field was 39 bushels.

Thief River Falls men may be wearing hats innocent of dyes before very long, if the shortage of dye stuffs continues. Over in Danbury, Conn., where they make men's hats in great quantities, they have experimented with undyed felts for mens hats, and the citizens of Danbury are proudly wearing the samples which have been sent forth. It is said that they have attracted much attention by their smart appearance. The undyed hats have been made both in the stiff and soft varieties and are trimmed with neatly contrasting bands.

The pennants for the class of 1916, of the local high school were received during the first of the week, and distributed to the class members. An interesting fact connected with the banner is that it was designed by the president of the senior class, Reuben Aga. Originality seems to be the slogan of the class, as in all their endeavors everything is strictly original. Officers of the class say that the work of gathering material for "The Prowler," the class annual, has progressed nicely and that the work of printing will begin within a few weeks. The class is ably directed by Miss Avis Akre, who was chosen as advisor last fall.

Miss Rae Halverson and Miss Mabel Thorstad have assumed the management of the Loken Bros. Millinery Department and took charge Monday. Both young ladies are expert trimmers. Miss Thorstad comes from Great Falls, Mont., and has had full charge of a large millinery store. Miss Halverson comes from St. Paul, where she has had a responsible position in the millinery line, besides having been in business for herself. Both ladies are thorough milliners and have spent the past few weeks in the work rooms of the manufacturs in St. Paul and Chicago. Their stock comprises the very latest ideas in ladies' headwear, and it is their purpose to keep right up to the minute on styles, getting in the new things as fast as they appear in the fashion centers.—M2.

L. Haselrud, who has been employed as buttermaker in the local creamery for the past four and one-half years took his departure Monday evening for Charlotte, North Carolina. On a recent trip to that place Mr. Haselrud purchased a controlling interest in the city milk plant, and on his return here handed in his resignation. During the time Mr. Haselrud has been connected with the creamery, it has been managed in a very efficient and economical manner, and the association feels a great loss in his departure. He also stood out as a buttermaker, par excellence. His stay in Thief River Falls has netted him a large acquaintanceship and many friends, all of whom regret to see him leave their midst. The vacancy caused by Mr. Haselrud's resignation will be filled by Styles of Bemidji, who will arrive in two weeks to take up the work.

Dr. Spofford, Optometrist, will be at Hotel Evelyn, Thief River Falls March 8.

AUCTION SALES

If you expect to have an Auction Sale this spring it will pay you to call on us before making definite arrangements elsewhere.

For a reasonable fee we will take complete charge of your sale—furnish auctioneer, clerk and attend to the advertising and settle with you in in Cash for the total amount sold. You run no risk of loss on auction notes in a deal of this kind.

Or, if you prefer, we simply do the clerking for you. Our wide acquaintance amongst the farmers in this vicinity makes it reasonably sure that any notes accepted by us in settlement of purchases will be found perfectly good and easily disposed of, in case you do not carry them yourself.

In either case, place it in our hands. It will pay you.

SALOON ROOMS ALL OCCUPIED

Three Months After City Goes On Dry List Every Building Is Filled.

LOCATIONS AT A PREMIUM

Predictions Are That 1916 Will Be Prosperous Year For Local Business Men.

On December 18th the sale of liquor was discontinued by law in the city of Thief River Falls, and the first of March finds every building formerly used as a saloon occupied by some business of another nature, except in the one case where the building has been torn down to make room for a modern business block. There are but two empty business rooms in the city at present, and it is expected that these will be occupied before long. One of these is the small wooden structure on Third street recently vacated by the C. O. D. clothing store, and the other is the south building of the Ogahmah hotel property on La Bree avenue. Both of these buildings are in good locations and will no doubt be occupied with desirable commercial lines before spring has fairly opened.

The former bar of the Evelyn hotel is now used as a club room for guests. The Brumund hotel bar has been converted into one of the finest moving picture houses in Northwestern Minnesota and is enjoying a splendid patronage. A hardware store will take the place of the former Central buffet on Third street; one former bar room is a real estate and insurance office; one has been converted into a restaurant, one is a grocery store and one candy kitchen. Five are devoted to the sale of confectionery, fruit and soft drinks, the impression evidently prevailing that more goods of this character would be needed when nothing of a stronger nature was obtainable.

It is likely that two of the places now used for the sale of confectionery and soft drinks will be rented for other purposes later on. The closing ordinance went into effect in midwinter and at a time when people in business are not ordinarly moving and when but few new enterprises are begun. With the arrival of warmer weather there will come the usual trade revival and merchandising locations will be even at a higher premium.

HARDWARE MAN FINDS THIS FIELD PROMISING

Spink Hardware Company Will Soon Be Ready For Opening of New Store.

H. H. Spink of the Spink Hardware company, arrived the first of the week and has been busy arranging for the opening of the firm's new store in the Grundy block on March 15. Mr. Spink was formerly in the hardware business at White Bear, Minn. Upon deciding to seek a new location he made a trip to different points in the state, and after most careful investigation of the merits of the locations offered he decided that Thief River Falls presented more solid inducements from a business point of view than any other place visited by him. A trip through the farming sections tributary to the city convinced Mr. Spink that it has the solid, prosperous background so necessary to any town and he had no hesitancy in making his investments here.

The new store will be located on one of the principal business streets of the city and will no doubt make a strong bid for a share of the hardware trade from the outset.

Mr. Spink's family will arrive here as soon as a suitable residence can be secured.

SCHOOL NOTES

Professor Dickinson, a dairy expert in the employ of the state, is assisting the agricultural department of the high school during this week in holding some house meetings near town.

Crookston was badly defeated last Friday evening by the high school basketball team. Fosston plays here this week and the game will probably decide the district championship.

Report cards for the Junior and Senior high schools will be issued next Monday. Parents can learn from these cards the exact standing of their children. Failures ought to be a cause for inquiry and the wise parent will go back of the card and learn the reason for the deficiency.

Miss Lindquist, Knox School principal, returned from Duluth last Saturday, where she had been called by the illness of her sister.

The spring state examinations occur March 22nd, 23rd and 24th. The subjects offered are: Geography, Arithmetic, History, Grammar, Spelling and Eighth Grade Composition.

An operetta, known as, "The Bos'n's Bride," will be held sometime in the latter part of March. There is no question but this entertainment will prove one of the most interesting of any yet offered by the school. It is given by the high school Glee clubs and is under the direstion of Miss Evelyn Grindeland.

But twelve weeks of school remain to complete the work of the school year. Nearly all of the children are passing in all their subjects and, where failures exist, it is not yet too late for parents to co-operate with the teachers in securing better results from the indifferent pupils.

The Senior class banner was added this week to the array of class colors which adorn the frieze on the Lincoln assembly room. It is the purpose of the school not to permit the distractions incidental to the closing months of the Senior year to interfere with the accomplishments of the serious class work of the students.

Despite the fact, that a hot cup or bowl of lunch is supplied rural children for only one penny, more than a few of the pupils who walk or drive considerable distances do not avail themselves of the benefits of this essential dish.

STOCK SHIPPERS ORGANIZE HERE

TO MEET AGAIN MARCH 4

Plan Includes Maintenance of Local Manager Who Will Have Charge of All Shipments And Receipts.

The live stock shippers of Pennington county have formed an association for the better marketing of their product, the same to be known as the Thief River Shippers' association. At a meeting held on Saturday afternoon at the Commercial club rooms the matter was informally discussed and about twenty-five farmers residing in different parts of the county signed the constitution and by-laws adopted and selected a board of directors. Another meeting for the election of officers and for perfecting the organization will be held on Saturday, March 3, at 2 o'clock.

Saturday's meeting was called to order by President Johnson of the Commercial club. After briefly stating the purpose of the gathering, Mr. Johnson introduced D. A. Gamnitz of South St. Paul, who addressed the meeting on the losses incurred by the shipper under the present system of marketing live stock and gave an outline of the manner in which these organizations have been successfully conducted in other localities.

Mr. Gamnitz said that an examination of the conditions under which the stock buyer ordinarily secures his shipment should convince the farmer that it would be next to impossible for him to secure the best results from that system. In the first place, said Mr. Gamnitz, the buyer must spend at least five days in getting together a shipment of stock. All his expenses during this time must come out of his profits, and are consequently paid by the farmer. The price paid is always the lowest because the buyer must take the risk of a falling market and protect himself against loss in this direction. It has been shown, said the speaker, that where shipping associations existed and were in charge of a competent local manager, the farmers had from 20 to 30 cents per hundred pounds more for their stock than under the old system of dealing with a middleman.

Mr. Gamnitz gave some valuable information on the saving to be made by taking advantage of the maximum loading provisions of railroads, as the price is fixed at the carload rate whether the entire capacity of the car is employed or not. This drain would be stopped by the farmers' own manager at the point of shipment, who would see to it that just the right amount of stock was on hand to make up a carload. Another matter that has proven of the greatest advantage is the fact that a farmer is notified at what time shipments will be made and can thus make a special effort to have his stock in just the proper condition.

A plan of financing the venture was advanced whereby a sinking fund will be created by an assessment of three cents per hundred pounds on hogs and two cents on cattle. This fund is for the purpose of meeting the expenses incurred in making the shipment and to re-emburse shippers for any loss they may sustain while their stock is in transit. It was also decided that the manager should send to each member of the association a report of all shipments made, together with an account of the money received for the entire consignment, and each shipper's share of the proceeds. The manager's compensation for the work done by him was fixed at not more than 10 cents per 100 pounds of stock handled.

It was decided that the manager or a competent substitute must be at the yards on the days of shipment, and must weigh, mark and account for all stock. He will also receive all moneys paid to the association and forward same to the proper shippers.

The first board of directors of the new association was elected as follows: E. D. Gronhouse, Henry Woolson, J. B. Connor, Hans Anton and A. G. Loftness. The annual meeting will be held on the fourth Monday in February at Thief River Falls.

J. B. Connor acted as chairman of the meeting, and H. T. Bjorke, secretary.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

"Why Swear, Dear? Use 'Gets-It' for Corns!"

It's the New Plan. Simple. Sure as Fate. Applied in a Few Seconds.

"Why, John, I never knew you to use such language! I've told you several times it's no use to try those bandages, salves, tapes, plasters, and contraptions for corns. Here's some 'Gets-It', it's just wonderful how it [illegible] clear and clean' it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Put your sock on right over it,—there's nothing to stick or roll up, form a bundle of your toe, or press on the corn. It's painless, simple as rolling off a log. Now put away those knives, razors and scissors, use 'Gets-It' and you'll have a sweeter disposition and no more corns and calluses."

Sold in Thief River Falls and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by J. P. Curtis and F. J. [illegible]bins.

St. Hilaire News

Second Band Concert.

The band concert given by the local band Friday evening at the Imperial opera house proved to be a grand success in that line. A fairly large crowd was present, but owing to the bad weather that evening the attendance was not as large as the boys had prepared to entertain with their music. Each selection was a treat in itself and the "Trombone Smear" was an exceptionally rare treat.

Mr. Lonson and the boys are to be congratulated on their success.

The program for the evening was:

March: "Our Mascot" .... Band
March: "National League" .... Band
Cornet and Trombone Duet—Lindahl and Jackson. Piano accompaniment—Mrs. A. Long.
Overature: "La Traviata" .... Band
March: "Friendship" .... Band
Poplar Selection .... Orchestra
Trombone Smear—Greenfield, Lonson, Geston, Schwartz.
Serenade: "Love's Sweet Dream"—Band.
March: "Under Arms"—Band.
March: "The Show Boy"—Band.

Lincoln Democracy Address.

The address, "The Lincoln Democracy," given last Saturday evening by Ex-Congressman Frank M. Nye was met with approved by all present. The fact that Hon. Nye is a grand and eloquent speaker was proven to the St. Hilaire people that evening.

Mr. Nye brought out many noble, self-sacrificing points in Lincoln's character and showed how the United States needs men of Lincoln's type today, to meet the present crisis.

After an hour and a half of perfect attention by the audience the address was closed with loud applause.

Ladies' Civic Club.

The ladies of the Civic club were entertained by Mesdames J. Hanson and L. Peck and the home of the latter. A short program was rendered consisting of singing and reading. A delicious luncheon was served and the club adjourned at eleven.

Commercial Club Entertains.

The St. Hilaire Commercial club entertained the business men, complimentary to Hon. Frank N. Nye, Monday, February 28th, at the Odd Fellows hall. The evening was spent in cards and Mr. Nye entertained the gentlemen a few minutes with a short humorous talk. The St. Hilaire band furnished music for the occasion.

A Social Gathering.

A number of merrymakers met at the Hurst home near town last Saturday evening and spent a delightful evening in games, cards and singing. A delicious lunch was served and the party broke up shortly after midnight. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Guy and Blanche Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Buck, Hurber and Eva Buck, Mr. and Mrs. Shoopman, Mrs. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Garth Roth, Mr. and Mrs. Noper, Mr. Beebe and children and Miss Alice Hall.

Moving Picture Transaction.

S. S. Benson, manager of the local opera house, was in Thief River Falls last Tuesday, the 22nd, and closed the deal with Mr. Morgan, manager of the Thief River Falls Lyceum, whereby he becomes the sole owner of the new moving picture show operating in our village. With the assistance of Harold Holmes, Mr. Benson is putting on some very good shows. As soon as Mr. Benson can make the necessary arrangements, he intends to get on a real good up-to-date "movie" circuit and we will then be furnished as good a line of pictures as is shown in some of the opera houses in the larger cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Wallace and son, Donald, and Mr. and Mrs. Hurst, Miss Louise Hurst, and John Hurst spent Sunday afternoon at the B. E. Beebe residence near town.

Miss Lilly Just visited at Thief River Falls at the home of her aunt from Saturday until Monday afternoon.

Glenn H. Martz returned home Thursday from Red Lake Falls, where he has been engaged for a few days.

Miss Florence Walker and Harry Dybvick came down from Thief River Falls Friday to attend the band concert and dance held at the Imperial hall.

Miss Emma Brink, who has been visiting friends and relatives here the past few weeks, left for Crookston Monday afternoon.

Miss Alice Hauski left Monday afternoon for Halstad, where she expects to visit friends for a few weeks.

Mrs. Charles Patterson was a Thief River Falls visitor between trains Monday.

N. E. Beebe transacted business in Thief River Falls Friday.

Miss Cora Just, who has been working in Thief River Falls for some time, came down Monday afternoon to spend a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Just.

Reverend and Mrs. A. Olson left Monday morning for Warren, by way of Thief River Falls. Mrs. Olson expects to consult with the physicians Bratrud and Anderson in regard to medical treatment. They are expected home this week.

Mesdames A. Bjerkhoel, Quammen, B. E. Burkee and C. Swanson were entertained at coffee Friday evening after the band concert by Mrs. A. J. Hed.

Miss Nora Johnson, one of our most accomplished and popular young ladies, left Monday evening for Minneapolis. She expects to enter the Swedish hospital and take up a three-year course of nursing. Her many friends wish her the great success they are sure she will merit owing to her numerous good qualities.

Mrs. B. E. Burkee entertained Mrs. A. Bjerkhoel, Mrs. Quammen and Dr. and Mrs. Swanson at a six o'clock dinner Friday evening.

Hon. Frank M. Nye spoke in the Methodist Episcopal church at services last Sunday evening. His address was eloquent and he had the satisfaction of being appreciated by an extremely large audience.

Peter Lundberg was a Thief River Falls visitor between trains Monday.

The St. Hilaire school board held their regular meeting Wednesday, the 21st. The re-election of teachers was considered. Two members of the present faculty applied for re-election and received same. At present the other three positions are vacant for the coming year. The two teachers hired for next year are W. Wicks, principal; Miss Lillie Johnson, seventh and eighth grade teacher.

Milo Drake left last Friday for Madison, South Dakota, to attend to business matters at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wicks were guests at the Allen home last Sunday for dinner.

Miss Selma Hoff, who has spent the past two weeks here at her home, left last Saturday morning by way of Hazel, to resume her school duties at White Earth. She has been a teacher in the White Earth Indian schools for the past two years and has done remarkably well in that line.

Mrs. Charles Biglow and Mrs. G. W. Hooper entertained the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church last Thursday afternoon at the Hooper residence on Water street. A very large crowd was present and a delicious luncheon was served.

Miss Inga Fallstad spent Saturday and Sunday at Holt, visiting her father, who is employed at that place. She returned Monday afternoon.

Miss Inez and Miss Mabel Patterson, members of the faculty of the Fargo public schools, were at home several days last week visiting their parents. They returned Saturday afternoon to resume their school duties which had been dispensed with on account of an epidemic of scarlet fever breaking out among the school children.

Mrs. M. Fricker was a Thief River Falls visitor Saturday.

Mrs. Aaron Kvenness and daughter of Middle River, visited in St. Hilaire from Saturday until Monday with their many friends and relatives. She returned to her home Monday morning.

Mrs. Ed Peterson visited with her brother at Badger last week from Saturday until Wednesday.

Anton Skottam, who has been in town the past few months, left for his farm near Vido, Montana, Monday afternoon.

Richard Lorenson and Albert Larson, two well known and highly respected gentlemen, left here Monday afternoon for Tennessee, where Mr. Lorenson owns land and Mr. Larson hopes to improve his health by the change of climate. If the land in that section proves to be good as the young men expect, they will locate at that place and start farming.

Mrs. Oscar Strom of Biwabek, came to St. Hilaire Saturday morning to visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Swanson, of River Falls.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE PRINCESS.

Would you believe your wife innocent if she parted from you on your wedding night and started her honeymoon with another man and you later found them in the same hotel? Don't jump at hasty conclusions. See "OVER NIGHT" Tuesday and Wednesday.

"THE MISSING LINKS," Friday and Saturday. This startling Triangle film play with Bobby Harron and in which Norma Talmadge makes her Triangle debut is a vivid and dramatic picture that vibrates with tense interest and abounds many a thrill before the final solution of an appalling mystery. There's never an idle moment as you watch with clinching fists for the flashing of the next scene.

If you really truly want to be stimulated with a thrilling and gripping theme that will compel your individual attention for a solid hour and a half, just make it a point to see this absorbing picture with your family. Not a sound will be heard while the picture is running, but the final happy ending will be the sign for spontaneous applause and unrestrained enthusiasm.

Steve, a young college chap gives a banquet and announces that he is bankrupt, and contemplates suicide. After the affair is over he goes to the water front and hires a small boat and that is the last seen of him. Steve drifts out to sea and after a few days of misery is washed upon shore and found by a girl named Meera, daughter of the light-house keeper, who through a great wrong in his former days lives as a hermit, allowing no man except the government men to land on this island. Meera's father is prevailed upon to let Steve stay and in time takes a liking to him, but on finding out that he is the son of the man who ruined him, he takes a different turn.

Steve's former sweetheart, Maisie, learns that Steve is alive and on going to the island claims that Steve is her husband. Meera's father is convulsed with anger. Maisie realizing what she has done, confesses the truth. See how it all ends at the Princess Sunday night.

AT THE LYCEUM.

The Broadway attraction for next Tuesday evening, March 7th, is a comedy-drama, entitled: "Father and the Boys," written by America's foremost humorist, George Ade, and featuring the popular Broadway star, Digby Bell. It is a play that will delight every lover of good pictures; beautiful sets, splendid acting and a thrilling story make this photoplay one of the treats of the season. It is unusual in that it is full of funny situations and that it has a serious side with some real dramatic punches. In one part of it the boys think father pretty slow, but when he cuts loose he sets too fast a pace for the boys. He not only leads the procession, but he's eight miles ahead of the band wagon, with his sons trailing the second division. The price of admission will be 5c and 10c.

The Fox Film attraction for Thursday evening, March 9th, is entitled: "From the Valley of the Missing," featuring beautiful talented Jane Miller. This story was written by Grace Miller White, author of "Tess of the Storm Country," and produced by Frank Powell, director of "A Fool There Was," and promises to be a great treat for local theatre patrons. The price of admission will be 10c and 15c.

Official Austro-Hungarian War Pictures.

For the first time in the history of war, a great military movement is shown in all its phases upon the moving picture screen. Army experts who viewed a private exhibition of the "Fall of Przemysl" declared that the production amazed them for the real battle scenes it revealed. All the newspaper reading world has marvelled at the swift advance of the Austro-Hungarian-German armies which, driving the Russian troops from a territory won by a hard winter campaign, finally has undone all the work of the Czar's generals by recapturing the Galician fortress of Przemysl.

It is without precedent that operations of the magnitude of those conducted by the German General von Mackensen and Frederick, the Austro-Hungarian Archduke, have been recorded by the moving picture camera. Obviously only by the highest permission was the feast possible. The "Fall of Przemysl" is the official pictorial record of the event made by the Austro-Hungarian government. At the Lyceum Monday afternoon and evening.

HOW ABOUT IT?

The store of Wold & Co. is without doubt the finest exclusive ladies' ready-to-wear store in the northwest and it is doubtful if any city the size of Thief River Falls can boast as elaborate an establishment as this is. John Wold, manager of the store, is a progressive, high-class business man and he has labored against great odds to give the people of Thief River Falls a business establishment that would be a credit to a city ten times the size of Thief River Falls.

His endeavors to give the ladies of this vicinity the best possible assortment of wearing apparel to select from have forced him into an embarrasing position and the stock is now in the hands of the Northwestern Adjustment company. The high-class merchandise is being sold regardless of price in an effort to raise $15,000, which amount is absolutely necessary if this store is to be numbered in the future among this city's business establishments.

JOHN WOLD

If the aim of the adjustment company is realized all will be well for the present but the future of the store depends solely upon the people of this city and vicinity. If it is to be maintained at its present high standard it must have loyal support and be given fair patronage. Let the women of Thief River Falls give this matter serious thought and then decide that the store of Wold & Co. be given sufficient patronage to warrant its continuance.—M2.

GLYCERINE AND BARK PREVENT APPENDICITIS

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka, astonishes Thief River Falls people. Because Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH lower and upper bowel, ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. It removes such surprising foul matter that a few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-i-ka is astonishing. Y.M.C.A.BANQUET AND MASS MEET

Success of Father and Son Gathering On March 15th Is Now Assured.

PECK PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

Banquet And Meeting Will Be Held At Auditorium—E. W. Jewett, of St. Paul, Will Make the Appeal.

Whether or not you are interested in the establishment of a branch of the Y. M. C. A. in Thief River Falls will be indicated by your attitude toward the movement on the evening of March 15. This is the date of the "Fathers and Sons "Get-To-Gether" banquet and meeting at the Auditorium and unless you are there, fully equipped with a supper ticket and a son, you need expect no credit now or hereafter for having been one of the original boosters for a movement that is surely going to be a success.

The program as outlined in the Times last week has not been altered in any particular. The principal speaker of the evening will be E. W. Peck of St. Paul, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who will take for his subject: "Association Activities the World Over." As Mr. Peck is a traveller of note whose work in connection with the organization has taken him to nearly every part of the civilized world, and to many parts not yet civilized, his address should prove of particular interest.

"The Appeal" will be made by E. W. Jewett of St. Paul, and he is said to be the man who can kindle the enthusiasm.

The banquet will take place at 6:30 o'clock, and will be solely for the fathers and sons. The sons must be at least 14 years of age, but from that upward there is no limit—they may have reached 100 years and still be eligible. The tickets will cost $1, this admitting to the festivities one father and one son. In order that nothing shall even for the smallest period of time or in the slightest degree divert the attention of the men present from the work at hand, no ladies will be admitted until after the banquet. They will, however, be welcome to the general meeting to be held immediately after the conclusion of the feast, the hour for the termination of which has been placed at 8 o'clock.

Business men, professional men, railroad men, laboring men—in fact, men in every walk and calling in life—are taking a great interest in this Y. M. C. A. movement. Much will depend upon the start given the project at the meeting on Wednesday. Every grown man in the community should be there and bring with him one boy over 14 years of age. In fact, it is absolutely necessary that he do so. It will be required as a sort of guarantee of respectibility and good intentions. The man will have to spend a dollar for supper, but half of this will go to pay for what he himself eats. Most any boy you happen to think of is worth the other fifty cents.

HIGH SCHOOL QUINT WIN DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIP

In a game replete with sensational plays, passes, close guarding and brilliant team work, the Thief River Falls high school basketball five defeated the Fosston quint, district champions for the past four years, Monday evening on the Lincoln gym floor by the score of 11 to 9. The contest was, without a doubt, the fastest exhibition of basketball ever witnessed in the city. This victory is a great one in that the locals have cinched the district title which enables them to battle for the state championship in the tournament to be held at Northfield on March 24-25.

From the tip-off to the blowing of the closing whistle both teams played furiously. The game was called at 9:13 p. m. when Referee Howe threw the ball up at center and the teams were off for the big struggle. The ball was in play for six minutes when Fosston fouled, giving Thief River Falls a first chance to score. Fasel missed the hoop and the ball was again in play when it rebounded from the backboard. One minute after this, Brown scored for the local team. Time 9:20.

For the first five minutes most of the playing was carried on in Fosston's territory. It then shifted under the local's basket. Here a second foul was called on Fosston—Fasel missing the goal on a free throw.

From the start and throughout the game Fosston's players thrilled the crowd with their brilliant team work, but when they reached the basket and [illegible] opportunity to score, they fell down on account of their inability to find the wicker. After playing for 14 minutes Fosston scored their first basket through Leo Movald, who starred at guard and who made all the points during the evening for the visitors. Time 9:27 p. m. Two minutes later Movald again scored, after he had successfully dribbled the ball from the center of the floor through clever work and shot it from a position near the wicker. Near the close of the second half Brown and Fasel came in for a little glory, the former scoring through a field goal and the latter by a foul goal. Score 5 to 4 in favor of Thief River Falls.

At the opening of the last half the fight began in earnest, both teams displaying speed and teamwork, and both attempting to play the other off their feet. Brown scored easily after one minute of playing. During the last half Fosston scored two field goals and one free throw, while Thief River Falls secured three field baskets through superior basket shooting ability. Final score 11 to 9.

ALL IN FAVOR OF SHORTER NAME

The Times Secures Opinions From Many Prominent Residents of City On Subject.

UNHANDY AND RIDICULOUS

This Seems To Be the Opinion of Majority Concerning Present Designation of This Enterprising City.

When the Times about two weeks ago suggested that it would be a good idea to change the name of Thief River Falls to something a little more convenient and less suggestive, we were not aware that the same idea had been entertained by a large number of citizens for a long time previous. The items have awakened interest in the matter, however, and we this week publish the opinions of others as these were expressed to the reporter in making his rounds. No attempt has been made at a thorough canvass, but the expressions received are sufficient to satisfy the Times that there is a real demand for the change.

Should Have Attractive Name.

H. A. Pratt—If we wish to attract people to our city we should have a name somewhat attractive and one that it is not necessary to explain to strangers. Not long ago a lady who was obliged to stay here over Sunday on account of missing train connections, nearly went into a panic when she heard the name Thief River Falls, and it was hard to make her believe that the town was not what the name suggested.

On a recent trip south I heard many comments on the name, and whenever I mentioned it or wrote it on a hotel register it brought forth a smile and I was obliged to explain.

A baggage master in Chicago asked, in very strong language, why we didn't cut a little off from one end or the other, but I believe it is best to make an entire change for something better.

Is Regarded As Joke.

C. L. Hansen.—As a matter of convenience, if nothing else, the name should be changed. It is too long, contains too many breaks and has absolutely no reference to anything or anybody in our neighborhood. Anyone who has travelled in any direction from the city knows that the name is regarded as a joke and that the town is not helped in the least by it. The argument advanced that we lose all the advertising thus far given the city, does not seem very good to me. I believe that the advertising we would receive from the changing of the name would more than offset any we have thus far had. It would also help our reputation for good taste.

Would Soon Forget It.

Daniel Shaw.— For many years I have been in favor of changing the name of the city to something a little more convenient. I do not see why there should be any objection to doing this. There is certainly nothing about "Thief River Falls" that can recommend it to anyone for any purpose, and the quicker we get rid of it the better. It would not be six months before practically everyone would be in the habit of using something else and only a short time until the old designation was entirely forgotten.

Causes People To Laugh.

T. L. Melgaard.—I do not know why anyone should wish to attach such a name to a city so important as this one. While at the fair last summer I noticed that people were inclined to laugh whenever I happened to mention that I was from Thief River Falls, and wanted to know to what particular incident or happening the place owed its unen-

ANOTHER SCHOOL HOUSE IS NEEDED WITHOUT DELAY

Crowded Conditions in Present Buildings Makes the Providing of Additional Room Imperative if We Are to Keep Within Requirements.

THE PEOPLE MUST AUTHORIZE BOND ISSUE

Will Probably Be Necessary to Borrow Up To the Full Limit Permitted Under the Law—Can Still Raise About $44,000 State Aid is Placed in Jeopardy by Present Conditions.

At a meeting of the school board held on Tuesday evening it was decided to place before the voters of Thief River Falls a proposition to issue bonds in the sum of $44,000 for the purpose of erecting an additional school building and making improvements in certain of the present buildings.

The board will have on hand a surplus of about $5,000 after the expenses of the current year have been met. These expenses were considerably higher than the estimate made at the beginning of the school year. It was found necessary to hire additional teachers, about $3,500 worth of books were added during the year, and there were other unforseen expenditures that helped bring down the estimated surplus of $10,000 to about half that sum.

The board has decided to recommend the erection of a ten-room building on the property previously secured in Oakland addition, about four blocks north of the Central school. Besides this the board deems it absolutely necessary that an addition of four rooms be built onto the Knox school. It might not be advisable to finish more than two of these for occupancy at this time but another year would make their use a necessity if the present rate of increase in the school population continues.

The idea of the board at this time is to move the Seventh and Eighth grades from the Washington and Knox schools to the Central, and all the lower grades now in the last named school as well as one grade from the Washington would be transferred to the new building. This would provide for nine additional rooms, which according to the situation exesting at present would provide one extra room in the Central and one in the new building. It is also possible that the arrangement might result in one extra room in the Washington building. Every school-house in the city is overcrowded, however, and by the time the surplus is taken care of it is likely that practically all the space provided for will be occupied.

The program outlined by the board also provides for the employment of the basement of the Washington school as overflow quarters for the manual training department. A draughting room is particularly needed for this division and it is thought best to provide for it in this manner.

The board members report that five rooms were added last year, but that these have been filled and that ten more are needed. A part of the Auditorium basement has been converted into school rooms and one class is being taken care of in the hall of the Knox school. Necessary as these arrangements undoubtedly were, they are far from satisfactory, the rooms in the Auditorium falling far short in the sanitation and light requirements. Were it not that the state school authorities realize the conditions here fully and know that the authorities and people are doing the very best they can under the circumstances, the situation might jeopardize the $14,000 a year received as state aid. It is certain that things cannot long continue as at present without most serious consequences in more ways than one.

The total school enrollment at the last census was 1497 pupils and this is undoubtedly much greater now. Even with the extra quarters pressed into service this means an average of about forty pupils to each room, whereas the average under which the most satisfactory results are obtained has been found to be about 33.

The people of the city apparently fully realize that the bond issue is necessary. In fact, from many sources comes the suggestion that the amount named should be greater, some even going so far as to say that the city might as well secure seventy or eighty thousand dollars for school purposes at once as the amount will be needed. This, however, is impossible. The limit under the taxable valuation of the city will be reached when $44,000 is added to the outstanding bonds. The idea is to get the money from the state if possible, as it may in this manner be procured at an interest rate of four per cent. The board points out that this would mean an annual outlay of $1,760, but the renting of rooms for school purposes would total even a greater amount. The state looks after all sinking fund provisions in a loan of this kind, so that future school boards would not be under the necessity of creating such a fund for the payment of the loan at maturity.

There will be a regular meeting of the school board on Tuesday next, when the date of the bond election and other details will be decided upon.

INCREASED DEMAND MAKES TWO SHIFTS NECESSARY

Times Force Can No Longer Complete Necessary Work During Daylight Hours.

The business of the Times has increased to such extent that the owner has found it necessary to put on a night shift in order to get the work out on time. More help has been sent for by telegraph and will be here on Monday, when it is expected to put the new order into effect. All the men who can conveniently be worked are now employed on the day shift and as it is impossible even at that to fill orders with the dispatch demanded, the double shift solution will be resorted to.

The demand made upon the linotype of the office is also greater than the time allowed, and this machine will have to be in operation practically the entire time. Not only is the paper itself steadily growing, but work of a commercial character takes up much of the time that should be devoted to its production.

The Times is determined to print the best paper in northern Minnesota, and as the demands of other classes of work does not give the crew all the time necessary in order to accomplish this, the machinery will have to be run day and night.

Piano Recital.

The youngest members of Mrs. Ruth C. Chamberlain's Piano school will give a rectial at the public library next Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. All are welcome.

SUGGESTION TO CHANGE NAME BEING DISCUSSED

People On the Outside Seem To Wonder Why It Has Never Been Done.

The editorial appearing in the Times last week suggesting that the name "Thief River Falls" be changed to something a little more convenient has caused considerable comment, not only among the people of the city, but on the outside as well. The following, appearing in the Minneapolis Journal, would indicate that others have noticed the unusual cognomen and its disagreeable implication and do not understand why it is continued in use:

"What's in a name? Everything, it would appear from the agitation to change the ancient and time-honored name of Thief River Falls to some more euphoneous-sounding one which local men have started."

"A banker recently made a business trip east and returned much less satisfied with the name of the old town than when he departed. "It is a fact," said the financier, "that the name of our town is a joke and a byword, and I for one do not like to have our city ridiculed. Men asking me in all earnestness, 'What, trying to sell mortgages and from a town with such a name?'"

But the banker had no trouble in disposing of his mortgages, and loans are sought here by men of means.

"Pennington" has been suggested and seems the most popular with the masses. The fact that the Soo Line has done much for Thief River Falls since it entered this section of Minnesota, is advanced as a good reason why President Edmund Pennington of that line should thus be honored. At the next club meeting the matter will be up for round-table discussion."

Farm House Burned.

The residence of C. A. V'Meer, located in the town of Norden, about three miles from the city, was totally destroyed by fire on Monday morning. The building as well as all contents were lost.

Mr. V'Meer, who drives one of the busses bringing children from his district to school, was absent on his morning trip when the fire started. His two boys attend school in the city and were among those taken there by their father. Upon the return of the latter about 11 o'clock he noticed nothing wrong until he opened the door, to go inside, when the smoke and flames drove him back. He was unable to reach the telephone to summon help and could not save a belonging of any kind. A small amount of insurance was carried.

MUD LAKE LANDS WILL BE OPENED

Fifty-six Thousand Acres on Nearby Reservations May Soon Be Homesteaded.

OVER 3,000 ACRES OF PINE

Land offices at Crookston, Cass Lake and Duluth have received notice to the effect that on and after April 6, the ceded Chippewa lands on the former Red Lake, White Earth, Leech Lake, Chippewa of Mississippi, Winnibigoshish, Deer Creek, Bois Fort and Pigeon River reservations will be thrown open for settlement, with a filing date of April 26 or later.

The ceded land to be thus opened up to settlement under the homestead law comprises between 19,000 and 20,000 acres of the very best land now remaining in the Crookston district. There are timber tracts of great value as well as farm lands, the former being principally in the Mud Lake district.

"Sooners will not be tolerated in the new land opening," said Register P. M. Ringdal of the Crookston land office. "By sooners are meant those who go on the lands in question before April 6. Those who do not go on the lands until on or after April 6, and who make proper entry on same, will be given choice over sooners who are making their home on the lands at present."

Any homesteader may place a filing on the lands at the land office April 6, but the entry will be dated April 26. Should two or more landseekers file on the same land previous to the day of entry, April 26, the lawful holder will be chosen by lottery.

There are 3,815.35 acres of pine timber on the new lands to be opened to settlement.

THREATENING FIRE IS CHECKED; LOSS $3,000

Fire on Monday night caused a loss of about $3,000 to the owner and tenants of the old wooden buildings belonging to T. P. Hamre on LaBree avenue north. The blaze originated in the little Greek restaurant occupying the most northern room, and is supposed to have been caused by a gasoline stove, although no one was in the place when the fire started.

The Bakken & Crown barber shop adjoining on the south was gutted, and the Olympia confectionery store, owned by Kootsikas & Vavoulis, damaged slightly by smoke and water. Mr. Hamre was out of town at the time of the fire and has not yet returned, so the extent of the loss to the buildings can only be estimated. The entire amount, however, is probably in the neighborhood of $3,000.

The damaged buildings were of wood and among the oldest in the city. They had been repaired from time to time and were readily rented because of their location. It is understood that they will now be torn down to make room for a modern [illegible]

WOULD USE CORN EXHIBIT AS SEED

Practical Suggestion Is Made Regarding Stock Held By Commercial Club.

GROWN AND MATURED HERE

Scarcity of Acclimated Seed Makes Supply Used For Display of Particularly Great Value.

When Prof. C. P. Bull, agronomist at the agricultural department of the University of Minnesota, caught sight of the display of corn raised in Pennington county, he exclaimed: "Why, that has an immense value as seed." The remark has been called to mind by the scarcity of properly acclimated seed corn now confronting the farmers of Minnesota, and particularly those of this section.

Displayed in the rooms of the Thief River Falls Commercial club are hundreds of ears of the finest corn ever grown in a Northern county, and it has been suggested that this be parcelled out among the farmers of the neighborhood in order that they may plant it and thus secure a larger amount of seed from the hardy varieties represented. These are mostly the Minnesota 23 and Northwestern Dent, and have proven [illegible] those best adapted to Pennington county conditions. It is also pointed out that as the crop last year was practically a failure in this section, every ear of properly acclimated corn is of inestimable value, and as the display referred to contains enough to plant many acres it could be devoted to no better or more useful purpose.

The distribution would have to be wisely made. The seed should be given to successful corn growers who would look carefully after its propagation, but any number of these could be found. In this manner one good year would again supply enough of this proven corn to insure a sufficiency for planting the following season. Much care, time and expense have been expended in securing a corn that would be reasonably certain to mature here, and unless every kernel of the small supply now available is put to good use this will all have to be done over again.

Another thing to be taken into consideration at this time is that the exhibit is no longer fairly representative. Considerable advance has been made in corn-growing every year and it is only reasonable to suppose that the crop of two or three years ago is not as good as one raised at a later date, providing conditions were such that corn could be produced at all. The farmers of Pennington county may be able to raise better corn, but under the circumstances they cannot procure better seed. Therefore they should be allowed to plant the entire visable supply wherever found.

That this also is Prof. Bull's idea is indicated by the letter addressed by him to Prof. Werner of the Thief River Falls schools. In this communication he says:

"When I was visiting you some weeks ago, you showed me some very excellent corn in the business men's exhibit room. It occurs to me that on account of the scarcity of good seed corn this year, it would be a good plan for your locality to have this corn tested and distributed in small lots as foundation stocks to a lot of good farmers in the locality.

"The farmers should be in a position to grow this corn apart from any other and to take good care of it for the sake of getting a start of localized varieties. I do not know that this will interest you or the business men, but the scarcity of corn in the state, especially Northern Minnesota, prompts me to write this letter."

New Undertaking Parlors.

G. C. Jensen arrived in Thief River Falls Monday from Edinburg, N. D., to supervise the work of remodeling the interior of the J. J. Vorachek building at 109 Third street, where he will open an embalming parlor. He will also specialize in picture framing and furniture repairing. Mr. Jensen has had eight years' experience in undertaking and is at the present time president of the North Dakota Funeral Directors association. The room is being partitioned off and when completed will present a first-class appearance. Mr. Jensen will also provide for a chapel which will seat about thirty people.

Mr. Jensen is not a stranger to all Thief River Falls people as he was employed here twenty-four years ago, and had the honor of witnessing the first locootive make its appearance in the city.

A. A. Hoveland, employed at the Soo round house, was operated upon for appendicitis Tuesday. He is improving rapidly.

TIME TO CALL A HALT.

At a recent special election the people of Red Lake county decided by a large majority that they wished to continue the licensed saloon in their midst. They went to the expense incident to securing a record of the wishes of the people in the matter and presumed that when this had been properly recorded they would pay the bill incurred and thus end the matter for three years, as would have been the case in any other Minnesota community.

Now comes the head of the temperance forces in the state and announces that the result of the election does not matter in the least, inasmuch as the greater part of Red Lake county is already dry by the provisions of an Indian treaty.

If he knew of this treaty provision—and he should have known of it—before the election was called, he should have spoken at that time. If anyone knew of it they should have spoken. The Indian bureau has shown a decided willingness to close the saloons in territory where the treaty provides that there shall be no intoxicants introduced, and there was nothing to indicate that Red Lake county would not gladly have been included in the list of places already ordered under the ban. In such case no special election would have been held and Red Lake county would have been spared this expense.

The prohibition people are doing this northern country a vast deal of harm. They are conveying the impression to the outside world that it is a section peopled by lawbreakers against whom the Indian must be protected in the year 1916 to the same extent that it was imagined necessary to protect him in 1863. The fact that Indians are so scarce they are exhibited as curiosities at county fairs in many communities made dry by these moth-eaten and preposterous treaties is not known everywhere, and a wrong impression of the country and its people is obtained wherever the matter is discussed.

The temperance people are not strictly honest in their attitude. They are demanding that a law enacted in 1863 for the purpose of protecting the Indian against the white man, should in 1916 be employed for the purpose of protecting the white man against himself. They do not even claim that any part of their intention is to protect the Indian, but evidently believe themselves justified in taking a law intended solely for the aborigine under conditions altogether different, and applying it to the white man of the present day.

The Times is a believer in temperance. If a majority of the people of any community do not wish saloons, these must not be forced upon them. Should the state or even the nation decide to do away with the liquor traffic this paper would be glad of it and consider it a sign that better conditions were in store for all our people. But the law should govern, and when a community is by statute permitted to say whether or not liquor shall be sold within its borders the majority of the voters of that community should decide the matter. At any rate, a law enacted for the protection of Indians sixty years ago is not likely to prove much of a success when applied to white men of today.

THE SCHOOL SITUATION.

Thief River Falls must have between forty and forty-five thousand dollars at once for the building of more schools. The city's growth has exceeded all calculations, and school facilities thought ample to meet all demands for years to come are found inadequate. Classes are now being heard in places that in no particular respect meet the requirements of the state board of education, but realizing the position the city has been in, no serious objection to them has thus far been raised by that body. It is a fact, however, that the $14,000 state aid received every year by the schools can at any time be withdrawn because of the fact that the terms under which it is advanced are not being lived up to.

Even more serious than this, however, is the fact that it is impossible to secure the best results under conditions such as at present exist here. Basements not originally equipped or intended as class rooms have been pressed into service and in one building a teacher is hearing her classes out in the hall. Another thing is the overcrowding of rooms, making it impossible for a teacher to so divide her time as to give the necessary attention to each pupil or class. An average of thirty-three pupils to a room has been found the ideal arrangement by school authorities. In Thief River Falls at present the average is above forty.

There is only one way to remedy the matter, and that is by the building of more schools. We cannot postpone correction of this condition until we have more money or until we happen to feel a little more like making improvements. The provision for more school room must be made at once, and this is the only thing to remember when the time comes to vote on the proposition of issuing bonds.

THE BOY.

The Thief River Falls Commercial club is trying out an experiment that has attracted considerable attention in other localities. This is the organizing of boys from 14 to 20 years of age into an auxiliary of the club. These boys have their own by-laws and rules of proceeding, being, however, at all times subject to the executive committee of the parent body.

The first meeting at which the new club members were given an opportunity to show their elders just how much interest they take in matters of this kind was held on Tuesday evening, and they acquitted themselves in a manner that both surprised and pleased. The papers submitted by them showed that if given any encouragement these lads were willing to think along lines not generally supposed to interest boys. And they will be given the encouragement, at least in Thief River Falls. The men present at this meeting indicated that in every way possible. A few seemed to think that there might be some slight danger of the youngsters becoming "chesty" if allowed to mingle too freely with their elders, but these were in the minority. And even if at first the experiment should result in giving the lads a somewhat exalted notion of their own importance, no harm can come of it. We much prefer a boy who sticks out his chest to one who hangs his head.

The suggestion made in these columns last week to the effect that the name of the city be changed to something a little more appropriate and sensible seems to have met with a very favorable reception. The Times has this week interviewed a number of prominent business men on the subject, and as will be seen from their remarks anent the matter, set forth in another column of this issue, they are practically unanimous in the opinion that the change should be made. The Commercial club will make a round table topic of the proposition at an early date and may perhaps take some steps toward finding out just exactly what is necessary in order to get the name changed. But very little opposition to the project is expected. "Thief River Falls" is not a name to which the memory fondly clings. It sounds too much like the rendezvous of a particularly active band of horse thieves or train robbers. Just think ahead to the time when that boy of yours shall become a candidate for president and how it will look and sound when people say he is from Thief River Falls, Minnesota. Wouldn't that condemn him at the outset? Let's no longer handicap the best city of the best state in the Union with a name equivalent to "Robbers' Roost."

If moving pictures are to survive as a popular form of amusement it is likely that something in the way of a censorship will have to be established. Some of the films reproduced in Thief River Falls of late have been of such nature as to call forth criticism. The theatre men are not to blame for this. They seldom if ever see a film before it is produced in their own house and then it is too late to change, even if they should desire to do so. On grown-ups these pictures would not exert any particularly injurious influence, perhaps, but even they would—or should—prefer to see things of a different character portrayed. Young boys and girls, however, get a wrong idea of life through seeing these things pictured and should not be allowed where they are being shown. The fact that all action is silent sometimes only makes matters worse, as the portrayal has to be all the more realistic in order to "carry across." To say that the lesson these pictures strive to convey is good will not answer—the impression they leave is decidedly bad.

The action of the executive committee of the Commercial club last evening in voting unanimously to retain Fred T. Lincoln as secretary for another year, will be endorsed by the citizens generally. Mr. Lincoln has become so closely identified with every movement started by the club since its organization that to permit him to leave now would be like removing a very important cog from a smoothly running machine. The Times understands that Mr. Lincoln has been tendered a similar position in another town at a higher salary, but that he prefers to remain here to see how the things he has been instrumental in starting come out. The Commercial club is accomplishing much good work for the city and for much of this Mr. Lincoln must be given direct credit.

The interest taken by our people in the establishment here of a Y.M.C.A. shows that they are concerned with something besides farms and factories. And this is a most gratifying indication. Industrial development is a fine thing to strive for, the only trouble is that we are liable to loose sight of other important matters while we are thus striving. Occasionally the consideration of some project in which dollars and cents are not the primary object is good for us, and the establishment of a Y. M. C. A. comes under this head.

GOODRIDGE TWP. MAY GET THAT CUMMINS CASH

Two Hundred Dollars Offered by Campaign Committee Can Easily be Secured.

Pennington county has a candidate for that $200 offered by the Cummin's campaign committee to the township casting the largest percentage of votes in proportion to population at the election on March 14. This offer is more fully explained elsewhere in this issue and the conditions are such that the people of Goodridge can easily carry off the money and then have their road and bridge fund increased by the addition of the above amount.

Goodridge will vote on incorporation at this election, and this will bring out an unusually large vote. It is also doubtful if another township in the state has increased in population to a greater extent than this Pennington community, and as the basis upon which the award will be made is the vote of two years ago, Goodridge starts out with a decided advantage without taking into consideration the added interest created by the incorporated proposition.

EDITORIAL.

Has The Price of Merchandise Gone Up? If So, How Much?

Undoubtedly you have heard much about the prices of merchandise going up. Enough perhaps to believe almost that everything is up. If so, how badly are you hurt?

Now believe us, you are not hurt half as bad as you are trying to make yourself believe you are.

In our entire establishment less than 10 per cent of all the merchandise we sell you in all lines is up—that is has advanced retail. Occasionally here and there, we have been called upon to pay a cent or a cent and a half advance; but our retail price is the same.

Our entire line of Hoisery, Underwear, Infant's wear, Gloves, Mittens, Corsets, Laces, Embroidery, Ribbons, Handkerchiefs, Novelties, White Ivory, Cut Glass, Silverware, Sweaters, Blankets, Quilts, and our entire line of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear. All of the above have not advanced one cent to you.

Then, what's all this noise about? It's practically all over linens and cheap cotton goods. And, really, how much of that do you buy in the course of a year? Linens are hit the worst of all. All linens are up about 25 per cent. 5c Calico is now 7c. 5c linings, now 7c; etc., all along the line on cheap cotton goods. Outside of this there's not much that is up at this store.

AND WHY?

Now, I'll tell you why and tell it to you truthfully, why this store is worth many times more to this community than the community, or rather, the people who live in it, give us credit for. To begin with, we are experts, specialists in our line of business. We know our business. We know how to manage it. How to run it. How to advertise. How, when and where to buy merchandise. One of us is a specialist, an expert in the art of window trimming, card writing, etc., and you know this from the many beautiful windows we have put up in the past. Another is an expert on art needlework, tatting, crocheting, embroidering, etc. This lady specializes on this one department and nothing else. Two other young ladies are expert specialists in the art of millinery. These women have spent several years in the largest wholesale and retail stores in this country, learning to trim and execute new ideas in the latest designs and styles of millinery. Then comes our expert buyers and our associated buyers; and its here that foresight is saving you money today. Nearly a year ago when prices began to soar (down to our last trip of last month to market) our purchases have been enormous. We bought and have contracted for over $5,000 worth of woolen Dress Goods at the old prices, over $2,000 worth of Silks, several cases of cotton goods and $1,600 worth of Art Needlework Threads. Now does this mean anything to you? Well we should almost hope so. That's what this big organization of specialists is here for. It means just this to you—that you will, by trading here, get what you want in merchandise when you want it, at absolutely the right price.

Then let us ask you, with a store like this, why should you trade with every Tom, Dick and Harry, who can neither buy in quantities, nor sell you half what you want, and then not at the right price.

We buy a great deal of goods from Marshall Fields and Carson Pirie Scott & Co. Why? Because they are good friends of ours? Not on your life. Because, they have got the stuff we want; and because they will sell it to us at the right price. Merchandise and price—that's all there is to it. If we can't get that combination we don't buy. Do you buy that way? If not, you should hire a buyer. Because he or she is a good fellow, or a friend, doesn't mean they are experts and know how to buy and sell to you at the right price. Therefore, buy your merchandise where you can get what you want, at the right price, and where the assortment and selection is large enough to give you some choice. Our immense big line of the finest of NEW SPRING MERCHANDISE is now ready. It will be a pleasure to show you a line we know will please you.

JEFFERSON ROAD WILL HIT HERE

According to Map Issued, Thief River Falls Will Occupy Prominent Place.

IS MOST FEASIBLE ROUTE

This City Will Be Principal Stopping Place On Line Between Little Falls And Winnipeg.

The Jefferson Highway—Winnipeg to New Orleans—"The Vacation Route of America," will pass through Thief River Falls. This, at least is indicated by the map published by the official organ of the commission in charge, "The Jefferson Highway Declaration." This publication is issued at Des Moines, Iowa, and volume one, number one has just come to hand.

This highway will traverse the entire length of the country from New Orleans to Winnipeg, and while continuing in as straight a line as practicable, will make such curves and detours as will take travelers over its course to the places of greatest interest. The principal points touched at, beginning at the southern terminus at New Orleans, are: Alexandria, La.; Shreveport. Dennison, Muskogee, Joplin, Ft. Scott, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Des Moines, Ames, Mason City, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Little Falls, Thief River Falls and Winnipeg. The intersection with the proposed east and west Lincoln highway will be at Des Moines.

In giving a review of the work done in the different sections thus far, the "Declaration" says: To begin with, in the north, it can be stated that the workers in Minnesota gave us the impression that the Jefferson Highway through their state could be improved as a state highway and in a single state unit. Accordingly the Minnesota State Highway commission has taken official action to designate a State Highway from the Iowa line clear through the state to the Canadian border, which State highway will purposely be selected for later adoption by the Jefferson Highway association. While the commission took this action and designated a route from the Iowa line as far north as Bemidji in the northern part of the state we have later been advised that there may be a revision in some of the shorter sections. It appears that the various communities which considered themselves on a possible route of the Jefferson highway developed more interest than the Highway commission had expected and now demand a further hearing. The commission is not averse to giving this further hearing and desires by all means to select the best and most practical route from every standpoint. There will be little delay in working out these details and so it can be said that the Jefferson highway running through the state of Minnesota will soon be under active improvement of the state itself."

Although the above report does not specifically refer to Thief River Falls, the maps accompanying it do so refer and place the city in a conspicuous position on the line. Much investigating has been done since the above report was issued (Dec. 28), the map itself evidently being a much later product.

From Park Rapids—one of the points decided on as a stopping place on the line—to Shevlin there is already a very good road. Beyond this the route to Thief River Falls is the most feasible, and the members of the commission must have had this fact before them when the map was ready.

J. H. Beek of St. Paul, vice president, representing Minnesota on the commission, in a report to the president, says concerning the best route through the state: "After a good deal of discussion and examination of the data in its possession, the commission fixed the route west of the Twin Cities as follows: Minneapolis to Anoka, via Oseo on the west side of the Mississippi river, across the Mississippi at Anoka, going to St. Cloud via Elk River on the east side of the river, thence to Little Falls, thence to Staples, thence to Wadena, thence to Park Rapids, thence to Itasca Park, thence to Bemidji. From Bemidji to the Canadian boundary there was some doubt about the best route to be selected and the state highway engineer was directed to send out pathfinders and make a detailed report to the board as to what route would be best, considered from the standpoint of grades, cost of construction, cost of maintenance, relative distance, etc."

To judge by the map, the state engineer must have made his report and this must have included Thief River Falls as one of the points on the line. Such route would certainly meet all the requirements from the standpoint of "grades, cost of construction, cost of maintenance, relative distances, etc."

IS A PRIZE WINNER IN BIG NEWSPAPER CONTEST

Mrs. Martin Bothun Fourth in the Minneapolis News Subscription Campaign.

With a vote to her credit of 1,218,850, Mrs. Martin Bothun of Thief River Falls finds herself in fourth place in the subscription contest recently closed by the Minneapolis Daily News. The prize is a $75 ladies' fur coat or an Edison cabinet phonograph valued at the same amount. Two other prize winners are credited to Pennington county, these being P. H. Thoreson of Highlanding, who secures the fourteenth prize, a 42-piece china dinner set, and Willie Singer of Rhoda, Minn., the winner of first prize of $1,000. Bar LaDue of Mechanicsville, Iowa, was winner of the Saxon roadster, and James Friary of Ogilvie, Minn., secured the $300 Wellington piano. The winner of the first prize had a long lead over his nearest competitor, but the next three were closely bunched, Mr. La Due having 1,400,000, Mr. Friary 1,319,000, and Mrs. Bothun 1,218,850 votes.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors, who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our beloved mother and wife. We also wish to thank our friends for the many beautiful floral offerings.

PREPARING FOR BANNER SEASON

A SECTION OF BIG BARNS

One Concern Already Has Eight Carloads of Lumber Coming To Supply Demand Already Made.

The country around Mavie and Goodridge is enjoying a decided boom and the section bids fair to become known as the "land of the big red barns." One lumber concern at Mavie reports that a consignment of eight carloads of barn-building material is on the way, and that it has been practically sold before arrival. From Goodridge comes reports of a similar nature, and here the Times is informed that quite a number of fine farm residences are also projected. The prosperity enjoyed by the farmers in this neighborhood has been remarkable, and in this the business men naturally share.

Last year there were 78 carloads of immigrants' belongings shipped into the section over the line of the Minnesota Northwestern railway, and this season opens up as though this record would seem small. The lands in the neighborhood are among the most fertile in the county and the advent of the electric line has made shipments convenient and profitable.

As an indication of the importance of this part of the county might be stated the fact that during last year there were 44 carloads of stock shipped from the yards at Goodridge. Early spring business over the line indicates that this will be far outstripped during the shipping season that is just now opening. Two carloads of stock for the St. Paul market were brought in on Saturday and every week sees at least a similar amount sent out.

It is interesting to note some facts in connection with the development of this section. Taking five persons as the average represented by each carload of household goods during the past year, it would mean that the increase during the period was greater than the entire population of any township tributary to the line at the time 1910 census was taken. In 1914, when the road was built, there were 10 or 12 families living in Goodridge township. There was one small frame school building in one corner and one teacher took charge of all the pupils. There is now a large consolidated school, possessing the most up-to-date equipment and with an attendance that makes it impossible for two teachers to longer efficiently attend to all the classes. The building is crowded beyond its normal capacity and more room as well as another teacher must be provided at once.

The Minnesota Northwestern has already this year hauled more grain than during the entire previous season. Much of last year's crop yet remains in the elevators along the line and with practically three months yet remaining of the present season the road record will be far exceeded.

This section is fast becoming the most important of those tributary to Thief River Falls. The Minnesota Northwestern every year brings in a large number of people for whom the city is the natural headquarters and trading center, and every encouragement should be extended for the territory's settlement and development.

RED LAKE COUNTY MAY YET BE DECLARED DRY

Claim Now Made That Territory is Included in Indian Treaty Text.

In spite of the fact that Red Lake county voted wet by a large majority at the recent option election, it is yet possible that the two towns in which liquor is permitted—Red Lake Falls and Plummer—may be declared dry.

W. G. Calderwood of Minneapolis, head of the dry movement in Minnesota, claims to have discovered that an Indian treaty dated in 1863 forbids the sale of "spirituous liquors" within the ceded area. The Taft order of 1911 abrogated this treaty, but Calderwood claims that the provision does not include Red Lake Falls and Plummer, and that these come under the same federal regulation as those of the towns further to the east. He claims that the part of the treaty cancelled by the former president is specifically stated as lying "west of the sixth guide meridian." Plummer and Red Lake Falls are east of this line.

Fred E. Zollman. says in reply that the prohibition in the 1863 treaty applies to "spirituous" liquors, and that beer does not come under this head. This provision of the treaty reads:

"The law of the United States, now in force or that may hereafter be enacted, prohibiting the introduction and sale of spirituous liquors, shall be in full force and effect throughout the country hereby ceded until otherwise directed by congress or by the president of the United States."

Mr. Calderwood does not dispute the language of the treaty, but maintains that beer is an intoxicating liquor. Here the matter at present rests, with both sides determined to fight for their respective contentions.

Picture Films Seized.

Duluth.—Fifteen rolls of film left with a Twin Ports photographic concern for developing and printing, were today found to be pictures of the exterior and interior of the Ross Arms plant in Montreal and other big Canadian industries engaged in the manufacture of munitions, and were seized by a United States secret service man. The discovery has given fresh impetus to the wild rumors growing out of the reported appearance of aeroplanes over the ore docks, steel plant and elevators here.

Held First Election.

Court House For Clearwater.

Bagley.—At the last meeting of the Clearwater county commissioners the petition presented by a delegation from the northern part of the county asking that the proposition of building the proposed $14,000 court house be submitted to a vote of the people of the county, was denied by a vote of two to three, and it is expected that the commissioners will go ahead with their previous plans for the building. E. F. Broomhall of Duluth, is the architect for the proposed building, and it is expected that work will begin in the spring.

Work For 1,000 Men.

Bemidji.— Both mills of the Crookston Lumber company in this city, which employ nearly 1,000 men will start operations about April 1, and will continue to operate at full capacity day and night throught the summer and late next fall, making an unusually long sawing season. Under the supervision of Andy Larson, mill superintendent, preparations are now being made to open the mills, and as few repairs were made this winter on account of the extensive improvements made last year in both mills, the mills are both practically ready to start as soon as the weather permits.

May Get Flour Mill.

St. Hilaire.—The much mooted flour mill question bids fair to materialize this spring. A practical flour mill man—one with many years experience in some of the largest mills in the Northwest—was here this week viewing the situation. He was very much impressed with the advantages offered for a mill and stated before leaving that he would be willing to locate here providing enough farmers and business men would interest themselves with him in the project. The people in this territory are alive to the many advantages to be gained by a mill locating here and there is no doubt but what the required support will be forthcoming.

Wireless Torpedo Guide.

Grand Forks.—A device to guide a torpedo under water, after it has been fired from the torpedo tube of any ship, by wireless, has been invented by R. S. McGuire, of this city, and a patent applied for. According to word he has received from the patent department, the invention conflicts with no other device of a similar nature patented in the past, and a patent will no doubt be granted him in the near future. John Burke of Washington, D. C., treasurer of the United States, and former governor of North Dakota, is taking up the matter of the sale of the invention with the war department. The inventor claims that with the device the direction of the torpedo may be accurately determined, and turned from place to place with the aid of a wireless instrument. Through this instrument, the electric waves are transmitted to a receiver on the torpedo.

Indians May Sell Lands.

Detroit.—Attorney General Thomas W. Gregory has decided that there shall be no attack on the constitutionality of the Clapp act permitting mixed blood White Earth Indians to sell their lands. During the last two weeks Francis J. Kearful, the special attorney in charge of White Earth land litigation, has been here conferring with officials of the department of justice considering the question of the constitutionality of the act from all angles. "The department does not find sufficient ground on which to attack the constitutionality of the Clapp act," said an official of the department today. "The question decided by the department relates only to the right of congress to permit White Earth allottees to sell their land for their own benefit without regard to their heirs. The question of the right of the state of Minnesota to tax the land held by the mixed blood Indians is still at issue and will be fought out in the courts. It has been raised in the suits now pending, with other questions."

Ignores Family; Leaves $2,000.

Little Falls.—The terms of one of the most novel wills ever filed in Morrison county were complied with today when a farm in Pine Creek belonging to the Josiah Page estate was sold and $2,000 paid to the county for a clock in the court house tower and $700 to the city of Little Falls for the poor fund. The farm sold for $3,250. The will specified that the county was to have not to exceed $2,000 for the clock and that the remainder, after all claims and expenses were paid, was to go to the city for the care of the poor, although Page left a widow and two sons. The latter obtained a court judgment of $500 against the estate for caring for their mother.

Governor Visits Loggers.

Kelliher.—Gov. J. A. A. Burnquist last week paid a visit to the logging camps in this neighborhood, and in spite of the fact that the snow was hip deep in places, he enjoyed the trip. The temperature was 30 below zero and the snow was hip deep in places when Governor J. A. Burnquist viewed modern Minnesota logging methods at first hand today for the first time since he became the state's chief executive. When the Northern Pacific train left the governor's car at Kelliher it was switched to the logging road of the Crookston Lumber company and pulled by one of the little puffy logging engines up into the woods to the company's camps eight miles northeast. The governor stepped directly from his car into the midst of lumbering operations. He was in the big woods at their busiest and most interesting season. Despite the cold and snow, the governor took an intense interest in the work as it was explained to him.

Ditches in Red Lake County.

Red Lake Falls.—The establishing of County Ditch No. 57 was ordered by the commissioners of Red Lake county at a meeting held February 28 for the purpose of considering the feasibility of the project. A number of progressive farmers were in attendance and there was no objection to establishment . The ditch is located in the townships of Garnes and Emardville, directly east of Plummer, and when completed will be one of the best systems in the state. Laterals are to be constructed on the quarter lines as well as on section lines, which are of sufficient depth to provide an outlet for tileing. The specifications call for twenty-four miles of ditch and seventeen miles of graded road. Steel bridges will be constructed on every section line crossing the main ditch. There will be 11, 440.0 acres benefited at an estimated cost of $25,676. The work is in charge of Civil Engineer Glenn H. Martz of St. Hilaire.

Grain Blockade Predicted.

Duluth.—The movement of Canadian grain to Duluth eclipses any year since 1912. The amount in store and afloat, including yesterday's figures, aggregates 2,675,000 bushels wheat, and 1,227,000 bushels of Canadian oats, according to official figures. Canadian grain stored here last year was 185,000 bushels wheat, 25,000 bushels oats and 256,000 bushels flax. Domestic grain stored here now amounts officially to14,700,000 bushels of wheat and 3,100,000 bushels of coarse grain. Canadian and domestic grains are arriving at the rate of 130 to 150 cars a day, while the rail movement to the seacoast amounts to an average of 12 cars a day. The bonded capacity here will permit 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 bushels more, but at the present rate of shipments from Duluth the capacity will be filled long before navigation opens. As a result, serious congestion is forecast.

Open Lands For Settlers.

Crookston.—According to information received at the land office here, several thousand acres of land will be opened for homestead entry by the United States government on April 26. The land to be opened consists of 56,175.62 acres of ceded Chippewa lands in the Red Lake, White Earth, Leech Lake, Chippewa of the Mississippi, Winnebigoshish, Deer Creek, Bois Fort and Pigeon River Indian reservations. Applications will be received at Cass Lake, Crookston and Duluth. A part of the lands were opened to settlement on January 11, 1915, and Sept. 27, 1915. No rights can be acquired by settling on the land before the time they are subject to settlement.

NEW ARRIVALS LOCATE ON LINE OF M.N.W.RAILWAY

Malcolm, Goodridge And Mavie Secure First Settlers of the Season.

It is predicted that the coming summer will prove the banner season as regards the number of new settlers that will come to Pennington county. While it is yet early, the influx has already started and from now on the stream will be steady. During the past week three men, with their families and belongings, have moved onto farms adjoining the line of the Minnesota Northwestern Electric line, and more are coming.

John Rosche of Fulda, Minn., has moved onto a farm a short distance to the east of Malcolm, and will be in readiness to seed his new purchase as soon as the season permits. M. O. Seavey of Blooming Prairie, has arrived in the neighborhood of Goodridge with his family, and Lars Sunde goes onto a farm in the vicinity of Mavie. Each of these brought with him a carload of stock, household goods and farming implements and will put in crops as soon as possible. They are all men with families who selected this neighborhood after many others had been considered.

TOWNSHIP ASSESSORS TO MEET HERE ON MARCH 28

State Tax Commission Will Send Man To Give Instructions As To Requirements.

County Auditor T. P. Anderson has received word from the state tax commission to the effect that an official representing that body will be in Thief River Falls on March 28 for the purpose of instructing the newly-elected township assessors in their duties. The legislature of 1915 made a number of changes in the tax laws of the state and it is for the purpose of explaining these that the officer is sent out at this time.

As there may be a number of changes in the office of assessor made at the coming elections, Auditor Anderson will not send out notices until after that time. In many of the nearby counties the state officers will appear before the spring elections are held, in which case their work is liable to go for nothing as new men may be chosen on the 14th.

It is expected that in most cases the present assessors will be re-elected in the townships of Pennington county. Those holding this office now in the different towns are as follows: David Haugan, Wyandotte; Lars T. Brandrud, Sanders; Julius Olson, Hickory; J. M. Thiege, Smiley; S. J. Stenberg, Silverton; F. T. Satre, Rocksbury; Erick Albue, Numedal; J. W. Denhart, River Falls; A. G. Holstrom, Polk Center; George Palmer, Highlanding; Sam Lorentson, Black River; Emil Larson, Bray; G. K. Hovi, North; C. N. Urdahl, Goodridge; Sam Swenson, Deer Park; John Ulvell, Cloverleaf. K. O. Gigstad is assessor for the village of St. Hilaire, and B. E. Dahlquist for Thief River Falls.

CUMMINS COMMITTEE WILL GIVE $200 TO TOWNSHIP

Make Best Showing at Primaries And Receive This Sum For Road Fund.

Some township in the state of Minnesota will receive $200 for its road and bridge fund from the Cummin's committee. All that is necessary is to cast the largest percentage of votes, the total male vote at the 1914 election being taken as a basis for making the estimate.

This does not mean that the prize will be given to the township casting the greatest number of votes, for that would be unfair to the smaller townships, but it is intended simply to increase interest in voting generally in townships of all sizes throughout the state.

For example, if a township cast 100 male votes at the last election and 35 at this primary, its percentage would be 35; if another township cast 50 votes at the general election and 35 at this election its percentage for the purpose of this contest would be 70, and would be nearer the prize than the larger township.

All classes of voters will be included in this contest in determining the total vote, both Cummins and anti-Cummins Republican votes, as well as those of the members of the Democratic and Prohibition parties.

Townships desiring to compete for the $200 prize must make their claim to Julius A. Schmahl, secretary of state, St. Paul, on or before March 31, 1916, duly verified by the town clerk, and accompanied by a certificate from the county auditor of the county in which the township is located stating that the claimed figures for the general election of 1914 and for the primary election of March 14, 1916 are correct according to his records.

FARMERS ARE AIDED BY WORK DONE IN SCHOOLS

The Testing of Cows is Big Factor in Bringing About Better Results.

The teaching of agriculture in the Thief River Falls schools is proving its value in immediate results as well as in preparing boys and girls to make the most of their future in case their lot should be that of farmers or farmers' wives. This has proven particularly true where dairying is concerned. Through the efforts of Prof. H. E. Werner many farmers have been taught the value of more closely looking after herds and their production, and the work in this direction is steadily growing greater in importance.

Prof. Werner is at the present time visiting about fifteen farmers whose herds he is testing out. In nearly every instance he finds that a better knowledge of the care of cattle is bringing good results. The non-payers are being weeded out and the aim is constantly to breed toward a higher grade. Many farmers are securing thoroughbred bulls with which to head their herds, and this is always the first measure advised by him.

The interest in cattle raising is growing. There are at present about 125 members in the Pure Stock Breeders association of Pennington county, and the good example they are setting will result in a better grade of cattle even among those who are not members.

THIEF RIVER MAN GETS STEPHEN SCHOOL HOUSE

Carl M. Carlson Is Awarded Contract—Ventilation To Wiste-Thompson Co.

The new annex to the school building at Stephen will be built by Carl M. Carlson of Thief River Falls, his being the lowest of the seven bids submitted. The ventilating and heating system also went to a concern from this city, the Wiste-Thompson company.

The contract is for a six-room addition to the present building and the general contract is for $22,709, while the cost of the entire job will be in the neighborhood of $39,000. The bid of the Hussey Construction company of Crookston, the next lowest after that of Mr. Carlson, was for $24,540.

The old building will be remodeled to harmonize with the new addition, and the entire structure will be two stories high and cover a ground space of 132x72 feet. The work is to be completed by Sept. 1.

"Corns All Gone! Let's ALL Kick!"

Every Corn Vanishes by Using Wonderful, Simple "Gets-It." Never Fails. Applied in 2 Seconds.

Isn't it wonderful what a difference just a little "Gets-It" makes,—on corns and calluses? It's always night somewhere in the world, with many folks humped up, with cork-screwed faces, gouging, picking, drilling out their corns, making packages of their toes with plasters, bandages, tape and contraptions—and the "holler" in their corns goes on forever! Don't you do it. Use "Gets-It." It's marvelous, simple, never fails. Apply it in 2 seconds. Nothing to stick to the stocking, hurt or irritate the toe. Pain stops. Corn comes "clean off," quick. It's one of the gems of the world. Try it—you'll kick—from [illegible] corns, calluses, warts, bunions.

SHIPPERS ELECT FIRST OFFICERS

New Live Stock Association Completes Organization And Adops By-Laws.

R.L. MUZZY NOW MANAGER

As Compensation Will Receive Ten Cents Per Hundred Pounds On All Shipments Handled.

The newly organized Thief River Falls Shippers' association met at the Commercial club rooms on Saturday afternoon and elected the first officers, adopted by-laws and transacted such preliminary business as was found necessary in order to get the association started properly. The officers elected are as follows: J. B. Connor, president; Hans Anton, vice president; H. C. Woolson, secretary and treasurer. The field of operations is stated in the by-laws as Pennington county and vicinity, and the main offices will be at Thief River Falls.

R. L. Muzzy was elected as resident manager for one year. He will have charge of all receiving, weighing, receipting and shipping and will receive compensation at the rate of ten cents per hundred pounds for all stock shipped. He will also receive all moneys paid shippers and will distribute it to the proper parties. The manager will be required to put up a bond of $2,500 for the faithful performance of his duties.

The regular meetings of the association will be held on the fourth Saturday in January of each year at Thief River Falls, which city was designated as the headquarters of the association. The Peoples State Bank was made the depository of funds.

The new organization starts out with every promise of success. These associations have solved the farmer's stock shipping problems wherever they have been tried out, and with capable men at the head and an enthusiastic membership there is every reason for the assurance that the Pennington county branch will justify itself from the start.

COUNTY DEMOCRACY ASKS SUPPORT FOR REGULARS

Like the Republicans, They Also Have Insurgent Ticket to Defeat.

There is no contest on in the Democratic ranks as far as the choice for the nomination for president is concerned, but the party in Minnesota nevertheless has a little scrap of its own. This centers around the national committee man from this state, Mr. Lynch, but it does not seem to have reached very formidable proportions. The delegates recommended by the recent state conference of the party are as follows: at large—Daniel W. Lawler, B. F. Nelson, Anton C. Weiss and W. A. Just. For the district—M. J. Daly and Julius Olson.

PROMINENT ODD FELLOWS VISIT WITH LOCAL LODGE

Grand Master F. M. Payne And Grand Secretary A. L. Bolton Here Saturday.

A special meeting of Young Pine Lodge No. 221, I. O. O. F. was held on Saturday evening, at which were present Grand Master F. M. Payne of Pipestone, and Grand Secretary A. L. Bolton of St. Paul. There was work in the initiatory degree, the grand lodge officers taking part in the exemplification. At the close of the regular session a lunch was served by the members of Lion Rebekah lodge No. 69, a feature of the evening that was very much enjoyed.

In speaking of the progress being made by the lodge at this time, Grand Master Payne stated that not for years had so much interest been shown. About fifteen lodges have been organized during the past two months, the latest being at Remer, where they started out with twenty-five charter members. The speaker said that the order at present numbered about 2,250,000 members and was easily the largest fraternal organization in the world. It has lodges in nearly every civilized country and its ritual has been translated into eight different languages. While the Odd Fellows are in no way an insurance order, yet their outlay for charitable work and general aid to members amounts to $12 for every minute during the 24 hours of the day. The speaker referred to the work being done in caring for the aged and the orphans by the Odd Fellows homes throughout the country. Every state and territory already has one of these homes or is building one, and in every case the fact is impressed upon the inmates that they are not objects of charity in any sense, but are simply enjoying what is theirs as a right. The very best of schooling is provided for the children of members of the order and a general supervision exercised over their welfare.

Grand Secretary Bolton's remarks had particular reference to the good work being done by the Rebekah lodges everywhere. Members of this order enjoy the same privileges as do the Odd Fellows as far as the homes established are concerned, and their aid in the maintenance and upkeep of these has been such as to call forth the most unbound admiration from every source.

There were eleven members of St. Hilaire lodge present, these being H. J. Head, Andrew Hanson, Al Brink, P. Burstad, H. Wilson, R. B. Trask, L. N. Peck, G. I. Fellman, G. W. Hooper, A. S. Wilson and M. Fricker. The latter acted as spokesman and invited the members here to the meeting to be held at St. Hilaire Wednesday evening.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS SHOW SPRING ACTIVITY

CLUB NOTES

Parties who have been using the Commercial club rooms without authority, not being members of the business men's organization will in the future find it very disagreeable and perhaps costly business, according to the action taken by the directors at the meeting Wednesday evening.

It was decided to give ample warning to the effect that the club is for members in good standing only and their invited out-of-town guests and that violations of the club regulations relative to this will be promptly dealt with.

It is not possible for the secretary to be in his office at all times and it is an open secret that certain persons have been using the rooms and enjoying the club privileges, although they are not members and were not guests of members.

The directors make it very plain that members are to register their out-of-town guests with the secretary and that the practice of bringing in local people day after day to enjoy club privileges which are paid for by members in good standing will not be countenanced.

The Commercial club, as a business man's organization and sort of community clearing house for activities intended for the common weal, is not a loafing place and while visitors and especially residents of the farming country tributory to this city are always welcome, to maintain the club successfully, the rules governing memberships must be made more stringent.

Changes in the office arrangement in the lobby and better accommodations for members in telephone service, lighting, more billiard and pool tables, in fact a number of important improvements were authorized at the meeting of the directors.

SPARK PLUG INVENTION OF THIEF RIVER MAN

H. W. Protzeller Applies For Patent on Improved Automobile Part.

A Thief River Falls man has an invention that promises to go a long ways toward eliminating the troubles that beset automobile owners. H. W. Protzeller has applied for a patent on an improved spark plug that lays claim to being the best and most dependable devise of its kind yet introduced. The new plug does away entirely with the magneto, the coil and the distributor box. All the spark generated is delivered on the inside of the cylinder, making an explosion practically certain provided there is gasoline in the explosion chamber. With the present type of plug about two sparks are wasted on the outside of the cylinder to one that goes inside. This means that there is about three times the amount of heat generated with the new devise.

It is also claimed for Mr. Protzeller's invention that it will make cranking or starting much more easy and certain than at present, as there are six to eight sparks generated with each revolution as compared with only one spark with the old style plug. The new devise is entirely enclosed, being thus made waterproof, another big advantage.

H. W. PROTZELLER

The cost of the new plug will be about the same as that of the ones now in use.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following is a list of the unclaimed letters at the post office of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, for the week ending March 4, 71916. If not called for in two weeks from the above date they will be sent to the Division of Dead Letters at Washington, D. C.: Zeffer Chartur, Miss Ida Dibble, A. H. Erickson, P. L. Finkelstien, William Ford, B. B. Hammer, Mrs. Rose Johnson, Miss Flora Murray, Harry Nelson, Erick Olson, M. M. Robert, Mrs. D. Sawyer, Andrew Senum. When calling for the above letters please state that they were advertised. John Morgan Postmaster.

MUCH BUILDING AROUND MAVIE

Little Town Experiencing Steady Growth That Looks Decidedly Permanent.

BUSINESS HOUSES GOING UP

Mavie, Minn.—Special to Times.—Spring will open up this year with prospects for unprecedented activity in the building line in and around Mavie. The coming of the Electric Railway to eastern Pennington county a year and a half ago set in motion the wheels of progress in a manner hard to realize and harder to equal in any other part of the country. Goodridge, at the end of the line, became widely known on account of its mushroom growth. Mavie did not jump to the front with quite the rapidity as did the terminal town, but nevertheless Mavie has experienced a steady growth which bids fair to be of a permanent nature. It now has an elevator, a lumber yard, two general stores, a hotel, a bank, a blacksmith shop and a feed mill. Last season saw most of these improvements made. It also witnessed a vast amount of improvements in the farming country around the village. Numerous homes, barns, etc., were built last year. The coming season, however, gives promise of out-doing last year by large odds. The following are some of the building improvements already planned for the coming season: in the village of Mavie, itself, residences will be built by James Hruby, Ferd. Hincik and Thos. H. Smith; C. W. Nelson will build and equip a modern blacksmith and machine shop and the Mavie Hardware company will erect a coal shed 16x26 to take care of the fuel business next season. Near Mavie the following farmers will erect new modern homes and barns: Halvor Levaas will build both a house and barn; Engel Peterson is planning on building a nice farm home; Louis Hamre, Amund Johnson and A. K. Haggy will all build modern barns of the same dimensions, 32x60 feet, the lumber for these barns having arrived in Mavie this week; H. P. Nabben will erect an up-to-date barn size 36x72 feet; L. Lindvick and D. A. Rake will both erect good barns on their farms, the dimensions of which has not yet been made public; John Ristau is arranging to make substantial additions to his house. Carl Klockman will build a modern barn size 32x60. There are numbers of other farmers contemplating considerable improvements but the foregoing have practically all been definitely decided upon and the lumber has been purchased for most of them.

E. T. Reamer returned Monday to his home in Spicer, Minn., after spending two months visiting his two sons in the township of Kratka.

The Habadonk brothers have just completed the loading of three cars of dredge machinery for the Northwestern Drainage company. The dredging outfit is to be shipped to a point near Duluth, where it will be eassembled and put to work at the opening of spring.

Joseph A. DuChamp made a business trip to Goodridge the first of the week.

Chas. Fiterman purchased a carload of cattle in this vicinity and shipped it to the St. Paul market last Saturday.

Krist Larson, the enterprising cattle buyer from south-west of town, is in this vicinity buying stock to ship at an early date to St. Paul.

An auction sale was held at Andrew Dydahl's Friday and in spite of the stormy weather, a good sale is reported. Mr. Dyrdahyl had previously sold his farm and will leave next week to engage in farming in the west.

A dance will be held at the Mavie hall Saturday evening, March 8th, Angel's four-piece orchestra from Thief River Falls, will furnish the music.

The new feed mill recently established by the Kotlan Bros., is now doing business and is being liberally supported by the farmers of this vicinity.

Last Friday evening the Thief River Falls Concert band gave their "by request" dance, and it was equally if not more successful than the first attempt. The Auditorium was filled with a capacity crowd and all those present enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent. Tripping the light fantastic to the strains of a big brass band is becoming popular with the young folks in the city and it would not be unexpected if the bandmen were asked for a third dance.

⁂

Mrs. Gust Gustin, 820 Main avenue north, entertained a number of her friends Tuesday of last week in honor of her husband, who celebrated his 10th birthday at the age of 40 years, this being made possible by Leap Year. The rooms were decorated with ferns and carnations giving a very pretty appearance. All possible preparations were made to make the affair a very pleasing one as Mr. Gustin is only allowed to celebrate his birth once every four years. Mr. Gustin was the recipient of many useful gifts and he also received a number of toys, as the guests considered him yet a youth. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Baugh, Mr. and Mrs. M. Bothun, Mr. and Mrs. J. Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Bothun.

⁂

A number of friends pleasantly surprised Miss Gladys Nelson last Saturday evening at her home, 602 Main avenue north, and a very enjoyable time was had by all present. The evening was spent in playing games and several musical selections were rendered. At a late hour a dainty luncheon was served. Before departing for their respective homes, a piano solo entitled "There's No Place Like Home," was rendered by Elnor Overland and all the guests joined in singing the chorus. Those present were: Misses Dorothy Loen, Stella Moran, Helen Sether, Grace Loken, Ruth Kiland, Angela Schmitt, Lorine O'Hara, Jessie Bornett, Myrtle Satre, Irene Sorenson, Clara Sorenson, and Messrs. Stavaas read the service in the presence of a large company of relatives, neighbors and friends. The attendants were: Miss Clara Skytland and Aleck Hegtvedt. The bride was becomingly attired in a white silk gown and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was also in white and carried a white bouquet. Directly following the impressive ceremony, a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. After about ten days spent at the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hegtvedt will return to this city where they will make their future home. A host of friends join with the Times in wishing the happy young couple unbounded happiness in their ship of matrimony.

⁂

Mrs. G. W. Booren gave a little party yesterday afternoon to about a dozen friends in compliment to Mrs. A. J. Anderson, who is here from Roundup, Montana, a guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Prichard. The pleasure of the afternoon was needlework, concluded with the serving of toothsome refreshments.

⁂

Miss Marie Greenseth of Superior, Wis., who is the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Art Greenseth, was given a social honor Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Greenseth entertained a company of ladies in compliment to her guest. The afternoon was delightfully spent at needlework and social chat after which delicious refreshments were served.

⁂

Mrs. J. S. Turner entertained at an afternoon party yesterday when there were about fourteen guests. Needlework was the pleasure. At the close of the pleasant hours a fine luncheon was served. Mrs. Turner entertained again this afternoon when the same number of guests were present.

⁂

Twenty-four young people were delightfully entertained last evening when Miss Mary Prichard gave a theatre party at the Princess. After the performance the hostess and her guests repaired to the Prichard home where an especially fine luncheon was served. Covers were placed for the guests at the dining table and at small tables circling the large one, which was centered with a huge birthday cake with lighted tapers.

AUCTION SALES

If you expect to have an Auction Sale this spring it will pay you to call on us before making definite arrangements elsewhere.

For a reasonable fee we will take complete charge of your sale—furnish auctioneer, clerk and attend to the advertising and settle with you in in Cash for the total amount sold. You run no risk of loss on auction notes in a deal of this kind.

Or, if you prefer, we simply do the clerking for you. Our wide acquaintance amongst the farmers in this vicinity makes it reasonably sure that any notes accepted by us in settlement of purchases will be found perfectly good and easily disposed of, in case you do not carry them yourself.

In either case, place it in our hands. It will pay you.

The Beginning

March Marks The Beginning of another year of busy operations and this bank stands ready to serve you.

We venture to express the hope that every farmer in this community will realize the wonderful opportunities that force of circumstanses have produced in his favor, and that he will profit to his advantage thereby.

Good prices for all farm products are assured in advance. There will be no over-productions, with half the world at war and demanding the necessities of life at our shores.

The farmer's opportunity then,—is to cultivate every available acre, to conserve the strength of the soil,—to farm intelligently.

Financial conditions in this country are sound. The farmer will, at all times, be able to finance his business, and the farmer's business is, by far, the most important business in the United States today.

The Peoples State Bank

Of Thief River Falls Is Here To Serve You.

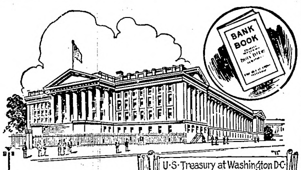
Come to us whenever your business requirements need the service of a good, sound and accommodating bank.

You have our wishes for the most productive, the most profitable year you have ever known.

Very truly yours,

H. S. Dahlen,

Vice President.



No greater element of safety surrounds the vast sums contained in the vaults of this beautiful building than surrounds the money deposited with us by our small army of depositors.

Your money placed in our hands is not only in safe keeping, but it is increasing in volume without effort on your part. It is providing the competence that will be needed for old age or the "rainy day" that should be anticipated.

The saving habit is a producer of self-reliance, of business independence, of freedom from anxiety

We offer the people of this community every inducement to save that is consistent with safe banking.

FIERCE BATTLE ON THE MEUSE

Germans Make Further Gains West of River.

CAPTURE FRENCH POSITION

Also Announced That the Villages of Forges and Regneville, the Heights of Raben and the Cumieres Woods Are in German Possession.

Berlin, March 9.—The capture of a French position west of the Meuse on both sides of the Forges brook below Bethincourt, six kilometers wide and three kilometers deep, was announced by German army headquarters.

It also was announced that the villages of Forges and Regeville, the heights of Raben and the Cumieres woods were in German possession.

The capture of fifty-eight officers, 3,277 men and ten cannon is officially reported.

In the Woevre district the French were driven out of the last houses they held in the village of Fresnes. More than 700 prisoners were made.

London, March 9.—French troops holding the village of Regneville, seven miles northwest of Verdun, are almost two-thirds surrounded by Germans. They may be forced to evacuate in a few hours.

Paris reports the Teutons shelling Regneville from their newly won positions on the east bank of the Meuse. Under cover of a heavy bombardment the Germans are making repeated efforts to bridge the river in the loop south of Regneville.

The German division that stormed Hill 265, on the northeastern spur of Goose hill, has made several attacks against French positions higher on the slopes. Artillery is being brought up in preparation for a heavy assault against Goose hill and Dead Man hill to the east.

Hill 265 lies at the end of a 1,000-yard slope, over which the French have constructed a mass of wire entanglements. Every foot is mined and under the direct fire of heavy guns mounted on Goose hill heights. Paris estimated that it would cost the crown prince more than 10,000 in killed and wounded to storm the position, but admitted it might well be worth the cost.

LORD FISHER IN COUNCIL

Former Head of Admiralty Asked to Join War Board Temporarily.

London, March 9.—For the first time since he left the admiralty Lord Fisher, former first sea lord, attended a full meeting of the war council presided over by Premier Asquith.

It is understood Lord Fisher was invited to join the war council temporarily to give his advice on important matters in regard to which his experience would be useful. It is not believed to be likely that he will return to the admiralty as a permanent member.

Bordeaux New Seat of Throne.

Lyons, France, March 9.—The seat of the government of Montenegro has been transferred from Lyons to Bordeaux. The king and the other members of the royal family, with the cabinet officers, left here to take up their new home in a mansion near the city of Bordeaux.

WAGE DISPUTE IS SETTLED

Workers and Coal Operators to Ratify New Agreement.

New York, March 9.—The joint conference of bituminous miners and operators from the Middle West met here to ratify the wage agreement drawn up by the subcommittee of employers and employes to go into effect April 1 for a period of two years. The subcommittee completed its work Tuesday night after sessions that lasted nine days.

The agreement provides for wage increases that will amount to more than $8,000,000 a year in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

BRANDEIS' HEARING ENDED

Subcommittee Will Report Result to Senate Judiciary Body.

Washington, March 8.—Public hearings on the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston to be associate justice of the supreme court were terminated by the judiciary subcommittee of the senate.

The inquiry has been in progress a month. The subcommittee gave no indication as to when it will report to the judiciary committee.

BOY BURNS, BROTHER SAVED

North Dakota Youth Loses Life When Lamp Explodes.

Anamoose, N. D., March 9.—George Dockter, seven years old, was burned to death and his nine-year-old brother was saved from a similar death by Mrs. Dockter, who threw the boy, with his clothing afire, into a water tank near their home.

The boys were attempting to light a kerosene lamp when it exploded

CONGRESS WITH THE PRESIDENT

Warning Resolution Killed in Both Branches.

HOUSE MAJORITY LARGE

McLemore Proposal That Americans Be Kept off Belligerent Ships Tabled by Vote of 276 to 142—President Pleased With Result.

Washington, March 9.—Congress, both branches of it, stands behind President Wilson in the negotiations with Germany resulting from that country's submarine activities.

The house, after an exciting session, tabled the famous McLemore resolution, which provided that Americans be warned not to take passage on the armed ships of belligerent nations.

The vote was 276 to 142. Last week the senate tabled the Gore resolution, similar to Representative McLemore's.

On the vote to table the McLemore resolution a big Democratic majority and half of the Republicans voted to sustain the administration.

With his hands unleashed by congress the president is prepared to proceed with diplomatic negotiations over submarine warfare.

Prompt action in the controversies with both England and Germany is forecast. While seeking more definite assurances from Germany that her new submarine campaign against armed merchantmen will carry out pledges in the Lusitania and Arabic notes, the administration will investigate England's secret orders to merchantmen to attack submarines.

The president is particularly pleased with the overwhelming defeat of the McLemore resolution, since it conclusively demonstrated to all Europe that congress stands by him in his negotiations.

MAY STOP BIG PRIZE FIGHT

New York Legislature to Pass on Willard-Moran Contest.

New York, March 9.—That Promoter Tex Rickard's path as promoter of the Jess Willard-Frank Moran championship battle is not going to be a smooth one was demonstrated when it became known that Assemblyman McCue plans to introduce a bill into the legislature stopping the contest. At the same time the Ministers' association, comprising 500 New York ministers, drew up a protest to Governor Whitman asking him to interfere on the grounds that the fight would be a violation of the law.

McCue's bill came as a blow to the fight promoters and principals, for his resolution calls on the Gotham boxing commission to revoke the license already given Rickard and his partners in the venture on the grounds that they are not New York residents.

NELSON OFFERS BILL FOR NAVAL RESERVE

Washington, March 9.—Senator Nelson introduced a bill to create a naval reserve of 12,000 men to be between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five at the time of enlistment.

The bill provides for the training of this reserve on training ships stationed at various ports of the country, that they shall be in active training thirty days in each year and receive full pay during that time, that they shall receive one-fourth pay the rest of the year and shall be subject to call at all times.

FAMOUS CLOWN ENDS LIFE

Frank Oakley Had Made Millions of People Laugh.

New York, March 9.—Frank Oakley, who as Slivers, a circus clown, made millions of people laugh throughout the country, was found dead, a suicide, from asphyxiating gas in a theatrical boarding house here. Slivers, who was forty-five years old, came by his nickname through his height and slenderness. His cleverness as a contortionist earned him a circus job at the age of fourteen and for years he traveled with Barnum & Bailey's circus. Later he appeared in vaudeville. He was born in Sweden.

CHINESE REBELS DEFEATED

Reports to Legation at Washington Tells of Government Victories.

Washington, March 9.—Reports to the Chinese legation say the government troops have retaken Poyal, most important strategic point on the border of Yunnan.

Suichow, another stronghold in the southeast of Szechuan, also has been taken.

Maude Allan Near Death.

New York, March 9.—Maude Allan, former dancer and entertainer, admired by kings and emperors, is in a critical condition following an operation for appendicitis.

SCHOOL NOTES

The Fosston team of basketball players was defeated last Monday evening on the local floor by the home boys. The game was fiercely fought, and though free from actual fouls, was no pink tea. In fact, it was fast and rough. It was any team's game all the way through, but the long end of the score belonged to Thief River Falls and settled the championship of the district in favor of the locals. The south end of this congressional district may have to be reckoned with, however, and in that event, Thief River Falls may have to play Fergus Falls, the winners at the end of the district. Last year each end of the district was permitted to send a team to Northfield.

The cup won at Crookston by the high school stock judging team will be on exhibit next week in Oen's display window.

The agricultural department of the school is planning contests in acre corn growing, pig raising and calf feeding for this territory. Full particulars will appear next week.

An annual state appropriation of $400 is avaiable for any properly organized county poultry association. Prof. N. E. Chapman, the well known poultry authority and familiarly known as "Uncle Norton," has been secured for the early part of April to boost the hen proposition in this territory. This will include the above proposed organization and a poultry exhibit next winter.

Agricultural Commissioner T. A. Hoverstad of the Soo railway and Prof. Alway, the soil expert of the college of agriculture, will be in this county on Friday and Saturday, March 24 and 25. A forenoon meeting at ten o'clock will be held at Mavie Friday, and an afternoon one the same day at Goodridge at two o'clock. A meeting in the evening at the Commercial club rooms will close the day. Saturday's program will be announced next week. It is the purpose of these experts to discuss the treatment of heavy and wet soils, dealing particularly with peat and peat formations. It is conceded that Professor Alway is an authority on this subject and is competent to advise wisely with owners of low, sand or peat lands.

The board of education has taken decisive steps to relieve the congested condition in the schools. Nothing less than more building space can care for the ever increasing family of scholars in this city. Even if a modified Gary plan were introduced more space would be required to care for this new form of school organization. It may surprise residents to know that six illegal rooms are being conducted in the schools and that many others are crowded beyond what the state board permits. In fact, the heavy state aid which this district receives, might be curtailed or endangered, were the regulations fairly enforced. Bemidji, Alexandria, Bagley, Warren, Stephen and Greenbush are nearby towns which are facing similar problems. They will all build this spring.

Many of the students who were doing unsatisfactory work during the winter term are now attaining better standings. But few of the delinquents will finally lose out.

Redeem Your Karo Syrup Labels—Karo Premium Offer

SEND us labels from 50 cents worth of Karo (red or blue) and 85 cents and receive this Wonderful 10½ inch Aluminum Griddle by prepaid parcels post. This griddle retails regularly at $2.25. It cooks uniformly on entire baking surface. Needs no greasing, therefore does not smoke, is as light and bright as a new dollar, never rusts, easily kept clean, will not break and lasts a lifetime.

At great expense we are seeking to place a Karo Aluminum Griddle in the homes of all Karo users, so that Karo—the famous spread for griddle cakes and waffles—may be served on the most deliciously baked cakes that can be made.

Karo the Syrup Choice on Thousands of American Tables

THE woman who keeps the syrup pitcher filled knows better than anyone else how strong the men of her household are for Karo on the griddle cakes, hot biscuits, bread and waffles.

She may not know how many thousand cans of Karo are used in her home state, but she does know how often her own Karo pitcher is emptied. The forehanded housewife buys Karo by the dozen and keeps it in the pantry ready for the daily filling of the syrup pitcher.

MIDDLE RIVER

Notices were posted last Saturday calling for a special election to vote on whether or not school district No. 126 should become independent. This is a step forward for the schools and should be recommended by all of Middle River's citizens.

Next Tuesday, March 14th, is the annual village election. We will not have to decide whether we shall sell fire water or not this year. The present administration has shown very plainly what could be done in a business manner. Their records are their best boosters and none can find fault with them.

A literary society called the Gama Delta society, has been organized in the local high school. The following officers were elected: President, Harold Berg; Vice President, Helen Schlotman; Secretary, Ernest Phillipson, and Treasurer, Henry Grobey. The society gave their first program last Friday afternoon and it was a creditable one. The purpose of the society is to obtain a knowledge and practice of parlimentary law, public speaking and music. The society has already bought a piano. The next program will be held on Friday evening, March 17th, at 8 o'clock.

Posters are out announcing a dance to be held on the evening of March 14th.

THIEF RIVER FALLS PEOPLE GET INSTANT ACTION.

Those who have used it in Thief River Falls are astonished at the INSTANT action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka. Because it acts on BOTH lower and upper bowel, ONE SPOONFUL Adler-i-ka relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. It removes such surprising foul matter that a few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. F. G. Stebbins, druggist.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

BIG BAL MASQUE AT THE AUDITORIUM ON APRIL 28

Society Ladies Will Act As Patronesses At the Last Hockey Club Event.

The social event of the spring season will be the Hockey club masquerade at the Auditorium on the evening of April 28. This will be the first dance after the close of the lenten season and it is to be an affair of rather more than usual magnificence. The ladies of the city will act as patronesses and the Commercial club will have a guiding hand in the arrangements.

A costumer will be here from St. Paul to supply the masqueraders with the latest things in stylish disguises and everything is to be done that will in any way add to the gayety and success of the occasion. There will be an elfins' corner for refreshments, presided over by the most charming young ladies volunteering for the occasion.

Admission will be by card only and no more invitations will be sent out than the hall will comfortably accomodate. Interest in the affair is already keen and it is expected that it will prove one of the most popular masque dances ever given here.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Advice of This Thief River Falls Woman is of Certain Value.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.

Many Thief River Falls women know this.

Read what one has to say about it: Mrs. P. Eberhardt, 215 Atlantic avenue north, Thief River Falls, says: "I suffered from weak kidneys. My back was lame and ached badly and bothered me for some time. When I did any washing or heavy work, I suffered more severely. Soon after using Doan's Kidney Pills, I felt better and it wasn't long before they rid me of the trouble. I have always tried to keep Doan's Kidney Pills in the house and when I don't feel just right, I can depend on them to give me quick relief. Last winter I had a pain in my back and felt sick all over, as the result of a cold. Doan's Kidney Pills soon made me feel all right."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Eberhardt had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—M9-16.

St. Hilaire News

New School Proposition.

Charles Biglow was successful in being able to make arrangements with Miss Shelland of the state university, to address the people of St. Hilaire and the adjoining territory on the subject of consolidation of schools and the benefits that may be derived thereof. Miss Shelland pictured to the people the rural school of today and proved the fact that the people of a rural district cannot equip a school for the education of their children, as inexpensively and to as great an advantage to all concerned as the people in a consolidated district. She also stated the fact that two hundred children in a consolidated district can be educated with as little expense to the parents as the common rural school that has an enrollment of only twenty pupils. Other points were brought out clearly also showing the disadvantage of sending the children away from home to be educated when they can just as well receive their education at home.

At the close of Miss Shelland's address Dr. C. Swanson made the statement that the village of St. Hilaire would raise $5,000 in the village for the purpose of erecting a new building before the outside district vote on consolidation. If the consolidation carries the village will then turn in the present school property valued at $2,500, and the state donates another $2,500 making $10,000 toward the new building. The remainder would then be raised by the combined tax payers of all the districts.

Fifth and Sixth Grades' Party.

The pupils of the fifth and sixth grades of the public school gave a party at the Imperial hall Saturday evening. The evening was spent in playing progressive games and Ashley Elliott carried off the honors. To [illegible] Peterson was awarded the consolation prize. Home-made candy was served during the entire evening. A delicious luncheon was served at ten-thirty. Frances Elliott, Erick Aaberg, Carrie Moore and Selma Sandberg furnished music for the singing and some of the games. The children left for their homes at eleven o'clock in a very happy mood.

New Orchestra.

A juvenile orchestra has been organized in St. Hilaire with Albert Brink as director. At present there are four pieces: Mildred Fellman as pianoist; Norman Patterson, drummer; Ashley Elliott, violininst, and Selma Rauge playing the trombone. Others are expected to join the orchestra later.

Caucus Saturday Night.

The village caucus will be held at the village hall Saturday, March 11th. As it is the duty of all worthy citizens to attend the caucus a large attendance will undoubtedly be present. The village election question has been agitated considerable the past two weeks and an exciting caucus and election are expected to follow soon. If you are not looking for an office yourself, be present at the caucus and hear the various political speeches of the evening.

Odd Fellows Entertain.

Extensive preparations were made the first part of the week for the entaining of the Grand Master and the Grand Secretary of the I. O. O. THE JUNIOR CLUB BOYS GIVE VIEWS

Meeting In Which They Take Prominent Part Held on Tuesday Evening.

PICK WHIST CONTENDERS

One of Best Meetings of Club Held And Stand-up Lunch Enjoyed by a Big Crowd.

The recently organized Boys' Commercial club took a prominent part in the proceedings following the stand-up supper at the club rooms on Tuesday evening. In fact, practically the entire evening was given over to them, their aims and achievements. The junior organization idea is one originating with Secretary Fred T. [illegible], and he should be proud of the [illegible] his proteges have made. They are displaying an ambition to make the most of their opportunity, and [illegible] only permitted but invited to take part with their elders in movements for the betterment of the community, listened to attentively [illegible] anything to say and [illegible] when they have a tendency to go wrong, cannot help [illegible] more careful and more [illegible] men.

George G. Johnson, president of the [illegible], presided, his good [illegible] even a little more in evidence than usual. A song by the [illegible] club's quartette followed, this [illegible] being composed of Masters [illegible] Anderson, Hong and Scanlon.

"Good Roads" was the subject of a paper read by Hugh McDaniel of the Boys' club. He called attention to [illegible] of highways in the neighborhood that are sadly in need of repairs and said that their condition [illegible] to keep people away from Thief River Falls, thus depriving [illegible] here of trade that [illegible] come to them.

"Basket Ball" was the theme of an interesting paper by Roy Brown, and [illegible] T. Scanlon gave some facts and figures going to show that the high school gymnasium should be enlarged. The high school's basketball coach, A. [illegible], was called on and said that the boys were winning because of the splendid encouragement and support given them by the people of the town and Prof. Hay of the schools, in a short address, assured his hearers that the boys were worthy of all the good things that had been said about them. In recounting some of their achievements during the past year he said that the Thief River Falls high school had carried off championships in basketball, hockey, football and stock judging. He thought that boys of that kind should have a new gymnasium, and his audience evidently agreed with him.

W. W. Prichard of the school board, was called upon and explained that more school room was absolutely necessary. Classes are now being heard in basements and halls, this being a condition that by no means makes for the best results. The speaker said that the city has grown faster than anyone thought possible a few years ago and that school facilities thought sufficient for a long time to come were already at this early date inadequate.

The first game of the whist tournament will be held on Monday evening next, the teams having been announced at Wednesday's meeting. Fred Herrick heads one set of contestants and Dr. Crandall the other.

Concert.

The seventeenth of March, St. Patrick's day at 8:15 in the evening has been selected for a concert to be given by the Presbyterian church choir in the church. The concert will consist of solos, duets, quartettes and chorus as well as readings. Mr. Mix, the leader, and Mr. Dickey, the tenor, with Miss Johnson the pianoist, all artists, recently gave an entertainment in Crookston before an enthusiastic audience of four hundred people. They are already prime favorites in Thief River Falls and the announcement that they with the other members of the choir are to give a concert will be sufficient to assure a full house. The entire proceeds will go to create a fund for the purchase of music for the use of the choir in the church services.—Mr.

PUBLIC LIBRARY REPORT SHOWS LIST OF DONORS

At the time of the opening of the new library a complete list of gifts was published. Since that time the following books have been received and the board wishes to extend to the donners their sincere thanks: Ladies' Thursday Musicale, 8, 13 in all; Berg, 5; Library Board, 386; Mrs. Clara Shay, 13; Emma Backe, 3; Daughters of Norway, 20; Masonic Lodge, 1; Locomotive Trainmen, 1; Mary Baker Eddy Fund, 3; Unknown, 3; H. C. Rowberg, 3; A. C. Matheson, 12; Rilla Palmer, 2; Mrs. D. Shaw, 11; W. W. Prichard, Sr., 30; Mrs. J. Borry, 1; Mrs. T. L. Melgaard, 5; Arthur C. Carey, 1; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds, 22; Truman Huber, 4; Hon. George E. Vincent, 2; Total, 545 books. Other donations are as follows: Mr. Holton, plants; Esther Sundahl, plants; Olga Aos, four large pictures; Eastern Star Lodge, large wall clock.

There is insistent call for more Norwegian books and anyone who can spare a few volumes from their own libraries would certainly confer a favor upon the Norwegian patrons of the library, if they would present them.

THIEF RIVER FALLS BOY HAS CLOSE CALL IN WEST

Ole P. Bakken Caught In Bad Snow Storm In Montana Last Week.

O. L. Bakken of this city, has just received word from his son, Ole P. Bakken, who has been living on a claim about 35 miles north of Hinsdale, Mont., since last fall, stating that the young man narrowly escaped death in the snow storm that raged throughout that section last week. The meager report received states that Mr. Bakken had started from town for his claim when caught by the storm and wandered around for 20 hours before he found any kind of shelter. The man with him froze to death and the Thief River Falls boy froze one foot, but not dangerously. Mr. Bakken was taking a load of lumber from town out to his place when overtaken by the blizzard.

visible reputation. But aside from this, it seems to me that it would show good taste and good sense to change it before we go any further.

Gives Good Reasons.

W. W. Pritchard sr.—With reference to changing the name of our city would say that in my humble opinion it would be a wise move, and for the best interests of all. During my fifteen years residence here I have often been asked by prominent men from outside why we did not change the name to something less suggestive, at least. I am sensible of the fact that some of our older residents, for sentimental reasons, are opposed to any change in name, but we should look at this from more angles than the one of sentiment. State and nation have had and do have history-making events. In the life of Thief River Falls we had our events—building of the Great Northern, the erection of a large saw mill, the opening of the eleven towns, a great drainage system practically completed, and the advent of the Soo railway system. All of which have helped make our city what it is. Ever since the building of the Soo system into Thief River Falls its president, Mr. Pennington, has taken a lively interest in its growth and the welfare of its citizens, and should we at this time honor him by making our city "Pennington" it would mean a great deal to us all.

Would Naturally Be Pleased.

W. A. Barnard.—It would naturally please us railroaders to have the city named after the president of our road as has been suggested but this is not the only reason for desiring it. Shippers often ask us why we do not have the name shortened so that they can get it all on one side of a dry goods box, and I am positive that the impression they get is that this is a funny little town up north where, in spite of the name, there seems to be quite a little business transacted. I cannot see how anyone would be injured by the change, and it would certainly prove a convenience.

Is Neutral.

George L. Sterns.—I really do not see how it can make much difference. Thief River Falls suits me all right enough, but on the other hand, I should interpose no objection to its being changed. We are doing pretty well as it is, but there is always room for improvement, and if the changing of the city's name would come under that head, go ahead.

Old-Timers Like It.

Judge Tarrant.—Among us old-timers the name sounds pretty good as it stands. I think you will find that quite a number of us would vote against a change for this reason alone, even if willing to admit that another might answer as well or better. It is no worse than International Falls, Red Lake Falls, and some others.

Favors The Change.

County Attorney Kiemme.—I am decidedly in favor of the change. I have no particular choice as to what the name should be—we might translate it back into Indian—but there is no doubt but that it is now too long and inconvenient. Besides, it always sounds more or less ridiculous to strangers.

The Times will be glad to receive further suggestions on the subject. While these quoted above are nearly all favorable, there must be any number of people who, for one reason or another, prefer the present name. This office has received one such communication, but as it was not signed, no attention could be paid to it. If writers will bear in mind the fact that the paper must disregard all communications not signed and that it will gladly publish all that are so signed, we may expect rather an interesting discussion of this subject.

AT THE THEATRES

THE GRAND.

The big attraction this week at the Grand is the "Red Circle," starring Ruth Roland and Frank Mayo. Ruth Roland will be remembered by her many admirers as the charming heroine of "Who Pays?" The question to be answered in this powerful photoplay is: Can the instinct of heridity be overcome by proper environment and education?

In addition to this feature the Pathe News, the world's greatest news film and a "Heine and Louis" comedy will be shown, Friday and Saturday.

AT THE LYCEUM.

The vaudeville attraction for Saturday and Sunday evenings and Saturday matinee will be the Mabelle Fonda Trio in a juggling novelty. The usual price of 5c and 10c will be charged at the matinee and 10c and 15c for the evening shows.

The Broadway attraction for Tuesday evening, March 14th, is the mightiest, most fascinating and remarkable of all nature pictures entitled "The Nature Man" or "A Struggle for Existence," starring Joe Knowles, artist, lecturer, naturalist and man with a deep reverence and love for all outdoors. He enters the primeval wilds of the California mountains, unarmed, without tools or provisions of any kind and in a succession of the most intensely interesting scenes—you see how he conquers the forces of nature, how he clothes and feeds himself, makes a fire without matches, and emerges conquerer of brute force by the supreme intelligence of a human being.

Every reel is full of breath-taking scenes, all actual happenings; Fights between wild animals, a death-wrestle with a bear—punches [illegible]. The price of admission will be 5c and 10c as usual.

The Fox film attraction for Thursday evening, March 16th, is entitled "A Gilded Fool," starring that old favorite Wm. Farnum. It is needless to go into details, as all who have read this splendid book and witnessed the production of "Samson" with Wm. Farnum in the leading role at the Lyceum a few weeks ago, will be assured of a splendid 1½ hours' entertainment. The price of admission will be 10c and 15c.

Universal films produced by the largest manufacturing concern in the universe, are being shown during the remainder of the week, the price of admission being 5c and 10c.

AT THE PRINCESS.

"The Missing Link."

Norma Talmadge and Bobby Harron are the stars in this throbbing Triangle play that does not let your attention falter for a second as you watch with deep interest the troubles of the newly married husband as he is wrongly accused of a terrible deed.

Touching your deepest sympathies "The Missing Links" has may a heart throb. Its a play you will appreciate as you watch with fascinated eyes for the appearance of the next scene.—Friday and Saturday.

"Because He Loved Her."

Often have you heard of the fun and joy that this popular comedian has long created on New York's gay White Way, but it remained for Triangle to first give their patrons an opportunity to see this inimitable fun-maker.

Tonight he is appearing at this theatre in "Because He Loved Her," a rollicking, riotious Keystone Comedy—one of the very best plays for some time and a picture that keeps the gigles running through the audience from the very start.

Sunday.

Sunday, March 12.

The whole story of the spectacular winter carnival in St. Paul will be told in this week's release of North West Weekly. A thousand feet of film, sixteen thousand pictures, showing 12,000 revellers in snow pageant, King Boreas does battle for ice fort, whole city frolics in snowy Saturnalia.

ALL KINDS OF WALL PAPER.

The right selection of wall paper for your home means happiness and contentment, while lack of harmony means failure. Everything depends on a pleasant home. I have, to my best belief, selected the most beautiful wall paper this year that any wall paper book can show, and is low in price, although some have advanced in price—such as brown, green, red, blue and bronzed paper. I will sell any paper the same price as last year. Come in my shop and see my stock. If what you want is not in stock, I will be more than willing to show you my sample book to make your selection from.

HOCKEY CLUB TO GIVE PLAY FRIDAY, MARCH 24

On the 24th of March you will be able to answer this question to your own satisfaction, as this is the date on which the Hockey club will present the play of that name at the Auditorium. The Hockey boys are still in debt for their equipment and it is for the purpose of raising funds with which to square away this account that the entertainment is given.

The equipment has been put to good use, being worn at different times by players ranging in age all the way from 9 to 30 years. The outlay amounted to $264.00, and it is hoped that the receipts from this entertainment will be sufficient to meet the amount still remaining unpaid.

"What Happened to Jones" is one of the best comedies ever produced, and the members of the cast are working hard to be in shape to present it to the best advantage. Following is the cast:

Ebenezer Goodly, a professor of Anatomy—Charles A. Pitkin.

Richard Heatherly, engaged to Majorie—Arthur Loken.

Thomas Holder, a policeman—M. C. Cutter.

William Bigbee, an inmate of a sanitorium—Al Fasel.

Henry Failar, superintendent of sanitorium—Gay Halverson.

Mrs. Goodly, Ebenezer's wife—Miss Howard.

Cissy, Ebenezer's ward—Miss Gertrude O'Neill.

Marjorie, Ebenezer's daughter—Miss Eckholm.

Minerve, Ebenezer's daughter—Miss Knox.

Alvina Starlight, Mrs. Goodly's sister—Miss Chapman.

Helma, Swedish servant girl—Miss Ann Patterson.

Mrs. C. A. Pitkin has direction of the rehearsals; C. Howard Smith is business manager, and Secretary Fred T. [illegible] of the Commercial club, has charge of the publicity.

The admission will be 50, 35 and 25 cents.—Mr.

NEW $10,000 GARAGE TO GO UP ON MAIN AVENUE

Rossman & Rassmusson have given plans to the contractors for figures on a new garage to be erected by them on the site of the West hotel, which will be sold at auction on the 30th. The new building will be of brick, 75x140 feet, with a space 25x65 feet devoted to store purposes and the balance for garage will be workrooms. The new garage will be modern in every respect, steam heated and equipped with the latest machinery and tools for automobile work. The cost of the building will be in the neighborhood of $10,000. The new concern will specialize in the Reo car, and will also handle a lower-priced machine, but which one has not yet been decided upon.

MISBEHAVIOR AT DANCE COSTS TWENTY DOLLARS

Hans Angell and A. Worner were arrested Wednesday on complaint of W. F. Edgar, on a charge of indecent exposure. At a hearing before Judge Tarrant they pleaded guilty and were fined twenty dollars and costs each, which they paid.

The testimony showed that the parties were present at the Eagles' dance on Monday night and that they behaved in such manner as to bring down upon them the severest condemnation of ladies and gentlemen present. Complaints were lodged against both with the above result.

Papberg-Alexander Tangle.

"Jack" Papberg was assessed $50 and costs by Judge Tarrant yesterday afternoon in Municipal court on the charge of disorderly conduct combined with simple assault.

VOLUME 6 THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINN., MARCH 16, 1916 NUMBER 3

Y.M.C.A.SUBJECT ABLY DISCUSSED

Matter Calmly And Sensibly Handled At Father And Son Banquet.

ITS VALUE AMPLY PROVEN

All Are Not Agreed That Establishment of Institution Here Is Feasible At This Time.

The Fathers and Sons "Get-to-Gether" banquet held at the Auditorium last evening may not result in the establishment of a Y. M. C. A. branch in Thief River Falls, but it was worth while on general principles, even if no concrete issue is particularly advanced. There were plates laid for 116 men and boys and all enjoyed the excellent repast provided by the Hotel Brumund. The supper, however, was only an incident, the main object of the meeting being to sound out those present on what they thought of the advisability of establishing a Y. M. C. A. branch at Thief River Falls. Everyone agreed that the association is one of the greatest factors for good in the world at the present time, that its work is worthy of every encouragement and that any community is better off for harboring and supporting a branch of the association.

President George G. Johnson acted as toastmaster, a task to which he is becoming well accustomed and which he invariably performs with credit to himself and satisfaction to others. Rev. R. L. Barackman of the Presbyterian church, asked the blessing before the beginning of the supper, and Mayor F. H. Gambell welcomed the guests of the evening. Assistant Secretary Coffin of the state Y. M. C. A., was introduced and thanked the people present on behalf of himself and his co-workers, Messrs. Peck and Jewett.

C. L. Hansen, president of the First National bank, was introduced and gave an interesting history of the association, telling how George Williams of London, had first begun the great work by forming a sort of society for the purpose of aiding his fellow clerks in the great city. From this has grown the wonderful organization which now includes in its membership, men of practically every country in the world. The Y. M. C. A. has proven itself a great power for good, said Mr. Hansen, and a branch of the society is an asset to any community.

C. A. Pitkin spoke on the value of "Organization." This subject, said the speaker, is elementary. Any person wishing to accomplish anything practical must either become a member of an organization or the nucleus of one. Organization produces results, therefore if we would become of any value to boys we must attach ourself to movements having their advancement as an aim.

W. W. Prichard, Sr., said that he often thought that fathers did not take the proper amount of pains in providing their boys with profitable employment. He did not mean "profitable" in a worldly sense, but maintained that fathers were not always sufficiently careful as to how they advised their boys and provided them with facilities for spending their time to the best advantage. He thought that too much choice as to what he should do was left to the boy, and that the results were not always satisfactory. It is nothing to a man's credit to say of him that he has "sown his wild oats," as these acts would have an influence on his entire life. While even with the right start a boy might not reach the top rung, yet he would so live as to be a credit to himself and of benefit to mankind. Mr. Prichard was not certain that a Y. M. C. A. could be financed here at this time but was in favor of anything that would result in better boys and consequently better men.

Prof. J. H. Hay of the Thief River Falls schools, said that he was aware of the great work being done by the Y. M. C. A., but was "from Missouri" when a question of its establishment here was under discussion, as he did not know just how to go ahead. The speaker began by saying that the churches of the city have tied up between $110,000 and $120,000 of the taxable valuation of the city, and because of this fact the greatest amount of good should be gotten out of them first. He said that everything was combining except the churches and that this was regrettable, inasmuch as these particularly should do team work. There is a vast amount of idle capital tied up because of division among churches, and a vast amount of energy expended to but little purpose. As a substitute for things as at present conducted he suggested that the children of the schools be given one hour out of a certain day each week during which they might receive religious instruction at the church with which their parents are affiliated. In this manner, with the proper equipment at the schools, they would get more through them and the churches combined than they could through the Y. M. C. A. Prof. Hay advocated the making of a community center out of the Central school building, where all the people could gather and where the equipment and accessories would be owned by them and managed by their chosen officials. The speaker advised going slow in this matter and avoid being carried away by the enthusiasm of the moment.

"Relation of the Church to the Y. M. C. A." was the subject of Rev. O. P. Stavaas. The speaker said that any opposition to the Y. M. C. A. certainly would not come from the churches, as these welcomed anything that aided in the saving of young men. There is a tendency among boys to drift away from the church, said Mr. Stavaas, and the Y. M. C. A. has proven the most efficient factor in keeking them on the right path after they have reached an age where parental influence upon their actions is not so direct.

E. W. Peck, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., spoke on "Association Activities the World Over." His address was illustrated with stereopticon views of association buildings in this country and other sections of the world and was of much interest in showing the scope of the work. E. E. Jewett of St. Paul, was the last speaker. He made a strong appeal, laying particular stress upon the necessity of early implanting in the minds of a boy the wisdom and desirability of forming habits and ties that would aid in the building of a strong Christian character. He was listened to with rapt attention throughout and his remarks formed a most fitting close to a noteworthy gathering.

At the conclusion of the program of addresses a meeting of those interesting themselves in the movement was held at which it was decided to hold a big mass meeting at the Auditorium on Sunday afternoon, April 2. A general committee to take charge of the arrangements was appointed, as follows: C. L. Hansen, C. W. Ackerman, Dr. O. F. Menby, Olaf Neset, O. A. Naplin, David Gustafson and H. S. Dahlen.

SPRING DIVISION OF FUNDS MADE

Schools of County Receive $2.10 Per Pupil; the Total Being $6,129.90.

ROADS AND BRIDGES $6,129

Pennington's Share of Money Derived From Dunn Road Tax Levy Divided Among All the Counties.

County Auditor T. P. Anderson last week received the per capita school apportionment of $2.10 per pupil from the office of the state auditor. The settlement is made on a basis of 2,919 pupils and amounts to $6,129.90. This will be distributed among the 37 districts of the county, and to this sum will be added the proportionate share each school is entitled to of the $175.11 received from the state as library aid. Auditor Anderson announces that the total of the two items will be included in the warrants sent to school clerks in the March settlement. To this sum will later be added the school's share of the current tax receipts, a division of which will not be completed until About April 15.

District No. 18, in which is included the city of Thief River Falls, receives from the above apportionment the sum of $2,790.90 this being just $60 more than was received from this source last year.

Pennington county will receive $15,000 as its share of the road and bridge apportionment collected under the Dunn law. This law provides that a tax of .01 mills shall be levied on property in the state for road and bridge purposes, this to be divided among all the counties. The taxable valuation of Pennington county according to the last assessment rolls was $4,297,170, not including the tax on moneys and credits, and the amount thus contributed to the road and bridge fund was $427.71. From this source, therefore, the people of Pennington country receive just $14,572.29 more than they paid in.

This $15,000 for road and bridge purposes is not received at one time, but is drawn upon as the work on the roads and bridges progresses. It is a tidy sum and will aid very materially in the highway building program laid out for the coming summer.

NEW POOL ROOM ORDINANCE READ

Permits Remaining Open Sunday Afternoon But Closing At 10 p. m. During Week.

NEW HITCHING POST LIMITS

Ordinance Provides That No Teams Be Tied On Down-Town Streets—Electric Lights Discussed.

A new ordinance for the better regulation of pool and billiard halls, bowling alleys and skating rinks was given its first reading at the meeting of the city council on Tuesday evening. The new measure provides that not more than one license for a pool and billiard hall shall be issued for each thousand population in the city, the figures of the last general census to be used as the basis for regulating the number so issued. It is also stipulated that such rooms shall close at 10 o'clock every night and, in the case of skating rinks and bowling alleys, remain closed all day Sunday. Billiard and pool rooms will be permitted to run on Sunday afternoon from 1 to 6 o'clock. A license fee of $10 per year will be required of all proprietors of bowling alleys; billiard and pool room owners will pay a license fee of $5 for each table in operation, and $25 per year will be be the cost of running a rink. The license with all expire on the first of May each year.

An ordinance providing for erecting and maintaining hitching racks in the city was given its first reading. This measure provides that no such posts or racks shall be erected on Second street between Knight and Horace avenues; on Third street between Knight avenue and the Soo tracks, nor on Main, Horace and LaBree avenues between First and Fourth streets. The street commissioner is authorized by the ordinance to see that proper hitching posts are provided in some other convenient locality and that those now in the prescribed area be removed.

A communication offering to the city the lot adjoining the Auditorium building on the south for the sum of $1,000 and current taxes was read. No action was taken in the matter. The question of caps for the police force was also laid on the table.

A bill against the city in favor of the Pennington County Fair association for $119 was allowed. This bill had been incurred by the association in providing light at the fair grounds with the understanding that it was to be repaid by the city upon the turning over to the municipality of one-half of the money received from bus licenses. This had been turned over as agreed and the bill was allowed.

In this connection President Ackerman called attention to the fact that the light plant as at present equipped can just about meet the demands made upon it, and that, with the erection of more buildings and greater requirements for power the plant would prove entirely inadequate. He urged that the matter of changing to an alternating current and of securing absolute control of the power operating the plant be given serious consideration by the council members.

City Clerk A. H. Fasel reported that in one or two cases there had been disputes over the electric light bills submitted by the department. He said that the greatest trouble was found with people who insisted on receiving the ten day discount no matter at what time of month the bill was paid. One or two others also held up their accounts because they insisted that the discount should extend to water bills and electrical supplies. He was advised by the council to explain the matter to the delinquents, and if this did not bring a satisfactory result, to place the accounts in the hands of the city attorney for collection.

Julien Provencher made an offer of $20 for the hot water heater belonging to the city and which has not been in use for some time. The offer was accepted.

An adjournment was taken to Tuesday evening next.

WAR EXTRA

When the news flashed over the wire last Friday afternoon that President Wilson had ordered the U. S. troons into Mexico to "get" Villa, the Times issued an "Extra" and gave the people of Thief River Falls the news hot off the wire. Soon after President Wilson gave the order the Times "Extra" was on the streets and the people received the details complete, the same as they appeared in the Twin City dailies the next morning.

FIFTY DOLLARS IS GIVEN AWAY

Many Valuable Merchandise Prizes Also Offered In The Times' Contest.

REQUIREMENTS ARE EASY

Practically All That Is Necessary Is An Acquaintance With Local Firms And Their Wares.

A great many times there is something lacking in the "Ads" appearing in the newspapers, and for that reason we have decided to seek the advice of the readers and buyers that the advertisers in this Advertising Contest may make them more attractive. The advertisers in this contest want the readers to tell them just what appeals most in an "Ad" to the prospective buyer.

Here is the most interesting advertising contest ever run in Thief River Falls. Each space on the contest ad page contains a short preface covering some business, firm or advertiser in Thief River Falls. See if you can supply the missing names.

Fifty dollars in gold and many valuable merchandise prizes to be given away. There are no very difficult requirements necessary, only a fair knowledge of "who's who" among the advertisers in Thief River Falls.

First. Read very carefully every advertisement on the contest page and do just as you are advised to do.

Second. File this copy of the Thief River Falls Times for reference. Request your friends and acquaintances to provide themselves with a copy of this issue. If they are not regular subscribers they may call at the Times office and secure one. We have extra copies and will gladly supply copies free to those wishing them.

Third. Read the next week's issue of the Times for full particulars. You will find it the most interesting, entertaining and profitable contest ever run by a publication.

If you were told that just down the street there lay fifty dollars in shining gold, would you try and beat the other fellow to it?

You bet you would!

You can win fifty dollars in gold just as easy, if you will only do a little thinking.

Fifty dollars in gold and many valuable merchandise prizes will be given away to the winners of the advertising contest campaign now running in this paper.

In the numbered squares the name of the advertiser does not appear but the nature of his business, his "slogan," something about his business that is familiar to you, or his concise "ad" does appear.

This is simply a foundation for you to work upon.

Now Mr. or Mrs. or Miss or Little Reader, you just sit down and make up your mind to win that prize. Make up your mind and you will find out it is so easy for you to win the gold and other valuable merchandise prizes offered in this contest that you will start right out tomorrow to get the little information that is required of you. If you do this, you are on your way to the prizes.

This paper has made this the easiest earned gold ever tried for and if you fail to be the lucky winner it is going to be your own fault.

After it has been awarded you are going to say: "Why, if I had only known how easy it was to win it, I sure would have tried for everything offered."

Read very carefully every line describing "who's who," and do the little thing asked of you. When you call upon the advertisers, ask them anything you want to know about their business. You will find how courteous and pleased they will be to answer all inquiries and as you go from their places of business, a feeling of satisfaction will come to you. A little effort will bring the necessary results and, after all, winning prizes is only a pleasure.

H. O. MUGRIDGE BECOMES LYCEUM THEATRE LESEE

Grand Theatre To Be Closed As Show House After This Week.

A deal was closed today whereby H. O. Mugridge, for a year and a half proprietor of the Grand theatre, becomes the leasee of the Lyceum. Roy Morgan, owner of this theatre, will retire from the show business and engage in some other line. The Grand will be closed after this week and Mr. Mugridge will take charge of his new house on Monday night. He will open with the first episode of the great story, "The Strange Case of Mary Page," now running as a serial in the Thief River Falls Times. This seems like a particularly fortunate incident, as Mr. Mugridge will take charge of one of the prettiest play houses in this section at the same time that he puts on one of the greatest serial stories ever produced.

The new manager will retain the film service that has made the Grand so popular under his management. This means that the offerings of the licensed film houses will be shown, which is equivalent to a guarantee of cleanliness in motion pictures. During Mr. Mugridge's term as manager of the Grand he acquired an enviable reputation for showing only that which was clean and proper and this will be a strong recommendation in the new house.

Mr. Morgan, who built the Lyceum about three years ago, has not decided upon what business he will engage in, but deems it probable that he will remain in the city. This leaves Thief River Falls with two high-class picture houses, which is exactly enough for the patronage there is to divide.

GOODRIDGE TOWNSHIP MAY WIN THE MONEY

An Increase of Over One Hundred Per Cent In The Vote Cast In Two Years.

Goodridge township, Pennington county, Minnesota, is a prominent candidate for the $200 offered by the Cummins campaign committee for the township casting the largest vote in comparison with that cast two years ago. Eighty votes were recorded there on Tuesday as compared with 39 at the general election held two years ago. Town clerk Geo. Rice was in Thief River Falls this morning securing the necessary affidavit from County Auditor Anderson and this, together with his own returns of the election, will be forwarded to Julius A. Schmahl, secretary of state at St. Paul. According to the system employed in arriving at the averages, this gives Goodridge an increase of over 200 per cent. The people of that enterprising community say that there may be others with a better record, but they will have to be "shown" before they believe it.

NINTH DISTRICT BANKERS NEXT

Will Hold Convention In Thief River Falls Latter Part of April.

14 COUNTIES REPRESENTED

Trade Conditions And Crop Outlook Will Be The principal Topics of Discussion Among Financial Men.

Thief River Falls has been selected as the place for holding the annual meeting of the Ninth District group of the Minnesota Bankers association. The date has not been definitely decided upon, but the gathering is always held during the latter part of April. The actual work of the convention will likely not take up more than one day, but the prominence of the men attending makes the meeting one of more than ordinary interest.

All the counties of the Ninth congressional district are included in this group, so that bankers will be present from the cities and towns of the following: Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Beltrami, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Mahnomen, Norman, Clearwater, Clay, Becker, Ottertail and Wilkin. The present officers of the association are: H. S. Erickson, Detroit, president; G. J. Johnson, Donaldson, vice president; J. H. Brandish, Hallock, secretary-treasurer.

It is expected that this meeting will be one of the most important yet held by the bankers of this district. Besides the usual matters coming up for discussion, such as the crop outlook and trade conditions generally, it is likely that considerable attention will be given to a discussion of the proposed national land loan bill now before congress. This measure would mean much to the farming sections of the country, and is generally favored by the bankers of these districts. There is considerable opposition to its passage, however, and bankers in all agricultural sections are going on record in its favor in order to aid their representatives in congress when it comes to the final disposition of the matter.

Arrangements for the reception of the bankers have not yet been made, but the Commercial club will undoubtedly take this matter up at an early date.

NOT SUFFICIENT TO RUN SCHOOLS

Oversight In Auditor's Office Causes Shortage of $12,000 In Amount Needed.

FIGURES FOR WRONG YEAR

Those Meeting Requirements For 1914 By Mistake Employed In Making Current Expense Levy.

The school board of district No. 18, in which the city of Thief River Falls is located, has just $12,000 less than was thought with which to conduct the business of the schools during the year. The difference is due to an error made in the office of County Auditor T. P. Anderson, but is by no means a serious affair—in fact, it may in some respects have proved most fortunate.

The board at the annual meeting this year asked for $40,000 with which to run the schools. This sum was about $10,000 short of the amount actually needed, but with the state aid money it would suffice. The board must furnish the auditor with a schedule of the purposes for which the money is to be expended. The auditor thereupon figures out the different apportionments and certifies this back to the board, who thereupon make the levy direct.

In 1914 the levy for the same purpose was $30,000, and the deputy in the office of the auditor to whom the matter was entrusted when it came up this year, took this 1914 sum as a basis for making the proper assessment, when in fact the amount requested and certified to was $10,000 in excess of this.

Since the proposal to raise money for additional schools by the sale of bonds has come up and the officials have had occasion to look into the matter, they find that instead of the $40,000 demanded they will only receive about $28,000, the sum levied under last year's assessment, leaving them $12,000 short.

The tax levy for school purposes in the city for the year 1915 was 21.2 mills, whereas if the correct amount had been apportioned it would have amounted to 32 mills. This would have meant a total tax levy of 82 mills for all purposes in the city. Instead of being forced to pay this all at one time the extra sum may now be included in the amount for which bonds must be issued and the payment thus stretched over a long term of years. While it is true that only about $44,000 can be borrowed from the state under the city's present real estate valuation, it is generally admitted that more than this will have to be raised. Money can be had from other sources at practically as good a rate as that offered by the state, and it is plentiful. The city will have no trouble in selling its bonds in any reasonable amount, and these will be considered an attractive investment. All that is necessary therefor is to include in the sum raised the $12,000 made unavailable through an oversight.

County Auditor Anderson attempts neither to cover up nor to justify the proceeding. It was simply one of those errors which at times will creep into the best regulated office and generally cause trouble of one kind or another. In this case, however, the outcome will be rather fortunate than otherwise, because it will help in distributing a rather heavy tax burden over a longer period of time.

M'FARLAND WILL BUILD NEW GARAGE AND SHOPS

West Third Street Will Have Modern Structure Costing Over $6,000.

A brick garage, 40x140 feet, is going up on the property belonging to M. McFarland on West Third street. The old wooden structure which has been used as a garage is being torn down and work on the new building will commence as soon as the place has been cleared off. There will be a large basement for use as a store room, the repair room and garage proper occupying the street floor. The new building will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000, exclusive of the heating plant, which will bring the total cost up to between $6,000 and $7,000. It is to be a modern building in every detail and one of the best used exclusively for garage purposes in this section. The Northern Construction company has the contract and if weather conditions are at all favorable, expect to complete the work by the middle of April. W. H. Peterson, an expert mechanic, will be associated with Mr. McFarland in the business.

LET US CONTINUE TO LOVE ONE ANOTHER

This would be a tiresome and uninteresting world if we all thought alike on every question coming up. There does not seem to be any very great danger that such condition will come to pass, however, because just as long as every question has two sides, just so long will both sides have its supporters and defenders. This is quite forcibly brought to light by the proposition advanced by certain of our people that it would be to the lasting advantage of everyone if the name of our city was changed to something a little more convenient.

Most of the opposition to the change comes from citizens who have lived here a long time. These have seen Thief River Falls grow from a little hamlet on the banks of a stream to one of the foremost cities in this section of the country. They have a sentimental attachment for the old name, and have every reason to be proud of the achievements made by the city under it. While they may be willing to admit that another designation might be more convenient, sound better, and that the city would get along fully as well with it as at present, yet the change seems to them like taking something out of their lives to which they have become accustomed and which has become identified with everything pertaining to them.

Nor should their reasons for objecting to a change be ridiculed. In these days of time clocks and efficiency experts there is altogether too little of this really fine feeling manifest in our daily lives. To become fond of persons, places or objects with which one is continually associated is the most natural thing in the world, and there is something lacking in the man or woman who does not experience a slight pang of regret when separating from them. But this IS an age of time clocks and efficiency experts, and business reasons are considered among the best reasons. If it should therefore prove good business to shorten the name of the city, there is not the slightest doubt but that it would be done.

If the name was not absolutely a misnomer, implying things that have not the remotest connection with the city or its people, it is doubtful if anyone would even suggest a change. Its length might be overlooked, and if its three words were found inconvenient it might be written as one, or, as is already often done, scribbled "T. R. Falls." It is altogether likely, however, that rather than allow the latter practice to become common the people would gladly change to something entirely different. And this way of writing it is becoming more prevalent as the city become better known.

Everyone knows that the changing of the name of a city after it has reached the size and importance of Thief River Falls is a decidedly hard matter. There is no question, however, but that it will be done sometime. New residents will arrive until they so far outnumber the present population that their desires in the matter will prevail. These will not have the memories of by-gone days to influence their action and will only look at the matter from a sensible and commercial point of view. They will find that they lose both time and prestige by continuing the use of the present three-ply name and will change it without regard to how anyone may feel.

But let's not get angry and quarrel about it. Just keep remembering that no matter by what name we are known, we have the best city, the finest prospects and the most enterprising citizens of any place on earth. As long as this is borne in mind we can call our place of residence by any name we see fit, while others may call us anything that doesn't make us mad.

CREATING MUCH INTEREST.

The Thief River Falls Commercial club is coming in for considerable notice and discussion among similar organizations throughout the state lately because of its treatment of that rather important and somewhat interesting individual, The Boy. The system followed by the club here of taking the youngster into the fold giving him club room privileges under certain restrictions, permitting him to speak his little piece in open meetings, encouraging him to think for himself and reach conclusions of his own, and in other ways showing him that some slight interest is taken in what he says and does, is making a different boy of him.

No long and tiresome lectures on what he should refrain from doing are forced onto him. The men of the club are going ahead on the supposition that each and every boy has a certain amount of brains and that these will be used in one way or another. It is for the purpose of encouraging the lad to employ these brains to some useful end, to rely upon his own common sense and be guided by what his own judgment teaches him is honorable and right, that he is made a member of the club. He knows that there are certain things he must not do if he wishes to remain in good standing among his elders and fellows, and the chances are that he will not do these things. The experiment is worth while if it fails--and it will not fail.

Secretary Lincoln of the Commercial club, who started the work and to whom in a very large degree is due its prominence and success has received quite a number of inquires as to how the scheme is working out. One of these is from the Minneapolis Commercial club and the others from smaller organizations in the state. These request copies of the by-laws under which the boys are working, the requirements for membership and any other information at hand which may aid them in forming boys' clubs in their localities.

If the idea works out as well as it has started, it will prove one of the biggest things innaugurated by the club.

STOOD BY THE GOVERNMENT.

Senator Clapp and the members of the Minnesota delegation in the lower house of congress are likely to have some serious explaining to do when their constituents begin asking why they did not vote as Americans on the warning resolutions. Not so Senator Nelson. Your Uncle Knute was sound on that proposition as on most others. Replying to a letter written by a Duluth friend complimenting him on the stand taken with regard to this matter, Senator Nelson says:

"I most heartily thank you for your kind letter of the eighth instant. It does my heart good to receive such a letter. It fully justifies me in the course I took on the Gore resolution. I was not at all surprised at Senator Clapp's action.

"I am greatly surprised at our delegation in the house. If they thought they were playing smart politics, they are mistaken; and if they knuckled down to the German propaganda in favor of the German vote, they made a mistake, because all of our voters are not of German descent. As for me, I felt that I could not do otherwise than to stand by the government in this matter. America has done so much for me that I owe it everything and I could not do less than stand by our country; and I mean to stand by it at all hazards in time of war or peace."

Last Tuesday's primary elections proved one thing, namely, that the spring primary is an expensive nuisance. To pay a dollar apiece for finding out that about one-fifth of the voters want a certain man as a candidate for president does not look like particularly good investment. And the result indicates absolutely nothing. The primary law is not doing what was expected of it, and the thing should either be fixed so as to make it of some real service or abolish it entirely.

Moses E. Clapp, of Phillipino repute and White Earth disrepute, is also receiving considerable newspaper notice these days, although no editorial convention has gone on record as demanding that he become a candidate for re-election. Certain of the big papers in the East have taken to throwing the harpoon into the junior senator and the folks at home are looking on unmoved.

The comment from other sections generally winds up with the intimation that the people here are particularly fortunate in having a man the size of Frank B. Kellog to offer in place of the discredited Mr. Clapp.

Villa, the Mexican bandit, has finally spilled the beans. He has been a nuisance and a danger for a long time, and people generally are agreed that something rather serious ought to happen to him. His action or that of his subordinates last week in crossing into United States territory and killing and terrorizing the people has placed him in a position where it is impossible further to show him any consideration. The president has been lenient—too much so, many think—but the end of even his patience has been reached and it is likely that the primary steps toward cleaning up things in the southern republic have been taken. While it is claimed that these raids by the Mexican outlaw chief have been instigated by interested Americans, this can hardly now be allowed to have any weight. The fact is that the Mexican republic has showed itself unable to prevent its citizens from committing serious crimes within the jurisdiction of a neighboring country, and there is nothing for the government of the latter to do except protect itself. Americans as a rule do not want to intervene in Mexico, but it begins to look as if this would be the only way out of the difficulty.

Ex-President Roosevelt has announced that he will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for president. Now if the colonel will only stay "put" it will remove one rather disturbing factor from the field. Hughes has already stated that he will not accept the nomination, while Estabrook and Webster think they are candidates, but are mistaken. This leaves Cummins with a clear field as far as the pre-convention situation goes. And there is no doubt but that the stock of the Iowa man is going up steadily. His vote on the warning proposition did not, perhaps, help him to any great extent, particularly in the West, but it placed him on record as opposed to anything that might embroil this country in war. Startling changes are following each other with such rapidity these days that there is no telling but what the position taken by Cummins may prove to be the right one before election rolls around. At any rate, he is easily the foremost in the race at this time, if not the only man available with a sufficient following to hold out any chance for victory in November.

The Times believes that its country correspondence columns are among the best in the state. The matter is supplied by wide-awake contributors who form a part of the payroll of the paper the same as other employees. Experience has shown that the only way to secure reliable news from outlying sections is to treat it the same as other matter and pay for it. This imbues the correspondent with a greater sense of responsibility and adds immeasurably to the reliability of the items secured. The paper is not unmindful of what it owes to these gatherers of little news items and at all times endeavors to encourage and protect them in every way possible. It is the intention to secure correspondents wherever mail is delivered throughout the county, and make The Times "The County Paper" of the people. Our subscribers will confer a favor if they will supply our accredited contributors with such items as they may have and thus aid us in our efforts to make the Times truly representative of every class everywhere.

The Roosevelt Reporter tried to give up the ghost last week and failed. A. E. Lind, publisher of the paper, announced that the support accorded the publication was not sufficient to enable him to continue and that the unexpired subscriptions would be taken over by the Williams Northern Light. As soon as his intention became known, however, the business men of the little town became very busy and proceeded to form a company for the Reporter's purchase and the paper will continue to boost its section as heretofore. It seems almost too bad that these same business men could not see their way clear to give this support to the publisher while he was in the harness. In that case he would probably not have quit, and we can assure the purchasers that they would have found the arrangement more profitable and satisfactory.

Whoever it was said that the only time Senator Clapp was not to be found on the fence was when he was on the wrong side of it, told quite a long story in a few words.

R-E-P-R-I-N-T—Where have we seen that word? What makes us recall it?

U. S. CONSUL AT TORREON LEAVES

British Representative Takes Charge of Office.

TROOPS READY TO MOVE

According to Unofficial Reports From Border American Forces Are Fully Prepared to Start Immediately in Pursuit of Villa asd His Followers.

Torreon, Mex., March 16.—The American consul, A. L. Williams, on the advice of his government to use his own judgment in the matter, has turned over the American consulate at Torreon to the British vice consul.

Meantime a party of more than forty Americans are gathered here waiting to leave on a train which has been held up for a day by a wreck on the Monterey road.

Carranza officials maintain that Americans are safe.

"We are gentlemen, and Americans have no need to fear, as we will escort them over the border and give them avery protection no matter what happens," said General Francisco Gonzales.

Washington, March 16.—State department officials are puzzled by the departure of Consul Williams from Torreon. They have given him no instructions to leave and have no reports of any disorders in that region. Still they realize that the consul may have some good reason for leaving. They are reluctant to believe that the consulate is in danger.

READY FOR THE INVASION

American Troops at Border in Marching Equipment.

El Paso, Tex., March 16.—United States troops, with camps broken, were under marching equipment along the Mexican border west of here at daylight in at least two positions. Military censors prohibited transmission of any information of actual movements throughout the first half of the day. The troops in readiness were at Columbus and Hachita, N. M.

Despite the censorship news of important military preparations all night passed through the New Mexico border through travelers going in all directions. By morning would-be spectators of the movement were hurrying to the international boundary and giving circumstantial statements about the hour when the columns might move.

Late in the forenoon, however, the usual routine messages began arriving here by wire from Columbus and they cast considerable doubt on reports that advance guards were in México.

Up to a late hour in the forenoon nothing had come from the Mexican side of the border to indicate unusual excitement there or any Mexican troop movements.

CARRANZA EAGER TO CAPTURE VILLA

San Antonio, Tex., March 16.—While regiments of United States cavalry, heavily supported by infantry, awaited General Pershing's order to advance, General Carranza's troops, according to information received here, worked desperately to effect the capture of Villa to forestall an entrance into Mexico by American forces.

From official and unofficial sources General Funston received reports of increased activities of the de facto government troops, but there was no disposition at his headquarters to regard the activities as anything more than evidence of Carranza's determination to co-operate with the United States government in eliminating Villa.

The general orders issued for the suppression of all news that might interfere with the success of the contemplated expedition into Mexico have served to keep the public in ignorance of the exact number of troops that will be sent in under General Pershing, but it is generally known the force will be not less than 5,000 and the greater part of the available troops in the United States will be within reach if it should become necessary to use them.

Troop trains continue to carry cavalry and infantry to the district along the boundary line between Mexico and New Mexico, but the concentration of men and supplies virtually is completed.

SAFETY OF 500 IN DOUBT

Situation Critical With News of Massacre of Five Ranchers.

Columbus, N. M., March 16.—Safety of the 500 Mormon men, women and children at Casas Grandes is critical. Five ranchers were massacred at Corrolitos, twenty miles north of there, and the ranch house burned, according to a message received by E. E. Hougston, manager of the ranch. The ranchers were unarmed, as are the Mormons.

"CHAMPS" READY FOR CARLETON

Players Are Now In Pink of Condition For State Title Struggle.

TOURNAMENT MARCH 24-25

Thief River Falls Team Has Scored 347 Points During The Year Against Opponents 152—Enthusiasm Is High.

When Coach Johnson escorts his basketball proteges aboard the Soo flyer, Carleton bound, next Wednesday evening, the high school district championship team's ambition to compete for the state title will reach the first stage of realization. The tournament will continue for two days, March 24-25.

Prospects of making this southern trip, giving them a chance to meet the crack teams of the state, has been one of the inspirations that contributed to the team's brilliant success on the local floor and on strange floors as well, and it is probable that they will return with new laurels.

This week the champions have been training at the Auditorium and will wind up their work for the tournament Saturday night. Tuesday night the phantoms went through some hard practicing with the city team, before a good sized crowd, and displayed very good team work and passing. The fact that the boys will play in a gym where the ceiling is higher than they are accustomed to, necessitated the using of the Auditorium to become familiar with shooting baskets at a greater height. Every member of the team and substitutes have been tossing the ball around in the large room, and by the time the Carleton games are reached next week, the boys will have a pretty fair idea of the problem before them.

Coleman Linde, star center, who announced a short time ago that he could not participate in any more of the contests, will go with the team. With this addition, Thief River Falls fans think it a team of very fine calibre.

The forwards and guards are all digging, earnest, striving, fast and agile fellows, who will, without a doubt, give a good account of themselves. All in all, there is every indication that Carleton will have the best basketball in every sense of the word, it has ever enjoyed, and that Thief River Falls once more will boast of a fighting, hard-to-down team; one that will make trouble for all of them and one that should finish at the top or very near it.

The following is the record of the team in the games played and the scores made by each team:

T. R. Falls....52;	Erskine	4
T. R. Falls....56;	Stephen	15
T. R. Falls....28;	Ada	15

JUNIOR SHORT COURSE AT CROOKSTON APRIL 3-6

Boys And Girls of Red River Valley May Enjoy Week of General Farm Instruction.

Contests will be an interesting feature of the sixth annual junior short course to be held at the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston, April 3-8. The boys in attendance will judge stock and grain, and the girls will compete for honors in cooking and sewing.

The ai of the course is to deepen boys' and girls' interest in life on the farm. A spirit of rivalry helps toward this end, but contests will only be a small part of the program. Every morning from 8 to 11, the boys in attendance will study dairy cattle, beef cattle, horses, and corn, and the girls will study sewing and cooking. From 11 to 12:15 both boys and girls study problems relating to poultry, pigs, sheep, potatoes, and gardening.

In the course of the week, attention will be called to the state contests in raising pigs, calves, corn, and potatoes, and in bread-making.

The whole expense of the week at Crookston in addition to the railroad fare will be $2, except in the case of the girls, who will be expected to bring 75 cents additional for materials used in the sewing classes.

Card Of Thanks.

I wish to express my appreciation of the very kind and substantial assistance given me by the Commercial club and business men of Thief River Falls who have generously contributed a handsome sum towards reimbursing me, in a measure, for the loss I sustained in the recent fire which destroyed my farm house and contents. I can only hope that they may never suffer a like calamity and in case they should that they will find themselves in a coumminity so characteristic of sympathy and unselfishness for the other fellow as I find myself in Thief River Falls and neighborhood.

ALL KINDS OF WALL PAPER.

The right selection of wall paper for your home means happiness and contentment, while lack of harmony means failure. Everything depends on a pleasant home. I have, to my best belief, selected the most beautiful wall paper this year that any wall paper book can show, and is low in price, although some have advanced in price—such as brown, green, red, blue and bronzed paper. I will sell any paper the same price as last year. Come in my shop and see my stock. If what you want is not in stock, I will be more than willing to show you my sample book to make your selection from.

SAYS TASK IS ENORMOUS

British Official Comments on Raising Large Army.

London, March 16.—In introducing the army estimates in the house of commons Harold J. Tennant, parliamentary under secretary of the war office, explaining that it is not in the public interest to divulge figures, devoted his speech largely to a review of the enormous work involved in creating the army and what the government is doing with respect to the conflicting claims in the industrial and military fields.

He mentioned that the purchase of horses in Canada and the United States will cease, as Great Britain is able to provide for the wastage in horses, but mules still will be required from abroad. The average annual mortality in horses has been well under 10 per cent and the loss in transit less than 1 per cent.

Bulgars Seek New Loan.

Copenhagen, March 16. — The Deutsche Tageszeitung says a new 6 per cent Bulgarian loan for a large sum will be issued the first part of April.

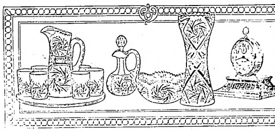
MUCH INTEREST SHOWN IN HOCKEY MASQUERADE

Many Visitors From Neighboring Towns Have Signified Intention of Attending

Inquires from out of the city indicate that there will be a number of young ladies and gentlemen here for the big mask ball, to be given by the hockey team at the Auditorium Friday, April 28 and there is much conjecture as to just who the prospective visitors are, as they have pledged the committee to secrecy and are conducting their negotiations for tickets, costumes etc; in such a manner as to guard against any possible detection as to identity.

This much is known: A bevy of girls from the university of a state not so many miles away is quite likely to be here and a party of charming young matrons of Crookston are said to have already secured tickets through local friends. All of the prospective visitors are making their arrangements through such sources as to make it certain that they are from the social sets in their respective towns.

Thief River Falls will not be outdone when it comes to pretty costumes and gay maskers and society is on the quive with excitement and interest over the big ball. It promises to be a brilliant gathering of handsomely gowned dancers, incognito with many innocent flirtations enmask and a scramble to devoid detection when the order, "unmask," is given. The demand for silk hose and dainty slippers has been noticeable in local emporiums catering to the feminine heart's desire and the galleries are assured a sight fit to gladden the eye when the King of the Ball leads the grand march, followed by such a retinue of gallants and beauties as to make one feel that he is in Gotham or mayhap "Gay Paree." On with the dance, let mirth be unrestrained. It appears from all the press can gather that this, to use the parliance of the street will be "some dance."



Cut Glass
Quality in the Making

Perhaps you do not know that cut glass is graded, and that one grade is not as good as the other.

The grade is determined by the clearness of the glass, and depth of the cut.

In our stock you will find "Libby" cut glass. Every piece cut from perfect blanks of crystal clearness to just the right depth to give it the diamondlike sparkle.

There is a difference in price between the highest grade and the lowest grade, but when you buy here you are assured of the highest grade quality at the lowest grade prices.

This Wonderful

In "Big Moments of Big Trials" Irvin S. Cobb says, "Editors and reporters are forever dreaming of the perfect murder story, which will be the story of a young and pretty woman, preferably an actress, accused of killing a rich man by poisoning him, with a lot of mystifying features and complications to go along with it. When this comes to pass, if it ever does, it will be, from the standpoint of public interest, a perfect story—which means circulation, which means everything to newspapers."

W. O. Long, who resides on a farm near the Soo round house, is expected to return home this week from an extended trip through the south, where he spent the winter. Mr. Long has been visiting at his former home in Illinois and has spent some time in Oklahoma, where he owns a piece of land. He has also been touring the states of Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi.

W. D. Fee, traveling salesman for a St. Paul concern, was a visitor in Thief River Falls the first of the week looking after his real estate holdings in this territiry. Mr. Fee was a caller at the Commercial club rooms and was very lavish in his praise for the work that is being done by the club and he also took occasion to compliment the club on their excellent and commodious quarters.

Judson W. Elliott, prominent real estate man and financier of Minneapolis, was a guest of John Bratrud the first of the week. Mr. Elliott stated that Thief River Falls and Pennington county is being widely advertised in the southern part of the state. Mr. Judson expects to be instrumental in locating a large number of new settlers in this territory this spring.

Charles Fiterman returned Wednesday morning from St. Paul, where he had taken a carload of cattle the latter part of the week. Mr. Fiterman is having the interior of his building, 107 Main avenue north, partitioned off this week and will operate a junk shop in connection with O. P. Johnson, who has rented part of the building for the purpose of opening a second hand store.

Gust Crown left Monday afternoon for St. Hilaire from which place he went to the home of his parents, who reside on a farm in Bray township, for a short visit. He was accompanied by George Bakken. Messrs. Crown and Bakken were the proprietors of the barber shop on LaBree avenue that was razed by fire last week and stated on leaving that they expected to open for business again as soon as suitable quarters could be obtained.

A. L. Neurauter, expert electrician formerly of East Grand Forks and B. H. Michel, well known to many people in this city, having been connected with the E. & E. Electric shop on Main avenue, opened the doors of their new Electric shop in the building formerly occupied by Daniel Shaw and the Minnesota Northwestern Electric railway, the first of last week. They carry a complete line of electrical supplies and both are experts in the electrical field.

Mrs. Paul Medderigh was found in a prostrated condition last Thursday evening by Ole Torrison on the sidewalk south of the Carnegie library, where she had fallen resultant from a stroke of heart trouble. Mrs. Medderigh, accompanied by her two children, was in attendance at the Grand Theatre when she felt herself weakening and asked for a glass of water. After drinking the water Mrs. Medderigh sought fresh air and decided to take a walk to the court house, being stricken on the way over. She was rushed to the office of her husband, who is deputy sheriff, and medical aid summoned. Late reports are to the effect that she has improved very much.

Paul Borgie of Hazel, was in the city last Friday for the purpose of securing an auctioneer's license. Mr. Borgie will make a specialty of general farm sales and as he enjoys a wide acquaintance his time should be pretty well taken up during the sales seasons.

A. B. Mandt, formerly residing on a farm near Kratka but now living at Georgetown, Minn., was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen last Friday. Mr. Jensen was returning to his home after having spent Thursday at Kratke, where he had intended to hold an auction sale of his farm implements. Owing to the severe snowstorm that set in, the sale could not be held and was postponed until March 21. Mr. Mandt will return on that date.

The Great Northern southbound passenger was over an hour late Wednesday afternoon. The cause of the delay was—railroadically speaking— a "hot box," and several repairs were found necessary to be made at Greenbush before continuing the trip. On the trains arrival here the box was again found to be overheated and after packing the cavity with snow the engine whirled the passengers away on their belated journey.

News reached the city yesterday that Ole Snustad, who left Sunday evening for Florida, where he expected to be employed, was taken ill with appendicitis when he reached Minneapolis. The following morning an operation was performed. Reports are to the effect that he underwent a successful operation, but it is not known whether Mr. Snustad will continue his journey to Florida after he has recovered, or return to Thief River Falls.

Charles Lowry, formerly employed here, arrived Tuesday evening from Pequot, Minn., where he has conducted a barber shop for the past year, and has accepted a similar position at the Furran and Benson tonsorial parlors, having disposed of his business interests at Pequet. Mrs. Lowry will arrive here next week to join her husband. Besides being an efficient tonsorial artist, Mr. Lowry is also a musician and his arrival will augment the mellophone section of the concert band.

Rev. A. N. Skogerbo, who has held the pastorate of the Hauges Synod church at Greenbush for a number of years, removed his family and household goods the latter part of last week to this city to make their future home, Rev. Skogerbo having accepted the position here as pastor of the Hauges church. Last Sunday evening the members of the congregation gathered at the Skogerbo home at 416 Riverside avenue, and tendered their new pastor and family a reception of welcome. The ladies had prepared an exceptionally good menu and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all. Rev. Skogerbo will be formally inducted into the pastorate of the Hauges church in two weeks by Rev. G. C. Gjerstad of Gary.

Superintendent of the water and light department Leonard Peterson will leave Monday evening for Minneapolis to attend the annual convention of the Minnesota Electrical Association. While in Minneapolis Mr. Peterson will also visit with his daughter, Alice, who is a student at the state university. There is one friend in Minneapolis that Mr. Peterson never fails to visit when in the city and that is William J. Murphy, owner of the Minneapolis Tribune. Mr. Peterson was employed by Mr. Murphy for twelve years, when the latter was owner of the Crookston Light Department over twenty-five years ago, and a close friendship developed between these two men. Yesterday Mr. Murphy celebrated his 25 anniversary on the purchasing of the Tribune. Last Sunday a full page portrait of Mr. Murphy was printed in the rotogravure section of the Tribune, and was the first which has appeared in the paper. The picture was printed at the instance of the Tribune staff without Mr. Murphy's knowledge, in honor of the event which he celebrated yesterday.

Local people will undoubtedly be interested to konw that Curley Ullrich, who formerly resided in Thief River Falls but now of St. Paul, has been chosen to referee the Gibbons-Smith world's championship bout in St. Paul tomorrow night. Ullrich, at the time of his residence here, conducted a boxing school and gymnasium in the basement of the old Evenson building at the corner of Third street and Main avenue, which wes destroyed by fire January 25, 1914. During Ullrich's stay here, several "pugs" were developed and were beginning to stand out as boxers. The St. Paul Pioneer Press in commenting on the match says: "Curley Ullrich will be the third man in the ring when Mike Gibbons and Jeff Smith meet in their world's championship bout at the Auditorium Friday night. Ullrich was selected at a conference at the Gibbons gymnasium yesterday afternon at which Al Lipe, Mike Gibbons, President Louis F. Dow and Matchmaker M. T. Caine attended. Curley Ullrich, who is one of the best known referees in the Northwest and who at one time was one of the most prominent lightweights in this locality, recently was appointed as a state referee. His first appearance was in the Gibbons-Ahearn bout January 18. In that show Curley made good, and since has officiated in two other shows staged by the Capitol City A. C. Nev. Friday's big bout however, will be Ullrich's first championship contest, but those who have watched him in action feel confident that the popular Curley will "deliver the goods."

Card of Thanks.

We wish to take this means of expressing our most sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kind assistance during the illness and death of our beloved father and husband. We wish to extend especial thanks to the Royal Neighbors and Rebekah lodges for their kind assistance and we also wish to extend our thanks for the beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. S. Brokke and Children.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following is a list of the unclaimed letters at the post office of Thief River Falls, Minnesota for the week ending March 11, 1916. If not called for in two weeks from the above date they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office at Washington, D. C.: Mike Berath, Mr. Even Borstad, J. T. Craig, Mr. A. H. Dahlen, Mr. Lawrence Everson, Miss Emily Gough, E. T. Hurst, Kerwin K. Kinsela, Oscar Soderling, Mr. C. J. Matheson, Jerry O'Connor, Miss Lillie Rugland. When calling for the above letters please state that they were advertised. John Morgan, P. M.

Physician's Hospital Notes.

Herman Holm of Greenbush, was entered at the hospital yesterday afternoon suffering from a ruptured appendix. He was taken to this city by Dr. H. H. Hanson of Greenbush.

J. Kroeger, employed in the Loken Grocery annex, was operated upon for gall bladder yesterday. His condition is very much improved.

A. A. Hoveland employee at the Soo store-house, was discharged from the hospital Tuesday, after having successfully undergone an operation for appendicitis.

E. B. Conklin was discharged from the hospital Tuesday after having undergone an operation for appendicitis.

C. H. Helland will sell at public auction all his personal property consisting of horses, cattle, machinery, household goods, etc., on Wednesday, March 29, 1916, at his farm, 8 miles east and 2 miles south on Section 12, town of Smiley, Pennington Co.—M16

BOYS AND GIRLS TO START RIGHT

State Experts Will Give Them Instructions For Coming Industrial Contest.

CASH PREMIUMS OFFERED

Competition Will Be of More Than Usual Interest Because of Wide Range of Subjects.

The co-operation of the farmers in establishing a series of county contests in pig raising, calf feeding, bread-making, acre corn and potato growing and in planning for a county poultry association is requested by the agricultural department of the Thief River Falls schools. The local Commercial club, the Pennington County Fair association and the County Superintendent have promised their support and financial assistance in making this movement a success.

Next week a canvass of the rural schools in this territory will be made for the purpose of enlisting recruits in these contests. The state and the department of agriculture at Washington have promulgated rules governing and directing the several contests. Preminums are offered but cannot be announced until the state completes its list. Local prizes will be provided and they will be generous and varied.

About the first week in April, all the contestants will be asked to the Commercial club rooms in Thief River Falls, where they will be suitably entertained and given final instructions. Prof. T. A. Erickson, state leader in club work, and Prof. N. A. Chapman, poultry expert, will be present to aid in getting the movement properly under way. No boy or girl in the county, or in the two rows of townships in Marshall county just north of Pennington, will be prohibited from entering one or more of the contests. It is the purpose of the several organizations back of the movement to make it the largest and most efficient in the state. The champion pig-raiser and the champion bread-maker will enjoy trips to the state fair in September at the expense of the state. In addition a generous fund of local cash premiums will be offered in every class. The contestants will be supplied with application blanks and rules by the department of the local school. Some of the contests must close by September 1st, but others will run over into October. Late in the fall an industrial fair for the county will be held in Thief River Falls, at which outside judges will render their decisions on all contests and award premiums.

It is not generally known that annual aid to the amount of $400 is available for any properly organized and maintained county poultry association.

Arrangements will be made whereby good seed for the contests will be provided and in such manner that any trustworthy boy or girl may receive it.

It also ought to be understood that any boy or girl, whether in town or country, who can subscribe to the requirements is eligible to enter.

The department bespeaks the hearty support of every parent in this important movement. It is highly educational and practical and can be made a great success by good team work.

REALTY MARKET SHOWS DECIDED IMPROVEMENT

Improved Farm Lands Still Continue To Display Greatest Amount of Activity.

Ten real estate transfers are recorded in the office of Register of Deeds Anderson during the past week. The most interesting transfer is that involving the northwest quarter and west half of northeast quarter of section 17 in 154-43. This parcel changed hands twice on the same day, according to the records, the second sale being made at a considerable advance over the first. Following are the transactions:

March 8.—Rabert E. Sotheran to Sarah E. Vaughan, NW¼, 20-154-40; consideration $3,000. Emma Herbranson to W. W. Prichard, Sr., NW ¼ and W½ NE¼, 17-154-43; consideration $9,000. W. W. Prichard, Sr., and wife to Thomas Kelley, et al., NW¼ and W½ NE¼, 17-154-43; consideration $10,200.

March 10.—Hjalmer Rustad and wife to Dora T. Ringstrand, lot 47, Rustad's sub-division; consideration $500.

March 11.—Frank Przybyszeski to John Bratrud, NE¼, 28-154-41; consideration $1. George Froisness and wife to A. S. and J. B. Chase, SE¼, 26-153-42; consideration $3,840. J. P. Grothe and wife to Edith J. Haynes, lot 8, block 4 in Highland addition; consideration $3,000

March 14.—Ingborg Satre and husband to Josephine Korstad, SW¼, 10-154-40; consideration $1,500. Clarence S. Truttman to C. W. Vorachek, W½ SE¼, 33-154-39, lot 2, SW ¼ NE¼, 4-153-39; consideration $1.

March 15.—I. M. Myrbo and wife to Oscar L. Wilson SE¼, 21-154-45; consideration $3,900.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS

Surgeons state men are slightly more subject to appendicitis than women. Thief River Falls People should know that a few doses of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka, often relieve or prevent appendicitis. This mixture removes such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-i-ka is surprising. F. J. Stebbins, druggist.

The Times comes out on a different color paper than heretofore, and it might properly be termed "war paper." The reason for the variance in color is that all the paper mills in the United States have been exhausted of their supplies of bleaching material, formerly furnished by German chemical factories, and are now forced to supply their customers with an all home product. Until the blockade is lifted and Germany is again able to carry on her commerce, you will have to read print on this kind of paper.

Few of the housewives are aware of the fact that the modern laundry of today can be trusted with the finest linens of the household, and is by far the most sanitary place to send your garments to.

The tremenduous increase in business of the Steam Laundries in the United States in the last five years is ample proof that the housewives of today are gradually learning of the advantages of having experts do up all their soiled linens, which formerly gave her so much worry and caused so much backache the fore part of the week.

The Laundrymen's National Association has, as one of its main objects, that of teaching their members how to best launder clothing and not injure the fabric, and through their efforts we have learned to eliminate all injurious chemicals, and the purest soap you will find is what the laundry men use.

We invite you all, and especially the ladies, to visit our plant and convince themselves that our plant is clean and sanitary.

FARM CONTESTS FOR YOUNGSTERS

Industrial Competition Made More Extensive For the Coming Summer.

CORN, SPUDS, PIGS, CALVES

Domestic Science Exhibit For Girls Will Be Particularly Featured With Special Stress on Bread-making.

Tentative plans for the Pennington county Industrial Contests for Boys and Girls were made at a meeting held at the commercial club between Supt. J. H. Hay of the city schools, professor Fred Werner of the agricultural department and the secretary, F. T. Lincoln.

The scope of the contests has been broadened to include corn and potato growing, pig and calf raising and contests in the domestic science course, special stress being laid on breadmaking. Pennington county boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 18 years will be eligible and it is probable that a tier of townships in southern Marshall county will be included in the territory.

The commercial club has volunteered to furnish a quantity of native grown seed corn and a number of prominent land men will contribute seed so this feature is assured of success so far as securing good seed is concerned.

Good seed potatoes will be available and the committee will insist that at least one eighth of an acre is planted to this crop. Prizes will be given and a grand rally and round-up of the boys and girls of the county will be held at the Auditorium and Commercial club rooms in the fall after the Pennington county fair. Local business men will contribute to the prizes and handsome recognition of the efforts of the youthful farmers and stockmen as well as the "litte women" of the county who will vie with each other in breadmaking, is assured.

Supt. Hay and Professor Werner will make their tour of the district adjacent to Thief River Falls in the near future and will visit different schools, outline the plan and sign up those who care to enter the several contests.

Professor T. A. Erickson, state leader of Boys and Girls clubs, will be here about April first and the contestants will be invited in to meet him and hear a detailed account of the plan of the contest. They will be entertained at the Commercial club.

Professor N. A. Chapman, "Uncle Norton" to many, poultry expert of the extension division of the State University, has accepted an invitation to visit Thief River Falls at that time and a county poultry association will be formed.

A meeting of the representatives of the county fair association, agricultural department of the high school and the Commercial club will be held to decide upon final details after the preliminary work has been done. This promises to be the most important and extensive movement in the interests of agricultural effort among the younger people of the county ever undertaken here.

Carlson Busy At Stephen.

Contractor C. M. Carlson and C. W Ackerman, manager of the Thief River Manufacturing company, spent Wednesday at Stephen, where the former was attending to matters connected with the erection of the $30,000 school building. Mr. Ackerman expects to secure the millwork for the structure.

The Proof

DON'T accept claims or opinions. Every man selling an automobile will tell you his car can be run at low cost.

He'll tell you this because he knows and you know that gasoline, oil and tires are costing more and more all the time. He knows and you should know that the operating cost of any automobile during five years' time is worth your careful consideration.

We don't give you any guesswork. We tell you what we know. We state the facts and figures—proved and verified figures. Here they are:

Maxwell World's Non-Stop Record Facts

Miles without a motor stop	22,023
Average miles per day (44 days)	500.6
Miles per gallon of gasoline	21.88
Miles per gallon of oil	400
Average miles per tire	9,871

Most Maxwell owners get even better results than these but we are just giving the actual figures set when the Maxwell stock touring car broke the World's Motor Non-Stop Record.

When you get your Maxwell you can be sure it will give you economical service —probably far more economical than these figures indicate. But to be sure that you can get your Maxwell, ORDER NOW.

We have a few here but don't know when we can get more. Freight cars are scarce and the Maxwell factories, in spite of doubled production, are away behind in shipments.

EXPERT WILL DISCUSS VALUE OF PEAT LANDS

Prof. Alway, Soil Expert, University, of Minnesota, Will Be Here on March 25.

An important meeting for the discussion of the treatment of peat lands is scheduled for Friday, March 24, at the Commercial club rooms, when Professor Alway, soil expert of the State University will meet with business men of the city and farmers of this locality.

Professor Alway will discuss the subject generally, going into the treatment of low lands and lands having a peat surface but strong sub-soil, capable of heavy production. While it is a fact that the so-called peatlands are many miles north and east of this section of the state, local men are interested in their development and it has always been maintained by soil experts that by scientific treatment these lands may be doubled and even tripled in value.

Professor Hoverstad, formerly of the Agricultural station at Crookston and now agricultural commissioner of the Soo railroad, will also be here at this time and will discuss land development generally. The brisk demand for lands in Pennington county and availability of the lowlands beyond its boundaries for agricultural purposes has served as an incentive to keener investigation as to the possibilities of these lands under proper treatment.

MOST LAUGHABLE OF ALL PLAYS TO BE PRESENTED

"What Happened to Jones" By Local Talent At Auditorium On Friday, March 24.

That the Auditorium will be filled with a capacity house Friday, March 24 to see just what did "Happen to Jones" seems assured, judging from the interest being shown in the production by a local cast made up of the best talent in the city and from all reports the players are rounding out what is certain to be a finished production of this three-act comedy, with a bushel of laughs distributed every two minutes, not a dull moment and a sure cure for the blues. A glance at the synopsis of the comedy is interesting.

Anthony Goodly, Austere Professor of Anatomy, attends prize fight "purely in interest of science" at the instigation of Richard Heatherly, who is in love with his daughter, and the professor becoming interested in the proceedings, offers to bet $500.00 on the kid which causes a riot and police raid the fight.

Richard and the Professor are followed by Jones and in turn they are followed by a policeman who is assaulted by Jones. Richard and the professor climb into the window of the professor's home while Jones puts the officer to sleep with a blow on the jaw and the professor is then compelled to harbor Jones to keep the secret of attending the prize fight from his family, Jones being compelled to impersonate the Bishop of Ballerat, brother of the professor, who is expected as a visitor.

The complications arising out of this deception, bring about conditions that are met with at every turn by the quick-witted Jones. The comedy is of the highest order and can only be appreciated by witnessing the production. Helma, the Swedish servant girl, being bribed by Jones, advises the officer that neither Jones nor the professor had left the house that evening.

Upon the arrival of the real Bishop, he is taken for Bigbee, an escaped inmate of an insane asylum and is hustled to the sanatorium. Jones becomes more and more complicated as the action continues, being mistaken by Alvina Starlight, who had flirtation by correspondence with the Bishop, as her affinity, and the method in which Jones extricates himself from each and every complication, is noteworthy of the wit of the author. The comedy is of the highest order and can only be appreciated by witnessing the production.

Honored Resident Called.

Saave Brokke, 70 years of age, died at his home, 421 Duluth avenue south, on March 9, of bright's disease, after an illness of about three months.

Mr. Brokke was born February 12, 1846, in Norway. Coming to America while yet a young man he settled on a farm near Buxton, N. D., where he remained until 1896, when he removed with his family to Grand Forks. He remained in that city for five years, when he took up land on the Deminished reservation, being one of the first settlers in that section. He was postmaster at Thorwick until that office was discontinued and was a man most highly regarded by everyone with whom he had dealings. In October, 1914. Mr. Brokke came with his family to Thief River Falls, where he continued to reside until his death.

Deceased is survived by his wife and seven children, the latter being: Mrs. Nels Gunderson, T. S. Brokke and Miss Anna Brokke, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Tillie Runnestrand, Thorwick; Ben Brokke and Mrs. J. H. Niemann, Little Rock, Ark., and Mrs. George A. Fritz, St. Paul.

The funeral services were held on Monday and interment made at Silver Creek cemetery, Thorwick, Rev. I. T. Aastad, officiating.

STOCK SHIPPERS READY FOR FIRST CONSIGNMENT

Bond of Resident Manager Approved And Other Preliminary Work Completed.

The organization of the Thief River Falls Shippers association was this week completed by the approving of the bonds of R. L. Muzzy as resident manager. The directors of the association, J. B. Conner, Ed. Groundhaus, Hans Anton, A. G. Loftness and Harry Woolson, announce that the new organization is now in readiness to make its first shipment any time the farmers bring their stock in for the purpose. An announcement in another column of this issue, requests all shippers who wish to take advantage of facilities offered by the association to notify the manager as to the kind of stock, when delivery can be made and approximate weight. Mr. Muzzy will then be on hand to receive, weigh and receipt for same upon its arrival here.

To judge from the interest taken in this shippers association by farmers, the new system of marketing stock will prove very popular. The history of similar associations elsewhere has been that they are a great convenience and saving to those disposing of stock, and it will be the fault of the stock raisers themselves if this does not prove the case here.

Married In Minneapolis.

The relatives and friends of William Provencher, for many years a resident of Thief River Falls, were surprised when the news reached them this week that he had taken unto himself a wife. The bride was Miss Edith De Forrest of Litchfield, and the ceremony took place at the home of her parents in Litchfield, on March 1. Mr. Provencher who is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Julien Provencher of the Evelyn hotel has been a resident of Minneapolis since leaving hére, and his bride has also been employed in the Mill City, being bookkeeper in the offices of the Milwaukee railroad. The couple will continue to make their home in Minneapolis. The many friends of the groom in this city will wish the couple all prosperity and happiness.

toe, right there,—don't be afraid,—that's it,—feel how smooth the skin is? Well, that's where the corn was. Well, that beats all!" That's the way "Gets-It" works on all corns, every corn, every time. It's the new, simple way of curing corns. You'll say good-bye to all foolish contraptions like bundling bandages, sticky tape, plasters, toe-eating salves, and grave-diggers such as knives, razors and scissors. "Gets-It" stops pain. Applied in 2 seconds. Never fails. Nothing to stick to, hurt or press on the corn.

Sold in Thief River Falls and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by J. P. Curtis and F. J. Stebbins.

FEW VOTES CAST; MOSTLY CUMMINS

Iowa Senator Is Five To One Leader In Pennington County Primaries.

EBERHART AHEAD OF RAHN

With VanSant, Jacobson And Larson, He Will Form Delegation-at-Large From Minnesota.

Tuesday was primary election day in Minnesota, and a few people here and there who had nothing better or more important to attend to went to the polls and cast their votes. The result, as far as the head of the ticket was concerned, turned out just as everyone knew it would. Pennington county was expected to cast its vote for Eberhart in preference to Rahn and the balance was a foregone conclusion. The only good purpose served by the primary that anyone can see has been to spend quite a lot of the peoples' money. The entire performance was a joke.

Following is the vote in the county, with two precincts yet to hear from:

For President.

On Sunday one of those favorite Broadway Star features entitled "Youth" in three parts. On Monday, "The Strange Case of Mary Page," featuring Henry B. Walthall, the hero of the "Birth of a Nation," and Edna Mayo. Read the story in this issue of this paper. A Knickerbocker Star feature on Tuesday, "The Girl from Tim's Place," in three parts, starring Maude Fealey. These three-reel features are in a class by themselves.

Public Sale.

In another column will be found advertised the public sale of the personal property of Thomas O. Tweden estate. The place of sale is about two miles west of Kratka and the date Thursday, March 23. There is quite a lot of live stock to be disposed of at this auction, this including four horses, and two colts, and four cows. Besides this there is the usual amount of farm tools and household goods. The regulation terms will be offered purchasers by the First National bank, having charge of the sale.

BUILDING GUTTED BY FIRE TODAY

By throwing pails of water upon burning gasoline as the result of the gasoline stove being tipped over—spreading the blaze instead of quenching it—flames gutted the building occupied by Papberg & Heasley as a lunch room and soft drink parlor, 215 LaBree avenue, early this morning at 8:30 o'clock. The structure had been condemned by the state fire marshal last fall, and was to have been torn down. The Gopher Real Estate company of Duluth, through legal proceedings secured a stay of execution and no action was taken. The building is now damaged to such an extent that repairs will not be permitted to be made, and the razing process will undoubtedly begin soon.

Immediately after the alarm had been turned in the fire department was on the job and checked the flames in short order. The rear end of the building, used as a kitchen, was entirely destroyed while the adjoining room was badly scorched from heat.

The stock of Papberg & Heasley was completely destroyed by water and smoke. Christ Porter, who owned the back bar and fixtures together with many fine specimens of mounted deer, elk and moose heads, is the heaviest loser. His loss is estimated to be about $500.

The building is among the old landmarks of the city, which are rapidly making their disappearance, and was erected in 1892 by William Koepp.

The Open Court

Favors The Change.

Editor Times: I am a reader of your paper and I have been noticing what has been said by Mr. Hansen and others in regard to changing the name of the city. I think those who advocate the change are right. I notice some of the people say that the name "Thief River Falls," is no worse than that given to some other towns. That is true, but the reason that such names are kept is because no one has the courage to begin a movement for having them changed. I was in Iowa a short time ago, and some of my friends told me that they thought my town was properly named from what they had been reading of it. They spoke of the Soo depot being robbed, also of the four women being shot east of the city. I told them I did not live where the women were shot—I lived at Squaw point, and that Thief River Falls is located there. My friends said we probably had the thief and the squaw but lacked the point, and I believe they were right. I believe we should change that name "Thief" to some honest name.

G. W. Eastman.

Why Change The Name?

Editor Times—I do not think that the name of Thief attached to the name of our City will hurt the consicence of any honest man, and would suggest that the parties that are agitating the change of name, throw away their hammer and buy a horn, and help to boost the City of Thief River Falls—a name we all ought to be proud to write.

C. W. McDaniel.

Y. M. C. A.—Why?

It is a long story, and the time for writing is short, but because of the part that I and a few of my friends have taken which has started the talk and a little bit of activity of a Y. M. C. A. movement, I personally wish to say a bit in the way of further explanation.

It may be true that we have too many churches in Thief River Falls-- It may be true, yes it is true, that too many of the pews of the churches of Thief River Falls are not filled. It may also be true and is true that too many of the church members are not taking the active part in the church work that they should and is their duty.

It may be true that we have too many clubs, too many lodges, and too many associations in Thief River Falls—(?)

Thief River Falls is a large and a fast growing city, and the people of this city are full of ambition—and I question, have we too many churches, and too many lodges, clubs and organizations? i. e. too many lodges clubs and organizations of the kind that stand for a good cause.

Some few months ago Thief River Falls did have too many saloons. Yet these saloons were here for many years, and were kept here, because of being looked upon as a source of revenue, and for a common good of the people of Thief River Falls.

Why I have talked Y. M. C. A. is because of what I have seen among the young men and boys and because of what I have done myself in the way of drifting along with the tide—not so bad, but what it might have been worse. But, we, have had about fifteen saloons in Thief River Falls and we could support them. Why then can we not support ONE Young Men's Christian Association? I am glad that the saloons are gone out of Thief River Falls, and I hope that something good can be put in their places, and if nothing more is to be added, I do sincerely hope that the churches and the good clubs, lodges, organizations and associations that we now have can be built up to the highest standard, and that through them we may reap the results, the same results, if you please as our intention with the Y. M. C. A.—that from Thief River Falls shall come the best standard of man and manhood that the world can produce. That in Thief River Falls will live the kind of men that we need, that our state needs, that our nation needs, yes, that the world needs—the kind of men that will be a credit to the Stars and Stripes, the Red, White and the Blue.

We, or at least I, am satisfied, that something good has been accomplished through the efforts of those who have taken a part in the Y. M. C. A. movement in Thief River Falls, and that which has been done shall be remembered long.

Dave.

An Explanation.

Last week's issue of the Times contained a number of expressions from prominent people of the city with regard to changing the name of the city. Among them was that of Mr. W. A. Barnard. In quoting Mr. Barnard it was done in such a way that some might receive the impression that the city was referred to by him in a spirit of disrespect. The Times wishes to say that nothing was further from the evident intention of Mr. Barnard at the time of the interview and that if such impression can be gained from his words it is because of the rather wide latitude that the reported permitted himself to take. Mr. Barnard has, since he made this city his home, been a loyal "booster" for Thief River Falls and all know that he will continue to be one of the city's foremost citizens.

SOCIETY

The United Ladies' Aid will be entertained by Mrs. Martin Bothun and Joe Holmes next Wednesday afternoon, March 22, at 3 o'clock in the church basement.

* * *

Mrs. C. Gustafson entertained the Ladies' Aid of the Evangelical Mission church, at her home, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

* * *

Mrs. J. S. Turner entertained fourteen guests last Thursday at her apartments on La Bree avenue. The color note was in yellow with yellow tulips and place cards. Miss Margaret Miller assisted the hostess.

* * *

Miss Loren Dillon entertained the "Birthday Club" this afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. Kristina Brudvick, 118 Conley avenue south. After spending a very pleasant afternoon, light refreshments were served.

* * *

A company of men interested in the Presbyterian church met at the manse on last Thursday evening, March 9, and dined together. The dinner was served by a committee of the Ladies' Aid Society, who had prepared a very excellent menu. Music enlivened the social hour. After the company had partaken of the repast, Geo. L. Sterns president of the board of trustees, spoke concerning the work of the church. The financial condition of the church was analyzed and presented, showing that it would be desirable if $500 were raised to liquidate some extra expenses that had been incurred. The meeting approved an attempt to raise the above sum and subscribed a large part of it. Arrangements were made to secure the remainder as speedily as possible. The men anticipate a meeting in the not distant future to form some kind of an organization to co-operate with similar bodies in the city.

Mrs. J. E. Nelson, 903 Knight avenue north, was hostess to the Dorcas Society Tuesday evening. Games formed the evening's entertainment and a delicious lunch was served.

* * *

Mrs. G. Halvorson was hostess to sixteen ladies this afternoon at a St. Patrick's day party. Irish dances and sewing formed the afternoon's pleasures after which a delicious luncheon was served.

* * *

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church will be entertained next Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Louis Rayson and Mrs. V. C. Noper at the home of the former, 210 Kendall avenue south. All are welcome.

* * *

The "Even Twelve" club was entertained Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Prichard, Jr., at their home on Bridge street. A very enjoyable evening was spent and refreshments were served.

* * *

A regular meeting of the Woman's club will be held next Monday afternoon in the parlors at the library at 3:30 p. m. The program will be in charge of Miss Belle McKenzie, instructor of English in the Lincoln high school, who has chosen for her subject: "Modern Dramatic Poetry." The new piano, which has recently been purchased, will also be used.

* * *

On Tuesday evening the pupils of the youngest division of Ruth Chambrlain-Miller's school of piano, gave a recital at the public library. A large crowd was present and throughly enjoyed the work of the young performers. These were: Ruby Thompson, Alice Torgerson, Belva Torgerson, Mildred Engen, Murial Loken, Aeriel Kinghorn, Alice Mulry, Lois Nicholson, John Gambell, Irene Bauh, Palma Langseth, Lorene Sharp, Thelma Christenson, Viola Buringrud.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS TO ADDRESS LIVE STOCK MEN

County Association Meeting On March 25, Will Be of Unusual Importance.

A meeting of particular interest and importance to the stock raisers of Pennington county will be held at the Commercial club rooms in Thief River Falls on Saturday, March 25. Some of the most prominent stock experts in the state will be present to address the gathering and it is expected that at its close the Short Horn men of the county will hold a meeting. It is not understood, however, that the speakers will in any way devote themselves to one particular breed of cattle, this meeting being for the purpose of bringing together all the stock men of the county, no matter what class of cattle they may happen to favor, or whether they are dairy men or beef raisers.

Prof. H. R. Smith, agricultural commissioner of the Great Northern railway and formerly connected with the state college of agriculture, and Prof. T. A. Hoverstad, agricultural expert for the Soo road, will be present to address the meeting, as will D. McLaren of Wrenshall, Minn., an institute lecturer and prominent dairyman.

This will be an exceptional opportunity to give stock raising business of the county a decided boost, and it is hoped that the speakers will be greeted by a large number of interested farmers.

Short Court Session.

Judge Andrew Grindeland was here between trains on Tuesday evening, when he took up the matter of the bond of Jens Dahle, in jail on a manslaughter charge. A decision in the matter will be announced when he returns the last of the week. Judge Grindeland is at present holding court in Mahnomen county.

Whist Date Changed.

The second whist game of the series inaugurated by the Commercial club will be held on Tuesday evening of next week instead of Monday as announced elsewhere. Other business makes it impossible for many of the contestants to be present on the first-named evening.

Farmer's Club Program.

The North Star Farmer's club met in the school-house Friday evening. March 10th.

The following program was rendered:

Song: "Old Folks at Home"—Girls' Chorus.

Reading—Edwin Haug.

Song: "Old Black Joe"—Girls' Chorus.

It was resolved to write to Mr. J. W. Witham, who travels for the State Federation of Farmer's clubs, to come and give an address.

It was decided to hold a rag ball party at the next Farmers' club meeting. The girls will bring the rag balls, and the boys bring the money.

The club adjourned to meet March 24th, 1916.

The Spink Hardware company has this week been busy getting in shape at the new store on Third street opposite the Evelyn hotel. All the goods are now in place, however, and the store presents a neat, inviting appearance. This fine new store has already attracted many buyers and will without doubt, prove successful from the start.

St. Hilaire News

I. O. O. F. Lodge Entertains.

Grand Master F. M. Payne and Grand Secretary A. L. Boulton of the Minnesota Grand I. O. O. F. Lodge, together with a large representation from the Thief River Falls I. O. O. F. lodge, were the guests of the local Odd Fellows at this place Wednesday evening. The distinguished guests were met at the train Wednesday evening by a number of the local I. O. O. F. members. The band boys greeted the guests by rendering several very fine selections in their honor. During the regular session of the lodge Wednesday evening, Andrew Berkhall received the initiatory degree, which was conferred upon him by the newly organized degree team. At the close of the business session a banquet was served by the Odd Fellows with the assistance of their wives and daughters. Grand Master Payne, responding to Chairman Wilson's call for remarks, gave a very interesting discourse on Odd Fellowship and its philanthropy. Grand Secretary Boulton also honored us with a few humorous remarks and urged the ladies of the Odd Fellows' families to organize a Rebekah lodge, stating that the Odd Fellow lodge without the sister Rebekahs was similar to an old bachelor without a mate. Other remarks were given by C. L. Hansen and Dr. C. Swanson. The visiting members from Thief River Falls returned home the same evening, and the condition of the weather at the time of their departure was very unfavorable for such a drive. Members were expected from the Red Lake Falls lodge also, but owing to the poor roads it was impossible for them to be present. Grand Master Payne and Grand Secretary Boulton remained in St. Hilaire until Thursday morning.

Village Caucus.

The annual village caucus held here in the village hall Saturday, March 16, was largely attended, seventy-six citizens being present. More than a passing interest was shown and several very lively runs for office occurred. The fact that things were astir was proven when an entirely new council, except the treasurer, was nominated and elected on the caucus ticket. The caucus ticket was as follows: A. J. Hed, president; R. J. McKercher, Adolph Satterberg, J. C. Dahl, trustees; A. F. Hall, recorder; and B. E. Burkee, treasurer.

Village Election.

The village election held in the village hall Tuesday, March 14, proved an interesting and an exciting one. One hundred and fifteen votes were cast which is one of the largest on record in St. Hilaire in recent years. There were two tickets in the field, the regular caucus ticket and a new one, "The Peoples' Ticket." Although there were some very close runs for several different offices, the caucus ticket was victorious.

New Motion Pictures.

S. S. Benson, manager of the Imperial opera house, has changed films and is now procuring the Universal films and will show twice a week as usual except for the fact that the regular evenings for the performances are changed and he will now show every Wednesday and Saturday evening, commencing this week. The first pictures of the Universal films were shown last Friday and the large audience present was well satisfied with the result.

Prominent Local Boy Leaves Town.

William Lindahl, a popular local boy, and a highly qualified creamery man, left Saturday for Ross, where he has a position as butter-maker. Mr. Lindahl is well thought of in this vicinity and will be greatly missed by the St. Hilaire Peerless orchestra of which he was cornetist. The St. Hiliare people wish him success in his new vocation.

Surprise Party.

A very pleasant surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. Peter Simonson last Saturday afternoon, when a number of her lady friends called at her home and spent a very pleasant afternoon. The ladies had previously planned a surprise for Mrs. Simonson on her birthday last fall but owing to other circumstances were obliged to postpone it until later. The ladies determined, however, not to be hindered, and although their plans were retarded somewhat, they believed in the old maxim: "Better late than never," and proved it to be true by enjoying the afternoon immensely.

Swedish Congregation Serve Supper.

The members of the Ladies' Aid of the Swedish Mission church served supper at the Mike Anderson building last Saturday evening. A large crowd patronized the supper and it was a clear case of everyone getting their money's worth as the "spread" was bountiful. In the evening the ladies held an auction sale of towels, aprons, linens, and fancy work. The display of fancy articles was very pretty and all pieces were bought quickly.

Lyon Dramatic Shows.

The Lyon Dramatic company, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Lyon, their son, Edward and daughter, "Gypsy," who have been in town the greater part of last week, showed here Wednesday and Thursday of last week. The performance Wednesday evening was very good and enjoyed by all present, but owing to the I. O. O. F. lodge entertaining that evening the audience was not large. A larger crowd was present Thursday evening and after the performance the chairs were cleared away, and Edward Lyon and his sister, with the assistance of Mrs. Long, furnished music for a social dance.

Moving Pictures and Lecture.

Next Monday evening, March 20, at the Imperial hall, Leslie J. Dietz will show the "Dietz Battle of Cameron Dam" in three reels of moving pictures and will lecture at the same time, showing how his father's rights were trampled on by a large lumber concern, near Cameron Dam, Wisconsin. The pictures show actual pictures taken on the Dietz farm and will be very interesting to all who remember the Dietz case. The governor of Wisconsin commutted John Dietz's sentence last December and the son is now working for a complete pardon for his father.

Big Dance.

A big dance is to be given at the Imperial hall Friday evening, March 17th by the Noetzel orchestra, that has been traveling about the country this winter and have played in a good many towns near St. Hilaire. We are promised good music and a good time is assured.

TOO MUCH SNOW HAMPERS DITCH APPRAISERS WORK

Viewers Forced to Ask For Extension of Time On Ditch Number 42.

Fred Zaiser of Red Lake Falls, K. O. Gigstad of St. Hilaire, and Paul Borgie of Hazel, appointed appraisers on Judicial Ditch No. 42, were in town the first of the week on business pertaining to their work. They have been forced to apply to the district court for an extension of time in which to make their report because of the deep snow along the route of the proposed ditch. They were originally ordered to have their work done by April 10, but no report they could make at that time would be reliable. Even a moderate snowfall would greatly hinder them in making their investigations, while with the amount now on the ground any attempt at accurate work would be next to impossible.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Advice of This Thief River Falls Woman is of Certain Value.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.

Many Thief River Falls women know this.

Read what one has to say about it:

Mrs. P. Eberhardt, 215 Atlantic avenue north, Thief River Falls, says: "I suffered from weak kidneys. My back was lame and ached badly and bothered me for some time. When I did any washing or heavy work, I suffered more severely. Soon after using Doan's Kidney Pills, I felt better and it wasn't long before they rid me of the trouble. I have always tried to keep Doan's Kidney Pills in the house and when I don't feel just right, I can depend on them to give me quick relief. Last winter I had a pain in my back and felt sick all over, as the result of a cold. Doan's Kidney Pills soon made me feel all right."

Mogul 8-16 Price Announcement

The Real Kerosene Tractor

ON and after April 1st the price of the Mogul 8-16 will be $725 cash f. o. b. Chicago. All sales made and bona fide orders taken up to April 1st will be filled at the present price of $675 cash f. o. b. Chicago. We want to post you ahead of time on the coming change.

Mogul 8-16, as you know, is the famous tractor that has cut fuel costs squarely in half—operates on cheap, common kerosene or coal oil—doesn't have to be the highest grade either. It pays for itself in the saving over gasoline. That is why the rise in price—necessary because cost of raw materials has risen so high—is of minor importance.

Mogul 8-16 is saving and making profit on thousands of farms of all sizes. It will do much more for you than your horses can. Get in your order now—be ready for spring work. See the dealer who sells the Mogul 8-16.

TEN TABLES FIRST NIGHT

Score Stands 283 to 277, Both Teams Coming Out of Fray Fresh And Eager For More.

The whist tournament of the Thief River Falls Commercial club is on and he is a wise man who can foretell the outcome. He is also very reckless, not to say foolhardy, if he attempts such a feat, because any player on either team will gladly put in three or four hours convincing him that the result of the first night's play is no criterion. The Crandall supporters maintain that they did not wish to lead in the first engagement for fear of discouraging their opponents entirely, while those under the leadership of Herrick claim that they were ashamed to take more than they did. However that may be, the result was close enough to bother even President Johnson, whose bias in favor of the Crandall clan has become notorious.

Ten tables were in play, four games being counted a series. The score resulted 283 for Herrick and 277 for Crandall. To the side of the former belong both the high and low scores, the first going to the team composed of Anderson and McDonald, while the low tally was acheived after much travail by a team refusing to put their names on the score card.

The play resulted as follows. For convenience the Times has numbered the different tables:

Table No. 2: For Herrick—Olson and Bordewick, 38; for Crandall—Bothun and A. M. Langseth, 16.

Table No. 5: For Herrick—Bishop and Halverson, 31; for Crandall—McCormick and Devenny, 29.

Table No. 8: For Herrick—Plummer and George, 15; for Crandall—Booreen and Johnson, 27.

Monday evening's game was only the preliminary skirmish. Partners were only feeling each other out and perfecting signals. The real playing is scheduled to commence next Monday evening at the same time and place.

VALUE OF SHERMAN ACT GONE, SAYS STEENERSON

Water Supply Fails And For a Time Entire City is Threatened With Destruction.

The price of gasoline is receiving considerable attention in congress these days. Representative Steenerson of this district, who introduced a resolution some time ago asking the Attorney General to inform the House why he has not prosecuted the oil companies under the anti-trust laws, expects to speak on his resolution in a few days.

"I am told that the district attorneys throughout the country have been instructed to be on the lookout for the oil companies," says Steenerson. "Recently I heard that the district attorney in Chicago is investigating the prices of gasoline. I expect, however, to show that the Clayton act has destroyed the effectiveness of the Sherman anti-trust law, and makes it impossible for the Department of Justice to break up the monopoly.

The Washington Times of March 9, gives considerable prominence to the Ninth district congressman, printing the complete text of his resolution together with a large picture of the Minnesota lawmaker.

MUST MAIL BALLOTS IF TEN MILES FROM TOWN

Election Officers Cannot Collect Mileage If Further Than This From City.

There has always been some question as to the distance for which mileage could be collected by an election official coming to the county seat for the ballots and for the delivery of same after election. County Auditor Anderson has just received a communication from Public Examiner Andrew E. Fritz, fully explaining the law in this respect. Mr. Fritz states that the law now provides that "Where the polling place is more than ten miles from the auditor's office, he shall send the ballots and supplies to village and town clerks, and judges of election in unorganized towns, by registered mail or express. If the polling place is within ten miles of the auditor's office, then such clerks and judges may go there to receive the ballots and supplies and receive one dollar and mileage therefor. Those persons receiving ballots and supplies by mail are not allowed any compensation therefor. In making returns the same distance limit applies, so that where the polling place is within ten miles of the auditor's office the judges may make the returns in person and receive compensation at the same rate as above. Otherwise these documents must be mailed, the officer being allowed one dollar and mileage to the nearest post office.

HOLSTEIN BREEDERS TO SECURE BLOODED SIRES

A meeting of the Pennington County Holstein Breeders association was held at the Commercial club rooms on Saturday, at which about a dozen fanciers of this breed of stock attended. The gathering was informal and principally for the purpose of talking over the advisability of securing pure bred sires for the different herds represented. A number of those present signified their intention of securing a sire of this description from some well-known and tested strain and it is probable that at least eight registered bulls will be added to the county's pure bred stock census before summer is far advanced.

Secretary F. T. Satre of the association, as well as other members, are securing lists of offerings made at the spring sales and will visit several of these with a view to securing the best available. Two or three members will go to Moorhead shortly to look at the offerings made there. Upon their return another meeting will be held at which reports will be made and further steps taken.

The Holsteins are fast becoming very popular among dairy men in the country. These cattle hold the last three championships over all classes in production, and certain individuals are among the highest priced cattle in the world.

NEW BANK BUILDINGS AT STRANDQUIST AND HALMA

Thief River Falls Architect Completes Plans For Fine Modern Structures.

Architect Joseph C. Lutz has during the past week received word to the effect that the plans submitted by him for two different bank buildings in this neighborhood have been accepted and bids for the work will be opened in the near future.

One of these buildings is for the Farmers and Merchants State Bank at Strandquist. This will be a face brick and cut stone structure, 25x62 feet, two stories high, and the cost will be about $5,000. The bids on this work will be opened at Strandquist on April 1, and the plans may be seen at the office of the architect after March 15.

The Halma State Bank will be a similar building, although somewhat smaller and costing $4,000, exclusive of the fixtures and movable furniture. Plans for this structure may be seen at the office of Mr. Lutz after March 15, and the bids will be opened at Halma on April 10.

Both of these bank buildings are to be strictly modern in every respect. The interior finishing, fixtures and banking appliances are to be of the latest and most approved character and design, and the structures will, when completed, add materially to the appearance and importance of the hustling communities of which they are to become a part.

SCHOOL NOTES

Miss Davies of the Lincoln school was called home to Devils Lake last Friday by the sudden death of her father. Miss Russell of the Knox, was also called to Fargo the early part of last week, by the illness and subsequent death of a near relative. These ladies have the sympathy of the school people in their sad experience.

The agricultural department of the high school, working in conjunction with the Commercial club and the Pennington county fair association, is organizing contests in calf and pig raising, acre corn and potato growing and breadmaking. The State also cooperates in these movements. An article appears in another column explaining this proposition in detail.

Inter-class basketball games are holding the attention of the students every afternoon this week at the gym immediately following the close of the afternoon sessions. The senior team will leave for Northfield next week to participate in the state championship games. Carleton college pays all local expenses and the railway fares within a radius of two hundred miles.

The total enrollment to date in the various buildings is: Washington, 442; Auditorium, 31; Knox 354; high school, 352; Central, 328; Total 1507.

Leo W. Marden, commanding sergeant of the Police Juvenile Bureau of Los Angeles, has been in charge of the city's juvenile probation work for eight years. He has become a careful student of juvenile crime and he makes this statement: "I find that over ninety per cent of the boys under twenty-one years of age who are arrested and brought to my office are cigarette smokers. The prisoners are, almost without exception, stunted in growth and underdeveloped in mind. Therefore, cigarettes must have something to do with crime, and it is my idea to treat the cause of the crime."

Never in the experience of the local schools have substitutes been required to the extent they have been employed this year. This is largely due to illness.

The following outline is the basis of work in the 6th grade for March:

Arithmetic, measures of volume, lumber, wood; begin percentage to written work. Geography, Pacific coast group; Dependencies of the United States. Language, descriptions and letters; Nouns, Pronouns and Adjectives—their choice and use. History, Slavery question brings on civil war; the war for the Union on land and on sea. Spelling, twenty new words daily. Reading, Stepping Stones to Literature, Baldwin's Sixth Reader. Writing, minimum letters, c, r, s, w, v. Review, m, n, o, a.

It is announced that Pelican Rapids has lost the state aids for its schools this year, for the reason that the board of education and the district failed to make needed improvements in their buildings. The state aid is always and only granted when certain requirements as to light, heat, ventilation, sanitation and rooms are complied with. Thief River Falls enjoys the distinction of securing all the state aid it is possible for a high school to receive and, as a matter of news, the list is herewith submitted:

State apportionment of $5.80 per capita on 1,350 (estimated) pupils entitled to draw aid, $7,830; Normal training, $2,000; Commercial, $600; Domestic Science, $600; Manual training, $600; consolidated aid, $500; tuition, (estimated) $750; consolidated building aid (in case building is done,) $2,000; transportation, (estimated) $400, all paid by the state; one-third of all taxation in excess of a 20 mill levy to a maximum of $2,500; regular high school aid, $1,800. Total aid given according to this is $21,480.

RETURNS TO VISIT AFTER FIVE YEARS IN ALASKA

Dr. H. O. Schaleben, Former Resident, Pays Visit to Old Friends.

About five years ago, Dr. H. O. Schaleben, then a practicing physician of Thief River Falls, left for Alaska, being appointed as superintendent of schools of the southwestern section of the territory. He returned last week for a short visit, having business to transact in this neighborhood. Dr. Schaleben has evidently found the country to the north to his liking and has prospered. Alaska papers of about six weeks ago contained the information that he had secured some valuable claims in the Willow creek district for certain Minnesota capitalists, and it is in connection with these that he is now in this section.

Dr. Schaleben was present at the meeting of the Commercial club on Thursday evening and expressed himself as surprised at the progress made by Thief River Falls during his absence. He said that although he was raised in the southern part of the state, this city always seemed to him like home and that he would always consider it so. He complimented the members of the club upon their enterprise and apparent prosperity and stated that he was not at all sure that he had bettered his condition by going to Alaska.

Dr. Schaleben was a guest at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Crandall while here.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Rural School Notes

The high school board examinations for the rural schools will be held on Thursday, March 23rd and Friday, March 25. On Thursday the examinations are in Spelling, English Grammar, American History. On Friday examinations will be taken in Aritmetic, Eighth Grade Composition, and Geography.

The next H. S. Board examination will be held beginning with May 26th.

Examinations will be held in nineteen school districts in the county as designated by the following places, and examination will be in charge of the teacher designated by the district number. Owing to the fact that sets of examination questions cannot be furnished in a sufficient number to supply all teachers wanting them; certain schools will be grouped together for the purpose of taking the examinations. The teacher in charge of the school will receive the questions and direct the examination for the whole school. The attending teachers will mark the examination papers and certify to them for their respective pupils and report to the County Superintendent the result of the examination, that is the sending of the papers by the 31st of March. The examiners will kindly read carefully the rules and instructions governing the examinations. The school districts where examinations will take place and the teacher in charge are as follows:

School Dist. No. 4	Lilly M. Boehm
School District No. 25	Huldah Fossum
Note:—Teachers and pupils of districts No. 219 and No. 2 will meet in district No. 25 for examinations.

The Strange Case of MARY PAGE

The Great McClure Mystery Story, Written by FREDERICK LEWIS In Collaboration With JOHN T. M'INTYRE, Author of the Ashton Kirk Detective Stories. Read the Story and See the Essanay Moving Pictures

First Episode

MARY'S DEFENSE

AS Philip Langdon's car threaded its way through the heavy traffic, dodging drays and clamorous trolleys on its way toward the grim building where so many tragedies are staged by "the law" the young attorney felt his heart sink into engulfing waves of doubt and fear.

For the first time since the beginning of the trial he had lost his buoyant hope, his tremendous faith in his ability to prove Mary Page innocent and if need be to snatch her from a cell by the sheer power of his love.

The evidence was so overwhelming, so irrefutable. And Mary herself utterly unable to explain those last tragic moments. He knew she couldn't remember—couldn't explain. But the jury would not be convinced. He realized that.

Over and over in his brooding mind he saw again the tragedy of that night when the body of James Pollock, the clubman and wine agent, had been found with a bullet in its heart and beside it the unconscious figure of Mary Page. Between them had lain that revolver with its one accusatory empty chamber, the revolver that Mary herself admitted she had carried

That Mary was innocent he had never doubted. His love was too great to admit of doubt, but he was a lawyer, and now he saw only too clearly that his defense might prove unconvincing in the face of the damnatory facts—first, that Mary had hated and feared James Pollock, who forced his attentions upon her; second, that she had carried the revolver hidden in the front of her dress when she went into the anteroom where Pollock was waiting, and, third, that the shooting had occurred directly after the door had closed upon the two of them.

If he, Langdon, had only been five minutes earlier—that was the acid that ate into his soul. If he had only reached that door five minutes sooner perhaps that fatal shot would never have been fired.

He wondered irritably why it was that the public, and that portion of it that comprised the jury, couldn't see how improbable it was that Mary would have ruined her career in such a fashion, however much she hated Pollock. It was inconceivable that a girl who at the falling of the curtain at 11 o'clock had touched the goal for which she had striven and been hailed as the greatest star of the century could have killed a man of her own accord at midnight and watched the dawn come from a cell in the Tombs.

He knew how much her career had meant to Mary. How close to her heart was the triumph and the fame, and to lose it this way—

He sighed heavily, then, realizing that they were approaching the Tombs and that to the world at least he must be the confident attorney, he straightened his shoulders and forced a smile to his lips.

Close to the curb two women were listening while a third read aloud from the early edition of an afternoon paper, stippling the monotony of her tones by ejaculations and questions.

From his car Langdon could plainly see the huge headlines two women were reading:

LOVER'S LAST FIGHT FOR LIFE.

State's Case Against Famous Actress Almost Complete — Young Lawyer Fights Final Hopeless Battle.

With a shudder of aversion Langdon dragged his eyes away. The notoriety of it was almost as bitter to him as the awful overshadowing fear. He hated to think that Mary's name should be dragged in the mud of common gossip as an actress who had shot a millionaire in the anteroom of a huge hotel, while just outside the door, amid laughter and music and lights, the great world indulged in supper dancing. He hated the thought that his love for Mary had become a spicy morsel to be rolled on the tongues of the general public, but, after all, what he had to bear was pitifully small compared to the burden on Mary's own slim shoulders.

"Here's Langdon!" And the whole throng of men and women came surging toward him, sweeping him into the current of a wave of humanity. Jostling and staring, they flung a thousand questions at him, pulled at his arms and pressed against him until at last the impregnable doors clanged behind him, leaving him breathless with a feeling of being bruised and battered mentally as well as physically.

The quiet of the prison was almost like peace for the moment, but he knew that beyond that pool of silence in which he stood another clamorous throng surged about the door of the court and filled the room itself—thousands of them, some men and many women; voracious for sensation, glutted with the lure of this tremendous tragedy that was being played for them by living puppets. The law had indeed discovered the secret that every theatrical manager sighs to know—"what the public wants."

With a word or two to the officials, Langdon went hurriedly down the echoing corridors to Mary's cell; past row after row of monotonous barred doors, from behind which faces peered out with idle curiosity—faces, savage, despairing, dull with indifference or ravaged by tears. But they meant nothing to Langdon, for heart and brain alike were speeding on ahead of him to that distant narrow room where Mary waited.

At the cell door he halted and quickly removed his hat, unbidden tears springing to his eyes, for Mary was kneeling like a little child, her head in her mother's lap, and the elder woman was praying aloud:

"And God give us strength to go through this day and grant justice to this, my child!"

"Justice, dear God, justice!" echoed Mary. And no artistry of the great actress could have given to that simple prayer the poignancy that a great faith and a great sorrow gave to it.

Then they spied Langdon, and Mary, jumping up, gave a cry of joy and ran into his arms. He held her tightly, and the actress in her would have applauded if she had known the effort that lay back of his cheery greeting, his word of hope and the tender smile with which he put into her hand white roses to pin against her dark frock.

"I think we had better go on into court now," he said as she drew the blossoms through her belt. "The men are waiting, and it's about time, you know."

For an instant Mary shuddered and clung to him with closed eyes.

"If I could only be there without going across that awful bridge," she sighed. "Somehow the people are less terrible when they are sitting down and keeping quiet."

"I know, dear, I know," said Langdon sadly. "I wish to God I could spare you, but it's really only their way of expressing sympathy, and I'll give you a happy thought to say to yourself when you cross today. Just look straight ahead and say over and over: 'Today Philip begins my defense Today we will begin to prove my innocence.' "

"Then you think"—cried Mrs. Page.

"The state will undoubtedly rest its case this morning," he answered gravely. "Our chance is coming now."

"Oh, then I shan't mind anything," cried Mary and, kissing him, lifted her lovely head.

And now the end was almost come. The last witness for the state was called to the stand, and Langdon drew a deep breath. Unless some one was called in rebuttal he knew that now the final stone was to be laid in that carefully built tower of evidence against Mary Page.

"If I could only be there without going across that awful bridge."

The police had sworn that they saw Mary threaten James Pollock with a revolver in the park that afternoon Employees of the theater had testified to her fear of his attentions; her own maid had been forced to admit with faltering tongue that her mistress had cried out that he was a devil, and she wished he was dead. Waiters and innumerable patrons of the Hotel Republic, revelling in the publicity, had told gloatingly of having seen Mary Page, drunk apparently, reel from the cafe on the night of the murder and go directly to the anteroom where James Pollock was waiting. And now the last man was on the stand—the hotel detective who, together with Langdon himself, had found the dead man with his living but unconscious companion.

The monotonous questions of name and age and occupation were rattled off swiftly enough, and then the detective, with the ease of one used to testimony, gave a brief resume of how he had first been called by the head waiter, to whom complaints had been made of the riotous behavior of a big supper party from one of the theaters.

"We found Mary Page lying in a faint."

"It was a pretty noisy bunch," he said coolly. "But they didn't seem to be doing any harm, so I just stood at the door watching them, and presently James Pollock came in.

"He was in evening dress," he continued, "and he called a bellhop and gave him a message, pointing out the young lady who was sitting at the head of the table with the noisy party."

"Was that young lady Miss Page?" asked the district attorney, indicating Mary with a jerk of his head.

"It was," said the detective firmly. "Then Mr. Pollock went down to what we call the little gray room and, going in, shut the door. The bellhop started into the dining room, but almost before he'd taken a step the young lady, Miss Page, threw her wineglass on the floor with a hysterical sort of laugh and came reeling out of the room with her hands stretched out, as if she didn't know where she was going.

"I turned away to call one of the maids to take charge of her, and when I came back she was making straight for the gray room, walking as firmly as if she'd never had a drink in her life. She went in and shut the door, and a minute afterward Mr. Langdon there comes flying out of the cafe and shouts:

" 'Which way did Miss Page go?

" 'In the gray room,' I answered, and with that he ran toward it, with me beside him, but before we got there we heard a shot, and"— He paused, enjoying to the full the sensation of the moment and the tense whispering wave of sound that quivered through the crowded room. "When we had broken in the door we found James Pollock shot through the heart and Mary Page lying in a faint beside him with a revolver not six inches from the ends of her fingers."

Mary, who had been watching him as if fascinated, quailed from that curt, almost vindictive, description of the finding of the bodies of the living and the dead, and, resting her arms on the edge of the dock, she buried her face in them and for the first time sobbed bitterly.

A murmur of sympathy arose, and several people stood up, only to be rudely pushed back into their seats by those behind. And now the district attorney, going to the grewsome array of "exhibits" in the case, picked up the revolver and, showing it to the jury, put it into the detective's hands.

"Is this the revolver," he demanded dramatically, "and is the prisoner the woman whom you found locked in the room with the dead body of James Pollock?"

"Yes," answered the detective. And at the word the pencils of the reporters began to spin like mad across the flaring yellow of their copy paper, and a gasp of dismay wrung from some woman's throat faded into a stifled sob.

One of the jurors blew his nose loudly, and two or three exchanged significant glances, and Langdon, the sweat beginning to bead his forehead, knew that they had already made up their minds that Mary was guilty.

The detective, released, stepped down from the witness box, and now the district attorney turned smilingly to the judge and said, with an oratorical flourish:

"Your honor, the state rests!"

The last stone in that brutal gallows of evidence had been cemented into place.

Four excited and self important office boys scuttled out of the room bearing sheets on which was scrawled:

"State rests its case after evidence of Detective Farley." And through the open door as they went came a murmur like the distant roar of wild beasts, the unadmitted public clamoring for the news borne by the boys en route for the newspaper offices.

But when the door closed again a tense silence held the room in thrall. Even Mary's sobs had ceased, and, lifting her tear stained face, she smiled rainbow wise at Langdon, as if she would have said: "Now is our chance! Now we will tear down this awful temple of doom that has been built for me!"

Langdon drew a deep breath, flung back his shoulders as if breasting a tremendous current and said quietly:

"Your honor and gentlemen of the jury, you have heard the case against Mary Page. Now listen to the case for Mary Page.

"She has declared herself that she has no recollection of those final moments in that hotel room to which she had been lured by a miserable beast. She remembers only a flash—like a dream—of his leering face, and then blackness swept over her. Gentlemen, it is not the first time that Miss Page has been affected in that same fashion. And if Mary Page killed James Pollock she did it in a moment of insanity superinduced by the horror of intoxication that has pursued her since the day she was born."

As with one accord the jury sat up and leaned forward in their seats, and onlookers broke out into a sudden babble, in which the word "insane" bobbed like a cork on a sea of rumor, and not even the judge's gavel could secure silence for several moments. In that time the color crept back into Mary's cheeks, and somehow she felt deep in her heart that the tide of feeling at least was turned again in her direction.

The district attorney was frowning and whispering to his assistant, who nodded from time to time as he nervously fingered the pile of papers in front of him, but now Langdon was speaking again:

"It is my intention, your honor and gentlemen of the jury, to show you step by step through this girl's life the part which that horror of intoxication has played, a horror that has entangled her in this mesh of tragedy. I shall call as my first witness Mary Page."

It came as an overwhelming surprise, this calling of Mary to her own defense, and, although she strove to be calm, she was obviously startled and afraid, and wave after wave of excitement swept through the room At the reporters' table one "sob sister" whispered to the other:

"Poor thing! She can't stand much more. It's wicked to call on her."

"Miss Page," said Langdon, and his voice was very gentle, "isn't it true that because of a strong prenatal influence you were born with an unnatural horror of intoxication?"

"It is true," sighed Mary, but in an instant the district attorney was on his feet.

"I object!" he cried. "That question concerns something that took place before Miss Page's birth. She can—she must, in fact—know it only by hearsay."

"I must sustain your objection," said the judge. "Mr. Langdon, your question was unfortunately worded. Can you alter it?"

"I think I can," said Langdon. "Let us put it this way: What is your earliest recollection of your father?"

"I object to that also!" stormed the district attorney. "It is not relevant. What have a child's vague recollections to do with the action of a woman of Miss Page's age?"

The judge hesitated, and Langdon, still smiling, said quickly:

"I withdraw my question. The witness is excused."

"Do you wish to cross examine?" asked the judge, and the district attorney, with a scowl, shook his head.

"Are—are you through with me?" gasped Mary in bewilderment, and Langdon nodded. And now, as the throng waited, he turned to the little gray haired mother, and his voice rang out (was it with triumph?):

"Mrs. Page!"

In an instant the room was in an uproar. More copy boys rushed for the door bearing flapping sheets covered with scrawled, disjointed words, and the onlookers, who had so far considered Mrs. Page as merely a "prop," a bit of the setting in this gripping tragedy, now scrambled up on to their seats to gape at her. In vain the judge thundered with his gavel, and in vain the police shoved back the spectators and even thrust one or two belligerent ones out into the corridor, where they were welcomed with a roar from the waiting. The noise did not subside until curiosity had been sated.

"Thirty-one years ago at Christmas." she said softly, and the district attorney leaned forward scowlingly, waiting to leap at the first irrelevant question

"And you became engaged almost at once, did you not?" The question and the answer were equally quiet.

"Yes."

"But you were not married for some time?"

"No." The gentle old voice shook now, and a faint flush crept into the thin cheeks.

"Why?" The question snapped sharply, but her answer was long in coming.

"Because," she said at last, "I found that Dan drank, and I—I said I would not marry a man like—like that."

"But you did later on?"

"Yes," she continued. "He promised me that he would stop, and I believed —God knows a woman always believes that—from a man."

"Please make only direct answers to the questions," broke in the judge sternly. But some woman in the back of the room said aloud:

"That's the truth she's speaking. Let her say it."

"Silence!" commanded the judge. And now Langdon said:

"Will you tell us as concisely as possible of what happened after your marriage?"

For a long time it seemed as if she could not go on, and Mary leaned toward her, whispering softly:

"Oh, mother—mother, darling!" But as if the words were a draft of encouragement Mrs. Page took up the thread of her story.

"What happened," she said wearily, "is what happens to thousands of women. We hadn't been married very long before my husband began to drink again. The—the first night he came home really drunk was the night I had planned to tell him that Mary was coming to us from God. I don't think I shall ever forget the horror of that time. And all the while that I was making ready for her he was making my inability to go out with him an excuse for debauch.

"Oh, your honor," and now she turned to the judge, "it's no wonder my child is full of the fear of drink. For night after night I walked the floor, and I prayed like a wicked woman that my baby might die before it came into the world—because I was afraid it would bear the taint—would be born with that awful devastating thirst!"

More than one man in the room and, indeed, more than one of the jurors moved uneasily at the words, quietly spoken, but pregnant with tragedy.

"On the night that Mary was born," she went on, "Dan was too drunk to even be told—that—he had a daughter."

A murmur of sympathy crept through the room, and one voice could be heard distinctly:

"Oh, well, that's not unusual. Most men do—beastly drunk."

"I felt then," said Mrs. Page tenderly, "that it didn't matter. I had my baby, and I was too full of happy dreams for her future to fear for the present.

"Somehow," Mrs. Page continued, "the years passed, and Mary reached sixteen, but each of those increasing years had increased her fear of drunkenness. She was even afraid of her father, and because we were too poor for her to have pretty clothes she could not go to the parties and things like other girls. And I suppose my own horror kept building and blending with hers—until—that—day."

"Dan was too drunk to be told he had a daughter."

She broke off, and now Langdon was on his feet, a red spot of color in each cheek and his hands nervously clutching a scrap of paper as he asked sharply:

"What day do you refer to, Mrs Page?"

"To the 16th of June ten years ago," she answered.

"Will you tell us why that day is so clearly remembered?" asked Langdon.

"Because," she answered deliberately, "that was the night of Mary's first wild attack!"

"I object!" shouted the district attorney, but the judge frowned.

"This seems to me to be particularly relevant to Mr. Langdon's somewhat curious defense," he said. "I will let the question and answer stand."

"Will you tell us," said Langdon, "what brought on that attack and what you know of it? Don't tell it to me, but to the jury, who were not there."

"I understand," she said softly, and Langdon sat down, overwhelmed by his own recollections of that terrible night and wondering where the frail little woman was getting the strength for the ordeal.

"It was early evening," said Mrs. Page, turning to the jurors. "Philip—Mr. Langdon—had come to ask Mary to go to a ball game with him, for they were friends even then," she explained tenderly. "And while they were standing on the porch my—my—husband came home—drunk. He saw the two of them and accosted them, using improper and insulting language. He didn't mean it—he didn't know what he was saying—but it was terrible for Mary, and she urged Philip to leave at once. I heard them—and heard Dan's words—and I ran out to help, leaving the poker thrust into the hot coals of the range, for I had been fixing the fire.

"We—we got Dan into the house and on to a sofa in the kitchen at last, where he lay babbling about James Pollock, with whom he had been drinking and who was also—or who had tried to be—a friend of my daughter's."

Again the whispering murmur of excitement swept through the room, but died of its own accord.

"Dan slept for a long time, and when he woke up he wanted more to drink. I had sent Mary to bed, and I was alone with him. I tried to reason with him, but he forgot I was his wife. He was insane with that awful thirst. He ordered me to bring him the bottle of whisky out of his cabinet, and when I wouldn't he—he beat me. He threw me down and kicked me and struck me with a chair. And, though I tried to keep back a cry that would rouse Mary, she—she heard and came running down, poor child, in her little nightdress.

"I heard James Pollock make an insulting taunt."

"She screamed and ran forward and dragged at her father. Trying pitifully to protect me—and at last—he turned—upon her."

She shuddered and buried her face in her hands—her eyes tear blinded and her mouth distorted with the anguish of memory.

"And then—he saw—the poker—I had forgotten—still thrust into the fire —and he dragged it out."

A quivering moan like a vocal echo to her mental agony slipped from Mary's lips, and dropping her head, she sobbed aloud.

"Please go on, Mrs. Page," said Langdon warningly, and though the mother yearned toward her daughter, she took up her story again in a voice that rose word by word into a poignant cry straight from a mother's anguished soul.

"He dragged Mary to the center of the room—that flaming poker in his hand. He forced her to her knees. I struggled to get to them, but I was weak—dazed, half conscious because of a blow on the head. It was all just a nightmare to me! But I heard Mary scream and scream and scream, and then—I saw—the poker burn into my child's forehead! I smelled the scorched flesh and from somewhere I got the strength to leap upon him—and then—the door was burst open and—Mr. Langdon came in.

"He—he had been worried about us," she panted, her voice breaking now, "and, coming back to the house, heard the cries. My husband rushed at him and they fought. Then suddenly Mary, who had been lying in a moaning little heap on the floor, writhed—got to her knees—to her feet—and before I could stop her, began to dance wildly about the two men, laughing and shouting and singing. And then, while we stood there appalled, even Dan—sobered by it—she ran on—out of the house—and into the street.

"Philip was after her in a moment. But it seemed hours before I could crawl to the door, and I saw—Mary disappearing down the street—and heard James Pollock make an insulting taunt. Then I was knocked down by my husband, who rushed by me with an oath.

"When I got up again Mr. Langdon was out of sight, and Dan and James Pollock were lying huddled in the path struggling to get to their feet."

Her voice dropped now and she finished quietly, firmly.

"Three hours later Philip brought Mary home—wrapped in his coat. Her nightgown was in ribbons; her feet were torn and bloody where she had danced and run over stones and stumps in the woods near our home. Her hands were bruised from snatching at trees and rocks by the way. She was in torture with the burn on her forehead, but she was—quite sane. And, your honor, she had no recollection of anything that had happened after she saw her father advancing with the red-hot poker."

Brutally Beats Old Man.

Ferris.—T. H. Maskey, the oldest settler in this village and prominent business man, was assaulted as he left the Great Northern train last Monday afternoon, by two ruffians with guns, who demanded money, and failing to hand over his property they knocked him down, rendering him unconscious and took what money he had on his person and left him in the snow bank near the railway station.

Deserter Nabbed.

Hallock.—Sheriff Anderson took a man named Sundheim to St. Paul last Saturday. He was a deserter from the U. S. army, having absented himself for 4 years and 11 months. If he had succeeded in eluding the authorities another month he would have gotten off scott-free. Snudheim will be detained at Fort Snelling pending court martial. He had been staying with his brother in Poppleton.

Just For Rubbing In.

Bemidiji. —Frank Carpenter, 87 years old, who uses alcohol as a "rub," was arrested Wednesday for introducing liquor into Indian territory. He was accused of having several gallons of alcohol in his suitcase and when asked what reason he had for introducing it into Indian territory, said that he had heard that Plummer was going "dry" and that he wanted to get a supply, as he used it for a "rub." He was released and the charge dropped.

$250,000 For Indian Schools.

The Indian committee of the United States has adopted the Gronna amendment to their bill authorizing the appropriation of $250,000 for Indian missions and schools in the Sioux Indian territory, which embraces Minnesota and both the Dakotas. As there has been a lack of educational facilities in many sections of the territory the committe has decided that the amendment would do away with complaints now made, and it was unanimously adopted.

Want License Money Back.

St. Cloud:—In district court chambers Monday morning before Judge W. S. McClenahan, Judge T. C. Blewitt and attorney M. E. Ryan, representing their several clients, argued for the return of unused liquor license money by the city. City attorney D. A. Haggard appearing for the city, maintained that the action of the in ordering a return of license money is not binding as there is no money in the general treasury applicable for payment. Judge McClenhan took the case under advisement.

Option Election In Itasca.

Grand Rapids.—Voters of Itasca county will decide the county option question at a special election to be held in July, according to Ralph A. Stone, county attorney. Persons interested in the question had planned to circulate a petition, making, it possible to vote on the question at the time of the local election and presidential primaries, March 14. But after considering the matter, it was decided to postpone the election until the whole county could be included.

The petition will be put in circulation the latter part of May.

Grygla County Prospering.

Bemidji.—W. B. Stewart, county superintendent of schools, returned Saturday from Grygla, Carmel, Thorhult and vicinity, where he has been on a ten-day inspection tour. Mr. Stewart reports that practically every community which he visited show a marked increase in prosperity. "There seems to be nothing but progress in that section of the county," said Mr. Stewart, "and in fact there is a marked advance along all lines. No less than ten per cent of the land is being cleared annually. The school enrollments are greater and the teaching force is very efficient." Two new schools have been built, one at Ilag and one at Thorholt.

Saving Plan A Success.

Grand Forks—Two years ago a system of school savings was inaugurated in the city. Cards containing stamps of different denominations were placed in the hands of the teachers for the purpose of sale to the children. Money that would as a rule be spent for some indigestible candy was used, in many cases to purchase these savings stamps. When the sum of one dollar was accumulated, the stamps were taken to the bank and deposited to the credit of the saver. Results of the plan were very gratifying. Deposits at times have reached the gross sum of $5,000.00, which is a large amount when it is considered that the grade children were the largest contributers. A wider and better co-operation between the teachers and the parents, in teaching them habits of thrift and economy in the matter of spending money foolishly would result in a great amount of good to the school children. A child, who in the grades, learns the value of money, and is taught how to spend it wisely, is better equipped for the battle of life than one without this knowledge and the possessor of a college education.

Men Are Scarce.

Duluth.—The scarcity of men for common labor has probably never been keener in the Northwest than at the present time. Several logging camps have been closed because of insufficient crews, and outside contractors are already arranging with Duluth employment agencies to supply crews of men for the Dakotas next fall. Loggers, who send in orders for men now, get little satisfaction as men are scarce in Duluth and what few are here, refuse to go to the woods because of the deep snow, which is said to be handicapping activities in the camps all through Northern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin.

Threshers Already Worried.

Moorhead.—Threshers in the Dakotas are already worrying about help for next fall. Some of them have already been to the cities to arrange with employment agents. Last fall, they say, wages went up to $3.50 a day and board, and men were hard to get at that price. This year conditions are much worse, and threshers are planning to secure full crews of men at good wages and pay them a bonus for staying on the job a reasonable length of time. Last year strike agitators were at work, and in some places men stuck their pitchforks in the shocks of grain and refused to go to work before 7 o'clock in the morning. This year threshers will avoid labor troubles insofar as they are able.

Manitoba Goes Dry.

Winnipeg.—Manitoba, third of western Canadian provinces to abolish saloons or restrict the sale of liquor, will be "dry" on June 1, 1916. Prohibition carried the province yesterday by a vote of 2 to 1. Alberta province goes dry on July 1. In Saskatchewan the government has taken over the sale of all liquors. The Saskatchewan government has promised that a vote on prohibition will be taken in December; when the women will have the franchise. This means a dry Saskatchewan. British Columbia will vote on prohibition some time in the summer if the government redeems its pledge to the people. Prohibition should carry there. In Ontario, Premier Hearst has promised prohibition. Only in the province of Quebec are the "wets" strongly entrenched.

THIEF RIVER ARTISTS THRILL CROOKSTON FOLKS

The following, taken from the Crookston Times of March 7th would indicate that it is not only the atheletes of Thief River Falls who are gaining fame away from home. Singers and musicians are coming in for their share, and their achievements are appreciated at home fully as much as those won in other fields of endeavor. The Crookston paper will be pardoned for claiming one of the singers as a product of its own town because of its nice treatment of the trio. That paper says among other things:

"Last evening before a large crowd that taxed the capacity of the Presbyterian church, Chas. Mix, who grew to manhood in Crookston, far exceeded the expectations of his friends as the possessor of a rich baritone voice, well developed and under splendid control.

"The entertainent was well arranged and was pleasing throughout. Mr. Mix had a very good support in Mr. John Dickey of Thief River Falls, who has an exceptionally fine tenor voice and sings with an ease that is delightful. Miss Blanche Johnson, also of Thief River Falls, as an accompanist has that pleasing quality of perfect sympathy with the singer which is necessary if the audience is to get the best the vocalists have.

"The voices of Mr. Mix and Mr. Dickey blended most pleasing in their duets and they were recalled after both numbers.

"The program closed with a trio, Brahms' "Cradle Song" by Mr. Mix, Miss Johnson and Mr. Dickey, a beautiful number in which Miss Johnson showed herself the possessor of a rich contralto voice. It was a fitting close to a program that delighted the audience without a single wearisome number and in which the people of Crookston had the added satisfaction of hearing a Crookston boy who has made good his earlier promise."

Karo Premium Griddle

$2.25 SOLID ALUMINUM GRIDDLE FOR 85 CENTS IN CASH AND LABELS FROM 50 CENTS' WORTH OF KARO —GET YOUR KARO LABELS AT ONCE AND SEND FOR YOUR GRIDDLE

EVERYBODY these days knows aluminum ware—the highest priced and the most satisfactory kitchen ware used in this country.

Here is your chance to get a 10½ inch Solid Aluminum Griddle for less than the wholesale price.

This Aluminum Griddle needs no greasing. It heats uniformly all over; it doesn't smoke up the house; it doesn't chip; it doesn't rust and it looks so much better and cleaner than any of the old kind of griddles.

It bakes Griddle Cakes that are really just as crisp as you want them to be. With Karo on them, they are the finest eating in the world—and so digestible because baked without grease that many people who haven't dared to eat griddle cakes for years, are enjoying Karo and Griddle Cakes now.

At great expense we are seeking to place a Karo Aluminum Griddle in the homes of all Karo users, so that Karo—the famous spread for griddle cakes and waffles—may be served on the most deliciously baked cakes that can be made.

Go to your grocer today and get 50 cents' worth of Karo and send us the labels and 85 cents in stamps or money order at once. You'll get your Aluminum Griddle by prepaid parcel post.

You know Karo, no doubt. It is the best known and most universally liked syrup in this country. Last year 65,000,000 cans were used.

Get your Karo today—and send us the labels and 85 cents at once, so as to be sure of getting yours. We will also send you free the famous Corn Products Cook Book.

RED LAKE FALLS HAS $20,000 FIRE

Water Supply Fails And For a Time Entire City Threatened With Destruction.

SEVEN CONCERNS BURN OUT

Higinbotham Land Company And H. F. Pouliot Are Heaviest Losers.

Red Lake Falls sustained a property loss estimated to be in excess of $20,000 by a fire which started shortly after mid-night and continued to burn during the greater part of Saturday forenoon. The blaze is thought to have started from an overheated stove in the restaurant of J. J. Courney. A high wind was blowing and the thermometer was at the zero point, making the work of the firemen very difficult.

The losses were: Joseph Norman, jeweler, $250; James Miller, barber, $200; E. M. Higinbotham Land company, office and building, $3,000; Charles D. Boughton, building, $1,900; J. J. Courneys, restaurant, $900; Huston and Henning, building, $1,800; H. F. Pouliot, harness shop and building $4,500; E. A. Nelson, barber, $300, and Henry Kaufer, building, $2,000.

The buildings covered a 150 frontage on Main street, one of the principal business thoroughfares of the the city. So threatening did the fire at one time become that it was feared the entire business section might be wiped out. The water supply failed at a critical time during the fire, and the departments at Thief River Falls and Crookston were asked to hold crews in readiness to aid should this prove necessary, but about 10 o'clock in the forenoon word was received here that the danger was passed.

It is understood that the owners of the places destroyed will rebuild as soon as the weather conditions make work possible.

PLACE ON ROUTE IS NOW CERTAIN

Thief River Falls Will Occupy Prominent Position On Jefferson Highway.

TO UTILIZE STATE ROADS

Easy Half Day's Journey From Bemidji And Only One Day From End Of Line At Winnipeg.

As will be seen by the accompanying map, Thief River Falls occupies a prominent position on the route of the Jefferson highway, the proposed road running the full length of the country from New Orleans to Winnipeg. The map and illustrations are republished through the courtesy of the Minneapolis Journal, in which paper they appeared on Sunday last. The matter accompanying the illustrations was practically the same as that appearing in the columns of the Times two weeks ago, giving the outline as set forth in the reports of the commission in charge.

Bemidji will perhaps be the point farthest removed from a straight north and south line, considerable of a detour being necessary in order to reach that city. Bemidji has from the first been one of the Minnesota cities certain to be touched, however, as it was improbable that a route would be considered which did not include the source of the Mississippi river. The work of the committee representing Thief River Falls, therefore, consisted of convincing the commission that after leaving the Beltrami county seat the next stop of importance should be at this city. This committee composed of Daniel Shaw as chairman, C. L. Hansen and J. H. McKinney, appointed by President Johnson of the Commercial club to take charge of the matter, has worked unceasingly in an endeavor to have the city named one of the points on the route, Mr. Hansen appearing personally before the commission at St. Paul to urge the claims of the city.

The commission has selected what anyone must recognize as the most feasible route through this northwestern section. The road will run from Bemidji via Bagley and north to Clearbrook. From this point it will follow the old Indian trial westward to a connection with the State highway and along this to Red Lake Falls. From the last named city the route will be northward over the gravelled state highway to Thief River Falls, from which point it will turn west over another gravelled state road to the Judicial highway along Pembina ridge. This ridge will be followed until a point directly east of Hallock is reached, when it will turn westward through the latter city and northward to the Canadian boundary.

Theif River Falls will be the most important point on the line between Bemidji and Winnipeg. We are only about 90 miles from the first named town, and over a good road this is only a comfortable half-day auto run. Another run of equal length would take the tourist to Hallock while under ordinarily favorable conditions the run from this city to the end of the route at Winnipeg could be covered in a day.

The road from Bemidji to Winnipeg can be made available at a very small outlay. Much of the distance is a natural highway following along the beaches of the ancient glacial lake, Agassiz, which at one time in the far past submerged this entire region.

n scenic beauty and historic interest o section of America is more rich, and only needs the proper advertising make it the summer tourist's most opular route of travel. While it is ubtless true that many people from the large centers of population in the ississippi valley will have the lake gion to the south and east of Thief iver Falls as an objective point in aking the trip, a great many of them ill continue to the Canadian city rming the other end of the highway. is to this portion of the traffic that hief River Falls will prove a point much interest.

NEED OF MORE POWERFUL FIRE ALARM DISCUSSED

A committee composed of G. Halvorson, C. W. McDaniel and John Bratrud, has been appointed by President Geo. G. Johnson of the Commercial club to take up with the city council the question of supplying something a little more boisterous and unruly for the fire siren now in use. At the club meeting on Thursday evening G. Halvorson brought the matter up, claiming that the present contrivance fell far short as a noise-maker whenever it was called upon to perform. Others also expressed similar views.

Supt. Leonard Peterson of the water and light department, stated that while the air whistle might not be entirely satisfactory, it was the best to be procured at the time of its installation. He added that he very much favored a steam siren, but that there was only one place in the city where a sufficient head of steam was maintained during the entire 24 hours of the day to make a whistle practicable, and this was at the Soo round house. This, however, is located quite a distance from the center of the city, and might not give any better general satisfaction. A new electric whistle has been put on the market lately, according to the superintendent, and he suggested that the merits of this contrivance be looked into. In the meantime the city council will be asked to keep the matter in mind.

WILL START BOYS BAND

Director Joe Greenfield, leader of the Thief River Falls band, will begin the instruction and training of boys as musicians at the close of the school year in June, with a view to organizing a boys band. He has been urged to do this by a number of people in the city who are anxious that their boys learn to play some band instrument. It is Mr. Greenfield's idea to use the material thus obtained as members of the men's band as soon as the lads can qualify.

It is understood that quite a number of boys in town already possess band instruments and will be ready to go ahead with lessons as soon as their school duties are at an end. Mr. Greenfield has some instruments that the boys will be able to rent or buy and he hopes to start out with a sufficient number of pupils to make the venture a success.

ASKED TO MAKE CROSSINGS SAFE

Attention Of Soo And Great Northern Will Be Called To A Grave Danger.

SEWER FOR EAST SIDE

Residents On Mussey Street And On Tindolph And Markley Avenues Ask That System Be Extended To Their Property.

The city council at its meeting Tuesday evening decided to take steps to compell the railroad companies entering the city to place safeguards at the principal street intersections crossed by their tracks. It was pointed out that three of the of the crossings are particularly dangerous because of the large amount of travel over them at all hours of the day. The Soo railroad will be asked to provide gates at both sides of its tracks where these cross Third stree and also at Eighth street. This matter has been up for consideration on a number of occasions before, but for some reason the matter has never been properly attended to.

Several citizens were present and spoke of the Eighth street crossing as being particularly dangerous. The Minnesota Northwestern has its terminus at this point and cars of this company can only be reached by crossing the tracks of the Soo.

The Great Northern railroad will also be asked to provide gates where its tracks cross Main street. The danger here is not so great because of the smaller amount of traffic, but otherwise the conditions are the same as in the case of the Soo.

City Attorney Theodore Quale was instructed to take the matter up with the railroad companies, and it is thought that when conditions are fully realized there will be no trouble in getting the desired devises installed.

A petition signed by Dr. Mellby and 36 other residents of the East Side was received, asking that a sewer be constructed in that section of the city along the following route: On Mussey street from Markley to Tindolph avenue; on Tindolph avenue from Mussey street to James street, and on Markley avenue from Johnson to Bridge streets. Instructions were given the engineer to go forward with the preliminary work with a view to beginning the improvement as quickly as possible. Sewer lifts will have to be employed in this undertaking, the completed job representing quite an important contract.

A communication was received from a number of residents of the South side complaining against the outhouse maintained by the Great Northern at its depot. The complainants alleged that the place is a nuisance and a menace to the public health. The city attorney was instructed to take the matter up with the railroad and warehouse commission with a view to compelling its correction.

The chairman of the street committee of the council was asked to look into the matter of securing gravel for Eighth street. It was suggested that the communication be entered with the Soo railroad with a view to finding out whether or not the company would haul the gravel under the conditions similar to those which obtained when other streets in the neighborhood were improved. On these occasions the railroad company has furnished and unloaded the gravel free of charge, the only cost to the city being the freightage from the pits.

The question as to whether or not railroad property can be assessed for municipal improvements again came up in connection with this sewer discussion. The city has been unable to collect sewer assessments from railroads heretofore, these maintaining that the gross earnings tax was paid in lieu of all other taxes. The city attorney said that a decision of the supreme court would in all likelihood be required to settle the matter.

Fire Warden Paul Medderigh reported that a building being erected on La Bree avenue did not in his opinion conform to the city ordinances governing such matters. He was instructed to go ahead and prevent its completion under the authority already vested in him and feel assured that he would be backed up by the council in the performance of his duty.

"The Battle Cry of Peace."

At the Princess on April 11 and 12 will be shown the most noteworthy achievement in the history of motion pictures. It is a great national propaganda dealing with the most important problem that has confronted this nation since the Civil War—the problem of America's unpreparedness.

If you have a drop of red blood in your veins, you will experience in witnessing this production a thrill such as you have never known before.

You will see the enemy approaching, the powerlessness of New York, the weakness of its forts and defenses. You will see the havoc wrought by the enemy's howitzers, sub-marines, airships; by its shells, shrapnels and bombs.

You will see the most beautiful sky line in the world in flames, the metropolis of the western hemisphere devasted.

It was written by J. Stuart Blackton and vitagraphed under his personal direction.

Scores of prominent Americans in the army and navy and administrative circles have contributed to its preparation.

Mr. Charles Richman, the distinguished actor, heads a cast of eminent vitagraph stars—a cast containing twenty-five thousand National Guardsmen, five thousand horses, eight thousand supernumeraries.

FAIR ASSOCIATION TO AID BOYS AND GIRLS

Will Be Asked To Assist In Properly Starting Industrial Movement Among Students.

President Herbert Fuller has called a meeting of the Pennington County Agricultural association for Saturday next, at which time will be discussed the matter of assisting in the boys' and girls' industrial exhibition this fall. The fair authorities are expected to take a decided interest in this event, as in many respects it will be more representative of Pennington county products than those seen at the regular exhibition. The industrial exhibit will take place sometime in October, at a time when all field products have fully matured and are ready for harvesting, while the county fair takes place in August and thus many late varieties are not shown at their full development.

The young people will raise pigs, calves and chickens, and grow potatoes and corn in competition for cash and merchandise pries. The contest is under state direction and the movement is general throughout the United States and Canada. Pennington county has been somewhat backward in getting started, but it is expected that one of the largest clubs in the state will be registered here when the beginning is properly made.

Prof. Hay and Prof. Werner will meet with the fair association on Saturday for the purpose of outlining the aims of the new club and there is no doubt but that it will receive encouragement from the members of that body.

ROAD TO THE NORTH IS LATEST HIGHWAY PLAN

Thief River Business Men and Farmers Will Contribute Toward Construction.

Farmers in the north end of Pennington county and Thief River Falls business men have raised $1,000 which will be contributed toward building of a highway extending to the Marshall county line. The proposed road will run past the Soo round house and through the Knox farm, crossing the Thief River on the quarter line between sections 21 and 22. The project includes the building of a bridge across the stream at this point, something which has long been regarded as necessary. At present people living in the section to be tapped by the proposed road have found it necessary to make a considerable detour in order to reach the county seat, and projects to relieve the situation have been under consideration for five or six years.

The $1,000 subscribed by the farmers and business men will naturally not build this bridge and road, but it will help considerably. The aid of the township of North will be asked, and the county is also expected to contribute. It is further likely that Marshall county will aid in this undertaking by extending the highway within its own borders.

There is a prosperous farmer on nearly every quarter section of land in the territory through which the road will pass and the improvement will prove a good thing for everyone concerned. It will also provide another beautiful driveway easily kept up because of the natural drainage toward the river.

Assessors' Meeting Monday.

The newly-elected township assessors of the county will meet at the office of County Auditor Anderson on Monday, March 28, for the purpose of receiving instructions concerning their duties from an official sent out by the state tax commission. Last year Senator Lord was the party upon whom devolved this duty and it is likely that the same tax authority will again be sent.

BUSINESS SCHOOL TO LOCATE HERE

Institution With Headquarters At Bismarck Will Open At Thief River Falls Next Month.

READY ABOUT APRIL 17

English, Commercial And Shorthand Will Be Branches Taught, With More To Follow Later—Mr. Langum In Direct Charge.

Thief River Falls is to have an up-to-date business college. G. M. Langum, president of the Bismarck Business College and principal of the commercial department of that institution, is in the city today looking up a suitable location and making other preliminary arrangements for the opening, which will take place about April 17. Mr. Langum has for some time been considering the proposition of opening a college here and has been in correspondence with the Commercial club since the first of the year. After looking the situation over for a short time and meeting with the executive committee of the club he decided that the city and surrounding country offered an exceptional opportunity for a business enterprise such as he is promoting.

It is the intention to hold both day and evening sessions, and three studies will be taken up to begin with. First, a general English course will be offered, beginning with the primary branches, followed by a preparatory course for the commercial and short hand classes. The second branch of study will include the commercial course proper, embracing bookkeeping and cognate branches and advanced accounting. One of the local banks will be asked to supervise the work done in this department and the books used will be exact duplicates of those employed by the bank. Shorthand will be the third branch of this course. Students must be able to pass a rigid examination as stenographers before being permitted to graduate. Mr. Lamgum says that so strict is this rule that concerns requiring stenographers have come to place the most absolute dependence in young men and women who have finished courses at this college and that the supply has never been equal to the demand. A department of telegraphy is contemplated as soon as the demand becomes sufficiently great to warrant its establishment.

Mr. Langum says that he expects to start the school here out with from 125 to 150 students. He intends to put in a large share of his own time here and will have at least two competent instructors aiding him. He has been in the business for the past twenty-six years, and operated one of the most successful schools in the Twin Cities during the greater part of that time. Besides the college at this point and at Bismarck Mr. Langum is the head of the Detroit Business College, an institution which has been highly successful from the start.

This is an enterprise which should be supported by our people in every possible way. As an indication of what it might mean to the city we are informed that the collage at Bismarck is responsible for an outlay of $3,000 every month for the students' board alone. When to this sum is added other necessary and incidental expenses it will be seen that its establishment would mean a great deal to any city.

"GOOD ROADS" TOPIC AT NEXT STAND-UP LUNCH

Improved Highways And Roast Turkey To Be Subjects At Last Winter Meeting.

The last stand-up lunch of the present season will be given at the Commercial club rooms on Tuesday evening, March 28. Roast turkey will be the principal topic discussed during the supper hour, but after everyone is full of this subject there will be other matters of much importance to come before the meeting. "Good Roads" will be the most prominent of these, and it is the intention to invite farmers from surrounding sections to the feast and to have them give their views concerning this most important matter. The catering will be attended to by Julien Provencher of the Eevlyn hotel, which is a guarantee that this part of the program will be properly looked after.

The cost of this supper will be 50 cents per plate, and the good roads talk will be thrown in free. These latter, however, will probably be the most valuable part of the proceedings as secretary Lincoln is going to invite the foremost authorities that he can reach to be present and give their views and experiences on the subject.

TREASURERS WIN DITCH TAX CASE

Judge Andrew Grindeland Holds That They Are Entitled To Extra Pay For Collections.

AN APPEAL IS CERTAIN

Supreme Court Will Be Asked To Finally Decide Question In Which Many Northern Counties are Interested.

County treasurers in Minnesota are entitled to extra pay for the collection of ditch taxes. This decision was handed down by Judge Andrew Grindeland, sitting in chambers at Warren, in the case of Andrew Trovaton against the county of Pennington.

Mr. Trovaton, who was formerly treasurer of Pennington county, claimed extra pay in the sum of $78.76 for work done in connection with the collection of ditch taxes. Associated with him in the suit were the treasurer of Roseau, Marshall and Beltrami counties, where extra compensation in connection with this work had also been refused by the Commissioners. The amount permitted the plaintiff is one half of one per cent of the amount collected.

The treasurers in their complaint set forth that the work connected with the levying of these extra taxes came in as a special job in the fall of the year, and that there is more work connected with the apportioning and levying of these items than the assessment against the lands benefitted in the first place. Extra clerk hire is invariably necessary and no provision is made for the meeting of this added expense. The treasurers interested united in bringing the suit in the name of Mr. Trovaton.

It is understood that the counties involved in this decision will appeal to the supreme court in order that the matter may be finally disposed of.

INQUIRIES FOR LANDS INDICATE BUSY SEASON

Dairying Opportunities Particularly Held Out To Those Seeking New Farm Locations.

"The greatest grass-growing section in the world and butter 36 cents a pound," is the way the situation is put up to those making inquiries as to the advantages offered dairy men in this section. Such inquiries are daily arriving, some coming to the real estate men and more to Secretary Lincoln of the Commercial club. The growth of the dairying industry in this section has been such as to call the attention of the entire country to its possibilities, and the coming summer will see the greatest impetus given the business ever experienced by any county in the state. Inquirers are told that the most nutritious grasses grow in abundance and that corn roots and other forage crops are invariably of a prize-winning variety. Minnesota butter is a preium product in any city market, and with the high price received and the ease with which the feed can be raised the dairy business holds out inducements not to be found in any other branch of agriculture.

These facts are carefully set forth when replying to people making inquiries. These now reside for the most part in Iowa, Indiana and Illinois and have been driven out of those states by the high land values which makes it practically impossible to acquire a farm or to earn the interest on money represented by the ownership of one. These people are looking for dairy and diversified farming opportunities elsewhere, and this section holds out the most certain guarantee of success.

NEW PARTNER JOINS STANTON & ROWBERG

J. T. Hoge, Formerly of North Dakato, Will Hereafter Handle Real Estate Department.

J. T. Hoge, a prominent attorney, formerly of Underwood, North Dakota, has associated himself with the law firm of Stanton & Rowberg, and this well-known concern will hereafter be known as Stanton, Rowberg & Hoge. The new partner comes with the highest recommendations as an attorney and a citizen, and was a man of much prominence in his old home, having served several terms as a member of the legislature from his district.

Mr. Hoge will have immediate charge of the firm's real estate business which has assumed such proportions that the addition of an expert in land matters was advisable, and Mr. Hoge qualifies under this head. The firm will handle real estate of all kinds and will be active bidders for business in their line.

Expert Auto Painter Here.

Fred B. Haug, owner of the Haug Auto company, 101-103 Main avenue south, has been successful in securing the services of John Skoropa, expert automobile painter, who has been employed in Minneapolis in the large car painting shops of Joe Murray, 3rd avenue and fifth street south. Mr. Skoropa arrived in Thief River Falls Wednesday and has already begun painting a number of local cars at the garage of Fred Haug. Mr. Haug is having part of his garage partitioned off this week, which he will utilize as the painting room. This room is absolutely dust proof and will be properly heated for the work that is to be done there.

Will Straighten Road.

County Surveyor G. H. Martz is engaged in making a survey at the west end of what is known as Long's bridge over the Thief river with a view to straightening out the crook in the road at that point. The new stretch will be graded up and put in first-class condition for travel.

WILL GIVE OUT CORN TO FARMERS AS SEED

Real Estate Men Are Following Lead of Commercial Club In Saving Native Seed.

There is now no question but that a large proportion of the corn on display at the Commercial club rooms will be distributed among the farmers of the county for seed. Complete arrangements have not yet been made for its distribution, but the details are being worked out and the corn will be in the hands of farmers in time to permit of its being properly tested before seeding.

Several of the real estate men in the city have private displays of corn which they might be prevailed upon to loan out. John Bratrud, one of these, states that he will gladly turn his supply over to farmers on the condition that they return to him an equal amount of the crop grown. He wishes it understood, however, that he cannot give the entire display to any one or two persons, but will make a fair distribution as long as the supply lasts. This is a matter of very great importance and the men thus offering the seed are entitled to considerable credit. Not only will their display of the product be ruined until fall, but they are taking chances on a corn crop failure. Farmers wishing to take advantage of these offers should notify the owners at once as the time for testing is at hand.

MEN'S MASS MEETING AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Gospel Gathering April 2—E. W. Peck Of St. Paul Will Be Principal Speaker.

A gospel mass meeting for men has been arranged to take place at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon, April 2, 3 o'clock. E. W. Peck, state secretary for the Y. M. C. A., will make the principal address, and will take for his subject "The Man On The Dry Goods Box." Mr. Peck who was one of the speakers at the recent meeting for the purpose of discussing the Y. M. C. A. question, is a speaker with a national reputation. The meeting will be non-denominational and is under the auspices of the recently organized welfare committee. All the men of the city are invited to be present at this meeting as many things of general interest are likely to come up. Mr. Peck was much pleased with the enthusiasm in his work shown by the people here during his recent visit, and is glad of an opportunity to return and make an address of a somewhat different nature to a Thief River Falls audience.

A song program is being prepared in which many of the city's best known vocalists will take part and the arrangement committee promises every one attending an interesting and entertaining afternoon.

Secretary Lincoln Fenced In.

A partition has been put up dividing the lobby of the Commercial club in such manner as to make a private office for Secretary Lincoln. The space provided may also be used for directors' meetings and other affairs whereat a few must foregather to discuss the affairs of the nation or the war in Europe. The partition itself is a work of art, manufactured and put in by the Thief River Falls Manufacturing company. Some other changes being made will tend to make it more convenient at the club rooms. The ladies' retiring room will be converted into a cloak room and another apartment provided for the ladies. A telephone will be placed in the main room of the club as well as in the office, and other alterations made.

Joseph Moravec departed Tuesday morning for Pisek, N. D., where he will be eployed during the coming summer months on a farm.

TYPHOID CASES CAUSING ALARM

Dr. J. E. Douglas, Health Officer, Issues Warning On Danger Of Using City Water.

UNFIT FOR ANY PURPOSE

May Cause Epidemic Unless Every Precaution Is Taken—State Health Department May Be Asked To Take Charge of Matter.

"Do not use the water from the city mains for any purpose without first boiling it." This is the advice of Dr. J. E. Douglass, health officer for the city of Thief River Falls.

One death by typhoid fever during the past two weeks and three cases reported has turned the attention of the health department to the danger of an epidemic of the disease when the warmer weather of spring shall have made the greater use of water for drinking purposes necessary. It is even probable that the state will be asked to furnish temporary relief by putting in a hydrochloride system of filtration until such time as the city can get itself in shape to take proper charge of affairs.

A few weeks ago the Times called attention to the danger from this source. At that time physicians predicted grave trouble unless something were done to get an adquate supply of pure water for drinking purposes at once. Four cases thus far reported go to prove that the warnings of this paper and the fears of the doctors were well founded. Dr. Douglass says that while the cases to date are few, they are liable to multiply at an alarming rate and place the entire population in danger of contracting the disease. He urges that something be done immediately to check the possibility of an epidemic.

It is altogether possible that the state will take a hand in the matter. It would be impossible for the city to at once provide a system that would insure pure water for the people, and as provision is made under the law for meeting just such conditions, it is probable these will be applied to the present case. Should further cases of typhoid develop it is certain that something will be done at once.

In case the danger reaches such proportions as to make it necessary for the commonwealth to act, a hydrochloride filtration system would undoubtedly be installed. This is the quickest mode of dealing with the situation, as a plant of this kind can be put into operation in a day. This proceeding would likely prove expensive, inasmuch as the chemical necessary is high in price because of the war making its importation next to impossible. This fact, however, could naturally not be permitted to enter into the calculation.

A hydrochloride plant put in by the state would only be a temporary affair, and the city would at once be forced to take steps to provide itself with a permanent supply of pure drinking water. Other improvements would simply have to wait until this vital matter was attended to. Electric light extensions and power dams are important factors in the development of any community, but are of small concern when compared to the health of the people. Nothing is so dangerous as impure water and no situation could possibly arrise that would call for more immediate action. Dr. Douglass realizes this and has sounded a warning.

Boil all the water taken from the city mains, no matter for what purpose you intend using it. All of the cases referred to above are directly traceable to its use without this precaution having been taken, and the danger of this cannot be too strongly impressed upon people.

MORE AID FURNISHED PRIZE COMPETITORS

The Times This Week Prints Names of Advertisers Who Are Contributing.

The prize advertising competition for the $50 in gold and other prizes offered by the merchants and manufacturers of Thief River Falls is creating a great deal of attention. Last week's advertisements were printed without names attached, while this week the names are given. In the next issue full and final instructions will be given, and then the race will be on for the valuable prizes offered. Read every ad in the big double page announcement in this paper as doing so will aid you in the final spurt for the prizes. Keep these pages—they may mean $50 in cash to you.

MR. CALDERWOOD EXPLAINS.

Two weeks ago The Times contained an editorial under the caption, "Time to Call a Halt," dealing with the Red Lake county election and the part played by the temperance people therein. The article has called forth considerable comment, favorable and otherwise, because of the statement it contained to the effect that Red Lake county should have been closed under the Indian treaty instead of being put to the expense of an election.

The following letter from Mr. Calderwood, head of the temperance forces in Minnesota, will explain itself. Mr. Calderwood seeks to justify his course, and The Times has not the slightest objection to his doing so. There is only one part of the communication to which this paper takes exception. This is the paragraph in which he says: "Our opinions and our views differ." As far as the temperance question itself is concerned the opinion of The Times does not differ from that of Mr. Calderwood. This paper advocated temperance when it stood practically alone in so doing in the city of Thief River Falls. It will continue to so advocate, even though it stand alone again. The methods being employed in bringing the change about, however, are not the wisest, in the opinion of this paper, being particularly open to question in the case of Red Lake Falls.

The communication from Mr. Calderwood is not the only one received bearing on the article in question. Lacking the courage of that gentleman, however, the other correspondent has failed to sign his missive and thus his comments have been disregarded. They will be printed at any time the writer will come forward and acknowledge the authorship.

This other communication contains threats of one kind or another. A number of things will happen to The Times and its editor unless comments such as those under discussion cease to appear. The writer no doubt thinks it a terrible thing that money is used by the brewers and distillers to subsidize the press and thus carry on a propaganda against the aims and purposes of the temperance people, but considers it perfectly proper for himself to threaten anyone who differs with him simply as to the best manner in bringing about the very things he is fighting for. It is perhaps as well that the communication was unsigned and for this reason could not be printed.

Mr. Calderwood's letter follows:

Mr. R. H. Ross, Editor of The Times, Thief River Falls, Minn.

My Dear Sir:—Someone forwarded me a copy of your leading editorial in your Edition No. 2 (the date does not appear on the clipping). I think you are entirely correct in saying that I should have known the provisions of that treaty before the election was called. The fact is that shortly after the executive orders of 1911, I read all of the orders of that time and made notations concerning them. Somehow these notations failed to get in my "treaty" file. Immediately after I heard that a petition for a vote there in Red Lake County was filed, I looked through my files but could not find the notations. Mr. Cheney of The Journal, and Mr. Stewart of The Tribune, and some others asked me for information concerning that treaty. I had to plead ignorance, although my memory was that the treaty of 1863 had been so far modified as to entirely annual the operation of Article 7.

Then I immediately wrote the Indian Department asking for copies of the Executive Orders. While that department has usually been very prompt in all matters of that kind, this seems somehow to have been mislaid because I have not yet received an answer to that letter although several subsequent letters on the same general subject have been answered.

Then I wrote to Congressman Randall, asking him to supply me the information. He sent Executive Orders covering other treaties but not covering the treaty of 1854 or 1863, but advised me that they were out of print. I wrote again and asked him to have transcripts made of the copies on file. You will understand that this correspondence consumed some time. I actually received the transcripts of these orders on Friday morning March 3rd. This was the earliest authentic information that I had and I think my only error in the matter was failing to properly file the notations that I made on the Executive Orders some years ago. I have no doubt that I have these notations and that they have been carelessly misplaced from the baggage that I brought back from the trip to Washington when the notations were taken. As soon as I found that these notations were not in the files I was guilty of no delay or carelessness and I gave the people of the state the facts just as quickly as they were received and checked up by me. The transcripts were received on Friday, the third, as above stated, and the story appeared in The Journal and Tribune and other papers, on Saturday, the fourth, and on that date went to the papers of the state, released for Monday, the sixth.

Both our opinions and views differ and I have no tendency to utter any complaint on that account.

The Constitution provides that treaties are the supreme law of the land. If you do not know it, I can give you fairly good evidence of the fact that the liquor traffic has continued to violate that supreme law through the whole territory covered by the treaty of 1855 and that of 1863 in Northwestern Minnesota and do so yet so far as they dare as is evidenced by the frequent arrests that have been made by the Indian Department. I can also convince any fair-minded man that the fight for Red Lake county on the part of the liquor traffic was made largely, if not primarily, in order that they might have a base or supply depot from which to more conveniently override the will of the people in the dry territory surrounding that county, and that their glee on the winning of that county was in no small degree because of the profit they would get by the infraction of these treaties and the public will as expressed in recent elections.

Most Sincerely Yours for Humanity,
W. G. CALDERWOOD.

A DANGEROUS SITUATION.

The statement made by the health officer of Thief River Falls to the effect that the water in the city's mains is "unfit to use for any purpose," should set the people to thinking—or rather, it should stop their mere thinking and set them to doing something. Four cases of typhoid fever within one week directly traceable to this source is a record that is sufficiently significant to start out with. The danger to the community is imminent and real. Permitting present conditions to continue in the hope that they will remedy themselves may prove a proceeding positively criminal. It is not at all likely things will improve with time—in fact, it is certain that they will become worse.

But even though not another death occur nor another case of typhoid come to the attention of the authorities, the danger will be ever present, and some day it will again assert itself. It is all very well to issue warnings. The trouble is that these are not sufficiently heeded by the people. You often hear a person say: "There was nothing else in sight so I took a sip of hydrant water." In that sip, however, might lurk weeks of suffering and perhaps death.

The writer remembers when the city of Duluth, a score of years ago, through carelessness, ignorance of consequences or for other reasons, permitted its water supply to become contaminated. The intake pipe was not sufficiently far removed from the sewerage outlets of the city, and an epidemic of typhoid was the consequence. The matter was finally remedied, but it took years for the city to live down the unenviable reputation gained and the circumstance remains to this day the one big black mark on a brilliant municipal record.

Thief River Falls cannot afford anything of this kind. Regardless of whether or not the threatening danger is averted at this time, the most positive steps for a prevention of its recurrence should be taken. Such action would have to be taken even though it were necessary to build the entire water supply system from the bottom. This is not necessary, however, as the mains are already laid to nearly every part of the city. But a source of supply must be found, and it must provide an abundance of pure, sweet water. To plead that there is no money with which to make this provision will not do. We will simply have to get along without something else.

SOME CHAMPIONS.

As winners of contests of different descriptions, Thief River Falls contenders have been in a class by themselves during the past winter. Not only have they excelled in every division of sport, but scholastic competitions have found them valiant contenders for the very highest honors. It is doubtful if there is another city the size of Thief River Falls in the state of Minnesota to which has come so many honors through the efforts of its school representatives.

First there was the district football championship, wrested from Fosston after that city had proved invincible for three or four years. Then there was the winning of the northwestern hockey title at St. Paul, an achievement that perhaps brought the city more advertising than any other event of the winter. The stock judging championship at the Northwestern land show is considered by many as the most important and notable of the honors garnered. The district basketball championship was the next in line, this being also won from Fosston, last year's district winners and the state title holders in 1913. Besides these Thief River Falls also had one of the prize winners at the oratorical contest at Crookston.

It is not only the young folks representing our schools, however, who are entiled to credit for keeping the city's fame before the rest of the world. The Thief River Falls band of forty pieces is recognized as one of the foremost organizations of its kind in the state, while singers and musicians owning this city as their home are calling forth the highest praise from the people of other and larger communities.

We are a trifle shy when it comes to base-ball, but there is a movement on foot to remedy this, and when the line-up is completed it will be found that another division of championship contenders has been launched. Thief River Falls may not have everything in the world, but what it has is of the best.

OUR NAME—AND OTHERS.

The editor of the Saturday Evening Post probably did not have Thief River Falls particularly in mind when he wrote the following, but it fits the situation here so particularly well that he could not have made the application more clear had he been looking right straight in our direction. Under the heading, "Silly Place Names," the Post says: "Some Blackfeet Indians, with a taste and a respect for Nature that shames the paleface, have protested to the Secretary of the Interior against the barbarous custom of tacking silly, meaningless, vulgar names to noble natural objects which the Indians long ago had named with appropriateness. A melodious word, with poetic significance and very likely commemorating some charming native legend, is calmly ignored in favor of Jones' Gulch, or Smith's Falls, or Dolly Lake.

"It is even worse in the matter of towns. Nearly all the good names in North America are those bestowed by the Indians or the early French and Spanish explorers. After them came the Anglo-Saxon, spattering the landscape with his own patronymics and other tasteless and meaningless proper nouns.

"We can understand why a person with the imagination of a hitching post might prefer for a beautiful natural object his own name or that of a female relative, or some foolish Grand Falls, High Peak, Swift Rapids, Broad Canon; but we cannot understand why authority should permit him to vandalize that way. Unless there is some excellent reason to the contrary, authority ought to insist always upon the Indian names."

In another column of this issue The Times prints the announcement of Ex-Governor O. E. Eberhart, wherein he sets forth his platform as candidate for the United States senate. "Prosperity," "Economy," "Preparedness," "Protection," and a "Tariff Commission" are the principal issues on which he gives his views. There is nothing startling in his pronouncement, the entire document being decidedly safe and sane.

MINNESOTA POTATOES IN DANGER OF POWDERY SCAB

Soak seed In Corrosive Sublimate For Hour And A Half is Surest Preventative Says Prof. Stackman

Under no conditions should potatoes from unknown sources be bought for planting, says E. C. Stackman of the Minnesota College of Agriculture. There is great danger of introducing powdery scab potatoes into the potato-growing districts of Minnesota. But for the intervention of state authorities, a shipment of potatoes infected with powdery scab would have been unloaded on the Minneapolis market recently. Had these potatoes been planted, one of the most dangerous diseases would have been introduced into this section.

Powdery scab occurs in Maine, New York, Florida, Oregon, Washington, as well as in Canada and other foreign countries. It is found in the extreme northeastern part of Minnesota. Importation of potatoes from infected districts was forbidden just recently. Maine was quarantined when it was thought that the disease existed in that state.

Powdery scab is carried on the tubers and may live in the soil six or seven years. It can be distingushed by small, purplish blisters, which break open and rupture the skin of the potato, forming pustules about an eigth of an inch in diameter. Any potatoes suspected of carrying the disease should be sent to Plant disease Section, University Farm, St. Paul, for examination.

To avoid danger of introducing this or other diseases, all seed potatoes should be soaked an hour and a half in a solution of 4 ounces of corrosive sublimate to 30 gallons of water.

Stein Jorgenson spent the latter part of last week at Fisher, where he was the guest of friends.

ALL KINDS OF WALL PAPER.

The right selection of wall paper for your home means happiness and contentment, while lack of harmony means failure. Everything depends on a pleasant home. I have, to my best belief, selected the most beautiful wall paper this year that any wall paper book can show, and is low in price, although some have advanced in price—such as brown, green, red, blue and bronzed paper. I will sell any paper the same price as last year. Come in my shop and see my stock. If what you want is not in stock, I will be more than willing to show you my sample book to make your selection from.

EBERHART'S HAT IS IN THE RING

Announces Himself as Candidate For United States Senator To Succeed Moses E. Clapp.

ECONOMY AND PROTECTION

Together With Preparedness, Neutrality And Economy Are the Main Planks of The Ex-Governor's Platform

The Times is in receipt of the announcement of Ex-Governor A. O. Eberhart, whereby he places himself squarely before the people as a candidate for the United States senate at the primaries in June. The platform upon which Mr. Eberhart stands declares in favor of protection, preparedness, neutrality, economy, efficiency, prosperity and the retention of the Phillipines. His declaration follows:

To the people of Minnesota—having been honored by the people of Minnesota as few others, I have hesitated to seek further distinction, but my friends throughout the state point to the presidential primaries, in which every county in the state has given me such splendid endorsement, as indicating the sentiment of the people of Minnesota in regard to my candidacy for United States Senator, and in response thereto I have decided to file as a candidate for that office, subject to the Republican primaries in June.

My twelve years of public service, over five of which were as Governor of the state, has given the people intimate knowledge of my fitness for the position to which I frankly aspire. My record is before them, and upon that record of service I base my candidacy, which I hope and believe will meet with their approval. In it there is nothing to conceal, magnify or explain.

Among the specific acts which entitle my candidacy to consideration by the people of Minnesota, I wish to refer to Chapter 176 of the general laws of 1905, which gave the Railroad and Warehouse Commission absolute control over railroad rates; Chapter 177, of the same General laws, which forever abolished in this state the old system of railroad rebates; and Chapter 163 thereof, which established the State Highway Comission. The agricultural, industrial and social center work of my administration as governor is known and recognized by every state in the Union, and the favorable publicity given to our state, its people and institutions throughout the nation during that time is well known. My appointments, perhaps the best test of a public officer, have been uniformly approved by the people. The movement to reorganize the administration of state affairs along lines of greater efficiency and economy is here to stay, and will succeed as soon as the people of the state have realized its importance.

Regarding my stand on important national questions, I believe the people should be frankly informed, and I have never hesitated to take them into my confidence nor feared to stand by what I judged to be right.

The Tariff.

I am for AMERICA only, and stand for the adequate protection of the American laborer, the American farmer and the American business man, such protection to be enforced by a protective tariff, which shall equal the difference in cost of production here and abroad. In order to enact such a tariff and keep it forever free from partisan politics, there should be established a peranent tariff commission, such commission to be given all necessary funds and authority.

Preparedness.

I stand for adequate, defensive preparedness, to which proper military training, a strong navy and modern coast defenses are essential, in order to safeguard our country against invasion, but I do not favor a large standing army or any other form of militarism.

Neutrality.

In all our relations with every warring nation, I believe our country should observe a strict and impartial neutrality.

Economy.

In the interest of economy I favor a complete budget system for making appropriations. The old pork barrel methods should be abolished.

Efficiency And Prosperity.

One of the greatest problems of our nation is adequate agricultural, industrial and commercial preparedness, and the establishment of social centers in rural communities and cities alike, to insure the greatest possible development and best use of our resources as well as the greatest happiness and prosperity to all our people. I pledge myself to use every possible effort in securing for the whole nation the legislation which, during the past six years, has made Minnesota the leading state of the Union in agricultural, industrial, and and social development.

The Philippines.

In regard to our policy in the Philippines, I endorse the position of our Senior Senator, Knute Nelson, believing that we should retain these islands until their people are fit for self-government.

To maintain the high standing of Minnesota in the councils of our nation and to render the greatest service to the people of the state, which has so signally honored me, shall be my ambition, and to that end I pledge my best efforts.

NEW LYCEUM SERIAL IS APPROVED BY BIG CROWD

"Strange Case Of Mary Page" Starts Out Full of Mystery And Action.

"Did Mary Page kill the man she hated?" This is the main question to be answered in "The Strange Case Of Mary Page," now running as a serial in the Thief River Falls Times, and Minneapolis Journal and being shown at the Lyceum theatre in this city. The first episode was presented to large audiences at the matinee as well as at both evening performances on Monday, and the high grade acting of Edna Mayo and Harry Walthall has been the subject of comment about town since that time. The story bristles in tense situations and the mystery itself is one that will help keep the interest at the highest pitch. The second installment of the story is printed in the Times this week and will be seen at the Lyceum next Monday night.

The new manager of the Lyceum, H. O. Mugridge, is well pleased with the excellent patronage he has received since taking charge of the theatre. He announces that the general run of plays presented will be selected from the offerings of the Mutual, Pathe, General and Universal agencies. These have proven the best through years of experience and are the cleanest that can be procurred in motion pictures. Vaudeville will be presented at such times as guaranteed attractions can be secured. The admission prices will be five and ten cents, except when vaudeville is presented or some particularly high priced feature in pictures is shown.

Card Of Thanks.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kind assistance during the recent illness and death of our beloved mother and wife. We wish to extend especial thanks to the Lady Foresters, for their kind services.

Mr. Giefer and children.

THREE DEATHS IN ONE FAMILY IN SIX WEEKS

Peter Romness, who died last week at Lancaster and was buried at Thief River Falls, was the third member of the family to be called by death within a period of six weeks, two sisters, both residents of this city having preceded him. The first of these, Mrs. Ellenson, died here about six weeks ago, while about two weeks ago Mrs. Linde, another sister, succumbed to typhoid fever. Mr. Romness' death was due to heart failure, while the cause of Mrs. Ellensons' demise was diabetes combined with la grippe. It is rather unusual that three members of the same family, apparently in good health until within a short time before their death, should be called within such short space of time, death in each case being due to acute diseases.

The funeral of Mr. Romness was held on Thursday afternoon. Rev. I. T. Aastad officiating. Interment was at Green wood cemetery.

LOKEN BROS. DEPARTMENT STORE

A Strictly Up-To-Date Commercial College To Be Known as the Thief River Falls Business College

Will open on or before April 17

THE college will be under the direct management of G. M. Langum, expert accountant, who has had twenty-six years, experience in training young men and women for the higher-salaried Bookkeeping and Stenographic positions. Mr. Langum numbers among his former graduates hundreds of the most successful Business Men and Women throughout the United States and Canada, a large number of whom are connected with representative banking and business firms in this immediate territory. A large number of his students are employed as teachers of the commercial and shorthand branches in public and private schools and colleges throughout the country, several in the employ of business colleges in the Twin Cities and Duluth. Mr. Langum is the author of the most extensive system of Advanced Accounting taught not only in his own colleges, but now in use in one of the largest Minneapolis Commercial Colleges.

The Thief River Falls Business College Will be from the very start among the best equipped and most thoroughly practical schools of its kind in the land. It will make a specialty of training the students for the higher -salaried banking and business positions.

DAY AND EVENING SCHOOL

Will continue in session throughout the year—no summer vacations—students may enter at any time, receive individual instruction in any or all studies included in the

BOOKKEEPING, SHORTHAND and ENGLISH DEPARTMENTS

Students may enroll for any course without examination, all deficiencies in the common branches may be made up as required.

Do not hesitate to enter the Thief River Falls Business College because you may not already have a good general education. Our English course is intended for all, too old or backward to attend the public schools to advantage. If you earnestly aspire to secure a good and are willing to study, you are heartily welcome at the Thief River Falls Business College. The manager can refer you to a large number of his former men and women students, today successfully holding lucrative business and bank positions, who commenced with the first lesson in arithmetic grammar, spelling and cognate studies. What he has done for hundreds of others, he can do for YOU.

YOUNG MAN, YOUNG WOMAN,

if you aspire to secure a practical education—an education which will enable you to serve satisfoctorily from the very start the most exacting employer of skilled office assistants, please call, or send a postal for particulars.

WHEN YOU KNOW

something more about the Thief River Falls Business College and what has been done for hundreds of others, who commenced under less favorable conditions, perhaps, than yourself, you will want to attend.

An Opportunity Of A LIFETIME

Every young man and young woman who will arrange for a combination course in the Bookkeeping and Shorthand and Typewriting departments before the opening of the will not only secure a Life Scholarship at a liberal reduction, but may enter under a contract of a satisfactory position immediately upon graduation or all tuition money refunded.

You can avail yourself of this exceptional offer by enrolling now and enter upon your course on or before January 1, 1917.

EVENING SCHOOL

7:30 to 9:30 Monday, Wednesday and Friday. If not satisfied with your present position, and you cannot attend our day session, take advantage of our Evening School. We can name you hundreds of other young men and women who, because of the training afforded by our evening schools, qualified for some of the higher positions of responsibility and profit. What we have done for others, we can do for you.

Rates and Terms within the reach of all. Look through our magnificent college quarters. Nowhere else can you spend your evenings more pleasantly and so profitably.

I. R. McCreary, a silo manufacturer of Chicago, was in the city the first of the week looking up a local concern in which to place the agency for his product. He visited the Commercial club rooms and expressed surprise at the excellent crop exhibits on display there.

The sale of tickets for "What Happened to Jones" by the Commercial club has been handeled by Willis Akre, Harry Pritchard and Charles Anderson. The men have been exceptionally successful and a very large crowd is expected at the performance tomorrow evening at the Auditorium.

J. J. Aga, owner of the Aga Iron Works on second street, left Monday afternoon for Crookston to transact business. From Crookston he left for Fargo on a similar mission, and from there he proceeded to Perley, for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Dosland.

Judge Grindeland and Court Reporter W. O. Braggins arrived Friday evening in Thief River Falls from Mahnomen, where they had attended the term of court. Judge Grindeland conducted the hearing at the court house the same evening and proceeded on to Warren in the morning.

Mrs. Hans Langseth took her departure Monday evening over the Soo flyer for Decorah, Iowa, being called there by a telegram stating that her mother had died after a lingering illness. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. T. Neste, who arrived in the city earlier in the evening from Manvel, N. D.

Nels Karnes, one of the prosperous farmers living near Mavie postoffice, spent Saturday in Thief River Falls on a business trip. While in the city Mr. Arnes made the Times office a pleasant call and had his name added to the list so that he might be posted on all the happenings within the county.

Carl Thompson spent Wednesday evening at Red Lake Falls, where he took a number of orders for the "Big Six" shock absorber and snubber, which is reputed to take the jolts out of motoring. Mr. Thompson has just recently been appointed the agent in this locality and he reports having been very successful.

Charles E. Aiken, cashier of the First National bank of Grand Rapids, Minn., stopped over in the city Tuesday on his way to Middle River, where he paid a short visit to his daughter, Miss Jennie Aiken, teacher in the schools there. Mr. Aiken looked up a unmber of old acquaintences while here and had a very pleasant visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Barzen returned Sunday morning from Hot Springs, Arkansas, where they had spent the past three weeks on a pleasure trip. On the return trip to this city, Mr. and Mrs. Barzen visited with friends in Chicago for a short time, after which they left for Collegeville, Minn. where they visited with their two sons, who are attending St. John's college.

Louis Gautier, representing the Great Northern railway, was in Thief River Falls on Tuesday. He was asked, when in his opinion, the company would build a new depot at this point, but he only smiled and said that the people would have to go after it hard. He was assured that there would be no mistake made on this score when things are in proper shape to go ahead.

Henry Wilder, ditch engineer of Crookston, was a business caller in the city Tuesday, coming up from Red Lake Falls in the morning and returning to his home at Crookston in the afternoon. Mr. Wilder holds a number of ditch contracts in Pennington and Red Lake counties and it was for the purpose of looking after matters connected with these ditches that he made the trip.

Rev. I. L. Lassesson, former pastor of the Hauges Trinity church in this city but now located at Hastings, N. D., arrived Monday evening to look after his farming interests east of the city. While in the city Rev. Lassesson is a guest at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. T. Neseth, 622 Arnold avenue north. He expects to remain in the city until the latter part of this week, when he leaves for Hastings.

Three licenses to wed were issued at the office of Clerk of Court Harry Ives this week. The first was issued on Saturday March 18 to Jorgen A. Johnson of Mahnomen county, and Inga Vicker of Pennington. Two licenses were given out Wednesday, one being issued to Louis J. Clausen and Josephine Emma Jacobson and the other to Gustav Iverson of Red Lake county and Jennie Bammerud of Pennington.

T. K. Rynestad, residing about three miles northeast of Thief River Falls on the line of the Minnesota Northwestern Electric railway, is building one of the finest dwellings in that section on his fine farm. The new home will be strictly modern in every respect. Mr. Rynestad already has a fine barn on the place and the addition of this house will make one of the finest farm properties in that section.

John Mostrom, who conducts a grocery store at Neptune, stopped over in Thief River Falls Saturday visiting with friends, while enroute to Warroad from which place he will go to different parts in Canada to look over some land. Mr. Mostrom's store is situated on the banks of the Red Lake River and also runs a boat line from Neptune to the Red Lake agency. He was accompanied by Ole Lund, who left on a similar trip.

A large number of Red Lake Falls rooters accompanied their basketball team to this city last Saturday, when the down river quint was given the honor of playing a practice game with the district champions. Those who came up were: Messrs. Rollin, Pushingski, Leo Cyr, Coach J. Culhane, Ernest Keele, Donovan Sally, and A. Baum, and Misses Svedberg, Roberts, Roiden, Schwab, Hanley, Farley, Goss, Garceau, and Bryant.

J. P. Foote of Crookston, president of the First State bank of this city, returned to Crookston the latter part of last week after having spent some time in the country adjacent to this city and around Riemer, Minn. Mr. Foote reported that the lumbermen were quitting the big woods and were leaving for Duluth and other points. Many of the workers, he said, will return to work on ranches in North Dakota and Minnesota during the summer months.

Ole Hoberstad returned to his home at Lanesboro, Minn., Wednesday evening after spending the first of the week in the city attending to business matters. Mr. Hoberstad is the owner of the farm north of the city which is rented by C. A. Vermeer; the buildings on which were destroyed by fire about three weeks ago. He stated that the work of re-building new structures on the farm would commence at once and it was for the purpose of making arrangements for this that he made the trip.

Clarence Tromsness, employed at the Club Cigar store, who left about two weeks ago for San Antonio, Texas on a pleasure trip, returned Monday morning. On the return trip to this city he was also the guest of friends in Minneapolis, having been employed there a short time ago as chauffeur. While at San Antonio, Mr. Tromsness visited Fort Sam Houston, where 16,000 regular army men are stationed, and arrived there in time to see the scurry among the "regulars" when the news was received that Villa and his gang had made a raid on Columbus, New Mexico. He stated that after General Funston, who makes his headquarters there, had received orders from Washington to pursue the outlaws, preparations were made at once; aeroplanes, mules and other things being assembled, ready to make the dash across the international boundary, but were delayed until permission had been received from the Carranza government. The hottest day during his stay in Texas was on Mar. 9, when the mercury registered at 92 above in the shade, and Mr. Tromsness states that it was "some hot" as he trekked over some farm lands with his coat off and sleeves rolled up.

An innovation has been added to the Sunday evening program at the Princess for the past three weeks, in that local people have appeared on the stage in musical renditions. Last Sunday evening Joe Greenfield, director of the city band, delighted the audience by playing "Ave Marie" from Mascagni's "Cavaleria Rusticana," on a concertina just imported from England. His coronet solo was also ably rendered.

The first harbinger of spring has been seen, and was reported to have been in Thief River Falls on Monday morning. Miss Minnie Brown, who is teaching a term of school at Gully, returned early Monday morning to that place to resume her duties and it was on leaving on the morning train that one large red breasted robin was seen in the neighborhood of the Soo depot. The fact that the harbinger was a robin is a sure sign that spring has come—although the weather of Wednesday came far from resembling spring.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Gulbrandson arrived Tuesday evening from Bemidji, to make their future home in this city. Mr. Gulbrandson has decided to locate here, and will open a flower store the first of April in one section of the building occupied by the Thief River Cleaning company. Mr. Gulbrandson will carry a complete line of floral designs, cut flowers, potted plants, and other floral necessities. An institution of this kind has long been wanted in Thief River Falls, and he no doubt will enjoy a good patronage.

An electric self-buttering, self-feeding and self-salting pop corn machine was installed at the Minnesota Candy kitchen the first of the week, and Thief River Falls people are now getting their first fresh corn. George Christo, proprietor of the store says its a wonderful machine and does everything that is needed to be done, except take in the "change and sack the corn ready to be given to the customer. Each piece of the corn is thoroughly buttered as it drops from the popper into a channel where streams of butter ooze out

In a letter received by Miss Boyden from her father, the Rev. C. E. Boyden, former pastor of the local presbyterian church, at present located at Wentworth, S. D., he writes that they had their Annual Congregational Meeting there last week. The reports showed that the church was in the best condition in its history. Although they were paying a larger salary than they had ever paid yet they had met all their obligatios in full and there was a nice balance in the treasuries of the church, sunday school, and aid society. A unanimous request was presented to Rev. Boyden that he be installed as settled pastor at an advance in salary of two hundred dollars. Arrangements to this effect were made.

E. Wilcox returned Sunday morning from Monticello, Minn., and Bismark, N. D., where he had spent the past two weeks on a land-examining trip and attending to other important business matters. Mr. Wilcox also spent some time in Des Moines, Iowa., being called there from Bismark, N. D. He stated that it was sweltering hot in the middle states and to verify his statement handed the Times the following clipping from one of the Des Moines papers: "A weather record was broken in Des Moines yesterday afternoon when the mercury in the therometer aviated to 77. This is the highest temperature recorded at the local weather station before March 12, in any year since the station was built in Des Moines. The weather was so warm yesterday that many people sat on their verandas during the afternoon as in the middle of summer. Seventy-six, weather men say is summer heat."

Baby Monson.

The remains of the six-weeks' old baby of Mr. and Mrs. John Monson, 713 Stewart avenue, who passed away suddenly Saturday morning from stomach trouble, was taken to Thief River Falls this morning for interment. Funeral services will be held there this afternoon.—Monday's Crookston Daily Times.

Seed Potatoes.

We will have a carload of straight stock Red River Early Ohio seed potatoes on track here Saturday, March 25. By taking them direct from the car it will enable us to give you a better price. Now is your chance.—Tessum Seed, Grain & Supply Co.—M23.

Dr. Spofford, Optometrist, will be at Hotel Evelyn, Thief River Falls April 26

Mrs. Peter Giefer Crosses Divide.

Mrs. Peter Giefer, 215 Conley avenue north, a resident of this city for the past three years, passed away last Friday evening, March 17, at 6:45 p. m., after a lingering illness of several months, death being due to valvular heart disease. Funeral services were held from the Assumption church in St. Paul Tuesday and interment was made in Calvary cemetery. Mrs. Peter Giefer was born June 10, 1862 in St. Paul, making her age at the time of death 53 years, 9 months and 7 days. She spent the first twenty-two years of her life in St. Paul and after marriage removed to Nicolett county on a farm. In 1899 Mr. and Mrs. Giefer removed to New Ulm, Minn., where they resided three years previous to their coming to this city.

Mrs. Peter Giefer, whose maiden name was Margaret Rose Nospelt, was married November 11, 1884 to Peter Giefer in St. Paul in the same church from which the funeral services were held. To this union four children were born all of whom survive with the exception of one. They are Lizzie, Christine, Theresa and Mike. The only other survivor of the deceased is Peter Giefer, husband.

In the death of Mrs. Giefer, a dear and beloved mother has been called away and a vacancy has been made in the home that can never be filled. She was a christian, a woman of sterling worth of character and unfailing friendship, and her departure from this earthly life and will be mourned.

The Times extends its sincere sympathy to the bereaved members of the family.

AUCTION SALES

If you expect to have an Auction Sale this spring it will pay you to call on us before making definite arrangements elsewhere.

For a reasonable fee we will take complete charge of your sale—furnish auctioneer, clerk and attend to the advertising and settle with you in in Cash for the total amount sold. You run no risk of loss on auction notes in a deal of this kind.

Or, if you prefer, we simply do the clerking for you. Our wide acquaintance amongst the farmers in this vicinity makes it reasonably sure that any notes accepted by us in settlement of purchases will be found perfectly good and easily disposed of, in case you do not carry them yourself.

In either case, place it in our hands. It will pay you.

SHERMAN CALLS FOR VOLUNTEERS

Senate Resolution Authorizes Force of 50,000.

FEAR VILLA ESCAPED NET

Failure of American Troops to Clash With Him Causes Army Officers to Believe Bandit Chief Has Made His Getaway.

Washington, March 23.—Senator Sherman of Illinois introduced a resolution to authorize and direct the president at once to call for 50,000 volunteers for service in Mexico. Under the rules it lies on the table for a day.

San Antonio, Tex., March 23.—General Pershing's failure to report an encounter of his troops and those of Francisco Villa and the absence of news from Mexican sources relative to the outcome of the fighting between Villa's men and Carranza troops near Namaquipa caused some army officers at Fort Sam Houston to believe that once more Villa has escaped.

A few wireless reports from Casas Grandes were received, but only routine messages have come from General Pershing.

No time vill be lost in the dispatch of the Twenty-fourth infantry and the Fifth cavalry. Both should reach Columbus before the end of the week and it is the intention of General Funston to send them forward immediately.

SAILS ON SUDDEN ORDERS

Battleship Kentucky Probably Bound for Tampico.

Galveston, Tex., March 23.—The United States battleship Kentucky, which put to sea under sealed orders, sailed before it was possible to make deliveries of coal and supplies which had been ordered.

There are persistent rumors that the Kentucky was sent to Tampico, but no confirmation of these reports was had.

While quite prevails at Tampico there is an undertone of uneasiness among the American residents, according to reports brought to Galveston by nine refugees who arrived on board the oil tank steamer Topila. They report that there were several hundred Americans who are eager to leave Tampico.

Captain Wetmore of the Topila says there has been no trouble at Tampico or in the oil fields recently, but that there is some tension between Mexicans and Americans.

ARMOR PLATE BILL PASSED BY SENATE

Washington, March 23.—The Tillman bill, to provide for the erection or purchase by the government of an armor plate factory at a cost not to exceed $11,000,000, was passed by the senate by a vote of 58 to 23.

Democratic senators supported the bill solidly, regarding it as one of the important measures included in the national preparedness program now being hastened to completion.

Nine progressive Republicans joined with the majority in voting for the bill. They were Senators Borah, Clapp, Cummins, Gronna, Kenyon, Norris, Poindexter, Sterling and Works.

Passage of the measure in the house is regarded as assured.

WILL "PICKET" CONVENTION

Suffragist Plans in Connection With Democratic Gathering.

Chicago, March 23.—Illinois equal suffrage headquarters is completing plans for the suffrage demonstration at the Democratic national convention in St. Louis June 5. Suffragists demand a suffrage plank in the national platform. A "walkless parade" will be the feature. The "paraders" will stand in circles about the hotel headquarters and the Coliseum, where the convention is to be held. Delegates leaving and entering hotels or the convention hall will be forced to pass through the rings of women, who will seize this opportunity to present their arguments.

"Uncle Joe" Sarcastic.

Washington, March 23.—"By the grace of God, the treaty our president signed and William Jennings Bryan, we still have the Philippines and will have them longer than any of us live," is the lates by "Uncle Joe" Cannon in a house speech on preparedness.

Lightning Kills Sixty Cattle.

Freeport, Ill., March 23.—Sixty head of blooded Holstein cattle, valued at $50,000, were burned at Winslow, near here, when the barn in which they were housed was struck by lightning. They were owned by Fred J. Karlen.

RUSSIANS AGAIN IN CZERNOWITZ

Capital of Buckowina Abandoned by Austrians.

HAUCOURT HILL STORMED

Germans Heavily Bombard Defenses Around Verdun, but No Infantry Fighting Occurs—Turks Evacuate Fortress in Asia Minor.

London, March 23.—Abandonment of Czernowitz, capital of Bukowina, by the Austrians is reported in an unofficial wireless dispatch received here from Rome.

London, March 23.—A Bucharest dispatch forwarded by Amsterdam to the Central News says the Turks have evacuated Erzinjan, a fortress of Asia Minor, 120 miles west of Erzerum.

Paris, March 23.—No infantry attacks were made on the Verdun front during the night, the war office announced. The statement follows:

"West of the Meuse the artillery duel was very lively in the region of Malancourt, Esnes and Hill 304. A particularly violent fire was directed against the Haucourt hill.

"East of the Meuse the bombardment was intense in the region of Vaux and Damloup.

"The night was calm on the remainder of the front."

DUTCH DENY GERMAN PARLEY

No Representations Made Regarding Sinking of Tubantia.

London, March 23.—The Dutch foreign office announces no representations were made by Holland to Germany in connection with the sinking of the Tubantia, says a dispatch from The Hague. The Dutch minister in Berlin had been instructed to ask the German government to open an inquiry in view of statements made by officers of the Tubantia.

These instructions, however, were canceled when the German minister at The Hague made a declaration in behalf of his government.

WASHINGTON DENIES RUMORS OF PEACE

Washington, March 23.—President Wilson was represented at the White House as resenting publication of stories that Ambassador Gerard had reported Germany was about to make a move for peace. The published reports were characterized as being based on inferences. This statement was issued:

"President Wilson, through Secretary Tumulty, authorized a denial of stories appearing in papers to the effect that the purpose of Ambassador Gerard's remaining in Berlin was to await Germany's proposals for peace. There is no justification for that inference being drawn."

SOME ARMS PLANTS IDLE

Germany's Supply So Ample That Tension on Mills Is Lessened.

Berlin, March 23.—Germany apparently is immune from the ammunition supply trouble from which her opponents have been suffering. Some factories in Berlin which have been making shells are without contracts and work in others is not proceeding with the tension which marked the first months of the war. Current needs of ammunition are being amply supplied by plants in the provinces.

CANADA ENLISTS 280,000

Nearly 118,000 Men Offered Allies Are From Province of Ontario.

Ottawa, Ont., March 23.—Latest recruiting figures show that about 280,000 men have enlisted in Canada. Nearly 118,000 are from the province of Ontario, 55,000 from the province of Manitoba and Saskatchewan combined, 30,000 from the province of Quebec and 25,000 each from British Columbia, Alberta and the maritime provinces.

THREE DEAD IN COLLISION

Wreck on Minneapolis and St. Louis Road Due to Storm.

New Richmond, Minn., March 23.—Three men were killed and three injured, one probably mortally, in a collision of Minneapolis and St. Louis freight trains in a heavy snow storm on a curve near here.

The dead are Andrew Stover, Minneapolis, engineer of train No. 96, and Fred Harte and Olaf Wangen of Albert Lea, who were said to have been riding the freight to Waseca.

Auto Trucks on Way to Front.

Chicago, March 23.—Three trains bearing sixty-eight automobile trucks and water supply wagons are on their way to El Paso for service along the Mexican front.

SCHOOL NOTES

The drinking fountains in the various school buildings are scalded weekly, in order to insure cleanliness.

Easter vacations of one week begin on Monday, April 23.

State examinations in the common subjects are being taken by the 7th and 8th grades this week. The finals will occur the last week in May.

The basketball team, accompanied by coach Johnson, left on the Soo flyer Wednesday evening, for Northfield to participate in the state championship games. On the way back the boys will call on some of the state officials at the Capitol.

Boy's and Girl's clubs for bread making, sewing, calf and pig raising corn and potato growing, and poultry breeding are being organized this week in the rural schools. In October an industrial fair will be held in this city at which Pennington county boys and girls will make exhibits in the above named classes. Cash prizes will be awarded to the contestants.

The high school Glee Club will present an operetta next Wednesday evening at the Auditorium. This musical attraction is filled from opening to closing with pleasing material and, as the students have given it ample preparation, it will certainly be worthy the consideration of music lovers.

Miss Palmer's civics class presented a jury trial case in the assembly last Tuesday afternoon. A student prisoner was tried for a supposed theft of a book report and, following an hour's trial by the mock court, the prisoner was declared guilty. It was a practical application of one feature of civics teaching.

The basement floor of the Washington was suddenly flooded Tuesday last, by an inrush of water which forced its way through the floor in Mr. Werner's room. By breaking through the concrete floor in another place an outlet was made whereby the water was removed. This is but one feature of the danger and inconvenience of using basement rooms as class rooms for children. The State High School Board is correct in its judgment in absolutely prohibiting the use of basement rooms for school room purposes. The mere fact that Thief River has several of them in use is no evidence that the health of the child is conserved thereby, or that the state will much longer close its eyes to the illegal local conditions.

MUCH INTEREST TAKEN IN MUD LAKE OPENING

Filings Will Be Received At 9 O'clock On April 26, At Crookston Land Office.

The Register and receiver of the land office at Crookston announces that plats of the survey on the lands within the measured lines shown on approved plats of prior dates as Mud Lake, in township 156 north, range 42 west, fifth principal meridian, Minnesota, will be filed in that office at 9 a. m. on April 26, 1916, and that on and after such day we will be prepared to receive applications for the entry of lands in such townships.

This opening has created considerable interest in this city as well as in sections of the county lying near Mud Lake. The lands are situated in the two townships of East Valley and Mud Lake in Marshall county, the southern boundary of the tract being about 16 miles from Thief River Falls. The tract is very desirable and it is expected that there will be quite a rush on the opening day.

Come to the Model Steam Laundry any time and we will show you through the laundry and convince you that a modern laundry does not ruin clothes.

It is the only proper place to have your garments and other linen washed.

We turn our collars by hand and do not break them in folding.

With the new machines already installed this year, and more on the road, we will have a laundry equal to those in cities of much larger population.

You can do no better by sending your bundles out of town.

Our delivery covers the entire city.

CRANDALL CLAN MAKES BIG GAIN

At The End Of Second Series Of Whist Tournament They Lead Herrick's Men By 46.

INTEREST CONTINUES KEEN

Sponheim And Tandberg, A Crandall Team, Are High Men At Second Night's Play With 48 Points.

The tide has veered toward Dr. Crandall's bunch in the whist tournament, and President Johnson feels better. At the second game of the series on Tuesday evening the Herrick defenders only managed to total 317 points as compared with 369 for their opponents. As the game at the end of the first play a week ago stood 283 to 277 in favor of Herrick, it leaves the doctor's bunch with a clean lead of 46 points. The high score at Tuesday evening's game was made by Sponheim and Tandberg, Crandall adherents.

Table No. 8: For Herrick—Amundson and Furan, 39; for Crandall—[illegible] and Krohn, 27.

WEEK'S REAL ESTATE SALES OVER $16,000

Much Acitivity Shown In Farm Property With No Section Particularly Favored.

Farm lands still monopolize the attention of property purchasers, there having been hardly a piece of cityreal estate changing hands for the past three weeks. The transfers for six days ending last evening amounted to over $16,000, the record being as follows:

March 15.—Denis Conley to Fred Freitag, all of block 1 in Conley's second addition. Consideration $60, Ole Olsen Omlid to Geo. Baird, se¼ 14—153—40. Consideration,$ 3,000.

March 17.—D. S. B. Johnson Land company to Charles W. Stevens, et al., ne¼ 21—154—45. Consideration $3,040.

DIVORCE WITH ALIMONY GRANTED MRS. GRYTING

Husband Charged With Cruel And Inhuman Treatment Must Also Pay Action Costs.

Judge Andrew Grindeland this week handed down his decision in the case of Anna Sophia Gryting against her husband, Rev.Theo.Louis Gryting granting her application for divorce and stipulating that the husband pay $50 attorney's fees, $25 suit money and $15 per month. The suit alleges cruel and inhuman treatment on the part of defendant and recites a long list of indignities to which the plaintiff claims she has been subjected.

Before her marriage in Minneapolis on March 10 last, Mrs. Gryting was Miss Annie Sophie Netteland, the daughter of Lars K. Netteland, who has been clerk of Rocksbury for the past twenty years.

Both parties to this case reside in the village of St. Hilaire and are well know in Pennington county, and the matter has created considerable interest. The court finds that application for still further relief is permissable under stipulated circumstances.

Auction Sales.

An auction will be held on the Andrew Horachek place, 6 miles south of Goodridge, Friday, March 31, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. at which will be sold a large amount of live stock, machinery and household goods. E. A. Tanner is the owner of the property offered; W. J. La Bree is auctioneer, and Stephen Singer, clerk. A free hot lunch will be served at noon, and the usual terms will be offered purchasers.

Ole Brenna, auctioneer, will on Friday March, 31, sell the personal property belonging to O. H. Dovre and C. W. Christianson, located three miles east and one mile north of Holt. In this sale are included ten horses, eight cows, four heifers and one full blooded Holstein bull, and 70 chickens. There is also a large amount of farm machinery and household goods to be disposed of to the highest bidder. The Holt State Bank acts as clerk, and the usual terms will be given.

PEAT LAND MEN FRIDAY; STOCK BREEDERS FOLLOW

Former Will Hold Three Meetings In County And Will Be Asked To Remain Over.

Prof. Alway, soil expert of the University of Minnesota, accompanied by Prof. Hoverstad, agricultural agent of the Soo railroad, will hold three meetings for the discussion of peat lands in Pennington county on Friday. The first of these will be at Mavie at 10 o'clock in the forenoon; the second at Goodridge at 1:30, and the last at the Commercial club rooms at Thief River Falls at 7:30 in the evening. Because of the fact that the Pennington county Live Stock Breeders association is to hold a meeting at the club rooms on Saturday afternoon, it is feared that the attendance at Friday night's peat session will not be large. An attempt will therefore be made to induce the speakers to remain over and address the Stockmen on Saturday afternoon.

At this last-named gathering H. R. Smith, stockraising expert of the Great Northern, and Prof. Dickinson of the Crookston Agricultural school, will be the speakers. If Prof. Alway and Hoverstad can also be prevailed on to stay over there will be gathered a corps of experts such as is seldom seen at one time in any community.

Physicians' Hospital Notes.

Mrs. Theodore Sskenke of Holt entered the hospital Tuesday for treatment.

Cliffor Holman of Mavie entered the hospital Wednesday to receive treatment.

George Larson of this city was operated upon for appendicitis at the hospital this morning.

Mrs. P. Rushford was discharged from the hospital the first of the week, after having successfully undergone an abdominal operation. Her health is very much improved.

A. Moreau of Brooks was discharged from the hospital today after a two week's confinement.

CAME TO TOWN; RUN IN; WENT RIGHT OUT AGAIN

Norman La Jambie Finds Invitation To Stay Away Extended To Run Another Year.

On the ninth day of March, 1915, Judge N. W. Tarrant told Norman La Jambie to get out of town and not to come back for one year under penalty of being put carefully away for a period of ninety days. Norman, who is known all over Northwestern Minnesota as "Casey Jones," stayed a few days over the stipulated time, but came in from Red Lake Falls on the flyer Tuesday night—drunk. He was gathered in and met his old friend, the judge, next morning. The latter, seeing how well his prescription had worked before, repeated the dose, and "Casey" was enjoined to take himself forthwith from within the jurisdiction of the municipal court of Thief River Falls and stay out for the next twelve months. Norman went, and Judge Tarrant does not expect to see him again until about the middle of March, 1917.

The concert given on Wednesday evening by the choir of the Presbyterian church drew a full house and was well received, nearly every number drawing an encore. Mr. Mix and his assistants are certainly to be congratulated on their fine showing. The solo, duet and trio work was applauded heartily, but the finest part of the program was the chorus parts. Mr. Mix certainly has done great work in drilling and inspiring his whole choir. The interpretation was striking and the team work perfect. Everybody was in a happy frame of mind and out to enjoy the evening and to do their part. The readings by Miss Barackman, who is also a member of the choir, were remarkably well done.

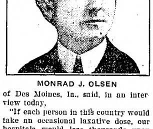
KEEP THOUSANDS OF PATIENTS OUT OF THE NATION'S HOSPITALS

Western Drug Merchant Discusses National Health



MONRAD J. OLSEN

of Des Moines, Ia., said, in an interview today,

"If each person in this country would take an occasional laxative dose, our hospitals would lose thousands upon thousands of patients."

Mr. Olson further stated that he was familiar with and had sold all the various laxatives, and that in his opinion, Rexall Orderlies is the most pleasant and sure remedy for constipation.

We have the exclusive selling rights for this great laxative. Trial size, 10 cents.

A TWICE-TOLD TALE.

One of Interest to Our Readers.

Good news bears repeating, and when it is confirmed after a long lapse of time, even if we hesitated to believe it at first hearing, we feel secure in accepting its truth now. The following experience of a Thief River Falls man is confirmed after a year.

E. T. Emerson, retired farmer, 417 LaBree Ave. N., Thief River Falls, says: "I was greatly annoyed by a lame and aching back and pains across my loins. I was in misery. My kidneys were weak and didn't act as they should and the kidney secretions were unnatural. I got Doan's Kidney Pills from Curtis' Drug Store and two boxes brought me fine relief." (Statement given March 16, 1912).

OVER A YEAR LATER, Mr. Emerson said: "This last fall, I felt a return of backache and again used Doan's Kidney Pills. One box removed the trouble."

Price 90c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Emerson has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—M23-30.

CLASSES WILL SOON PRESENT OPERETTA

"Bosn's Bride" Will Be Seen At Auditorium On Wednesday, March 29.

Miss Evelyn Grindeland, music instructor of the Thief River Falls school has in training the best singers among the senior, junior, sophomore and freshman classes for the presentation of an operetta on the evening of March 29. The offering will be the "Bosn's Bride," by Rhys Berbert, a pretty production particularly adapted to youthful performers and one which will give every member of the cast ample opportunity to display his or her vocal and dramatic ability. Assisting Miss Grindeland is Mrs. C. A. Pitkin, who will have charge as stage director. Besides the principals in the cast there will be a chorus of fifty girls and boys. The ladies having the matter directly in charge are working hard to perfect in their respective roles all those who will take part, and the affair should be the most successful and delightful of the early spring entertainments.

The admission price has been placed at 25 and 35 cents.

FIRE SUFFERER AIDED BY GENEROUS NEIGHBORS

C. A. VeMeer Receives Substantial Sum From Farmers And Local Business Men.

C. A. VeMeer, the school bus driver and farmer residing a short distance south of town who last week lost his home and all of his household goods by fire, this week received a lump sum of $381 to aid him in getting onto his feet again. J. B. Conner, president of the Thief River Falls Shippers association, interested himself in securing this temporary relief for his neighbor, and so successful was he in his self-imposed task that the above sum was paid over to Mr. VeMeer on Monday. While it is only a small amount when compared to the loss of home with furniture and all other contents, it nevertheless looks to Mr. VeMeer like a mighty big sum and comes at a most opportune time. He is most grateful to those who contributed and particularly to Mr. Conner for his interest in the matter.

FINE NEW DWELLING ON MARKLEY BRIDGE CORNER

Dr. O. F. Mellby To Erect $5,000 Residence on Site of Recent Home.

What will undoubtedly be one of the finest residences in this section will be erected early this spring by Dr. O. F. Mellby on the site of his present home, corner of Markley avenue and Bridge street. The structure will be of stucco, and finish and appointents will be the latest and most approved throughout. The cost, according to the architect's estimate, will be $5,000.

The interior finish of the first floor will be in oak, while the second story will be completed in western fir. The living room will be unusually large, being 15.6x25 feet. Besides this the first story will contain the dining room, kitchen, conservatory, sun porch and an elaborate front entrance, while on the second floor will be four large bedrooms with closets, a large toilet room and two sleeping porches, these last being placed over the sun porch. All rooms are to be spacious and well-lighted, comfort and convenience being the main idea in the scheme of construction.

The building at present occupying the site will be moved to another location and work commenced as soon as the weather permits. Contractors may file their bids on March 28, and these will be opened about April 5.

Joseph C. Lutz of Thief River Falls, is the architect.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS WILL ENGAGE IN CEMENT WORK

Blocks And Panels To Be Among Products of Manual Training Department.

The boys of the manual training department of the Thief River Falls high school have begun the manufacture of cement products under the instruction of Prof. M. A. Schmidtt. The forms for the work were completed by them last fall and experimentation with the material itself has been going on for some time. In order that the product resulting may be put to good purpose it is proposed that the blocks and panels now being turned out be used in the entrance of the Central school building when this is rebuilt. The boys are very enthusiastic in their pursuit of this branch and are making fine headway. The short course boys are at present engaged in the manufacture of screen windows and wooden hitching posts.

There are 11 boys enrolled in the mechanical drawing class, these being Leo Miller, Hobson Rogers, George Mostue, Wilbur Roth, Clarence Ringham, Victor Johnson, Clyde Nason, Francis Medderigh, Arthur Bryant, Earl Long and Gaylord Karnes. During the second year course these will take architectural and machine drawings, first year geometrical drawings, lettering, workshop drawings, blueprints and free hand sketching.

A particularly fine piece of work is being completed by James Smith, a short course boy. This is a Morris chair of large size and beautiful design.

Prof. Schmitt would be pleased if parents took a greater interest in this work of the department. They are always welcome at the workrooms and he is positive that a trip there would be of value both to themselves and the boys.

PLOW EARLY FOR GOOD CORN CROP IS ADVICE

Discing And Harrowing Are Essential In Insuring Better Crops.

If you did not plow your corn ground last fall, the earlier it is done now the better. Early plowing should be deep and the heavier the soil the deeper the plowing should be. When the soil is plowed four or five inches deep and cultivation of the crop is two or three inches deep, there is a loose bed of soil two inches deep for the roots to grow in. Plowing six or eight inches deep doubles this bed, and generally increases the yield.

If you plowed the ground in the spring it should be disced and harrowed as early as possible. Discing or harrowing should be done every week or ten days from the time the ground can be worked until the crop is planted.

The corn should be planted as early as the soil is warm, to give a growing season as long as possible. Early discing will make the ground ready for planting as soon as the season will permit. Planting should be done in the southern part of the state some time during the first ten days of May. The second ten days of the month is the best time for planting in the central part, and the last ten days the best time in the northern section.

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN IN HOCKEY CLUB PRODUCTON

"What Happened To Jones Will Be Most Popular Of Home Talent Plays.

The home talent play, "What Happened to Jones," to be put on by local talent for the benefit of the champion hockey team of Thief River Falls at the Auditorium Friday evening, Mar. 24, promises to be the best production ever offered by a local cast.

The players have been coached by Mrs. C. A. Pitkin, dramatic reader and prominent in club work, and this in itself insures a finished production. The members of the cast have appeared before the public on previous occasions, scoring a particularly happy hit in "Wanted a Wife" last winter when this old English comedy-drama was put on by the Commercial club.

The play is being given to aid the hockey team in cleaning up its obligations incurred during the past season, the team having been to considerable expense in the purchase of the equipment and in financing games prior and subsequent to their victorious invasion of St. Paul, when they captured the northwestern hockey championship and brought home the silver trophy cup.

The seat sale opens Wednesday, March 22 at the Peoples drug store and judging from the advance sales already made there will be a capacity audience made up of society people and public spirited residents of the city, anxious to give the boys a financial boost as well as to enjoy a clever comedy, put on by a well balanced and schooled company.

MINNESOTA FIRST STATE TO BUILD "TEACHERAGES"

New Arrangement Will Do Away With The Old System of Teachers "Boarding Around."

A system which might prove worth trying out by the school authorities of Pennington county is being established for rural teachers in nearby counties. This is a home for every teacher, so connected with the school building as to make his or her work more convenient and consequently more efficient. Mahnomen county has one such "teacherette" established and is making arrangements for extending the system. The Saum consolidated district in Red Lake county also has a building for a similar purpose, and teachers as well as school authorities maintain that it is the only sensible way of housing instructors.

Eleven districts of St. Louis county now house 25 teachers under the new plan and it is proving most satisfactory. Besides these are a number of counties throughout the state taking care of teachers in certain of their districts in this manner. It does away with the trouble many instructors find in securing suitable boarding places, makes it unnecessary to tramp long distances through the snow, and in many other respects is a decided improvement over the system now in vogue.

JUNIORS CHALLENGERS IN CITY CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Would Have Districts Assigned To Other Civic Bodies In Competition.

The members of the Boys Commercial club have issued a challenge to other civic organizations in the the city for a competitive clean-up campaign to be conducted for one week as soon as the snow is gone. The idea is to have the park board divide the city into districts and the representatives of the different organizations be alloted certain sections for the purpose of cleaning them up. It is expected that the city authorities will take an interest in the matter and prizes may be put up for the best job of cleaning up. Other bodies which will likewise take an interest in the matter are the Woman's club, the Antlers and the Commercial club, all of which are expected to add something to the awards. These will be divided into first, second and third prizes to be given to whichever team a committe of the park board decides has done the best work.

This is certainly a worth-while proceeding and firms and individuals interested in seeing the city looking its best as soon as the snow is gone are invited to come forward and contribute in order that the competition may be as keen as possible.

PHYSICIANS' HOSPITAL OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Secretary Froehlich's Report For Six Months Shows That Institution Is In Flourishing Condition.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Physicians' Hospital Co., held last Thursday afternoon in the office of Dr. H. W. Froehlich, the following officers were elected:

President—Dr. J. E. Douglass.
Vice President—Dr. O. F. Mellby.
Secretary—Dr. H. W. Froehlich.
Treasurer—Dr. H. G. Heiber.
Executive Committee—Drs. O. F. Mellby, H. G. Heiber, and F. H. Gambell.

The report of Secretary Froehlich for the six months the hospital has been in existence was read after the election of officers, and showed that the hospital had prospered. The report showed that 134 cases had been handled during the six months, out of which 80 were surgical cases, 11 confinements and 43 medical cases.

When the hospital first opened its doors, there was but one nurse employed. Now the force has been enlarged to five and additional nurses will be added within the very near future.

The Strange Case of
MARY PAGE

The Great McClure Mystery Story, Written by FREDERICK LEWIS In Collaboration With JOHN T. M'INTYRE, Author of the Ashton Kirk Detective Stories. Read the Story and See the Essanay Moving Pictures

Copyright, 1915, by McClure Publication

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Page, actress, is accused of the murder of James Pollock and is defended by her lover, Philip Langdon. Pollock was intoxicated. Shale, a crook and tool of Pollock, was on the fire escape watching for Langdon.

THE DRAMA OF THE LAW

WITH the entrance of the judge the turmoil of the vast crowd that filled the courtroom almost to suffocation subsided into a tense whisper of expectancy. The atmosphere was vibrant with it—taut as a violin string which snapped and brought the throng surging wildly to its feet when some one shrilled:

"Here she comes!"

At the back of the room men and women fought in a frenzy for foothold upon the seats of chairs, drowning the thunder of the judge's gavel with their clamorous hysteria, while those nearer the front were flung bodily against the steady wall of police beyond which stood Mary Page, framed by the grim shadow of the prisoner's door.

Mary was waiting, breathless, terrified, for "some one" to come. The judge looked at his watch and then at the door, and another whispering wave of sound too intangible to be called words swept over the room. Almost before it died, however, Philip Langdon, the brilliant young lawyer who was defending Mary Page from the charge of murder and who in his battle for her life was also battling for his own happiness, came in.

Mary Stretched Out One Slim Hand.

At sight of him Mary rose to her feet with a little childlike sob of relief and stretched out one slim hand with a quivering smile that was more poignant than tears and more pitiful than an outburst of grief.

"Poor little thing!" said some one and was instantly hushed by a burly policeman whose own eyes were suspiciously damp as Langdon, with a smile as brave as Mary's own, took her hand and bent over her with a whispered word of hope and greeting.

The judge rapped for order, and Langdon put back his shoulders with the gesture of one ready for the battle.

It was a trial which was engrossing the whole country. The victories and defeats of the great war and the fluctuations of Wall street were unceremoniously thrust into inside pages of the daily papers that the whole front sheet might be devoted to photograph after photograph and story after story of the lovely young actress, who was either a tragic victim of the law or—a murderess.

Column after column had already been printed about this young girl, who on the very edge of triumph as a star had been sucked into the malestrom of law beneath the shadow of the gallows. The story of her youth amid poverty and suffering, of her first stage success and her wonderful ability, had been told over and over, while woven through it, like a shimmering thread of gold, was the story, half hinted, half boldly detailed, of the love of Philip Langdon for Mary, whom he was now defending in the face of overwhelming evidence and inexplicable mystery.

There were stories, too—more guarded—of James Pollock, who had been found dead with Mary's unconscious form on the floor beside him—stories that hinted of a dissolute life and of other girls whom he had led to tragedy; stories of his wealth, his strange ambitions and his life of gilded ease, but at best in the eyes of the world he was only a lay figure—a bit of dead flesh upon which hung the vibrant living tragedy of Mary herself.

The formal routine of the opening of court was hurriedly gone through. The district attorney and Langdon held a subdued and secret colloquy with the judge, and then the first witness of the day was called.

"Mary Page!"

At the sound of her name Mary rose unsteadily to her feet, her eyes turned appealingly to Langdon, one trembling hand crushing back the little cry that rose involuntarily to her lips. But HER agitation was no more than an echo of the excitement that swept through the crowded room. Somewhere a woman caught her breath in a stifled sob, and at the back the spectators clambered upon their chairs, crowding forward in spite of angry whispers of "Sit down!" and the sharp rap of the judge's gavel augmented by the official, "Order in the court!"

To Langdon alone the calling of Mary came as no surprise, and he was at her side in a moment, whispering reassurance and urging her to answer as simply and clearly as possible the questions she was asked. His calm gave her back some measure of her own serenity, and her voice was low but clear as she took the oath and, stepping up into the witness stand, looked down upon that sea of faces. For a moment they swam before her eyes, and with a catch in her throat she remembered the last time she had looked down upon crowded faces; looked down across the footlights upon thousands of smiling lips and friendly eyes above a snowstorm of applauding white gloves. How long ago it seemed, and yet how short a time! And now the faces that stared up at her were avid with curiosity, some hostile, some sympathetic, but all pallid with the voracity of the sensation seeker.

Then her eyes, traveling beyond them, met the tear dimmed ones of her mother leaning forward yearningly from the witness bench, and because of the suffering on that face Mary smiled. Her first answers to the questions of the District Attorney were spoken with quiet dignity.

"Miss Page, isn't it true that James Pollock wished to marry you?"

"Yes." The answer was lower now, and a hot flush crept for a moment into Mary's pale cheeks.

"And you found his attentions unwelcome?"

"I had told Mr. Pollock that I could not marry him," she said firmly, and with a hauteur that wrung a little whisper of admiration from the spectators.

Abruptly the prosecutor changed his train of questioning.

"Now, Miss Page," he said harshly, "please tell the court exactly what happened just previous to the time when the revolver-shot was heard and Mr. Langdon found you unconscious beside the murdered man. Begin with the moment you left the banquet."

With a shiver of aversion Mary closed her eyes for a second; then, gripping the edge of the witness-stand, she began speaking slowly and with an obvious effort.

"When the boy brought me the message—I—was glad to go. They were drinking and were very noisy at the banquet—and I was tired. The boy showed me the door of the suite, and I went in."

She paused and covered her eyes as if to shut out something terrible that she saw.

"Mr. Pollock was in the room," she said at last. "He—he had been drinking—he wasn't himself—he could hardly stand. He—he said he wanted to talk to me alone for five minutes—and he wouldn't let me out, though I was afraid and begged him to."

"Did you try to get out? Was there a struggle between you and Mr. Pollock?"

She shook her head. "Not then," she said, with a little sob. "But—I was very angry—I told him he had tricked me—and I wouldn't listen to him. We—we quarreled over his being drunk, and—he tried to make me take a drink of the whiskey myself."

A shudder of repugnance swept over her, and her eyes grew wide and staring, and she swayed for a moment like a flower in a storm; then, with a tremendous effort, as one called back from the borderland to consciousness, she added hoarsely:

"I remember striking at him—and knocking the glass out of his hand. I heard it break—and then—I must have fainted!"

"Miss Page," came still another question, "if you had refused James Pollock—if you feared him—why did you grant him an interview late at night in a private room at the hotel?"

"Grant him an interview!" her voice rose in startled protest. "I didn't. That was why I was so angry—I had expected to find Mr. Langdon in that room!"

"Oh! You had made arrangements then to meet Mr. Langdon there?" Again the satiric note crept into the harsh voice, and a crimson tide rushed to Mary's pale cheeks.

"The boy told me," she said with dignity, "that Mr. Langdon was waiting to speak to me. I thought he had come to take me home."

"The boy—what boy?" The question leapt sharply now.

"Why, the bellboy who brought the message," she said in surprise, and, turning, pointed toward the group of witnesses where the small bellhop cowered, half covering his face with his shaking hands.

For the moment at least every eye was upon him, and some of the hostility vanished from those watching faces as a wave of surprised comment slipped from lip to lip. For after all, if Mary Page had indeed gone into that room expecting Langdon and not Pollock, it robbed the murder of the infamy of cool deliberation.

Mary herself was both surprised and confused by the sudden turn of events and, dismissed from the witness-box, returned to her own seat bewildered at the seeming importance attached to what had heretofore appeared so small a detail.

But it was anything but small in the eyes of the District Attorney and Langdon, and there was a gleam of triumph in the latter's eyes as the whimpering boy from the hotel took the oath. Before he went into the witness-box, however, the judge leaned forward and frowned down at him.

"Do you understand, Joe," he said harshly, "that what you have just taken is an oath? And that the law can put you into prison for perjury if you do not tell the exact truth after taking that oath?"

"Y—yes, sir!" stammered the boy "I'll tell the truth, s'he'p me Gawd!" Light laughter ran through the room, but the court attendant immediately called for order.

"Tell us exactly what message you carried to Miss Page in the banquet room," said the District Attorney, when quiet reigned. "It was Miss Page you took the message to, wasn't it?"

"Yes, sir, it was her. And the gent in the gray suit he says, 'Tell Miss Page Mr. Langdon wants to see her here at once.'"

"And you delivered the message just that way to Miss Page?"

"Yes, sir."

"Why didn't you testify to this at the Coroner's inquest?" It was the judge this time, stern and implacable, and the boy in the witness-box cringed and burst into tears.

"They—they—n-never asked me wot the message was I was takin' to her. I—I didn't think it mattered."

With an exclamation of exasperation the prosecutor sat down, turning the small witness over to Langdon, into whose tired face fresh hope had now come. His voice, as he spoke to the boy, was gentle and friendly, and the snuffling lad wiping his eyes with the back of his hand answered him eagerly. He seemed glad to find someone who didn't frighten him.

"Do you understand, Jce, that what you have just taken is an oath?"

"Joe," said Langdon, his voice full of kindness, "that night wasn't the first time you had seen Mr. Pollock, was it?"

"No, sir," said the boy in his shrill young voice. "Everybody knew James Pollock at the Republic. He came there a lot—him and Mr. Slade."

"And he was pretty generous in his tips, wasn't he?" The question was quiet, and the District Attorney, who had made a move to interrupt, sank back without speaking as the boy answered:

"Oh, so-so! He could afford to be."

"And so, on the night when he asked you to take that message to Miss Page, he gave you a good big tip, didn't he?"

"Yes," said the boy, beginning to whimper again. "But I didn't do it for that. I didn't think there was any harm in the message. He says to me, says he, 'It's just a joke I'm playin' on her, Joe,' he says. 'I want to fool her.' And he gimme five dollars—and laughed—and told me to beat it—and I did."

"That is all, I think," said Langdon with satisfaction, and the boy crept back to the witness-bench, striving in vain for some of the jaunty assurance that had marked him in the earlier hours of the day. He had thought he would be a little hero after his testimony and that he would enjoy the fleeting publicity; but he was ashamed of the laugh he had made.

The prosecutor himself was almost equally discomfited, for it had been his plan to build up stone by stone a towering temple of evidence to prove that Mary Page had in cold blood plotted and carried out the murder of James Pollock, and now the boy's testimony had in a minute undermined the whole structure. It forced him to play his trump card at what he feared was the wrong moment, but except for a harassed frown he showed little signs of his disappointment as he again called Mary to the witness-stand.

"Have you ever seen this revolver before, Miss Page?"

She came more willingly this time; it seemed somehow less of an ordeal for she sensed that things had gone in her favor for a moment, and she did not even flinch when, with a flourish, the District Attorney took up the revolver (lying with the other exhibits of the case before the jury) and, thrusting it toward her, asked sharply:

"Yes. It belonged to Mr. Pollock."

"Was it in his possession on the night when he was murdered?"

"No." Her voice broke now and fell. "It was in my possession then."

"And you had it at the Hotel Republic."

"Yes."

"And was it your habit," the prosecutor's voice was satirically mocking, "was it your habit, Miss Page, to attend banquets with a revolver in your handbag?"

Mary flushed angrily.

"The revolver was lying on my dressing-table at the theater," she said, "and I put it into my bag, intending to give it to Mr. Langdon, but—I forgot it."

"It was an unfortunate loss of memory for Mr. Pollock," said the attorney dryly, with a glance at the jury. Then he abruptly waved the witness away, as though it would be a waste of time to question her further. Langdon halted her.

"Will you explain to the court," he cried, "how that revolver came into your possession, Miss Page?"

Gaining courage at his tone, and the smile that accompanied his words, Mary turned toward the jury and in that beautiful modulated voice that had held so many audiences spellbound, she told rapidly, but in detail, the story of Pollock's visit to her dressing-room on the afternoon of that fatal day. She faltered a little over the recital of his abrupt proposal and, woman-like, put in the world-old apology for his brutality by the simple statement:

"He was drunk, you know."

Then, vividly, her slender hands gesturing and her voice rising with poignant memories and pride of Langdon, she told of the latter's entry in response to her screams and of his battle with Pollock. Tensely silent, but with every nerve alert, the crowd listened as she described how Pollock had pulled the revolver out of his pocket only to drop it.

"He tried to pick it up again," she said, unconsciously visualizing for them the picture of the struggling men. "but I crawled close and snatched it up before he could reach it."

She paused, and when she would have taken up the thread of her story again, Langdon's hand stopped her.

"That is all, thank you, Miss Page," he said, and the District Attorney, surprise on his face, but with a new glint in his eyes, got quickly to his feet.

"I crave the court's permission to ask the witness one more question," he said, and as the Judge waved assent he asked slowly, knowing the sensation his question would create:

"Miss Page, was there anyone else in the room at the time this struggle was going on?"

"Not—not exactly in the room," said Mary, after an instant's hesitation. "There were people outside the door, and—and my maid, who had been out, ran in during the excitement."

"Is your maid Janet or Jeannette Beauchamp?"

"Yes." Mary's voice was uneasy now, and her eyes met the frightened ones of the maid, who had risen with the apparent intention of leaving the room. But before she had reached the door the prosecutor had waved Mary from the stand and the clerk called loudly:

"Janet Beauchamp!"

There was a startled cry of "Oh, mon Dieu!" and the Frenchwoman paused, wringing her hands, the center of attention. She made a half movement as if determined to escape anyway and defy the law, but the sight of the police that guarded the exits and the stern repetition of her name brought her reluctantly back. She murmured a little prayer and crossed herself as she took the oath, but the cool friendliness of the prosecutor's voice reassured her.

"Janet, how long have you been in the employ of Miss Page?"

"Two—no, tree years zis season."

"And was it usual for you to leave the dressing-room when your mistress was getting ready for the street?"

"No, monsieur—sir!"

"But you had been told to leave her on this particular day?"

"Told to leave!" Janet's voice rose in Gallic excitement. "Mais non! I had but gone to ze petite milliner, for ze new flowaires for ze blue gown."

"Who told you to go?"

"Monsieur Daniels, he come in, and he and mademoiselle, they talk, and he say pourquoi could I not go to get ze new flowaires—ze orchids, since ze shops would not be close for one half hour yet. And Miss Page she say, certainment that I should go then, for she could finish to dress by herself for once."

"How long were you out?"

"Oh, je ne sais pas—I mean, I do not know. Maybe fifteen, maybe twenty minutes. I come back quick, parceque there are two kinds of orchids at ze shop, and I want mademoiselle to see zem both."

"And isn't it true," shouted the District Attorney, suddenly leaning forward and fairly hurling his words at the witness, "isn't it true that when you came in you saw Miss Page threaten Mr. Pollock with this revolver?"

He caught up the weapon as he spoke and thrust it under her eyes. The maid, with a quivering little scream of horror, shrank back amid a murmur of sympathy from the crowd. She could not speak."

"Isn't it true?" persisted the prosecutor harshly. "Answer my question—or tell us just what you did see when you came into the theater upon your return from the errand."

Bursting into a storm of tears, Janet flung out her arms in a wild gesture.

"It is true," she sobbed. "Mees Page, my mademoiselle, she was standing—and she had ze revolver—pointed at Mr. Pollock—and he—he—ran out of ze room."

At the words, Mary, whose hands had been twitching nervously throughout the maid's testimony, rose to her feet with a little gasping cry as if she would speak; but before the words came she swung suddenly about and crumpled into a little heap on the floor.

In an instant the whole room was on its feet, surging forward toward the dock, and the sobs of the maid were echoed by more than one woman among the spectators, where sympathy for the time ran high, though the pendulum swayed back when someone said shrilly with a derisive laugh:

"She's a good actress, is Mary Page!"

But the judge's gavel quelled the excitement and the dire threat back of his curt words that unless there was order in the court he would clear the room, was like oil upon the troubled waters of the sea of onlookers, and they sat in hushed silence as Mrs. Page and Langdon knelt beside the unconscious form of the slim young prisoner, bathing her temples and chafing her wrists until the momentary respite of nullity forsook her and she opened her eyes to the suffering of reality.

"Was there any one else in the room?"

At the sight of the fear on both Langdon's and her mother's face, however, she struggled bravely to regain her self-control and when the clerk called the next witness she was again in her chair. Very white and wan, but erect, her pallid lips set firmly to hold back the threatening tides of emotion and weariness that were sweeping over her.

The drumming in her ears and the little waves of nausea that are the aftermath of a fainting fit made events blurred to her for a little time, and it was with a start of surprise that she recognized in the new witness her erstwhile leading man.

The mere sight of his graceful figure and his boyish face; that handsome juvenile expression that was his stock in trade brought a flood of memories surging over her, and the shocked pity in his eyes made her realize keenly the difference that lay between Mary Page the prisoner and Mary Page the star.

His testimony was to a great extent a repetition of what had gone before. He had been at the banquet; had seen the boy bring the message to Miss Page and had bidden her good night when she left. A few minutes later the sound of the shot had taken him down the hall with the others and into the room where Pollock and Mary lay—the one dead—the other unconscious.

"It was I who first urged that some one call the police," he said in his well-trained, youthful voice. "I would have gone myself, but I wanted to be sure first whether I could be of service to Miss Page."

"Was that the reason you refused to leave the room when ordered to do so by Detective Farley?" The prosecutor's voice was dry.

Langdon's Lips Grew Grave Again at the Next Question.

"I resented his tone, sir," answered the young actor. "And besides," flushing, "I was her leading man and I felt that it—it was my place to be with her rather than that a lot of strangers should hang about."

An involuntary smile crossed Langdon's lips, but they grew grave again at the next question.

"After your ejection by Detective Farley and Mr. Langdon did you leave the hotel?"

"No, sir. I waited in the hallway in case I was wanted."

"Did you re-enter the room?"

"Yes, sir—not immediately, but when I heard a confusion of voices following the re-entry of the house detective and Mr. Langdon."

"Could you hear what was said?"

The actor flushed and hesitated, and then answered slowly:

"Yes, sir—in part."

"Will you please repeat what part you heard?"

"I heard Mr. Langdon say, 'But good God, there's only one door, she must be some place in here,' and the detective said, 'Well, she's not—you can see that.' Then Mr. Langdon said, 'There's the window—perhaps she's out there— I'll see.' And his voice sounded queer and excited as if he were frightened, and the detective said, 'No, nothing doing on that, sir—just remember, Mr. Langdon, that as yet I've no way of knowing whether that shot was fired before or after you entered this room!'

"Did Mr. Langdon reply?"

"Yes; he said, 'You d—— fool, what do you mean?' But just then the police came up and ran in, and I went on in with them, and the detective shouted, 'Some of you go down that fire-escape and hunt for a girl in an evening gown without either cloak or hat—and one of you keep your eye on this man Langdon—he was either in this room or at the door when James Pollock was murdered!'"

Milwaukee To Tap Red River.

Duluth.—The Duluth Herald says the Duluth, Huron & Southern Railway company, which organized last summer in Huron, S. D., will commence laying track between Dakota terminals and Duluth this year.

The company has bought a right of way from Duluth to Whapeton, N. D., and Huron. The line will tap the fertile grain-growing territory of the Red River Valley and afford an ample outlet at the Head of the Lakes.

The company, while capitalized for $25,000, will float a bond issue of $20,000,000 in the east. The officers are: F. W. Henderson, president and treasurer, St. Paul; G. W. Morrow, vice president, St. Paul, and Chas. Wolfe, Whapeton, secretary.

Would Consolidate Districts.

Bemidji.—Nymore is to hold an election in the near future to vote on the question of consolidating her school district with that of Bemidji.

A petition praying for such an election is now being circulated in Nymore by Otto Morken of the Nymore board of education.

This action on the part of Nymore follows a conference on Monday eveing of this week between members of the Nymore board of trustees and the Bemidji city council and a previous conference between members of the Nymore and Bemidji boards of education.

Coming To The Show.

St. Hilaire Spectator.—The Thief River Falls Hockey Ass'n will present George Broadhurst's famous comedy "What Happened to Jones" at the Auditorium in Thief River, next Friday evening March 24th. The play is an excellent one and many from here are planning to attend if the roads are passable at that time.

Will Pension Teacher.

Crookston.—Thomas Casey, pioneer school teacher and educator of Polk county, has received notice that under the teachers' pension act of the laws of Minnesota, he will receive a pension amounting to $500 per year, beginning Sept. 1 next. He has been identified with educational pursuits here for the past thirty years. Mr. Casey began his duties as an instructor in Michigan at the age of 19, where he successfully taught in the city and country schools for six years.

Indian Would Go To Congress.

Brainerd.—Edward L. Roger of Walker, county attorney of Cass county, will be a Republican candidate for Sixth district congressman and will make his campaign largely on the platform that the Indian bid should be modified, if not abrogated. Interest attaches to his campaign because Mr. Walker is a Chippewa Indian and in a sense is expected to voice the Indian side of this controversy.

Mr. Rogers is serving his second term as county attorney of Cass county. He attended school in Minneapolis, then Carlisle, Dickenson college and graduated from the law class of the University of Minnesota in 1904.

In 1907 Rogers was judge of probate in Mahnomen county and helped to organize the first Chippewa council in 1913, being its first president.

Foley Dry By 17 Votes.

Foley.—The latest addition to the dry villages in the northern part of the state is Foley, the people there voting out the saloons by a majority of 17, those favoring the closing of the liquor establishments casting 115 ballots to 98 cast by those who were in favor of the saloons continuing.

Baudette Boy War Victim.

Baudette.—Mrs. Flora Chase of Baudette received a telegram Sunday announcing the death "Somewhere in France" of her son Bert. The young man left Baudette several months ago for service in the British Army in the European war, and letters were received regularly from him, telling that he was getting along nicely. The wire gave no particulars of his death, merely stating that he was dead. The young man was about twenty-one years of age, and before enlisting he was employed in Alex Germain's resturant. He was a fine young man and had many friends, who will regret to learn that he enlisted among the millions who have laid down their lives in blood-soaked Europe.

Attempts To Kill Brother.

Crookston.—Jim Hill, a young bachelor farmer of Parnell, and Robert Morrison, an old settler of the Red Rier valley, residing in Nesbit were taken to Fergus Falls asylum by Deputy Sheriff Anton Nelson last night. Both are suffering from hallucinations but with treatments may be able to recuperate. Hill, without warning to his brother, John, fired two shots from his revolver at him. Both shots missed and a tussle ensued in which the revolver was taken from the apparently insane man. He was brought here late yesterday afternoon and adjudged insane by Judge of Probate A. L. Hovland. In examination Hill remembered nothing of the shooting and could not remember much of his previous life.

Morrison's troubles are said to have resulted from sickness and worry. He is past 70 years of age.

May Get 50 Barrel Mill.

St. Hilaire—The party who has been looking over the situation in this village with a view to erecting a 50 barrel flouring mill was here again this week. He interviewed several prominent farmers and found hearty approval of his plan. He will return later when the roads become passable and expects to make a canvass of the territory tributary to the village. He stated, a fifty barrel mill would be large enough to supply all the needs of the community.

CLUB NOTES

Turkey and extra good program Tuesday, March 28 at the club rooms. JulianProvencher will cater. "Bring a friend."

Better roads near Thief River Falls and how to obtain them, will be the important subject under general discussion at the club dinner next Tuesday. Spring is here and it is time to plan actual work on the roads near home. We need action, not talk and theorizing and it is to the interest of every liveryman, auto owner and all public spirited men to attend this meeting and lend their voice to the formulation of definite plans for work.

It should be unnecessary to call attention of the club members to the fact that club dues should be paid promptly. The Commercial club aims to meet its obligations promptly; it can only do this when the club dues are paid promptly.

Plans for the annual club dinner and round-up, to be held May 3 on the anniversary of the opening of the club rooms, are being made. This will be an important meeting, at which time an outline of work for the year will be made and committees informed of just what is expected of them.

Speaking of committees; each chairman has been furnished with a list of the standing committees and is expected to call his committee together at the club rooms and go over work already undertaken or prospective, with the secretary. There is enough work on hand at this writing to keep each committee busy, for a time at least, and if the plan of referring everything to committees is to be followed to the letter, these committees must get down to business.

A cut of the Junior Commercial Charter members group appeared in a Minneapolis daily recently and many inquiries have been received from other organizations as to the plan, introduced here last month and found to be a very happy solution of the younger members.

This group photo will appear in the American City and Town Improvement both eastern publications, in the April issues.

The private cue rack is for individuals having private cues and not for the cues of the club equipment. Members who have misunderstood this and have selected a club cue for their locker, are requested to bear this in mind.

Even now members are beginning to talk of that proposed auto run to Warroad this year. The plan is to take up at least two days in the trip, have the night control at the Lake of the Woods and a trip on the lake will be one of the features of this big Commercial club outing.

The chairmen of special and standing committees are to remember that a report is expected at every club meeting. If nothing to report on a proposition handed over to the committee say so. An accurate history of committees will be kept this year and will be part of the annual report at the end of the year. Please bear this in mind.

There are certain sections of the city that for uncleanliness and filth, say nothing about menace to health, that are a disgrace and a reflection upon the property owners themselves. Plans for clean-up week should be made early this year and actual work begun as soon as possible.

We are to have the Bankers convention in April and the Federation of Women's clubs early in the spring. Let's clean-up the city early.

A Commercial club bulletin, issued monthly and devoted to the interests of the club, city, and more especially the farming territory adjacent to Thief River Falls, has been recommended by the secretary and will be considered by the directorate in the near future. This plan of keeping members in closer touch with club activities and of affording a pamphlet which may be used for advertising purposes by land men and others, has been adopted by all Commercial clubs working on a systematic line of endeavor and with the other methods of publicity available, the most for the minimum cost can be obtained in this way.

The club will consider the advisability of purchasing more billard and pool tables early in May. It is necessary to cut the garment according to the cloth and the directors are making haste slowly in this respect until an approximate idea can be obtained of about what the club will have to depend upon in the shape of finances this year.

Don't sit back and whine about the club and what it is doing and what it is not doing; in some cities, they load up a barge with members of the anvil chorus each year, tote the barge out into the lake and sink it. Of course, we have no lake here but—we have a number of good voices in the "chorus."

If every member of the club will make it a point to attend two meetings and take a part in the discussions, he will discover that some mighty important and difficult problems are being tackled by the boosters of the city and that if they fail, it will not be from a lack of earnest effort. Get into the game, it's not so hard and you will actually like it.

Parents are invited to investigate the plan of the Junior Commercials and to present the names of their sons for membership.

THIEF RIVER FALLS ASTONISHED BY SIMPLE MIXTURE.

Thief River Falls people are astonished at the INSTANT action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka. ONE SPOONFUL removes such surprising foul matter it relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. Because Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH lower and upper bowel, a few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. F. G. Stebbins, druggist.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Facts

GET the facts on the operating cost before you buy any automobile. Find out the truth before—not after. And don't be satisfied with hearsay or a salesman's claims. The price of gasoline is high; so is oil and there is sure to be an increase in the cost of all tires.

So, what you want is the car that will give you most miles per gallon of gasoline, per gallon of oil and per set of tires.

Here are the facts proved by the Maxwell stock touring car that recently set the World's Motor Non-Stop Record:

Maxwell World's Non-Stop Record Facts
Miles without a motor stop	22,023
Miles per gallon of gasoline	21.88
Miles per gallon of oil	400
Average miles per tire	9,871

Remember that this was a Non-Stop Endurance Record—in order to prove that the Maxwell car was exceedingly sturdy, reliable and trouble proof.

No attempt was made or could be made to save gasoline, oil or tires. So these figures merely indicate what would be possible under ordinary driving conditions.

Right now we have a Maxwell we can deliver to you. Let's not put it off. We know the Maxwell factory can't get half enough freight cars to carry their doubled output. Later on we may not be able to supply you. But we can NOW. Better phone us for a demonstration today.

Mogul 8-16 Price Announcement

The Real Kerosene Tractor

ON and after April 1st the price of the Mogul 8-16 will be $725 cash f. o. b. Chicago. All sales made and bona fide orders taken up to April 1st will be filled at the present price of $675 cash f. o. b. Chicago. We want to post you ahead of time on the coming change.

Mogul 8-16, as you know, is the famous tractor that has cut fuel costs squarely in half—operates on cheap, common kerosene or coal oil—doesn't have to be the highest grade either. It pays for itself in the saving over gasoline. That is why the rise in price—necessary because cost of raw materials has risen so high—is of minor importance.

Mogul 8-16 is saving and making profit on thousands of farms of all sizes. It will do much more for you than your horses can. Get in your order now—be ready for spring work. See the dealer who sells the Mogul 8-16.

HOW TO GET THIS $2.25 ALUMINUM GRIDDLE AT A SAVING OF $1.40

Get 50 cents' worth of Karo from your grocer, and send the labels to us together with 85 cents and we'll send you this $2.25 Solid Aluminum Griddle by prepaid parcel post.

HERE is a clean cash saving of $1.40—and thousands of housewives have already taken advantage of this remarkable chance to get an aluminum griddle for less than the wholesale price.

This Aluminum Griddle needs no greasing. It doesn't chip or rust. It heats uniformly over entire baking surface—doesn't burn the cakes in one spot and leave them underdone in another. It doesn't smoke up the kitchen—and the cakes are more digestible than when fried in grease.

At great expense we are seeking to place a Karo Aluminum Griddle in the homes of all Karo users, so that Karo—the famous spread for griddle cakes and waffles—may be served on the most deliciously baked cakes that can be made.

You know Karo, of course. Nearly everybody does—65,000,000 cans sold last year alone. And you doubtless know the wonderful cleanliness and duribility of Aluminum ware.

If you are a Karo user already then you know all about this wonderful syrup—you know how fine it is as a spread for bread; how delicious it is with griddle cakes, waffles, hot biscuits and corn bread.

Get 50 cents' worth of Karo from your grocer at once, and send the labels and 85 cents (P. O. money order or stamps) to us and get one of these Aluminum Griddles by prepaid parcel post.

Remember that our supply is going fast—so get your Karo today. We will also send you free one of the famous Corn Products Cook Books.

St. Hilaire News

"The Schemers."

A play entitled the "Schemers" by Harry L. Dixon, was given at the Imperial hall Thursday evening by the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades and the high school of our local school. The play was given in four acts and showed a great deal of high school spirit in every phase of the play. In act two the students put on a circus and showed several very odd and amusing personages such as a little woman with limber limbs, a wild man, a fire eater, tall lady and short fat man, a haunted room, and several clowns; all of which were very good. In the fourth and last act the young people pictured a good old fashioned picnic and the delicious luncheon displayed was very tempting to the audience. Everyone left the hall that evening more than satisfied with the performance, and surprised that the amateur performers could display such fine talent.

St. Patrick's Day Ball.

One of the liveliest dances of the season was given at the Imperial hall Friday, March 17th. Music was furnished by the Wetzel orchestra, consisting of Clair Jones and Mr. Wetzel. A large crowd was present, the music was good, and everyone enjoyed themselves immensely.

St. Patrick's Party.

Mr. ad Mrs. Hiram Roth and Mr. and Mrs. Garth Roth were hosts and hostesses to a large number of their friends at the Garth Roth home, near town, Friday night. The evening was spent in contests and games suitable for the occasion. A delicious luncheon was served shortly after mid-night, and the party brokeup at 2:00 a. m. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Mike McAndres, Mr. and Mrs. Hurst and family, Miss Alice Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Buck and family, Mr. and Mrs. Shoopman, Mr. and Mrs. Beebe and family, and Dr. and Mrs. Dann. They all declare the Roth families to be ideal entertainers.

Passes Away.

Lyon Russel Shulz, the three months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Shulz, died at their home Sunday morning. Funeral services were held at the Black River church and interment was made at that cemetery. Rev. A. Olson officiated. The bereaved parents have the heart felt sympathy of the community.

New Scenery For Opera House.

The scenery for the Imperial opera house arrived Monday and is being put up this week. The scenery is composed of a parlor, a street, and a woods scene, and is a vast improvement on the old one. The front curtain contains the advertisements of our most progressive business places. The scenery as a whole is an excellent addition to our neat little opera house.

Donations For Band Suits.

J. J. Patterson, G. I. Fellman, and Dr. J. E. Owens, a committee under the auspices of the St. Hilaire Commercial club, have been busy the past week canvassing the town, collecting donations for the St. Hilaire band, which will be used for the purpose of purchasing band suits. The business men have shown the right spirit toward the cause and a considerable sum has been raised. The suits have been sent for and we will soon have as well appearing and as qualified a band as any other village our size can boast of.

"New-Comers."

Last Friday K. T. Dalager of Herman, Minn., and Mr. Dwyer of Lind, Minn., unloaded four carloads of cattle and horses, poultry, farm machinery and household goods at the Great Northern tracks. Mr. Dalager is to locate on a fram recently purchased by him, formerly known as the "Ness" farm five miles east of our village. Mr. Dwyer is to settle on his farm located six miles east of here. Both parties seem very well pleased with the appearance of our country and our people hope they prove successful farmers in Northern Minnesota.

SHORTAGE OF PAPER IS SUBJECT OF WARNING

Prices Are Steadily Increasing And Government Urges Conservation of All Usable Material.

In common with all other printing offices in the country, the Times has been hit by the steadily increasing rise in the cost of paper. Thus far it has been possible to maintain former prices in most instances, but how long this can be kept up is something that cannot be foretold. Should the upward trend continue it would be absolutely imperative that the cost be assessed against the printed product. And it is not only in the matter of paper that printing houses are feeling the effect of the shortage. Inks, type, rollers and in fact everything that enters into the manufacture of their product has increased anywhere from 25 to 200 per cent.

The shortaage in the paper supply has become so serious as to call forth a warning from the department of commerce. A circular sent broadcast urges the saving of rags and old papers and their return to manufacturers. The department wishes to make it known that the collecting and saving of rags and old papers would greatly better the existing conditions for American manufacturers.

The circular continues:

"Something like 15,000 tons of different kinds of paper and paper board are manufactured every day in the United States and a large proportion of this, after it has served its purpose, could be used again in some class of paper. A large part of it, however, is either burned or otherwise wasted. This, of course, has to be replaced by new materials. In the early history of the paper industry publicity was given to the importance of saving rags. It is of scarcely less importance now. The Department of Commerce is glad to bring this matter to the attention of the public in the hope that practical results may flow from it. A little attention to the saving of rags and old papers will mean genuine relief to our paper industry and a diminishing drain upon our sources of supply for new materials."

FIRST MOVE MADE FOR PURE WATER

President Ackerman Introduces Resolution Providing For Bond Issue To Meet Cost.

30 THOUSAND DOLLARS

In Five And One-Half Per Cent Bonds Is Amount Proposed For Making Extensions And Installing Filtration Plant.

An ordinance introduced by President C. W. Ackerman of the city council at the meeting on Tuesday night provides for the first move being made in the direction of securing pure water for the people of the city. Mr. Ackerman has given this matter much thought since coming to Thief River Falls two years ago, and has become convinced that this is the most important question now confronting the people. The Times has steadily upheld him in this attitude, and has advocated pure water at all times and in preference to everything else, and knows that its agitation has been largely responsible in awakening the people to the necessity of doing something to secure this necessity.

The ordinance introduced by President Ackerman provides for a bond issue of $30,000, drawing five and one-half per cent interest and running thirty years. It will be known as Series No. 5 of water works obligations, and provides that the money shall be used for extensions and the installation of a filtration plant, capable of furnishing 100,000 gallons per day.

The new pool room ordinance came up for final reading and was passed by a vote of four to two, Alderman Benson and Ihle voting "no."

Christ Wiste was present and offered to compromise an old claim of the city for unpaid plumber's license fees by the payment of $20.00 at this time and the taking out of a new permit on the first of May. His offer was accepted.

C. Rasmussen and Company were granted a building permit for the erection of a garage on Main avenue between Fourth and Fifth streets. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000. Permission was also granted Matt Barzen to repair the building recently damaged by fire at 112 La Bree avenue north.

City Engineer George W. Walker was instructed to make a survey of the route of the proposed sewer on the East Side, and report to the council on April 11. The engineer presented an estimate of the cost of the improvement, this totaling $6,858. There are 220 lots fronting on the streets through which the sewer will pass, and the assessment against these will be approximately $21, while the assessment against the remaining 100 lots in the district will be about $2.50.

City attorney Theodore Quale reported that he had taken up the matter of removing or otherwise disposing of the outhouse at the Great Northern depot with the officials of that road, and that attention to the matter at once had been promised. The committee appointed at a previous meeting for the purpose of investigating the matter of gates at railway crossings was given further time in which to report. In this connection Mayor Gambell said that while he advised care in any proceedings, that might be taken, he was strongly of the opinion that the crossing at Eighth street should in some way be safeguarded. At present the place is decidedly dangerous, according to the mayor, and he thought it would be good policy for the railroad as well as the city to have some safety device provided.

Two different gas companies sent communications offering to install plants and furnish their products to the people of the city if a franchise could be granted them. The matter was discussed and City Clerk Fasel was instructed to invite further correspondence on the subject.

A number of farmers from north of town were present at the meeting and asked the aid of the city in getting a road from their neighborhood into town. This is the highway referred to last week in the Times, as running past the Soo round house and northward along the river. A bridge would have to be provided across the Thief River and this would cost in the neighborhood of $3500. The farmers of the section and business men of Thief River Falls have raised about $1600 toward the project and it was the intention to request some aid from Pennington county. The city was also asked to contribute towards this bridge inasmuch as it would make this the trading center for a large number of people. The matter will be taken up at a later date.

Supt. Peterson of the electric light plant, was authorized to secure two lifting cranes for the power house at a cost of about $100. A street light was ordered placed at the corner of Sixth street and Arnold avenue.

The job of printing certain assessment sheets for use by the city assessor was awarded to The Times.

"Turkey With Fixings."

One of the most successful of all the Commercial club lunches was the "stand-up" affair on Tuesday evening. The birds and accessories had been prepared at the Evelyn kitchens by Manager Julien Provencher, who also acted as chef at the lunch. He had provided one of the finest suppers in the history of the Commercial club and he was there to see that the diners were properly served. He is getting to be an artist at this kind of thing, and no small part of the success of the gathering was due to his good judgment.

After the supper a round table discussion on various subjects was held. Good roads, peat lands, homestead laws and many other subjects were informally talked over and steps taken to rectify any of them that are not at present perfectly satisfactory. It was a good supper and a good meeting.

PIGS, POTATOES, CORN AND CALVES

These Will Be Principal Items Displayed At Boys' And Girls' Industrial Exhibit.

LAST WEEK OF SEPTEMBER

County Fair Association Will Contribute $200 In General Prizes And Shorthorn Breeders Will Give $10 For Best Calf.

The Pennington County Boys' and Girls' Industrial exhibit will be held during the last week in August. This was the decision reached at a meeting on Saturday night at the office of John Bratrud, at which were present officers of the fair association and Supt. Hay and Prof. Werner of the schools.

The contest will be held under the direction of the department of agriculture at Washington and the extension division of the state university. The County Fair association at the meeting on Saturday evening passed a resolution appropriating $200 to be divided as prizes among the successful contestants, and the state offers free trips to the state fair to winners in the pig-raising and bread-making contests. Besides these a prize of $10 is offered by the State Shorthorn Breeders association for the best calf raised by any boy in the county. Other prizes by the Commercial club and local merchants will be announced later.

The corn contest is open to all boys under 18 years of age. One acre must be planted and cultivated by the contestant, and a record of cost and hours of labor should be kept. One-eighth of an acre must be devoted to the raising of potatoes by anyone entering in this division of the competition. No particular variety of potatoes is designated, but the work of planting and cultivation must all be done by the contestant. The same general conditions will govern in the calf-feeding, pig and poultry-raising, bread-making and sewing competitions. The Commercial club has offered the loose corn in the club room as seed and will furnish such other aid in this direction as may seem expedient when the contest gets properly under way.

This boys' and girls' competition will be a permanent adjunct of the county fair, and the fact that the high school and Commercial club are cooperating with a view to aid the competitors will add to its prestage and insure everything being done to keep the interest alive.

There will be a grand round-up of all the clubs in the county held at the Commercial club rooms, Thief River Falls, during the second week in April, when final instructions will be given those wishing to enter the contests. Prof. T. A. Erickson, state organizer of boys' and girls' clubs, will be present to deliver an address and give all the aid possible in getting things properly started.

Much interest is already shown in the contests and every school district in the county is expected to have representatives at the round-up meeting and in the competitive tests. All the eligible boys and girls in the township of Silverton have already signified their intention of becoming contenders, and it is predicted that Pennington will have the largest number of competitors of any county in the state.

LOCALS STAR AT STATE TOURNEY

BOUQUETS HANDED BOYS

Out Of The Ten Teams Only Two Resemble High School Players—Virginia "Cops" Title In Easy Manner.

"The best team lost." This is the statement made by Official Referee Anderson, of St. Olaf College, when asked by Coach Johnson to give his opinion of the state tournament, after Virginia high school had won the state championship. Another statement in favor of the Thief River Falls high school quint by Official Umpire Lynch, of St. Cloud, when he said: "Your boys played a mighty fast game with Fergus Falls and if you would have had two minutes more you would have beaten them and it would undoubtedly have been clear sailing for you for the rest of the time."

The boys returned home Monday morning from the tourney after engaging in one game, and all were quite liberal in telling how it all happened. The story as told by coach Johnson to the Times representative is as follows:

"We got there in time for the drawing of teams alright. The name of each team present was written on a piece of paper and all shuffled in a hat. Then the drawing took place and the teams that drew consecutive numbers were matched. We drew Fergus Falls and were scheduled to clash at 7:30 that evening.

"That evening the boys were feeling fine and it looked like a sure victory, even though Fergus Falls had players that didn't resemble high school boys. At the blow of the whistle the boys were off and started good, ending the first half in a whirlwind, with Fergus Falls in the lead. During the second half the boys made another desperate attempt to get in the lead and played a hot game all through. The game ended in favor of Fergus Falls, by the score of 25 to 27.

After the game the boys received many bouquets and the general opinion was that Thief River Falls played the best game on the Carleton floor.

STAR ROUTES MAY BE REPLACED BY RURALS

Mavie May Be Made Starting Point For Germantown And Kratka Mail Service.

R. S. Griggs, postal route inspector was in Thief River Falls this week for the purpose of investigating the advisability of changing the star route system now employed for the delivery of mail to Germantown and Kratka and placing same under the rural route regulations. This would mean that the starting point of the service would be at Mavie instead of Thief River Falls.

Mr. Griggs' present trip, however, was simply for the purpose of making an inspection of conditions with a view to giving the patrons in the Germantown-Grygla section the best possible service. The farmers of the section are getting good service over the present star route, but it would doubtless be somewhat better if it were changed to the rural division. In that case the mail would go to Mavie over the line of the Minnesota Northwestern.

DUMPING REFUSE INTO RIVER IS DANGEROUS

Dr. J. E. Douglass, city health officer, announces that the cases of typhoid fever reported last week are getting along well and that no further instances of the disease has come to the notice of the department. The wells from which the city obtains its supply are still under the ban, however, and the warning against using water from this source is in effect as fully as ever.

With the spring clean-up another danger presents itself. During the winter some people have been hauling manure and other refuse onto the ice, and this will be an added source of danger when the river opens. The water from the stream is used for many purposes by people in the outskirts of the city and these are warned against the practice, at least until the spring freshets are over. At the present time the water in the river is very much better than that secured from the wells, but this condition will not likely continue.

IS LAST CHANCE FOR BIG PRIZE

A Little Work May Get You A Prize of $50 In Gold Or A Share In Merchandise Prizes.

WRITE AD AND WIN MONEY

It Is Going To Be An Easy Matter For Someone To Get The Fifty In Gold—Ask The Advertisers.

Can you write an ad?

If so, your chances for securing $25 in gold or valuable merchandise prizes are very good.

Write an ad for each one of the merchants represented in the big double page contest advertisement in this issue. If your ads are best your work will be rewarded by the payment to you of $25 in gold by The Times. Besides this you will get a merchandise prize from every merchant whose ad is accepted.

For the best ad accepted The Times will give give $25 in gold.

For the next best, $15 in gold.

For the third best, $10 in gold.

Besides this the firms represented are giving special merchandise prizes to the value of $150.

All of which you can get in on by writing a few ads.

Write an ad, or as many as you like, for one or more of the firms represented on the contest page. Deliver same to The Times office not later than Tuesday morning of next week with your name signed at the bottom. The winning ads will be printed in the next issue of the paper and the one having the best will be awarded the first prize of $25 in gold. The party having the next best will get $15 in gold, and for the third best $10 in gold will be given.

Call at the different business houses represented and find out what they have to advertise. You may get one of the cash prizes offered by The Times and are sure of a merchandise prize, the value of which will more than repay you for the trouble you have taken in writing the ads.

Go to any of the advertisers and tell them that you wish to compete for the prizes offered by writing their ad. They will be glad to help you.

Someone is going to get quite a little money for very little work. Try it.

Write an ad and win a prize. There are absolutely no strings or conditions attached to this.

Read the ads, ask the merchants for suggestions and go to work.

FLOWER SEED GROWER WILL BE HERE SOON

Has Definitely Decided to Locate In City And Is Seeking Suitable Location.

S. F. Mercer, seed grower and nursery man of Larimore, N. D., who about a month ago was in Thief River Falls looking over the situation with a view to putting in gardens for the growing of flowers and seeds, has definitely decided to come, and will be here in April to select the plot of land to be devoted to gardening. In a letter to Secretary Lincoln of the Commercial club, Mr. Mercer says that he will be here as soon as the snow is gone. "The town sure looks good to me," continues Mr. Mercer, and he is very enthusiastic over the prospects for his industry.

As soon as a suitable tract is selected Mr. Mercer will begin the work of getting the ground into shape. He will plant about 40 varieties the first year, and these will comprise practically every kind of flower that can be grown in this section. There is considerable interest shown in this enterprise by the people of the city and it should prove successful from the start.

SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING OF SYNOD HELD HERE

The semi-annual meeting of the Thief River Falls circuit of the Synod Norwegian Lutheran church was held at Rev. I. T. Aastad's church here on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, between 40 and 50 delegates being present. Rev. E. O. Savo of Grygla, was leader in the discussion, the topic of which was Matt. 16: 24-28. The Rt. Rev. K. Bjorgo of Red Wing, president of the Minnesota district conference, was present and took active part in the proceedings. The others present were: Rev. Bjornson, Mavie; Rev. Ordahl, Holt; and Rev. G. Storlie, Warren. The last named clergyman was for many years a missionary of the church in China, and he delivered a very interesting lecture on the "China Mission of the Synod Church," on Tuesday evening. Rev. Storlie was forced to leave the missionary work in the far east because of the failing health of Mrs. Storlie, and accepted a call to the church at Warren upon his return to this country.

The next meeting of the conference will be at Warren in November.

Tarrant's Friend In Mexico.

Judge N. W. Tarrant has received a copy of the Fox Lake Representative, a paper printed in his old home town in Wisconsin, in which is published a letter from a man the judge knew as a boy, who is now with the United States army looking for Villa in Mexico. That campaigning is no more of a picnic now than formerly is seen by the following: "We have slept on the ground since we came to this part of the country and though the rest we got, especially the first few nights, was not much, I am getting used to it now. In our hike we carried 180 rounds of ammunition, canteen full of water and our roll, which altogether weighs about 70 pounds, so when you do 15 to 20 miles you have done something."

COMMITTEES TO TAKE UP WORK

Peat Land Experimentation And Homestead Laws Will Receive Much Attention Here.

LATTER IS UNREASONABLE

Requirement That Twenty Acres Be Under Cultivation Before Proof Is Made Should Be Altered So As To Include Meadows.

As a result of the recent meeting held here, at which Prof. Alway, state land expert, delivered an address on peat lands, a committee has been appointed to spund people interested on the subject of collecting a fund for the purpose of aiding in making experiments on the peat lands of the county. At the meeting of the Commercial club held on Tuesday evening President Geo. G. Johnson was instructed to appoint such committee, and he has selected the following: Gay Halvorson, chairman; Senator D. P. O'Neill, Dr. C. R. Crandall, C. W. McDaniel and W. A. Barnard. This committee will take up the work of securing pledges of sufficient money to permit of certain small tracts of peat land being worked scientifically with a view to ascertaining their value for general crops. The state will undoubtedly undertake the supervision of the work, but Prof. Alway stated that it was somewhat doubtful if an appropriation to defray the cost could be gotten through a legislature at this time. The importance of putting these lands in condition to bear crops, however, is fully realized by the people of this section, and it is thought that no trouble will be found in securing sufficient capital to make the investigations without state aid.

The injustice of requiring a man to have 20 acres of homesteaded land under cultivation before he can prove up on same was discussed at the same meeting, and President Johnson was instructed to appoint a committee to bring the matter to the attention of our representatives in Washington. E. M. Stanton, C. L. Hansen and T. A. Way were appointed on this committee.

The "cultivated land" referred to in the government requirements is taken to mean plowed land, and to require a man to have this amount is unreasonable. It is proposed to request congress to so modify the ruling as to permit meadows to come under the head of cultivated lands.

"THE MAN ON THE DRY GOODS BOX" APRIL 2

The committe in charge of the arrangements for the men's mass meeting on Sunday afternoon have decided that the Presbyterian church would not be sufficiently large to hold the crowd, and have changed the place of meeting to the Auditorium. This is to be a gospel gathering for men, and will be addressed by E. W. Peck, state secretary of the Y. M. C.A., whose subject will be: "The Man on The Dry Goods Box." Those who heard Mr. Peck at the recent get-together banquet here need not be told that he is an eloquent and forceful speaker, and those who did not hear him on that occasion should not miss the opportunity of doing so on Sunday.

The musical program will be particularly delightful feature of this gathering. Dr. Vistaunet has charge of the musical part of the program, and as he is desirous of getting together those wishing to take part, these are advised to communicate with him either by phone or in person.

BOARD MEMBERS ARE DEADLOCKED

Business of Selecting Architect For Proposed School Work is Not Progressing Very Well.

THREE ARE FOR LOCAL MAN

An Equal Number, However, Maintain That Construction Should be In Charge Of Man of Greater General Experience.

The school directors of District No. 18, Pennington county, are deadlocked over the selection of an architect to draw plans and have charge of the building work contemplated by the district during the coming summer.

The name of but one architect has been considered, three members of the board favoring him and the other three demanding further proof of his qualifications before entrusting the work to his care. In the meantime the entire project is at a standstill, and so determined do all parties seem, that it would not be surprising if some system for meeting the shortage of school room other than by building were evolved and the entire matter left for the people to decide at the annual school meeting in July. This would make the proposition an issue in the election, and candidates would have to align themselves on one side or the other.

Dr. O. F. Mellby, Lars Backe and C. A. Pitkin, the members favoring the local architect say that he should be given the preference because of the fact that he is a resident of Thief River Falls, has a number of good buildings—school houses among them—to his credit, and that it would work untold injury to a young man to have it become known that the people of his own town thought so little of his ability as to take their work to an outsider. They claim that he is thoroughly competent, responsible and reliable, and refuse to take into consideration any plan by which he is left out of the reckoning. They further maintain that any plans turned out by him would have to be submitted to the state school authorities for approval, and that all danger of their being faulty would thus be eliminated. These members say that they will not recede from this position, as it is the proper and patriotic attitude to assume.

The other three members of the board, Dr. F. H. Gambell, W. W. Pritchard, sr. and H. S. Dahlen assert that they have the highest regard for the local man, but that in a matter involving the expenditure of fifty or sixty thiousand dollars of the people's money they must exercise the utmost care. They also state that the buildings proposed must meet the most severe tests, and a slight error in judgement on the part of the architect or unchecked carelessness by the contractor might bring on the most serious consequences. These members admit that business buildings erected from the plans and under the supervision of the local man are good, but they also insist that he has not been so fortunate in his work where schools were concerned. They claim that they are open to conviction, however, and simply require a proof of qualification.

One member of the board, in speaking of this matter to the Times, said that at the present moment he and all his colleagues seemed very determined and were taking themselves quite seriously, but that a way might yet be found out of the difficulty. He hoped that a "saving sense of humor" would intervene to take the tenseness out of the situation, which he did not regard as by any means hopeless. He added, however, that his own particular view of the situation was undoubtedly the correct one.

Two other members said that it is quite likely that some way out of the trouble, outside of erecting more buildigs, will be found.

The matter of testing out the Gary system has been considered and may prove the solution, at least until after the annual election in July. Under this plan it would be necessary to make certain of the rooms answer for two different sets of scholars, for instance, one class would be called at 8:30 in the morning and continue until noon, while the time of another class would be extended until about 4:30 in the afternoon. This would necessitate the hiring of a few more teachers, but it is figured that the cost of these would not be much greater than the interest on the bonds necessary in order to raise funds for building.

PRODUCE HOUSE OPENS SATURDAY

D. C. Biddick of Wadena, Here, Location Selected And All Preliminary Arrangements Made.

WILL HANDLE EVERYTHING

Hamm Brewing Co. Building Secured And Will Be Re-modelled to Meet All Requirements Of First Class Commission House.

D. C. Biddick, a member of the Biddick company, commission merchants, with warehouses at Wadena and Deer Creek, Minn., has been in town this week making all the preliminary arrangements for the opening of the Thief River Produce company. The opening will take place on Saturday, at which time the place will be in readiness to take charge of any consignment that may be offered.

It is the intention of Mr. Biddick to remain here and take active charge of the business himself. As warehouse superintendent he has secured the services of W. H. Willie, now a resident of Thief River Falls, and a man of much experience in the management of general produce houses. During the summer months, and until such time as the crops are harvested this fall, the business will of necessity be devoted largely to the handling of butter, eggs, veal and poultry. These products will always find a ready market here from now on, and this will prove a decided convenience for the neighboring farmers. Hay will be one of the products largely dealt in, and a stable market for this commodity will be created.

One of the specialties of the new commission house will be the furnishing of seed to farmers. In this department a specialty will be made of potatoes. As this staple is one to which the firm pays particular attention at all its warehouses, they secured the seed best adapted for growing in this section. Mr. Biddick has personally made a study of the potato conditions and is an authority on the subject. He will gladly take this matter up with anyone, as he is desirous of insuring as large an acreage as possible in this neighborhood. A large portion of the concern's potato supply is shipped east, but a steady market is provided at the head of the lakes and on the iron ranges, at which points a tremendous business is transacted each year. The prices there are always the best, and the potato growers will find that their crop will bring a sure and satisfactory cash return if delivered to the firm here. Seed corn will also be a leading feature of the business, this having been selected from hardy northern-grown stock.

The name of the branch located here will be the Thief River Produce company, this being adopted to distinguish it from the company's other houses. The concern is well known and absolutely reliable. Mr. Biddick, who intends to make his home right here in Thief River Falls, is a man of the highest reputation and anyone having dealings with him is assured of the most liberal and courteous treatment. He wishes to co-operate with the farmers in every way possible and to that end invites them to pay a visit to the company's office. This will be located at the warehouse, on the Soo tracks at Fourth street.

GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS ARBOR DAY, APRIL 28

Advocates The Beautifying of Landscape Through The Planting Of Trees And Flowers.

Governor J. A. Burnquist has issued a proclamation setting aside April 28 as arbor day in Minnesota. This has heretofore been largely devoted to appropriate exercises by the school children, but it is now urged that municipal authorities, factory proprietors and land holders generally take an interest in the matter. The proclamation is as follows:

The season of the year has again arrived when every home in Minnesota can be beautified by the planting of trees, shrubbery and flowers, and when in our schools special study of aboreal life should be encouraged by fitting exercises and all of our citizens by proper activity be made to realize more fully the practical and aesthetic value of plant culture and tree life.

It is remarkable what a difference the manifestation of even a little community interest in the promotion of arboriculture makes in the appearance of the grounds of schools and public buildings and of all our farms and municipalities. An illustration of the combination of beauty and utility is the present day practice on the part of many employers of labor of making the surroundings to those working for them pleasant by having contiguous to their factories and shops grassy plots and lawns on which have been planted shade trees, vines and flowers. This custom cannot too highly be commended, and with very little expense and work could be adopted by a much larger number in our different communities and in all walks of life, whereby many places that are now eye sores would be transformed into spots of health and beauty.

Closely associated with the care and growth of trees and plants is the protection of bird life. The hostility and indifference of mankind to the feathered creatures of the woods should be eliminated and all possible efforts advanced to save from extermination these friends and companions of man, who not only gladden him with their charm and the melodies that they pour out, but who are of much practical value in destroying many of the enemies of trees and crops.

In order to set apart a certain day for the observing of which, wherever convenient, appropriate ceremonies may be held, I, J. A. Burnquist Governor of Minnesota, do hereby designate and proclaim Friday April 28, 1916 to be Arbor and Bird Day.

Witness my hand and the great seal of the State of Minnesota affixed hereto this 22 day of March, 1916.

J. A. Burnquist
Governor

Attest:
Julius A. Schmahl
Secretary of State.

STEENERSON WOULD TEST MILITIA BILL PROVISION

Believes President Should Have Power To Order State Troops To Foreign Duty.

Representative Halvor Steenerson of this district, thinks there should be a court test to decide whether or not the President has the authority to send the militia of the different states out of the country. A recent dispatch from Washington says:

While secretary of war Newton D. Baker continues to decline to discuss the possibility of calling the National Guard into service it is known that plans have been prepared in the war department for bringing citizen soldiers into service that can be put into a presidential proclamation at a moment's notice.

Reassuring dispatches relative to Luis Herrea, the Carranza comander in Northern Mexico, have eased the situation somewhat and the war department officials say that the calling of the militia into service is not an immediate prospect.

There is no doubt in the minds of the military experts that the National Guard will be needed. Representative Halvor Steenerson author of the present law, has always contended that there should be a court test of the opinion of Attorney General Wicham declaring unconstitutional the paragraph in the bill, giving the president authority to send the militia out of the country. The indications are that there will be such a tese if the military preparedness law carries such a provision.

BEMIDJI IS AFRAID OF BEING DOUBLE-CROSSED

Claim Made That Movement Is On Foot To Deprive City Of Jefferson Highway.

The people of Bemidji very properly figure that their interests in the Jefferson highway is interlocked with those of Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls. The movement, therefore, to build the road through Detroit and Crookston and thence on to Fargo and Winnipeg, is meeting with strong oppositon at the Beltrami city. The Commercial club there has taken the matter up and will fight to a finish for the road originally mapped out. Inasmuch as Thief River Falls's chances of securing the highway depends almost entirely on its striking Bemidiji first, the citizens of that enterprising city may be sure of all aid available in support of its contentions from this direction. Referring to the matter the Bemidiji Sentinel says:

How Bemidji may possibly lose the Jefferson highway was explained to the members of the Commercial club Tuesday evening by Frank S. Lycan, proprietor of the Markham hotel of this city, and who has taken an active interest in getting this New Orleans to-Winnipeg road. Mr. Lycan said: "At the meeting held in St. Paul on February 2, when the Jefferson highway was discussed by the state highway commission it was the understanding that the highway should come to Bemidji, and out of the body of 250 men that were present, practically every one was agreed that Bemidji should be the northern central point, but since that another city has sprung into prominence and is now beginning to attract considerable attention as a logical place through which to route the Jefferson highway. The latest plan is to route the highway to Detroit, Minn., then to Fargo and north to Winnipeg. I do not think that Bemidji will lose the highway, but we will have to keep alive and watch every movement closely. Crookston is working with Fargo, more to get a north and south trail than anything else, as they are now on the Wonderland trail which extends east and west. Thief River Fall and Red Lake Falls want the trail to go through Bemidji and then northwest to those cities."

Fine Stallions In Service.

In another column will be found the advertisements of G. W. Eastman and Edwin Olson, owners respectively of the stallions "Marlo" and "Bell Maker." The first named is a black percheron, well known and very popular in this section, while "Bell Maker" is of famous American trotting stock. These horses will stand for the season on specified days at the Remmen livery barn in Thief River Falls.

MAVIE FARMERS FORM LIVE CLUB

Eneregetic Community on Interurban Line Takes Steps To Promote General Co-operation.

HOVERSTAD AND ALWAY

Professors Visit Both Goodridge And Mavie and Speak on Reclamation Of Peat Lands And Value of Farm Clubs.

Prof F. K. Alway, soil expert of the university of Minnesota; Prof T. A. Hoverstad, agricultural agent for the Soo railroad, and Prof J. H. Hay of the Thief River schools, addressed the citizens of Mavie and Goodridge on several topics pertaining to better farming, on Saturday afternoon. Prof. Hoverstad's address was devoted to urging the necessity for co-operation on his hearers. He said that through co-operation the farmers of America were now accomplishing more and getting better results out of the labor expended than at any time in the nation's history. His address had the effect of bringing to a head a matter which had been in contemplation for some time, and a Farmer's club was organized before the audience left the building. The time spent in Mavie was short, because of the fact that the car left for Goodridge and the speakers were due at that village at noon.

Another meeting of the new Farmer's club will be held on Saturday at which time a constitution and by-laws will be adopted, a name selected and other preliminary matters attended to. The officers selected are as follows: President John Philip; vice president, Fred Du Camp; secretary and treasurer, Thomas H. Smith. The suggestion has been made and will probably be adopted, that the new club be called "Clover Leaf," this also being the name of the township in which Mavie is situated.

The meeting on Saturday will be held at the Hotel Du Camp. A fifteen minutes paper on parlimentary rules and the best way of handling the club will be read by Joseph Du Camp, to be followed by a general discussion. Joseph Oski the "potato king," will read a paper on "Potato Culture," and as he is one of the bonanza potato raisers of the county, his remarks should be well worth hearing.

It is expected that after this first meeting the gatherings will be held at the homes of the farmers.

Settlers For Goodridge.

Three carloads of settler's effects arrived at Goodridge on Saturday for people who will settle on farms in that neighborhood. The goods were shipped from Hayward, Minn., and consisted of live stock, farm implements and household furnishings. C. Larson and Mr. Fredrickson will make their home in the neighborhood of Goodridge, while M. A. Morken will reside about three miles northwest of Grygla. The townships of Clover Leaf, Goodridge and Reiner in Pennington county, and Grand Plain, Midland and Esplee in Marshall county, are receiving a large number of desirable settlers this spring. Marketing conditions in the section are steadily improving and as the land is among the best in the northwest it is growing in demand.

PENNINGTON POTATOES OF PRIZE-WINNING SIZE

Pennington county potatoes weighing from one and one-half to two pounds and measuring from six to eight inches in length and from three to four inches through are on display at the land office of John Bratrud. The spuds are of the Maggie Murphy variety, according to Mr. Oski, are clean, solid and of fine uniform color. These potatoes were raised by Mr. Oski on his farm near Mavie and are a fair sample of the product that has made him know as the "potato king" throughout this section of the state.

For some reason or other the impression has gone abroad that good potatoes cannot be raised on the heavy soils in the northwestern part of the state. It has been asserted that tubers grown here are, as a general thing, hollow and spongy. That this is a mistake has been time and time again demonstrated by Mr. Oski and others who have paid some attention to the cultivation of the crop. Potatoes can be grown here of a fine quality as anywhere in the Northwest and with the establishment of a potato warehouse at Thief River Falls it is likely that a much larger acreage will be devoted to their cultivation.

WILL HAVE SERVICES OF VISITING STATE NURSE

Minnesota Public Health Association To Co-operate With County Organization in Campaign.

Miss Gudrun Grenager, a visiting nurse sent out by the Minnesota Public Health association, will be in Thief River Falls for one month beginning either the first or third week in April. Miss Grenager comes at the request of the Pennington County Health association, which is the successor of the county tuberculosis society, this in turn, being one of the associated units of the state body. Mrs. J. M. Bishop is president of the local organization, and it is largely due to her efforts that a nurse is set here at this time.

Miss Grenager, who is one of the best known and most competent workers in the employ of the state association, is at present stationed at Montevidio, where an outbreak of scarlet fever assumed threatening proportions. Her work in public school and general municipal nursing has taken her to nearly every section of the state and she is an authority on the prevention of disease. Miss Grenager will be in Thief River Falls for a month at least, and it is altogether likely that she may find sufficient opening for a suggestion or two.

NEW BUSINNESS COLLEGE CREATES MUCH INTEREST

Indications Are That New Thief River Falls Institution Will be Success From Start.

President G. M. Langum of the Thief River Falls Business College, left to look after matters at his Detroit school on Thursday last after making all arrangements for the opening of the branch here on April 17. He expressed himself as more than pleased with the encouragement he had received and expects the school here to be one of the most successful in the chain. It is practically certain that the institution will open with a large enrollment and that this will steadily be increased as the institution becomes better known.

A committee of the Commercial club has been appointed to find a suitable location for the new enterprise and several are being considered. A definite selection will probably be made within the next week or two.

There is no doubt as to the standing of the school, particularly as regards the efficiency of the students turned out. D. C. Biddick of the Thief River Produce company, says that his concern has had two graduates of Mr. Langum's school working for some time and that they are persons of exceptional qualifications.

While here Mr. Langum interested a number of young men in the work of his school, and these signified their intention of taking one or more of the courses offered.

Notice For Bids.

Notice is hereby given that the town board of the town of Mayfield will meet at 10 o'clock a. m. on Saturday, April 15, 1916, at the Clerk's office for the purpose of receiving sealed bids for the removal of 8,500 cubic yards of dirt for road purposes. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Martin Moe, formerly of Jamestown, N. Y., an expert in dry cleaning work, has become interested as a partner in the Thief River Cleaning company's plant, and will devote his entire time to the business of that concern. This enterprise has moved to 217 East Third street, where rooms and equipment for doing all kinds of dry cleaning and general repairing have been fitted up. Mr. Moe's family arrived from Oklee last evening, where they had been visiting, and will hereafter make Thief River Falls their home. In the same building G. J. Gulbranson, recently of Bemidji, is busy putting the finishing touches on "The Flower Shop," which will be ready for business on April 1.

Leslie Dietz, of Cameron Dam fame registered at the Evelyn hotel, giving his residence as Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin, was a distinguished visitor in Thief River Falls last Saturday, coming up from St. Hilaire, where he had given a lecture Friday evening, together with three reels of moving pictures showing the "Dietz Battle of Cameron Dam." The pictures showed how his father's rights were trampled on by the lumber company and showed the actual scenes from the farm where the famous battle was staged. John Dietz, father of Leslie Dietz, was commuted to life imprisonment for the killing of Oscar Harp, one of the deputies who took part in the siege of the Dietz home, and it is for a complete pardon for his father that the son is

Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam McMahon, 508 Conley avenue north, occurred the marriage of Vern Irene McMahon to Roy P. Halseth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Halseth, 111 Kendall avenue south. The marriage ceremony, was performed by Rev. P. M. Palmer of Barnesville, Minn., in the presence of immediate relatives. At the ceremony Henry McMahon acted as best man and Miss Esther Palmer acted as bride's maid. The happy couple left on the four o'clock southbound train for Minneapolis, St. Paul and other points on a ten-day honeymoon. On their return to this city they will go to housekeeping at 215 Atlantic avenue north. The groom is one of Thief River Falls' young and popular business men, being connected with his father in conducting a paint shop, and has resided here for the past eleven years. The bride has resided in Thief River Falls for twenty years, and has for the past two years been employed on the clerical force of the Aos store. The Times joins in with their many friends in wishing them a pleasant journey upon the sea of matrimony.

Rev. A. L. Larson Resigns.

Rev. A. L. Larson, who has held the pastorate of the Zion Lutheran church in this city for the past eight and one-half years, has resigned his position and will leave shortly for Wildrose, N. D

Esther Albertina Johnson.

On Monday, March 27 at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Johnson, 520 Riverside avenue, occurred the death of Esther Albertina Johnson, after a lingering illness of a year's duration, death being due to abscess of the stomach. Funeral services were held from the Presbyterian church this afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Barackman officiating.

Esther Johnson was born at Crookston, April 22, 1894, making her age at the time of death 21 years, 11 months and 5 days. She came to this city in 1907 with her parents, who removed from Crookston to this city during that year. She received her early education at Crookston and on her parents removal here, she entered the local public schools and was a member of the sixth grade. On graduating from the eight grade she stood high among her classmates and was always known to be a bright girl. She finished her education after completing the Freshman year in the Lincoln high school.

Besides her parents, who are left to mourn her untimely death, she leaves two brothers and five sisters. They are Albert J. Johnson of this city, and Alfred C. Johnson, of Walker, Minn., and Mrs. R. Langair, Mrs. H. Carlson, Misses Alma and Olga Johnson, of Thief River Falls, and Mrs. P. Ralston, of Devils Lake, North Dakota.

Esther had a host of friends both in Thief River Falls and Crookston and her being taken away in the prime of life will be greatly missed. The Times joins in with the many friends of the deceased in extending sympathy to the bereaved members of the family in their hour of sorrow.

WHERE THE TAX MONEY ALL GOES

James T. Hale of The State Tax Commission's Office, Gives Valuable Advice to Pennington Assessors

EDUCATION BIGGEST ITEM

Speaker Impresses on His Hearers The Importance of Securing just And Equitable Valuations on Classes of Property.

Each and every one hundred dollars paid in taxes by the people of Pennington county this year will be distributed as follows:

$3.02 will go to the state.
31.03 will go to education.
13.44 will go to road and bridge fund.
13.11 will go to the county (includes interest on bonds and sinking fund.)
24.70 will go to cities and villages.
3.36 will go to townships.
11.84 will go to Ditch tax.

For every dollar the county pays the state in taxes the county gets back from the state $2.52, paid back to roads, schools etc. from the state treasury, which shows that more than all the amount of the taxes paid by this county is spent in this county, and that the main portion of it goes to education and roads and bridges.

These were the figures given out by James T. Hale of the State Tax commission during a conference with the township assessors of the county here on Tuesday. The meeting, which was held in the court room, was well attended, all but two of the assessors being present.

Mr. Hale told his hearers that their main duty was to give to all property its true and full market value and then to assess it for the various percentages of value, as provided by the classified assessment law now in force in this state.

The amount of money raised by taxation does not depend upon the assessor's figures. The legislature, county commissioners, town meetings, village and city aldermen vote the amount to be raised by taxation.

Whether each and every taxpayer pays his just and due proportion of the taxes voted depends, of course, upon the valuation placed upon his property by the assessor, so every taxpayer is more interested in seeing that every other taxpayer's property is valued at its percentage of true and full value than is the assessor.

Complaints of over assessment are quite frequent, said Mr. Hale, but they mostly come from the taxpayer comparing his taxable valuation with his neighbor's, and if his neighbor's property is "undervalued" by the assessor he immediately thinks he is overvalued, whereas in fact his valuation may be just right, or even low. So it becomes very important for the assessor to be careful and value all property at its true value and full value and then assess it at its proper percentage of such value, otherwise he will hear many complaints, and he justly should.

The taxpayer who is undervalued pays less of the taxes than he should and consequently the man whose property is valued as it should be, pays more than he should. He practically pays the part of the taxes of the man undervalued.

Mr. Hale then said that it depends upon the assessors as to whether the taxpayers have a fair deal or not. If the assessments are all fairly made then it depends entirely upon the voters whether their taxes are high or low, according to the amounts they or their representatives vote to spend.

"While we are talking so much about preparedness," said Mr. Hale, "might it not be well for all citizens to remember that loyalty and doing our duty by our country are the first essentials of preparedness; that being loyal and doing our duty by our country are the foundations of preparedness?"

"Paying a just and equitable share of taxes is a duty a citizen owes to his country," he continued, "taxes may not seem to have much to do with the preparedness of our nation, but when we consider that taxes educate our youth, build our roads and take care of our public institutions, we can see that they have a good deal to do with our people being able to give better service in times of war and times of peace."

"Ignorant nations, nations with very little internal improvements, have very little efficiency in times of war or in times of peace."

In explaining the law under which the assessors would appraise the value of property for the year, Mr. Hale said that platted property (village and city) is assessed at 40 per cent of its full and true value.

Unplatted property (farm etc.) assessed at thirty three and one-third of its full and true value.

This is in compliance with the new so-called classified assessment law and apparently seemed just and equitable to the legislature, and whatever the assessor's personal views or opinions may be he is bound by law to follow this statutory provision. This law makes the cities and villages pay more taxes in proportion to the true and full value of their property than unplatted or farm lands.

Mr. Hale told the assessors that the greatest difficulty they would have would be in finding property classed as "money and credits" which consists of promissory notes, bonds, book accounts, money on deposit in banks etc. because of its not being possible for the assessor to see the same, but that they were expected to follow the law strictly and if any citizen refused to make a sworn statement as to "money and credits" to levy an assement against him.

The tax on money and credits has been fixed by law at three mills on the dollar of value and being so much lower than the rate on all other classes of property the tax commission expects every person to report the same and if he makes no sworn report stating that he either has not any money and credits, the assessor is to make an arbitrary assessment against him and add fifty per cent thereto as a penalty for not making a sworn report.

The following Pennington county assessors attended the meeting:

Emil Larson, Bray; Sam Lorentson, Black River; John Uldvill, Clover Leaf; Thor Skreland, Deer Park; G. S. Palmer, Highlanding; Christ Myhre, Kratka; M. O'Leary, Mayfield; Nils B. Swanson, Norden; G. K. Haave, North; Erick Albu, Numedal; A. C. Halstrom, Polk Centre; Andrew O'Feragen, Riener; David Haugan, Wyandotte; J. W. Dinehart, River Falls; T. T. Satre, Rocksbury; Lars T. Brandrud, Sanderson; Geo. M. Gunderson, Silverton; J. M. Thiege, Smiley; Ole Tharaldson, Star; K. O. Gigstad, St. Hilaire; B. E. Dahlquist, Thief River Falls.

Miss Perl Sether, who has been confined in the Warren hospital, where she was operated upon for appendicitis, returned to Thief River Falls Wednesday evening. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Sether.

"STORKVILLE" SOUNDS LIKE A GOOD NAME

Twelve More Births Than Last Year During First Three Months, With Returns Incomplete

If they are to change the name of this city to one more appropriate the wags are suggesting, "Storkville," basing their suggestion upon the records of births for the first three months of the year and the record of last year.

In the year 1915, there were 145 babies born here, 36 of these visits of the stork being made in the first three months of the year. The year 1916 promises to eclipse this record, up to date there having been 48 births recorded and the reports not all in for March.

The Physicians hospital is being taxed to its capacity, and an addition is being already contemplated because of the large number of patients coming from all sections of the county and adjoining counties and of these the number of maternity cases predominates.

The racks of post card stores are being depleted of those cards announcing the arrival of babies or congratulations to the parents, in fact the news of the arrival of a little one has come to be so common that little interest is aroused excepting in the immediate circle of those interested, and local physicians are being kept busy night and day, not only in the city, but in the country adjacent to Thief River Falls.

Four prospective mothers entered the Physicians hospital at the same hour and day this week. The city schools have the largest enrollment of any city in the state of a population of 6,000, there being approximately 1600 pupils on the rolls.

Improvements At Brumund.

The Brumund has during the past two weeks been undergoing improvements that will make it one of the best hotels in this section. New furniture has been installed throughout, hot, and cold water is now a most convenient feature in every room, and a telephone exchange with a switchboard in the office connects every part of the building with the wires over long distance circuits or with local telephones. Four rooms with bath have been added, making 12 in all. The entire building has been re-wired according to the latest requirements, this being the work of Ed Lee, the local electrical contractor. The Brumund is keeping abreast of the times in every department and deserves the excellent patronage it is receiving.

What solutions are used in the laundries of today?

Soap has always been the principal cleanser, both at home and in the power laundries.

What is soap?

A fat, combined with an alkali such as sal soda or caustic soda.

Tallow was first combined with a lye, made by boiling the ashes from birch or other hard woods, and is still used in some places for removing the dirt from linnens, etc.

Some manufacturers are substituting other fats for the tallow---cottonseed oil, fish oil and linseed oil being used--but these have not the cleansing properties of the soap made from tallow.

Soda is fast taking the place of soap, so that in some laundries soap has been practically displaced by it. The soda used in the laundries of today is the same as is used for washing churns in the moderncreameries. It rinses out very easilyand therefore is not injurious to materials or colors.

These improvements and many others we are keeping posted on at our conventions and through our trade journals.

We are the only laundrymen doing business in Thief River who are members of the Laundry Men's National association as well as the State association.

ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT AT CROOKSTON AGGIE

Two Thief River Falls Students Among Those Completing Courses At Farm School.

The tenth annual commencement exercises of the Northwest School of Agriculture began Monday, when the commencement sermon was given to the graduating class by Rev. C. R. Oaten of Crookston. On Monday evening, March 27, was held the annual music recital and the first annual inter-society debate.

Superintendent Selvig presented a silver loving cup as a trophy to the literature society debating team which won the decision in this annual event. The Class Play was given at the armory at Crookston on Wednesday evening, followed by the Senior exercises Thursday morning, and the Commencement exercises in the afternoon. Many people attended from all parts of the state.

The largest class ever graduated from this institution received diplomas this year, including forty-three in the regular three year course, and thirteen others in the teachers' training and advanced courses. Mr. W. F. Webster of Minneapolis, delivered the commencement address on the subject of "Responsibility."

Of the students from Pennington county, Paul Martin Engelstad of Thief River Falls, completed the three year course, and O. Chester Wilson, also of Thief River Falls, completed the advanced course.

Are After Jefferson Trail.

Moorhead.—Plans whereby the Red River Valley association hopes to bring the Jefferson highway to this city, instead of by way of Brainerd, Minn., are being very rapidily promoted by the special committee of the association, which met here yesterday.

Within a few days the committee will be prepared to file with the Minnesota highway commission a complete statement of the reasons why the Red River Valley route should be chosen. Charles S. Loring of Crookston, John H. West of Detroit, Minn., and State Senator Charles S. Marden of Moorhead, are the members of the committee.

Assurance of financial aid by several counties in the Red River Valley is expected to add considerable weight to the plea that they will make.

Miss Laura Carney of Grand Forks spent Saturday and Sunday in Thief River Falls as the guest of her many friends.

BANKERS TO BE GUESTS IN MAY

Commercial club Announces Program For Entertainment Of Ninth District Group.

PROMINENT MEN TO SPEAK

Banquet In The Evening And Automobile Rides to Nearby Points of Interest Among Features Provided for Visiting Financiers.

The annual convention of the Minnesota Bankers association will be held at Thief River Falls this year. The date has not been definitely decided upon, but it will be either on the 17 or 18 of May. Bemidji is to be visited either just before or just after the meeting here and which city is first will depend entirely upon the convenience of the attending delegates.

The sessions will be held at the commercial club and that organization, acting with the committee of local bankers will take an active part in the entertainment of the visitors.

The banquet will be held at one of the hotels or at the Auditorium, this feature to be decided later, and W. W. Prichard, Sr., dean of the bankers of Thief River Falls, has accepted the invitation to act as toastmaster.

The delegates will register at the club rooms at 10:00 o'clock a. m. The program as outlined by secretary Bradish of the Ninth district group, and State Secretary Richards is as follows:

10:30 Invocation.

Response—O. W. Lundeen, Hutchinson, president Minnesota Bankers association.

President's address—H. S. Erickson, of Detroit.

Appointing of committees.

Address—"Relation Between the Farmer and the Banker," Prof. J. H. Hay, Thief River Falls.

The afternoon session will open with an address by O. M. Corwin on "Rural Credit Legislation," to be followed by a discussion of the subject.

Address—"The Operation of the Federal Reserve Bank Since Its Organization," Hon. Theodore Wold, governor Federal Reserve bank, Minneapolis.

Discussion.

The following topics will be informally discussed by all the bankers present:

(1) "Educational Facilities Offered by the American Institute of Banking Through the Minnesota Bankers Association."

(2) "At the Session of our Legislature the Idea Seems to Prevail That Legislation Asked for By Bankers Would be Harmful For The People. What methods Can Best be Used to Dispel This Tendency?"

(3) "Best Methods For Bank Advertising."

(4) "County Organizations of Bankers."

(Discussion of these subjects will be limited to a certain number of minutes.)

Adjournment.

The entertainment to be afforded the visiting bankers will include an auto ride about the city to points of interest, banquet in the evening and reception and smoker at the Commercial club, which will keep open house in the handsomely appointed quarters in the Citizens Bank building.

Unclaimed Letters.

This Theatre Will Also Show Some of The Big Circuit Vaudeville Attractions.

H. O. Mugridge, manager of the Lyceum theatre, has just returned from a trip to Minneapolis, where he looked after the summer bookings for his playhouse. Among these is "The Birth of a Nation," perhaps the greatest of all motion picture plays. The "Big Four" features were also secured for every Thursday night, and the first of these will be seen here on April 6. This is "The Juggernaut," in which Earl Williams and Anita Stewart appear in the leading roles. These two great film stars have become famous through their work in such plays as "The Christian" and "The Goddess."

Another unusual feature secured for the patrons of this theatre is the Pantages Vaudeville productions. The attractions on this circuit will make a stop-over here on their way from Chicago to Winnipeg, this being the smallest city played by this company. The train schedules just happen to make it convienent to make a two nights' halt at an intermediate point, and Mr. Mugridge secured the feature for Thief River Falls.

FIRST STOCK SHIPMENT HAS BEEN POSTPONED

Newly Organized Shippers Association Will Be Ready When Roads Dry Up.

R. L. Muzzy, resident manager of the Pennington county Shippers association, announces that the first stock shipment will not be made before April 1. It was the intention to send this consignment to market some time this month, but the condition of the roads has made a postponement advisable. This spring weather is uncertain, and as it will be necessary to notify the shippers some time ahead of the exact day when shipments will be made it has been thought best to wait until conditions become more settled.

A carload of hogs will this week be sent from Thief River Falls by Mr. Muzzy, but this is his personal consignment and has nothing to do with the association. The first shipment made by the orgaization will probably consist of cattle, as many members have expressed their intention of thinning out their present herds before turning them to pasture this spring. With this end in view they are busy conditioning the animals and say that the first block sent to market is going to make a reputation for the Thief River Shippers association.

WOULD POST GASOLINE PRICES WITH COMMISSION

Congressman Steenerson Introduces Bill To This End In Congress This Week.

Congressman Steenerson of this district has introduced a bill for the regulation of gasoline prices. Explaining the measure the congressman said:

"The Steenerson bill is in the form of an amendment to the federal trade commission law. It defines petroleum, gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil, and classifies dealers in said commodities in larger quantities than 3,000 gallons, as "Wholesale dealers in petroleum," and requires posting of prices in their places of business and the filing of a list of such prices with the commission, and all prices are required to be just and reasonable, and upon complaint that such prices are unjust and unreasonable the commission is given power to prescribe just and reasonable maximum prices to be maintained in future, and to order the dealer to cease and desist from charging higher prices than prescribed by the commission."

BIG SHOW COMING TO THE PRINCESS

Musical Comedy Feature For Saturday And Sunday.

Read what the Fargo Courier News of March 24 says of the musical comedy company with 18 people coming to the Princess next Saturday and Sunday with a complete change daily. Popular prices will prevail.

"Pretty, bright, tuneful and clean, describes the musical comedy performance given at the Grand by the Frank Rich company which will be the attraction for the balance of the week. The company is a large and well balanced one. Music predominates of course, and in this the organization is particularly strong. The soloists are capable in every way and the chorus is the best singing aggregation that has yet visited here with a similar company. Fair of face and form, the members all possess good voices and know how to use them. The comedy is clean and wholesome, a decided relief from the rough stuff usually encountered in tabloid musical comedy companies that visit the vaudeville houses. There is not the slightest touch of suggestiveness connected with the performance, another decided relief. Altogether, it is a most pleasing entertainment and the large houses that prevailed at the three performances yesterday and last night will likely continue until the end of the engagement."

The regular Triangle feature picture will be run on Saturday. Picture at 7:15, musical comedy at 8:30, and the picture repeated for those coming late.

Last Whist Play.

The last contest of the whist tournament of the Commercial club will take place in the club rooms next Tuesday evening. It is hoped that all those who started out in this enterprise will attend on this last evening as the results will decide the championship.

Librarian Emma Bakke stated yesterday that for the past week over 200 people have made use of the library daily. Another noticeable fact connected with the library is that farmers from the outlying districts are also utilizing the library through the 25c per year non-resident fee. Books are sent daily to residents of St. Hilaire, Goodridge, Highlanding, and Mavie, which goes to show the interest that is being taken in that institution.

JUST across the street from our office is a rather enterprising grocer who, last fall, put a two quart jar of beans in his window and offered $5.00 to the one who would make the closest guess as to the number.

We all took a "shot at it," and there were any number of outlandish guesses, but Jim Flynn, a sort of town character, bought a two-quart jar, took it home, filled it with beans, and proceeded to count 'em.

MORE STOCK IS WAY TO WEALTH

Experts Tell Pennington Farmers Of Possibilities Now Offered Those Engaging In This Industry.

VALUE OF OUR PEAT LANDS

Prof. F. K. Alway, University Soil Expert, Gives Interesting Advice On Treatment Necessary to make Big Area Productive.

That stock-raising offers the greatest possibilities of any line of endeavor which the farmer can now devote himself, was the message of the speakers at the meeting of the Pennington County Stock Breeders association on Saturday.

The necessity of the establishment of an experimental station in this neighborhood for the purpose of definitely discovering the agricultural value and necessary treatment of peat lands was the other important subject treated at the meeting, and it is certain that steps will be taken to bring the matter before the next session of the legislature with a view to having such a station established.

Prof. J. H. Hay of the Thief River Falls schools, was chairman of the meeting, and after a few words explaining its purpose, introduced Prof. T. A. Hoverstad, agricultural expert of the Soo railroad. Prof Hoverstad said he did not wish to take up the time of the meeting on this occasion, but wished to emphasize the value of organization and team work in the farming industry. The speaker is very popular with farmers everywhere and his remarks were listened to with much interest.

Senator D. P. O'Neil said that there were three things necessary to successful farming—good roads, good stock and good markets. He pointed to the country around Goodridge as an example of what good roads and drainage mean to a community, stating that this fertile district a few years ago was an isolated swamp and that its present prosperity was due almost entirely to drainage and good roads. Senator O'Neil said that every acre of land in the state of Montana may be said to be mortgaged to a railroad because of its inaccessability to markets, and that if lands in that state were free they would be still be more costly than lands in Pennington county at $25 per acre.

Prof. H. R. Smith, stock raising expert of the Great Northern railway, was the next speaker. He began his remarks by stating that no industry today will bring as much permanent wealth to the community or the individual as stock raising. For this reason railroads were interested in its development. These realized that while grain hauling proved by far the most profitable line of business, yet without livestock there would be a steadily diminishing amount of grain to be hauled. The single-crop system of farming has decreased the yield of wheat two and one-half bushels per acre during the past thirty years, and that something is necessary to prevent this land-impoverishment. More stock on farms will insure more wheat. Prof. Smith suggested that instead of devoting the entire farm to wheat, one-third of the acreage be given over to the growing of feed for cattle. It had been proven, said the speaker, that in five years under this system, as much grain as at present could be grown on one-half the acreage.

Prof. Smith maintained that the conditions in Pennington county were particularly favorable to stock raising. We have the grass, the grain and the climate and any intelligent effort along the line of better herds is sure to repay the farmer handsomely. Butter fat and beef are both very high in price and the United States is for the first time exporting more of these products than it is importing. The same holds good of mutton and pork. He said that the number of beef cattle in the country had declined 33 per cent between 1907 and 1913, while the population increased at the rate of 2,000,000 per year. This, added to the fact that production in Europe was practically at a standstill naturally made for higher prices here.

As to the kind of cattle most profitable to raise it would depend a great deal upon the inclination and whether beef or milk was the object sought. For a high butterfat production the Channel Island breeds—Guernesys and Jerseys—were undoubtedly best. For a large milk yield and a fair quanity of beef the Holsteins had been found superior by many. As a combination of the two, however, Prof. Smith said that the Shorthorn and Red Polled had proven the best, giving a good quanity of milk and being far superior for beef, while the Angus and Herefords were the breeds for those aiming at beef alone.

Prof Smith said that the breed itself was not as important as the securing of the best animals of the particular strain in which you wished to specialize. Good sires he claimed, is the secret of cattle-raising success. The mark of the sire invariably predominates in the offspring and the best bulls should head the herd, no matter whether the aim was milk or beef.

The question of feed is one of the greatest importance. This section produces the grass in abundance, and indications are that this contains a higher feeding value here than at points further south. Silos should be encouraged as they mean success. The speaker suggested that farmers try out sweet clover as a pasture crop, this having been found very valuable for this purpose.

C. L. Hanson, president of the First National bank of Thief River Falls, was called on. He said that bankers stood ready to furnish money for silos in preference to almost anything else, and that his bank was offering money for this purpose to the farmers free of interest; for one year." With a silo on every farm in this section, said Mr. Hanson, land would be worth $100 an acre. He also maintained that with a silo cattle can be kept at a less cost in winter than they can pastured in summer.

Mr. Hanson extended an invitation to those present to attend the meeting of the Ninth District Bankers association to be held here on May 5. He said that farmers should understand bankers better as they would have to work together. It is impossible for a banker to prosper unless the farmer prospers first, and therefore anything that made better farming should be of interest to bankers. The speaker said that he had spent about 21 years of his life on a farm, and was not at all certain that he was not as much a farmer as a banker even now.

Prof. F. K. Alway, soil expert of the university of Minnesota, advised getting away from peat soils while there still remained so much excellent land of other kinds to be had. He did not claim that peat soils had no value, but as yet their development had not been sufficiently advanced to make it safe for a farmer to go onto them with much hope of success. He said that where the peat was not over 15 inches deep farming might be successfully carried on, but that any man who had a bog six or seven feet in depth would still have it after 100 years.

Prof. Alway also spoke of the history of peat farming in Europe, how it started in Holland, advancing thru Germany, the Scandinavias and Austria, in all of which countries successful farming on these lands was now carried on. Much work and expense had been necessary to bring this about, however, and the same results would undoubtedly follow the same methods here. The worst bog in the state had been found at the experiment station near Grand Rapids. Splendid crops were now grown on this, however, and the plot furnished the best example of what could be done with lands of this nature under scientific management.

The lack of lime and potash is the greatest drawback. The lands of Pennington county, however, have lime in abundance, and only lack the potash. This has been secured from Germany heretofore and the supply is now shut off. Therefore any attempt at experimentation will practically have to stop for the present. Prof. Alway, however, promised to do all in his power to secure an appropriation for the establishment of a peat land experimental station some where in this section at the next term of the legislature. This matter was taken up at the last session but failed of passage.

A county experimental plot could be established at an expense of about $300, Prof. Alway thought. This would give an opportunity for the testing out of all known remedies for peat land unproductiveness. The different treatments and fertilizers could be here employed and the results noted on plots devoted to different crops.

In closing his remarks Prof. Alway said he would advise a man who found his peat bog over two feet to go and farm some other land.

HOW APPENDICITIS CAN BE PREVENTED.

Thief River Falls people should know that a few doses of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka, often relieve or prevent appendicitis. This simple mixture removes such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. Adler-i-ka has easiest and most thorough action of anything we ever sold. F. J. Stebbins, druggist.

BLOODED STOCK BEING RECEIVED

GOODRIDGE SECTION ALSO

Farmers There Realize Value Of Breeding—Are Heading Herds With Thoroughbred Sires.

This section is going to experience the greatest boom in the livestock industry during the coming summer ever recorded in Northern Minnesota. Not only will there be many more cattle, but the average in quality will be much higher. The doctrine preached early and late by stock experts, "head your herd with a thoroughbred," is being tried out more generally this spring than ever before, and the result can only be a much higher grade of cattle. In many sections farmers are forming clubs for the purchase of a high grade bull to be used by all, but any-one aiming to keep any considerable number of cows prefers to secure an animal of this kind for his own private use.

Not only in the case of sires is this seen, however. Fine cows, particularly of the general purpose breeds, are being shipped in by the carload, and the movement has only commenced. The first large shipment was recorded this week when John Franzman and William Paskewitz received a carload of registered shorthorns at Grygla. In this shipment was a throughbred bull, said to be one of the finest animals of its kind ever brought to this section. This shipment was secured by Mr. Franzman and Mr. Paskewitz at Fergus Falls.

The farmers in the eighborhood of Goodridge prove that they are wide-awake by their attempts to secure better cattle through the use of a thoroughbred sire. Jay Payne of that village, this week received a Hereford bull to head his herd. Elmer Kuhns and Anton Knutson secured fine animals for their herds at the Carlson stock farm at Erskine, and the Martz farm at St. Hilaire reports the shipment of a thoroughbred to Grygla parties.

The movement for better stock has been steadily going forward since mid-winter, and it is likely that a dozen animals of pure breeding have been placed at different points in the county. That the effect will be a much higher grade of cattle is certain and the movement is receiving every encouragement from bankers, business men and the people generally.

The Great McClure Mystery Story, Written by FREDERICK LEWIS In Collaboration With JOHN T. M'INTYRE, Author of the Ashton Kirk Detective Stories. Read the Story and See the Essanay Moving Pictures

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Page, actress, is accused of the murder of James Pollock and is defended by her lover, Philip Langdon. Pollock was intoxicated. Shale, a crook and tool of Pollock, was on the fire escape watching for Langdon. At Mary's trial she admits she had the revolver. Her maid testifies that Mary threatened Pollock with it previously, and Mary's leading man implicates Langdon.

"MY TIME WILL COME!"

"KEEP your eye on this man Langdon! He was either in the room or at the door when James Pollock was murdered!"

The words of the witness were like a stone flung into a pool of subtle inference that sent ever-widening ripples of possibilities to lap the very shores of suspicion itself. Every eye was on Langdon now, but except for a tightening of the muscles about his jaw he gave no sign of perturbation or anger.

The actor himself was uneasy now, however, and cast apologetic glances at both Mary and Langdon, moving nervously in the witness-stand as the prosecutor took up his questioning again.

"You say you overheard only a part of what was said before the police came. Will you tell us where you stood and why you heard only a part?"

"Yes, sir. The door opens out—as is always the case in hotel rooms—and when I started to open it I was behind it and therefore not visible from the room. But I could hear what was said when Mr. Langdon and detective Farley came out from the inner room of the suite where they had gone to look for Miss Page."

"And when the police came, did you remain in the room or did you join in the search for Miss Page?"

"I joined in the search, and went with the police down the fire-escape and through the back street."

"What had become of Miss Page?"

"I don't know."

"Do you mean that the police did not find where she had gone?"

"Yes."

"What did you do?"

"I returned to the hotel, got my hat and coat and went home."

"That is all," said the prosecutor. But the Judge leaned forward and voiced the question that everybody in the courtroom was mutely asking.

"Do you mean to say that a young lady in an evening gown and with no cloak walked through that street back of the hotel and that no one saw her! That you and the police got no clue in your search?"

"Yes, your Honor. Mary Page had disappeared absolutely, and no one knows where she went."

Langdon smiled, and the Judge sat back with a little exclamation that was not complimentary to the police; but when the name of the next witness rang through the room he leaned forward again and spoke with some irritation to the prosecutor.

"Is it your intention, sir, to develop through the testimony of THIS witness the whereabouts of Miss Page after the murder? It seems to me that that is the testimony that should be brought forward now."

"Your Honor, the movements of Miss Page between the time she was left unconscious in the room at the Republic until the following morning will have to be told by Miss Page herself. They are not known to me and I have no witnesses to testify to her whereabouts or actions. I have, in fact, been unable to get anyone who actually saw the prisoner during her flight. The truth must come out, of course, and I have in the meantime called the sister of James Pollock to develop an important line in the case for the State."

Again Langdon smiled, and the Judge sat back with a little shrug, as, amid a murmurous wave of comment and curiosity the name of the new witness was repeated:

"Ruth Pollock!"

The sister of the dead man who throughout the earlier testimony had sat unnoticed among the throng, was a tragic figure in her trailing black garments as she went to the stand.

"Miss Pollock, you have known the prisoner, Mary Page, for some years, have you not?"

"Yes, we were at school together and remained intimate friends afterwards."

"Was your brother also a friend of hers?"

"He was."

"Was there ever any closer relationship than that of mere friendship between your brother and Mary Page?"

"Yes. They were engaged to be married."

Even the Judge sat forward in his chair at the words, so simply uttered and yet so sharply changing the aspect of things. The prosecutor's next question came quickly.

"Was your brother happy in his engagement?" he said.

"I don't know how to answer that question. He was happy because he wanted to marry Mary, but he knew she didn't love him."

"If Miss Page did not love your brother, why was she willing to be his wife?"

The girl flushed and answered less readily:

"Well, you see—there were reasons—and she had promised."

"Will you please tell us those reasons?"

A little gasping sob wrenched from a woman's overburdened heart broke the stillness at that question, and Mrs. Page suddenly drooped forward, hiding her face in her hands. She knew only too well what was coming, and the courage that had kept her erect and smiling during the torture of the trial, gave way suddenly at this tearing open of old wounds. All her agony found vent in that one piercing cry of grief.

With her own eyes tear-dimmed Mary stretched out her hands yearningly, half whispering, "Mother! Mother!" and Langdon was at her side in a moment. She waved him back, and, drawing her veil across her distorted face, smothered the sobs that shook her thin shoulders like a storm, as the prosecutor repeated his question.

"Do you mean that the check was forged?"

"It all happened several years ago—five—maybe six. Mary and I were very good friends at that time, and I was at her home a great deal. So I knew that—that—they were greatly in need of money. I overheard Mr. Page say that there would be ruin for all of them, and that they'd be turned out on the streets unless he 'got the money' before morning. Mary overheard him, too, and when he went out she and I sat trying to think of some way by which we could raise money. It was while we were still talking that Mr. Page came back. He—he—had been drinking, and he was waving a check around his head and cried, 'I've done a good turn for a friend and I've been well paid for it. The Lord helps those who help themselves.' He seemed terribly excited, and went out again almost immediately saying that he wanted to cash the check before the banks closed."

"Whose check was it?"

"My brother's."

"Was he interested in Miss Page at that time?"

"Yes. He had always been, I think, but she was not at all in love with him. She had told me that."

"Yet he gave her father a check for a large sum?"

"No." She flushed hotly now, and cast a timid glance at Mary, as if half deprecating the necessity of the testimony. "That was just it. My brother had not—signed that check."

"Do you mean," broke in the Judge, "that the check was forged?"

"Yes. A detective sent by the bank came to the Page home while I was there and told Mrs. Page and Mary and me. Mary didn't believe it at first, but at any rate she said she didn't know where her father was, though we both guessed he—he—was in the bar of the hotel. He was mostly there. James was horrified when he found out that it was Mary's father who had cashed the check because, not knowing, he had already told the police to 'prosecute the man to the limit.' Mary cried and begged him to do something to save her father, and James said, 'I'll save him for your sake, Mary, if you will promise to do something for me in return.'"

"Did he say what that something was?"

"No. She didn't even ask. She just said she would do anything in the world he wanted if he would save her father. So he went with us to the hotel and we got there just in time to save Mr. Page from arrest."

"How did you 'save him,' as you call it?"

"James told the detective that he had forgotten about giving the check to Mr. Page and that it was perfectly good."

"And Miss Page was naturally grateful to your brother for his having saved her father?" prompted the District Attorney, as Ruth broke off, not knowing how to go on."

"Grateful? Yes. She—she promised to marry him. I heard her tell Mr. Langdon."

"Was Mr. Langdon at the house at that time?"

"No, he came while I was sitting talking to Mrs. Page. Mary and James were in the next room, so I went to let Mr. Langdon in. He stopped at the gate, looking at my brother's automobile, and I walked down the path to meet him. While we were coming back toward the porch the others came to the door. Suddenly James caught Mary up in his arms and kissed her. She seemed to struggle against him and, slipping away, ran into the house. Mr. Langdon, thinking that my brother had kissed Mary against her will, rushed at him and threatened to strike him."

"Your Honor!" It was Langdon's voice, suddenly harsh and strained, "I protest against this evidence as entirely irrelevant and leading up to nothing that has a bearing upon the case at present."

"The court cannot sustain your objection," said the Judge, curtly. "It is very unfortunate for you, Mr. Langdon, but whatever brings out the details of the relationship between Mary Page and James Pollock is decidedly relevant."

The District Attorney smiled in triumph. He turned to Ruth, who looked startled at the interruption, and said, gently:

"You were saying, Miss Pollock, that Mr. Langdon threatened your brother. Was there a fight?"

"No. Mary ran between them and said that James had a right to kiss her, that—that—they were engaged."

"What did Mr. Langdon say then?"

"He didn't say anything. He just turned around and walked away, and Mary began to cry."

"Was the engagement of your brother and Miss Page made public?"

"Yes. At a dance."

"Did your brother and his fiancee seem happy on that occasion?"

"No. I—In fact, I know they were not."

"Did they tell you so?"

"No, but I overheard. I—was hiding in the conservatory."

With a smothered gasp of surprise Mary's head came up suddenly and for the first time the eyes of the two girls met; but now it was Mary's that were accusatory and Ruth's that were troubled and it was in answer to that reproach, rather than the startled look on the prosecutor's face, that made Ruth add shyly: "It was all just in fun! I had promised a dance to Mr. Brandon, but I had told him that if he could find me before the music was half over, I would give him two more, for I had discovered a nook behind the palms which I was sure no one else could find."

She stammered over the girlish confession, a tide of crimson dyeing her pale cheeks.

"While I was hidden there, Mary and Mr. Langdon, who had been dancing together, came into the conservatory. I—I—didn't move because I felt I should look so silly, hiding like a kid behind the palms, and I thought they would soon go away. But—they didn't."

"Did Miss Page say anything about her engagement?"

"They were talking about it as they came in, and the first thing I heard was, 'I have given my word, Philip, and I must go through with it—even if it kills me.' She was half crying. Then Mr. Langdon said quietly, 'Mary, you don't love him, do you?' And Mary said, 'You know I don't, Philip. There is only one man in the world that I love.' Then he took her in his arms and she broke down and sobbed; but when he tried to make her say she would break her engagement she wouldn't, and she wouldn't tell him why she had promised to marry James. She only said that she could never be free unless James gave her back her promise."

"Do you mean to say," interrupted the judge, "that Mr. Langdon knew nothing of the episode of the forged check?"

"No. Mary told me she couldn't bear to tell him about her father. Besides, James had made her promise to keep that part of their engagement a secret from everyone."

"It seems incredible!" said His Honor, settling back, and the prosecutor asked, as if suddenly seeing a new viewpoint:

"Did your brother know of Miss Page's love for Mr. Langdon?"

"I don't know whether he knew then or not, but he knew later because Mr. Langdon told him. While I was still back of the palms James came to hunt for Mary, and she didn't want him to see she had been crying, so she went out and Mr. Langdon stood waiting for James. He told my brother that Mary was very unhappy in her engagement, but felt that she was in honor bound to 'go through with it', and he urged James to set her free."

"What did your brother say?"

"Well, he was—very angry," she answered, deprecatingly. "I—I—know he thought it was just interference, and he said, 'I suppose you want her set free so YOU can marry her.' And Mr. Langdon said, 'I want her set free because she doesn't love you and is breaking her heart over her promise to marry you.' 'What is that to you?' asked James. 'Do you think she is in love with you?' And Mr. Langdon said angrily, 'I know she is, but that has nothing to do with the matter. Can't you be decent for once and set a girl free when she doesn't want to marry you?' That made James even more furious, and he fairly shouted, 'Mary will learn to love me fast enough, once we're married, and I shall never set her free. She has promised and I'm going to see that she keeps that promise. Besides, do you think I'm going to let everybody say she jilted me, after we've announced our engagement this way? I should say not.'"

"Did Mr. Langdon reply?"

"No. He just turned round with a shrug and walked away, and I came out and joined my brother."

"Did he ask if you had overheard?"

"Yes."

"Did you tell him of the conversation between Miss Page and Mr. Langdon?"

"Yes. I felt that he ought to know You—you see, he was my brother, even though Mary was my friend."

"Did your brother make any comment?"

"No, he just flushed up a little; then he laughed and said they'd have to get over it, and he was going to marry Mary anyway."

"Did Mr. Langdon ever make any other plea to your brother, or see Miss Page again?"

"Not then, but Mr. Brandon told me—"

"Your Honor!" broke in Langdon, leaping to his feet. "I object!"

"The court will sustain that objection," said the Judge, promptly. "Miss Pollock, you must not repeat what you have simply heard from others, only what you saw and heard yourself."

"May it please the court," cried the prosecutor, quickly, "I shall be glad to have all of the answer of the witness with the exception of the words 'not then' stricken out, for what Mr. Brandon said he will tell the court himself."

Brandon! Langdon winced at the name, and Mary, lifting her head, turned a pair of despairing eyes upon him that seemed to ask if all their friends were to be leagued against them in this fight for life and liberty.

He could object—could fight to have the witness kept out of the stand—but in the end he knew that he would lose and perhaps lend added weight to the testimony. He fancied he knew what THAT would be, and his teeth clenched in an agony of longing and a rage against the futility of that desire to spare Mary the raking up of these old memories—memories that brought a throbbing ache to his own heart that was only balanced by the bitter exultation of the thought that at least Pollock was DEAD now. And he vowed to himself that Mary should soon be free of the law as well as of James; but he did not face the fleeting thought of the price that might have to be paid for that freedom of Mary Page.

As for Mary herself, after that one fleeting glance at Langdon she drooped again like a flower cut off from rain and sunlight and air.

She would not look at Brandon when he took the stand, though his eyes as he glanced from her to Langdon were full of mute appeal as if he wanted somehow to explain that it was not by choice that he stood there; and there was an aggressive, almost a hostile note in his voice, as he answered the prosecutor's first incisive question:

Mary Turned a Pair of Despairing Eyes Upon Him.

"Mr. Brandon, you were present, were you not, on the night of the dance given to announce the engagement of Miss Page to James Pollock?"

"I was."

"You were well acquainted with both of them?"

"We all grew up together. I was not particularly intimate with Mr. Pollock," said Brandon drily.

"Did anything occur to lead you to believe that Miss Page was not happy in her engagement?"

"Yes."

"Will you tell us what that occurrence was?"

"I had a dance with Miss Pollock, but—she hid from me and it was not until later that I found her in the conservatory. She was crying and told me that Mary didn't want to marry James and that her brother and Mr. Langdon had just quarreled about it."

"What did you do?"

"I went in search of Langdon."

"Where did you find him?"

Brandon flushed, and again his eyes turned appealingly toward Langdon as if begging forgiveness as he said in a low voice:

"He was in the bar, drinking with a group of workmen."

"Did you join him?"

"Yes. Or, rather, I urged him to join me at one of the tables. I was surprised to see him take anything to drink, but when I said so he answered that he was drinking to forget that he had lost a girl who still loved him, though she was going to marry another man. I asked him if he meant Mary Page, and he said yes."

"Did you remain with him long?"

"No. I tried to persuade him to come home with me, and when he wouldn't, I left him. In the hall, however, I met Miss Page. I wanted her to see Mr. Langdon at that bar. I led her to the door. I remember how horrified she seemed, and how she struggled to control herself. I tried to steady her; but suddenly she went right over to Langdon's table, and several loafers gathered around them. She seemed not to see them at all. Her mind was apparently on Langdon alone. Langdon was just sober enough to realize that Miss Page ought not to be in such a place. He tried to push her away; but she cried out, 'Don't drink any more, Phil!'"

"Did Mr. Langdon make any reply?"

"Yes. He said, 'Why should I stop drinking? What have I to live for?' Then she put her arms around his neck, and it was while they sat thus that James Pollock came in. This seemed to sober Langdon completely. I rushed forward, fearing there would be a horrible scene, and urged Pollock to go away. He pushed all of us back. 'I want to get at him!' he kept calling. 'Just let me get my hands on him!' Langdon was trying to get Miss Page out of the place. He did succeed, while several of us held Pollock back by main force, in getting Mary into a little anteroom, a sort of parlor next to the cafe."

"Yes, go on, Mr. Brandon," urged the prosecutor, who seemed pleased with his witness.

"Well, Pollock was determined to follow them, and we couldn't prevent him. I found myself dragged into the little room with him, and I slammed the door. But James, for some reason, was calmer now. 'What does this mean, Mary?' he said.

"'It means,' Miss Page answered, 'that I can't marry anyone but Mr. Langdon,' and Langdon went on, 'Now, James, what are you going to do about it?'"

The prosecutor interrupted: "Did Mr. Langdon know at that time that Mary's father had forged Mr. Pollock's check?"

"No, sir, he did not, for Pollock produced it at that moment, and Langdon didn't know what it was. He looked at Miss Page, who seemed overcome with emotion. 'What does this mean, Mary?' he asked. But she didn't answer. Then Pollock told him—the straight truth. 'Her father did it,' I remember he said, 'and she's going to marry me. Now do you understand?'

"Langdon thought he was bluffing. 'You skunk!' he shouted; and Pollock waved the check in his face. Langdon grabbed it, and there was a struggle. The check tore in two, and when Langdon looked at the piece he held, he saw that it bore the forged signature, as Dan Page had written it. I saw him turn white as a sheet. But suddenly he smiled, and then he went calmly over to a lamp on the mantelpiece and burned it. I remember, as though it had been yesterday, how happy Miss Page looked when she thought this evidence against her father was destroyed."

The people in the courtroom gasped with relief. They could almost share Mary's sense of relief. But they were soon brought back with a shock as the witness went on:

"Pollock had fallen down; but he recovered himself, and began to sneer at Langdon. 'That isn't the check, anyhow, you fool! That's only a copy—for just such occasions as this!'"

"Was Miss Page disconcerted?" the prosecutor wanted to know.

"Oh, yes, sir. She said, 'What shall I do, Phil? I'll do whatever you say.' And he said, 'I won't influence you now. Do as your conscience dictates,' or something like that. I can't remember every word, of course. There was something about his not being weak again, and then he turned as if to go. He looked pretty downhearted."

"What did Pollock do all this time?"

"He jumped up then, when he saw that Langdon's back was turned, and tried to put his arms around Miss Page. She leaped back, as if she hated him. I remember she said something like 'Don't touch me, James Pollock! I'll keep my word with you—I'll go through with this, but you'll regret this night to the end of your life! Yes, you'll regret it, I tell you!'"

The prosecutor beamed satisfaction. He rubbed his hands at these last words and asked:

"Miss Page threatened him, didn't she, Mr. Brandon?"

"Yes, I suppose you might call it that," answered the witness readily, with apparently no thought that his testimony might be sealing the prisoner's doom.

"That is all," said the prosecutor, looking at the jury with a triumphant expression.

"One moment," said Langdon. "I'll take the witness, if you please."

By adroit questioning the young attorney brought out the fact that Brandon, some time after the episodes he had narrated, had come to New York and served on the Daily News as a police reporter. The District Attorney objected to this line of questioning, but the Judge permitted it to go on.

Finally the witness was brought down to the night when he took Mary Page to the door of the cafe so that she might see him, Langdon, within.

"Did you notice anything peculiar about Miss Page's appearance at that time? And if so, tell the jury what you saw."

Brandon hesitated. He acted like a man who did not care to answer this question.

"Proceed," prompted Langdon.

"Well, yes, I did notice that—" He paused.

"Go on," prodded Langdon.

"I noticed that Miss Page seemed terribly excited, and when we got to the door that led to the cafe, there was positively an expression of horror on her face. I never saw any one so unstrung. She had on an evening gown, of course, and I saw—" Brandon paused again.

"Yes? What did you see?" cried Langdon.

"I saw a strange mark on her shoulder—finger-prints that came and went in the most uncanny way. I was quite unnerved myself. Miss Page was by this time looking through the door at you, Mr. Langdon."

"I object!" shouted the District Attorney. "This story has no bearing—"

"Overruled," his Honor calmly said.

"This testimony," cried Langdon, a triumphant note in his voice, "will have an important bearing on the line of defense I shall later adopt."

"I object again," fairly yelled the prosecutor. "Such talk tends to prejudice the jury—"

"Overruled," again the Judge drawled.

"Is that the first time you ever saw these marks?" Langdon asked.

"Yes, sir."

"And the last time?"

"No. Six years later—"

"Tell the jury."

The witness coughed, as if preparing for an ordeal.

"It was the night of the opening of Miss Page in New York. I couldn't get a seat, so I stood in the rear of the theater, near the side. I was a police reporter then, and it was almost time for me to be on duty at the station. So I hurried away. Things were dull when I got there, so I sat in a corner near the stove and must have become a little drowsy. Pretty soon—I can't tell what time it was, but it must have been a couple of hours later—Langdon came rushing in. He was looking for Mary Page. We recognized each other, and I was surprised to find him in such a place on such an errand. Then he told me of the murder of Pollock.

"Somehow the night wore on. I had to stay on duty. In the morning, very early, the prisoners were brought out from the pen. I hadn't slept much. A paper was brought in, and I saw the staring headlines, telling all about the murder. That woke me up, I can tell you! What was my surprise, an instant later, to see Mary Page enter the room from a side door, in full evening clothes, but with no hat or coat! I could scarcely believe my eyes. I thought I'd gone mad, or something! Why, I'd just been reading about her—and there she stood, pale and beautiful, but bewildered and frightened. A police officer took hold of her.

"'Who is this woman?' the sergeant said.

"'We don't know who she is,' the officer answered. 'She wouldn't talk. She was pulled last night with a couple of—

"Just then I was close to her. She didn't recognize me; she seemed strangely dazed, almost hypnotized. Then she caught sight of the paper in my hand, with its big type running across the whole front page—'Sensational Murder.' She grabbed, and read it, horrified, and we all just stood there looking at her, without saying a word. Even the sergeant was silent. She seemed to devour the story. And then—some vision must have come before her eyes, for she whispered something about 'a bottle,' 'whiskey,' and her face and arms became tense. I looked at her bare shoulder, and that's when I saw those strange finger-prints again. They came and went as before.

"Then the outer door opened, and you, Mr. Langdon, came in. You looked tired, haggard, bedraggled. You still had on evening clothes. I remember," turning directly to the jury, "what a sensation Mr. Langdon's presence created, his name having been in every headline too. Miss Page saw him. He went up to her without a word, and they embraced each other. And then Miss Page stepped forward to the sergeant's desk and whispered, so low that I could hardly hear her, 'I give myself up.'

"Everybody was astonished, as you might realize. Then she turned, and buried her head on Langdon's shoulder."

Warren.—This city anticipates a very active building season this year. Contractors and retail lumber men expect it to be one of the most stiring in the history of the city.

A new $50,000 high school building will be constructed, a $20,000 addition to the Warren hospital will be built, and plans have been drawn for a new $20,000 bank building. It is probable that a modern forty room brick hotel will be built. The municipal light and water plant is now completing a $20,000 addition to its already modern plant. A movement has been started to spend $20,000 either for paving or graveling the main streets of the city. The increased demand for residences will require at least ten or fifteen houses to be erected.

Primary Election Expensive.

Bemidji.—March 22—It cost the voters of Beltrami county $1.40 for every vote cast at the presidential election last Tuesday. There are 80 precincts in Beltrami county. The county pays the expense of furnishing the ballots, delivering them, and having them returned to the court house. This expense is slightly more than $1,200.

In addition, each city, town and village must pay the expense of providing a polling place and for the officers at the election, and it is estimated that the average cost per precinct is $12 or $960 for the 80 precincts.

This together with the cost to the county, making the approximate total cost for holding the election $2,100. It is estimated from the total number of votes now in that not more than 1,500 votes were cast.

Wants $20,000 Damages.

Bemidji.—Twenty thousand dollars is the amount asked by George Newberg, now a pauper at the Bemidji poor farm, for damages he alleges he received in January, 1915, at Kelliher when he was thrown in an intoxicated condition, from the place operated by Oscar Thyroen and Ole Pearson, and that he froze both arms to such an extent that they were afterwards amputated near the elbows, making him a helpless cripple for life.

The action is being brought by Charles W. Scrutchin, the Bemidji attorney, and will be tried at Red Lake Falls some time next week. P. J. Russell, also of Bemidji, will appear for the defendants. The case was started in the district court at Bemidji, but on the request of the defendants for a change of venue it was changed to the spring term of court at Red Lake Falls.

Four Editors Are Candidates.

St. Cloud.—Laws passed by the common council of the city of St. Cloud for the next four years will be good laws. At least there will be no adverse criticism from the newspapers.

For several weeks the papers have deplored the fact that so few good citizens file as candidates for council jobs. At the last minute petitions were circulated unbeknown to the candidates, naming Alvah Eastman and H. Z. Mitchell of the Journal Press; C. F. MasDonald and Fred Schiplin of the Times and George Rosenberger of Der Nordstern.

The editors, instead of withdrawing, as was expected, have announced their intention of qualifying if elected and serving for the four coming year term.

Bemidji Mill Will Start Soon.

Bemidji.—According to the officials of the Crookston Lumber company, both the lumber mills of that concern will open next week and will operate both day and night throughout the summer, giving employment to nearly 1,000 men.

Although the lake is still frozen, a channel will be cut so that the logs may be transported from the landing to the mill. With the opening of the mills and the extensive work that is being comtemplated by the city in street improvements, together with the labor that will be needed for the construction of several large business blocks here this summer, one of the best years in the history of the city is assured as far as employment for the laboring men of the city is concerned.

Taft In Minnesota.

Duluth.—William H. Taft, former president of the United States, is expected to pass Easter Sunday and the following Monday in Duluth, as the guest of Thomas S. Wood, boyhood friend.

Mr. Taft was scheduled to lecture in Duluth last fall, under the auspices of the Collegiate Alumnae, but a blizzard in New York state prevented him from reaching Duluth in time to keep his engagement. He offered the alumnae another date, and Monday, April 24, was chosen.

Clipping And Comment.

The Long Prarie Leader has Thief River Falls listed in the wrong column in the following. So far from attempting to abandon the electric plant, the people of the city are figuring on extending it. The Leader says:

"Wadena and Thief River Falls are now considering the matter of abandoning their local electric light plants and securing current over transmission lines from water power plants. In each city it is the same old story of never ending expense for repairs and improvements with consequent inability to give reasonable rates to the consumers. Judging from newspaper sentiment in each town, the people are strongly in favor of the proposed change. The opinion is expressed that within a few years there will be no local steam electric light plants in the state. Long Prairie is simply joining the procession."

Perfectly No-Good.

Items like the following sent out from a neighborhood always make us tired. It would have been bad enough to be forced to report a flood after the event had taken place, but to anticapate one that may never happen at all simply gives the section a lot of advertising it would be better off without. The report is dated from Warren, and says:

Farmers who reside along the east banks of the Red river believe in preparedness, and are building boats and barges for use when the stream overflows as warm weather sets in. Most of the farmers have built huge mounds on which to keep their cattle in case of high water.

A TWICE-TOLD TALE.

One of Interest to Our Readers.

Good news bears repeating, and when it is confirmed after a long lapse of time, even if we hesitated to believe it at first hearing, we feel secure in accepting its truth now. The following experience of a Thief River Falls man is confirmed after a year.

E. T. Emerson, retired farmer, 417 LaBree Ave. N., Thief River Falls, says: "I was greatly annoyed by a lame and aching back and pains across my loins. I was in misery. My kidneys were weak and didn't act as they should and the kidney secretions were unnatural. I got Doan's Kidney Pills from Curtis' Drug Store and two boxes brought me fine relief." (Statement given March 16, 1912).

OVER A YEAR LATER, Mr. Emerson said: "This last fall, I felt a return of backache and again used Doan's Kidney Pills. One box removed the trouble."

Price 90c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Emerson has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—M23-30.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Consistency

YOU want a motor car that will serve you consistently. You want to know that your car can be relied upon day in and day out. You want high mileage per gallon of gasoline and freedom from repairs and readjustments. And you want these things, not occasionally, but continuously—day after day.

On these qualities the Maxwell has made good. It has proved its worth. When the Maxwell stock touring car set the World's Motor Non-Stop Mileage Record a short time ago it travelled for 44 consecutive days and nights and its performance was consistent.

It went about 500 miles each and every day. It went within a small fraction of 22 miles to every gallon of gasoline. It went the whole distance of 22,000 miles—probably further than you would travel in two years—without any repairs or readjustments. Every one of eight tires (two sets) went just about 9,800 miles and the others finished in good shape. For consistency and reliability this record far excels anything we ever heard of.

You can get a Maxwell, an exact duplicate of the record breaking stock car and if you order now you'll have it for the fine, early summer days. Don't put it off, as we can't get any guarantee on future shipments from the factory.

Are You Wasting The Price Of a Titan Engine?

TITAN engines run on kerosene.

Average cost of gasoline so far this year, 16.9 cents per gallon.

Average cost of kerosene 7.7 cents per gallon.

Gasoline costs over 100 per cent more than kerosene. Gasoline is going up steadily. Kerosene is not.

At present fuel prices Titan engines, using kerosene, save their owners about 1.1 cents per horse power per hour.

Are you running a gasoline engine? What horse power is it? Figure what you'd be saving if you had a Titan kerosene engine. Rather surprising, isn't it? How long would it take that saving to pay for a Titan engine of the same size?

Karo Premium Griddle

$2.25 SOLID ALUMINUM GRIDDLE FOR 85 CENTS IN CASH AND LABELS FROM 50 CENTS WORTH OF KARO—GET YOUR KARO LABELS AT ONCE AND SEND FOR YOUR GRIDDLE

EVERYBODY these days knows aluminum ware—the highest priced and the most satisfactory kitchen ware used in this country.

Here is your chance to get a 10½ inch Solid Aluminum Griddle for less than the wholesale price.

This Aluminum Griddle needs no greasing. It heats uniformly all over; it doesn't smoke up the house; it doesn't chip; it doesn't rust and it looks so much better and cleaner than any of the old kind of griddles.

It bakes Griddle Cakes that are really just as crisp as you want them to be. With Karo on them, they are the finest eating in the world—and so digestible because baked without grease that many people who haven't dared to eat griddle cakes for years, are enjoying Karo and Griddle Cakes now.

At great expense we are seeking to place a Karo Aluminum Griddle in the homes of all Karo users, so that Karo—the famous spread for griddle cakes and waffles—may be served on the most deliciously baked cakes that can be made.

Go to your grocer today and get 50 cents' worth of Karo and send us the labels and 85 cents in stamps or money order at once. You'll get your Aluminum Griddle by prepaid parcel post.

You know Karo, no doubt. It is the best known and most universally liked syrup in this country. Last year 65,000,000 cans were used.

Get your Karo today—and send us the labels and 85 cents at once, so as to be sure of getting yours. We will also send you free the famous Corn Products Cook Book.

St. Hilaire News

Rest Room.

The ladies of the Social and Improvement league have rented the Mike Anderson building on Main street to equip for use as a rest room. The ladies have been busy the past week cleaning and papering the building; they are also furnishing chairs and rugs and any other articles of furniture to make the room more cozy and comfortable. The purpose of this room is to provide a comfortable rest room for the farm ladies on creamery days, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The opening day for this room will be April third and a free lunch will be served by the club members to all the ladies who are in town that day and make their appearance at the rest room. This room is also open for rental by the different churches for Ladies' Aid purposes. This rest room is opened on all cream days and the farm ladies are cordially invited to make use of it.

Ladies' Social and Improvement Club.

The Ladies' Social and Improvement club met at the home of Mrs. J. Bahan last Wednesday evening, Mrs. Bahan and Mrs. W. Olson entertaining. The ladies contributed 50c apiece toward purchasing the new suits for the band boys, making a donation of $25 in all. After the business meeting a short program was rendered, and a delicious luncheon was served at eleven. The meeting was adjourned. The club will be entertained at their next meeting April fifth, by Mesdames Berkhall and Hall at the Hall residence on Water street.

MAY OVERCOME ROOM SHORTAGE

Prof. J. H. Hay Submits Plan Whereby Present Facilities May be Made to Meet Demands.

ROOMS MAY SERVE DOUBLE

Expansion Room Where Teachers May Confer With Pupils Outside of Regular School Hours Is Feature.

Inasmuch as it seems advisable at this time for the city of Thief River Falls to try and get along with the school facilities already provided, schemes for making this possible have been considered by the board. It now looks as if some way will be found whereby the present buildings will be made to answer all probable demands made upon them for the next year or two, and by the end of that time something definite in the shape of a program will have been mapped out.

Prof. J. H. Hay, superintendent of the city schools, has submitted to the board a plan which looks as if it might meet the requirements. It bears no relationship to the so-called "Gary System," as the regular program of study will be followed out. The scheme provides for the placing of the gymasium in the basement of the central school, thus giving eight recitation rooms in that building. In the Washington school the rooms would be used by two different sets of classes, one being called at 8:15 in the morning and continuing until 12:15, and the other beginning at 12:45 and closing at 4:30. Thus 16 classes could be heard in place of eight as at present. In addition to this the expansion or conference system explained in Prof. Hay's interview, would give any pupil needing additional attention the opportunity of meeting with the teacher for whatever period of time was found necessary outside of the regular school period. The idea will be given a trial in the Washington school first, and if it is found to work all right, may be extended to other buildings.

In order that parents may become acquainted with the proposed changes in the organization of the work in the basement rooms and the five second floor rooms of the Washington building, the following statement by Prof. Hay is herewith submitted:

"When school work re-opens next Monday, it is proposed to correlate the work of the two basement rooms taught by Miss Sinclair and Miss Peterson and the five upper rooms, so that the small children now occupying the basement may be relieved of that necessity for the remainder of the year. These two rooms are not easily ventilated and are damp with the advent of spring weather. It is the desire of the school authorities to protect the children against possible ill health caused by unsatisfactory surroundings."

"For the months of April and May it is proposed as an experiment to require the grammer grade pupils in the Washington to begin their day's work at 8:15 a. m. and close at 12:15. This will allow six periods of forty minutes each for recitations, whereas, under present conditions, they now have but five periods. Then, these pupils who had failed to make satisfactory recitations during the forenoon and others who require special assistance will meet with their respective teachers at 2:00 p. m. in three of the rooms occupied by them during the forenoon. Probably not over half a dozen from each room will require to attend this conference. The time required will vary from fifteen minutes to an hour or more. Under this scheme, the students will study more at home and will receive more individual attention from their instructors. It will also stimulate them to better effort in order that they may be relieved of the necessity of returning to the building in the afternoon."

"The second half of the plan will require the basement room children to assemble for their day's work at 12:45 in the rooms on the second floor now used by the classes of Miss Norman and Miss Melbye. They will continue in session until 4:30, thus assuring them also more time for recitation than under the present system. The teachers of these smaller children will meet their pupils in conference in the Lincoln gym at 10:00 a. m. It is likely that not over half a dozen will require to attend this morning meeting and it will also be brief."

"The plan requires no extra teachers to carry it into effect. It removes the children from the basement rooms permanently, affords excellent opportunity for individual help from the teachers, permits a more extended use of the school plant, and grants the child more time for recitation than under the present scheme. It ought not be confused with the "half time plan," nor with the Gary system. It is neither, as both the former and latter possess features which do not appear in the local proposition. It is merely an adaptation of the school plant to the needs of the children. In fact, it is not new in Thief River Falls having been used here in some form or other in years past."

"If the proposed experiment proves successful, there appears to be nothing of serious difficulty in its extension at a later date into other grade buildings wherein it would work satisfactorily. Many minor matters of administration will arise under this plan, but with the co-operation of the parents which has always been so heartily granted, they can be properly cared for."

THIEF RIVER MAN IS WITH CANADIAN ARMY

C. L. Diffenbacher Soon to Sail For England To Become One Of The American Legion.

A well-known former resident of Thief River Falls will soon be fighting the Germans on the western front in Europe. C. L. Diffenbacher, who formerly conducted a plumbing shop here but who left for Steller, Sask., two years ago, has enlisted with the Canadian contingent and expects to sail for Europe on the 20th. He will join the "American Legion" upon his arrival and will in all likelihood be sent with the greater part of the Canadians to front in France. Mr. Diffenbacher has had previous campaigning experience, having been with the United States Army in the Phillipines, a fact that was responsible for his being made a sergeant upon his present enlistment. Mrs. Diffenbacher, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar of this city, accompanied by her little son, is expected here in a day or two, and will make her home here until the return of her husband.

ZION LUTHERAN CHURCH CALLS NEW MINISTER

Rev. George Larson to Arrive on June 1—Rev. Bakke in Temporary Charge.

Rev. George Larson, at present in charge of the Norwegian Lutheran church at Nymore, has accepted a call to take charge at the Zion church in this city, and will assume his duties on June 1. This church has been presided over during the past eight years by Rev. A. L. Larson, who preached his farewell sermon two weeks ago and will shortly assume charge of the congregation at Wildrose, N. D. The church will be served during the intervening period by Rev. Bakke of Battle Lake, who is at present conducting the regular services.

The pastor who on June 1 will take charge of this congregation comes with the highest recommendations as a speaker and church worker, and one who is by experience and temperament well qualified to continue the work so successfully carried on for eight years by his predecessor. Zion congregation has experienced a steady growth during this period and this will no doubt be continued under the direction of the new pastor.

STEPHEN FARMER DROPS DEAD AT SOO DEPOT

Was Enroute To Warren Hospital For Treatment—Steps From Flyer And Dies In Ten Minutes.

Elling Mickelson, age about 60, retired farmer residing near Stephen, dropped dead while sitting in the Soo depot Monday evening at 10:20 p. m., ten minutes after alighting from the flyer. The man had been suffering from stomach trouble and was to have left the city the following morning for Warren to receive treatment. Shortly after the man died Coroner Halvorson was called, who decided that an inquest was not necessary.

For the past fifteen years Mr. Mickelson had been residing on a farm near Stephen and was engaged in building a home at Karlstad, where he had expected to remove his family, when he was taken ill. Mr. Mickelson was advised by the Karlstad doctors to enter the hospital at Warren, after receiving medical aid at the former city for a few days. Monday evening he left Karlstad accompanied by Paul Hendrickson. On alighting from the flyer when it arrived here, Mickelson, with the assistance of Mr. Hendrickson, walked to the waiting room and appeared to be in a very weakened condition, but was able to carry on a conversation until one minute before his death. Mr. Hendrickson on meeting the Times reporter explained the condition of the man as being very low. Dr. Heiber, who happened to be at the other end of the depot at that time, was called to the aid of the man by the reporter. When the doctor arrived he made a hasty examination and pronounced the man dead.

The man is survived by a wife and five children, who are left to mourn his loss. The remains were shipped today to Stephen for burial.

DITCH CAPACITY WILL BE TESTED

Continued Cold Weather, However, Is Doing Much To Lessen Danger of Spring Floods.

SNOW IS GOING GRADUALLY

William H. Brown, general manager of the Red River Power company, with headquarters at Grand Forks, was in Thief River Falls yesterday, being on a tour of inspection. He stated that the water in the Red River of the North at Grand Forks was now at last year's high stage, but that no great damage has yet been done. "It is a good thing," said Mr. Brown, "that this cold weather has kept the mass of snow in sections drained by the Red's tributaries from thawing, for had all the water eventually finding its way to that stream been let loose at one time it would certainly have made things interesting in many places. I believe that the danger is now practically over, and look to see the Red River gradually resume its normal status.

"There is, however, still a great deal of snow left in the basin and this will cause high water for some time, but by then the Red will have gotten rid of the surplus from the south and will be able to take care of any amount that these tributaries can possibly force into it.

"The water at Red Lake and Crookston is about as usual at this time of year," continued Mr. Brown, "and we do not anticipate any trouble at these points. In fact, if the present surplus gets out of the way before these smaller rivers break up, there should be no further trouble."

Senator O'Neill's Views.

"There is absolutely no danger of a flood as far as Thief River Falls is concerned," said Senator D. P. O'Neill, who has been active in the work of constructing the retaining revetment. "The Red River of the North will have gotten rid of the surplus from the Ottertail and other streams to the south before the water from the Red Lake, Clearwater and Thief rivers reach it, and in such case there will be practically no trouble." Senator O'Neill said that this cold weather is preventing any rapid thawing of the snow and that the soil will take up a very large portion of the water when it finally does go, while evaporation will in the meantime gradually have lessened the amount to be disposed of.

Will Test The Ditches.

The immense ditch system of Pennington, Marshall and Beltrami counties will again be subject to a supreme test this spring because of the heavy snow fall of the past winter, the territory to the east and north of Thief River Falls being covered with snow and the fields only bare in places.

The backward spring and absence of steady thaws has retarded the flow of water, the ice in both the Thief and Red Lake rivers still being intact and with warmer weather and normal rains, a flood of water, equal to that of last spring is anticipated, but with conditions for caring for the same much improved. A temporary revetment along the river, in the town of Hickory has been thrown up and this is expected to prevent the Red Lake River from leaving its course and cutting across country to the south, there to join the waters of the Clearwater. This latter possibility has caused much uneasiness, as a large and valuable farming territory would be under water if the river left its course. The revetment work was financed by private concerns interested in water powers along the river and by Pennington county, and farmers of the locality affected, approved of the plan.

Survey Should Be Made.

The Commercial club of this city first took up the matter of relief for the settlers along the river, and acting in harmony with Congressman Steenerson, organized a drainage commission made up of prominent farmers and representatives of the water power interests along the river. A bill has been introduced in Congress calling for an appropriation to make possible a survey of the Red Lakes and Red River territory south as far as Grand Forks, with an idea of comprehensive steps to eliminate the possibilities of flood in the territory mentioned, for all time. The fact that the wheels of legislation work slowly and that some temporary relief was necessary, stimulated the work of throwing up the revetment along the river, and at present conditions are fairly satisfactory, while there is no attempt to disguise the fact that an enormous quantity of water is certain to come down from the east and north as soon as the ice in the rivers breaks up, and then the big government ditches will called upon to demonstrate their ability to care for the surplus.

TAX SETTLEMENT FOR MARCH MADE

Spring Division of Moneys Received For Taxes Collected For Last Half Of Year 1915.

CITY SCHOOLS GET $11,252

The March settlement of taxes, being the pro rata distribution of the moneys collected for the last half of the year 1915, has been made by County Auditor Anderson, and the amounts placed to the credit of the different municipal sub-divisions of the county. The total amount distributed is $65,516.42, of which sum $64,693.33 is from real estate and personal property tax collections, and $824.09 from fees in mortage registration. This last named sum is apportioned among the townships, cities and villages only, no part going to the school districts.

The townships receive a total of $20,730.80, less the road benefits on county ditches. In this amount is included the $13,576.94 going to the city of Thief River Falls, and $1,077.54 to the village of St. Hilaire. Among the townships the largest sum goes to Smiley, this being $484.91, while Black River receives the smallest amount, $142.11. School district No. 18, in which is situated the city of Thief River Falls, gets, $11,252.32 out of a total of $17,246.32, while district No. 124, which adjoins Red Lake county, receives only the mortgage registery tax, amounting to 52 cents.

Produce House Opens.

Manager D. C. Biddick of the Thief River Produce company, says that he is surprised and pleased at the amount of interest shown in the new venture by the farmers of the neighborhood as well as by the townspeople. Mr. Biddick has been putting in the greater part of his time this week visiting the producers in the neighborhood of Thief River Falls, and is more certain of the success of the venture now than at any time. A large amount of produce has been received at the warehouse, most of which has been brought in by team. As the roads will for a short time be pretty heavy, however, he expects more rail shipments from now on. The new produce house starts out with every promise of success.

NORWEGIAN SOCIETY MAY HOLD IT'S MEETING HERE

"Telelaget," Fifteen Hundred Strong, Considering This Point For Holding Annual Convention.

The city of Thief River Falls may be host to about 1500 members of "Telelaget," an association composed of people who claim Telemarken in Norway as their place of origin. A "Lak" means a society or association, and persons coming from different sections of Norway maintain them very much the same as people coming from different states form societies in our larger cities.

The dates of this convention are June 23-24-25, and the Commercial club has issued a formal invitation to A. A. Trovatin of Barnesville, president of the "lag," offering the freedom of the city. Many delegations will bring their own bands and the meeting will in many respects be the most important in the history of the city. The officers of this association require no inducements in the shape of bonuses, only asking that the use of the Auditorium be tendered free for meetings. Prominent local Norwegians as well as the Commercial club have interested themselves in securing this meeting, and the chances for its coming here are decidedly good.

"BATTLE CRY OF PEACE" AT PRINCESS THEATRE

People of Thief River Falls Will Have Opportunity to See Famous Picture Play.

"The Battle Cry Of Peace," undoubtedly the greatest motion picture ever filmed, will be seen at the Princess theatre, Thief River Falls, on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 11 and 12. This is perhaps the first time a motion picture has been employed for the purpose of exploiting a nation-wide propaganda, and the lessons it teaches are taking a tremendous hold on the people.

No picture ever produced has received such unqualified endorsement from people from every walk in life. Such men as Dr. Lyman Abbott, Hon. Lindley M. Garrison, General Wood and Admiral Dewey are among the prominent men who have given the production their unqualified endorsement. The press and the pulpit have been unstinting in their praise of the play and people everywhere speak of it as the most intensely realistic portrayal of present conditions in the United States that can be imagined.

This production has been showing at the best theatres in America at prices ranging from 50 cents to $2.00 per seat. The price here, however, will be 25 cents. There will be a matinee each day at 2:30 o'clock. Prices 10 and 20 cents.

FREE SACRED CONCERT BY BAND NEXT SUNDAY

Fine Program Includes Solos, Duets And An Address On "City Amusements," At Auditorium.

A free concert will be given by the Thief River Falls concert band at the Auditorium at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon to which everybody is invited. County Attorney H. O. Kjomme will deliver an address on "City Amusements," a subject that is interesting the entire country just at this time. Following is the program:

1. Selection: "Raymond," Thomas—Band.
2. "Wedding March (From Summer Night Dreams," Mondelsohn—Band.
3. "Grand Fantasia, on Gospel Hymns," Dumar—Band.
4. Trombone Duet: "Romance," Bonnet—Messrs. Goslin and Tuel.
   Speech by Attorney H. O. Kjomme, "City Amusements."

HEALTH EXPERT TO MAKE REPORT

Dr. H. A. Burns of State Department, Investigates Conditions of Water Supply Here.

FINDS SUPPLY VERY BAD

Went Over Situation Thoroughly With View To Locating Trouble And Ordering Immediate Steps Taken To Remedy Same.

At the meeting of the city council next Wednesday evening that body will be in possession of a report by Dr. H. A. Burns of the department of epidemology of the state board of health, in which this expert will set forth the result of his investigations during a trip here this week. Dr. Burns was here on Monday, and made a thorough inspection with a view to determining any source of possible typhoid infection. While the results of his search will not be definitely known until the report is received by the city council, it is certain that he will urge the providing of a pure water supply without delay.

Dr. Burns announced upon his arrival that he stood ready to order a filtration plant put in at once if conditions seemed to warrant such proceeding, but said later that although there was no doubt that the danger existed, he was unable to trace it to a positive source without a more extended investigation than he was at this time able to make. He did not feel justified, therefore, in ordering the plant installed at this time, and would make his recommendations concerning it to the council direct.

It is known, however, that Dr. Burns did not find things to his liking, particularly as regards the disposal of sewage along the river bank. He gave emphasis to the warning given by local physicians against the use of water from the city mains for any purpose whatever, as he was convinced that grave consequences might follow such practice.

Dr. J. E. Douglas, health officer for the city of Thief River Falls, said today that he would try and secure the services of a sanitary engineer through the office of the state department, and thus procure positive data on the question of sewage disposal.

WOMEN'S CONVENTION IS GIVEN USE OF CLUB ROOMS.

The Ninth District Federation of Women's clubs, which will meet in Thief River Falls on May 5 and 6, was last evening granted the use of the Commercial club rooms for holding the meetings. The executive committee also voted to aid the local branch of the organization financially in defraying the expenses necessary in properly entertaining the delegates.

Representatives of the clubs in the following communities will be present at the two-days' session: Barnesville, Detroit, Moorehead, Mahnomen, Middle River, Warren, Stephen, Ada, Curley, Fergus Falls, Parkers Prairie, Breckenridge, Crookston, Fosston and East Grand Forks. Among those who are expected to be present are: Mrs. W. P. Cole of Wascea, president of the state federation, and Mrs. William Russell of Moorehead, president of the Ninth district division.

RED RIVER MEDICS TO MEET HERE IN JUNE

Quarterly Session of Valley Association To Be Held About The 15th.

The quarterly session of the Red River Valley Medical association will be held in Thief River Falls about June 15. This association has a membership of 56 doctors from the following counties: Polk, Pennington, Marshall, Red Lake, Kittson Norman and Roseau. Dr. W. S. Anderson of Warren, is president, and Dr. F. M. Dryden of Crookston, secretary.

The local members of the association have not as yet made any arrangements for the entertainment of the guests, and these together with the complete program will be published at a latter date.

PRIZE WINNERS IN AD CONTEST SOON KNOWN

Those Selected By Advertisers Printed This Week; Best Will Be Picked By Committee.

With this issue the ad contest instituted and conducted by J. A. Carroll and running in the columns of The Times comes to an end. Three hundred and forty-two different advertisements were submitted by the contestants, and those chosen by the advertisers as best are printed this week. A committee will select the best of these and the names of the winners will be announced in the next issue of The Times.

FOR PURE WATER.

What is undoubtedly the most important question ever coming up for discussion and settlement by the people of Thief River Falls is whether or not the city shall at once proceed to provide itself with a supply of pure water. The fact that the vote in favor of the bond issue will be practically unanimous does not lessen the importance of the proposition. Power dams, paved streets, electric light extensions and auditoriums are all very desirable and sometimes actually indispensable, but their importance is small when compared to the health of the community. And without a supply of pure water so plentiful that the use of any other kind is inconvenient and inexcusable the health of the people is in constant danger.

President Ackerman's ordinance introduced at the last council meeting, will come up for a second reading next week, and the people can very materially aid in its early passage by giving some indication as to how they feel about the matter. Councilmen are only human and naturally do their work better when they know that they have the support of the people they represent. There should be no division of opinion in this, and the Times does not believe that any exists. There apparently is none as far as the council members are concerned. They all realize that something must be done at once and have taken the first steps toward doing it. Tell your councilman what you expect of him when this matter comes up to be voted on. A unanimous vote of the council, backed up by the general endorsement of the people, will help when it comes to disposing of the bonds.

The most important improvement in the history of the city is under contemplation, and there should be nothing half-hearted about the support it receives.

WORTH CONSIDERING.

Certain illuminating gas manufacturers would like to secure a franchise from the city of Thief River Falls, giving them the right to use the streets for the laying of mains and granting them such other privileges as are usual in such cases. The matter has only been informally discussed by the common council and nothing definite has been held out by the companies, but the proposition is being seriously considered in many quarters.

It is claimed by persons who have given the matter some consideration that a privately owned gas works might prove a decidedly good thing for the people of the city. In the first place, it is held that such works might relieve the pressure now bearing on the electric plant and thus make the extension of this utility unnecessary at this time. The council dreads this electric extension matter—and the reasons are well founded. If a gas company could be induced to put in a plant here under a guarantee to furnish its product to the people at a nominal rate, there is no doubt but that it would be welcomed. Many small manufacturing plants in the city would be greatly aided by the advent of this cheap heat and light, while there is no question but what every residence and flat building to which the gas could be piped would at once install and utilize the product. The parties offering to put in the plant have in all probability looked into the matter of possible consumption and are satisfied that enough users could be found to make the venture a paying proposition.

There is another side to this question, however. Any city maintaining its own water supply should also own the gas plant. Actual figures will show that very few, if any, municipally owned water works plants are self-sustaining. In nearly every case where the municipality operates this public utility it does so at a loss. Many of these however, also own the gas plant, and the profit from this is sufficient to overcome the shortage in the water revenue. Gas plants are therefore considered good property by investors and cities so situated as to be able to build and maintain such plants almost invariably do so. Conditions in Thief River Falls at present, however, are such that the installing and maintaining of municipal works is impossible, and if the people demand the improvement it will have to be secured by the granting of a franchise to some concern able to carry out the project. That it would be a good thing is certain. The only question is whether or not the people of the city wish to place their streets exclusively at the service of one concern for a long term of years.

Some folks profess to think that because Eberhart received a large vote as a candidate for national delegate, it necessarily follows that the result will be the same when it comes to chosing a United States senator. Why they should arrive at this conclusion is not very apparent. Neither Kellogg nor Clapp were candidates for the honor, while Samuel R. Van Sant was such candidate. There is no doubt in the world but that many voters thought it would give a poor impression of party harmony in Minnesota to elect one ex-governor and turn down the other, so they voted for both. Just how the same voters will act when it comes to a four-cornered fight between Kellogg, Clapp, Eberhart and Lindberg for the senate remains to be seen. At this distance it looks as if the contest would be between Kellogg and Eberhart, but you can never tell. Clapp has been there a long time and has undoubtedly learned a few things about practical politics.

A Chicago grand jury has recommended that hangings be held at the jail there every Friday from now on. If this suggestion is carried out Chicago papers will in all probability soon contain some such notice as this: "Owing to an oversight on the part of the district court in not providing a candidate, the usual Friday hanging did not take place at the jail this week. Inasmuch as it generally conceded that there is a large number of persons in the city who ought to be hanged, the permitting of this opportunity for getting rid of one or more of them to go by is meeting with severe criticism. It is thought that the average will be maintained by the execution of twice the usual number next Friday."

Now that the meaningless spasm known as the spring primaries is safely disposed of, it might be a good idea to again take up the agitation for a constitutional convention and a smaller legislature. The Duluth Herald started these movements, but lost sight of them while attempting to defend the primary measure. The result of the election, however, seems to have somewhat dampened the ardor of even that excellent paper's defense, and the more important matters will now no doubt receive their proper consideration.

Charles B. Chenney, political writer on the Minneapolis Journal, says that Congressman Lindberg will file as a candidate for the United States senate before long. To sidetrack Clapp for the reason that he is not quite regular enough as a good party man and elect Lindberg in his place would be something of a joke. The Little Falls lawmaker has been off the reservation quite as often as the junior senator, some of the stunts pulled off by him being even more spectacular.

A. G. Anderson of Fergus Falls has announced himself as a candidate for the job now held by Congressman Steenerson. Mr. Anderson is said to be a very excellent American citizen, and as such has the right to announce himself for congress if he so sees fit. His application will be placed on file and some time when there is a vacancy he will be duly notified. For the present however, the people of the Ninth Minnesota District are not contemplating making any changes.

Superior, Hudson and Hastings were among the important cities added to the "dry" column in the elections held Tuesday. When river towns and lake ports heretofore considered the very strongholds of the liquor traffic decide to abolish it, it is an indication that its end is near. In Minnesota, 63 of the 86 county seat towns are now dry, while in 57 counties the sale of liquor is prohibited either by county option or by Indian treaty provision.

Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg, in a speech before the reichstag the other day, said that this talk of war between the United States and Germany was "silly." This would be highly pleasing to sensible people in this country if the chancellor had not spoiled the declaration by asserting that the present submarine policy of his government would be continued indefinitely. His speech as a whole does not give one the impression that Germany is preparing to sue for peace.

Fit And Proper.

The Deerwood Times believes that inasmuch as the government insists that much of the territory in Northern Minnesota is still to be governed by Indian laws it would only be proper to have it represented in congress by an Indian. The Times says:

"Rogers, a full blooded Indian for Congress. Well, we cannot help but see the fitness of it, being that this sixth district is an Indian reservation, why we should not have an Indian representing us in Cingress. But we think that Mr. Rogers selected a very inopportune time to enter the race. He is still a very young man and could wait a while."

Same Here, Brother.

Good newspapers prefer to be considered respectable. The other kind, of course, are not so particular. The following taken from the Chisholm Tribune-Herald meets with the approval of the Times in every particular, and is but one instance of many indicating that the sentiment in favor of clean journalism is growing:

"It is the easiest thing in the world to fill the columns of a newspaper with scandal. It does not require knowledge of the circumstances in the case you would discuss to everlastingly lambaste the character of the person in error. We have yet to hear of a scandal, which did not have encompassed in its net of shame several innocents, members of the family of the one who erred. The censure cast for the offender always falls upon the shoulders of the innocents. That is why we are not marketing schandal. Yes, we hear most all the yarns that are peddled, but we are not dealing in that line of stuff."

Rubberneck.

Farley Dare of the Walker Pilot, is getting into the habit of trying to correct some things that suit the rest of us all right. Listen to this:

"If the war is to blame for the way everything is going up, then we presume it is responsible for the six inch raise in women's skirts. About a year longer of warfare and a woman will have to find a new place to carry her pocketbook."

And it May Come to That.

Walker Pilot: "When one considers the advanced cost of the actual necessitties of life during the past few years, he has to admit that about the only thing that hasn't advanced in price, is the subscription to the country paper in his old home."

Somewhat Sarcastic.

The Crookston Times apparently has a poor opinion of the patriotism of the ordinary employer, or it would have never made the following nasty thrust:

"Employers are urged to allow their help to attend military camp. It is believed that they will patriotically respond by letting them off for this purpose on Sundays and legal holidays."

Reduce Living Cost.

The Barnesville Record makes the suggestion in the following which might be followed with profit by other communities:

"There are a good many patches in town that would look better if they were put into a garden this year instead of allowed to grow up to weeds and the work of caring for it would not be so strenuous. Then too, think of the appetizing additions to the many meals that a small garden will make possible. Put in a garden this spring and reduce the high cost of living."

A Good Lecture.

Roosevelt Reporter—Did you notice that Thief River Falls boys are organizing as the Junior Commercials? They proved that they could serve a luncheon and by essays give practical suggestions to their elders for civic improvement. Wonder if our commercial club could not be rejueenated either by adding a Junior or some other method. Lots to be done for this end of Roseau county.

NEW BUSINESS COLLEGE MAKES PROMISING START

Inquiries Received Indicate That A Considerable Number Will Enroll At The Outset.

President G. M. Langum of the Thief River Falls Business college, has opened fine offices at Room 2 in the Citizens State bank building. Inquiries received would indicate that there will be a large class enrolled as soon as the college is open for business, and there is no doubt that this will steadily increase. A suitable building for the housing of the school has not been selected, but two are under consideration, either of which would provide ideal quarters.

Manager Langum says that the college will devote itself entirely to providing the practical courses, so that when a young man or woman is graduated he or she will be competent to assume any position requiring a thorough knowledge of the particular branch studied. As an indication of the detail work taken up by the school, it is announced that a complete banking house, insurance, commission, real estate and wholesale offices, as well as retail, importing and jobbing branches will be taught under strictly modern conditions. Labor saving devices, such as typewriters, adding machines, multigraphing machines and filing cabinets will be installed and their proper use taught.

There is no doubt but that the school will prove a great convenience for many of the young people of the neighborhood who are desirous of securing a thorough business education but who find it impossible to go to the cities to secure the necessary instructions.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following is a list of the unclaimed letters at the postoffice of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, for the week ending April 1, 1916. If not called for in two weeks from the above date they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office at Washington, D. C.: Mrs. C. Alton, William Best, Frank J. Goetz, Knute Kittleson, Wm. Nelson, Mrs. L. M. Olson, Mr. Clemena Oswald, Pioneer Land Co., S. F. Staples, Julius Swenson, C. A. Weum. When calling for any of the above letters please state that they were advertised.—John Morgan, postmaster.

SPOILERS AT THE LYCEUM NEXT THURSDAY, APRIL 13

William Farnum and.. Star Cast.. In Famous Rex Beach Production Here Next Thursday.

What the "Old Homestead," "Way Down East," and "Uncle Tom's Cabin" are to the American stage, so is "The Spoilers" to the American motion picture screen. It is undoubtedly the most wonderful story ever filmed and is the undisputed sensation of the day.

"The Spoilers" is in twelve reels and contains twelve thousand feet of red-blooded action. This de luxe issue never has been presented in this city before and it is expected that the greatest crowds that ever saw a motion picture will attend the Lyceum next week.

"The Spoilers" is said to be the most popular film drama of American life ever released. The all-star cast appearing in this de luxe edition includes such favorites as William Farnum, Kathlyn Williams, Thomas Sanschi, Bessie Eyton, Frank Clark and others. More than four hundred persons were used in making the picture, which was produced at an enormous cost.

Library Notes.

The book circulation during the past month has been the "best ever," over 3,000 books being loaned. The estimated reading reference room attendance during the same period was 2, 737. There were 59 new patrons recorded during the month, making a total of 425 since the first of September. The book circulation during the same period was 16,451.

The library room is coming more and more into use. It is now employed by young people as a place in which to play checkers, dominos, etc. Picture books interest the little ones who have not learned how to read. Some of the children living in flats and who have no other playground are making free with the library property, and this is a good thing for them.

Donations during the month are acknowledged as follows:

Andrew Nelson of Viking, four books; T. P. Anderson, two Norwegian books; Harold P. Miller, subscription to "Outlook;" high school pupils, subscription to "The Survey;" Mr. Rowberg, three books; Mrs. W. Korstad, 12 books, six of which are German.

LINDBERGH MAY GO AFTER TOGA

Said Congressman Will Enter Senatorial Contest.

SCHMAHL BOOMED FOR PLACE

St. Paul—(Special)—State capitol circles are all torn up. Like a bolt from a clear sky has come the news that Congressman Lindbergh of the Sixth district has definitely decided to enter the Republican senatorial contest, and when this letter was being written it was said that he was preparing to shake the dust of Washington from his feet for a hurried visit to the Minnesota capital. His visit was for the purpose of withdrawing his filing for the governorship and substituting one entering his name in the senatorial lists. Hard on the heels of this was the further news that Senator Clapp had about decided to retire from the senatorial field and that if he did his best wishes would be with the Sixth district man. Then on top of all this came another rumor to the effect that Secretary of State Schmahl was considering a flyer in United States senator preferred. Truly it was a week of threatened events. That Congressman Lindbergh's entrance into the senatorial game will greatly mess up things is admitted, but the querries run mostly to what particular candidate his entrance into the game will effect. If Mr. Clapp should elect to remain in the contest the opinion is that his chances would be strengthened, but should he withdraw then former Governor Eberhart would suffer. Two Scandinavians fighting for the mastery, those interested point out, would beyond question redound to the credit of Frank B. Kellogg. This condition evidently has not been lost sight of by friends of Secretary of State Schmahl, who, hard on receipt of the news from Washington that Mr. Lindbergh proposed to get into the game, immediately started a boom for the secretary. That his proposed candidacy has not gotten beyond the rumor stage is true, but it threatens to be a trouble maker if it happens. It was the death of Governor Hammond that rudely shattered the ambitions of Julius. Perhaps here is where he is destined to shine.

Outside of those directly involved in the latest scramble for place perhaps the most interested are a number of Democrats who think they see in it all a possible chance for one of their number. State Insurance Commissioner S. D. Works, I know, is watching every turn of the Republican senatorial snarl and it is certain that Daniel W. Lawler is not overlooking any of the details. To both, perhaps, it is a forlorn hope, but one never knows what will happen in politics. Mr. Works has been talked of in a Democratic gubernatorial way, but it is said he would not be adverse to taking a fling at the senatorship if the opportunity offered. While his chances of winning would be small, still his entrance into the game would not be without its reward. The advertising alone would be worth something and then there is always the chance of the unexpected happening. Dan Lawler has twice attempted the senatorship, but failed. Possibly he will forget it this time.

Judge Ira B. Mills, whose term as member of the state railway and warehouse commission expires this year, is the record holder for long service at the capitol. He served six years on the railroad commission when it was appointive, was out two years during the Lind administration, and has served on the elective commission ever since it went on that basis in 1901, making twenty-two years he will have served next January. Before he became railroad commissioner he was on the district bench. It is expected Judge Mills will announce his candidacy for re-election in due time.

HAPPY WOMEN.

Plenty of Them in Thief River Falls, And Good Reason For It.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
When she finds freedom?

Many readers will profit by the following:

Mrs. A. Lindblad, 319 Knight Ave. S., Thief River Falls, says: "I suffered from backache and lameness across my loins for years. Whenever I caught cold, I was worse. It may have been lifting that affected my kidneys and made my back so weak. Besides this, my kidneys didn't act right and I felt languid and tired. I used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and was relieved in every way. My back stopped hurting and I felt stronger and better. My kidneys also became normal and I haven't had any trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Lindblad had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—A6-13.

MANY IN THIEF RIVER FALLS TRY SIMPLE MIXTURE.

Many Thief River Falls people are surprised at the QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka. This simple remedy acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour stomach or gas. A few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-i-ka is astonishing.—F. J. Stebbins, druggist.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

NATIONAL SLOGAN SUGGESTED BY PROMINENT MEMPHIS DRUGGIST

Would Remind the Public to Prevent Sickness by Removing the Cause

T. D. BALLARD

a prominent druggist of Memphis says: "Much sickness could and would be prevented if the people would only remember that constipation is one of the first causes. As a reminder, I would suggest the slogan,

"'Rexall Orderlies, the laxative tablet with the pleasant taste.'

"I suggest Rexall Orderlies as I know their formula and believe they are the best remedy for relieving constipation. They can be used by men, women or children."

We have the exclusive selling rights for this great laxative.

PRINCESS THEATRE
April 11th and 12th

This Is By Far the Greatest Picture that Has Ever Been Shown In This City

THE Battle Cry of Peace is the first motion picture to be used to exploit an important, nation-wide propaganda. It's object is to bring to the notice of the greatest number of people in the shortest possible time the defenselessness of our country, not only to make the American people realize our condition as a nation, but to show them also the consequences to which this condition may lead, and finally to show them how to remedy this condition.

FUNSTON IS NOT VERY HOPEFUL

Pessimistic Over Early Capture of Villa.

LARGER FORCE IS NEEDED

Impossible to Send More Troops South Because of the Necessity of Guarding the Lines of Communication With Headquarters.

San Antonio, Tex., April 6.—Admitting that Villa has escaped to the south General Funston declared the bandit chief is probably headed for the Parral district with very few American troops in pursuit.

General Funston asserted it is impossible to send a considerable body of soldiers farther south because of the necessity of protecting the lines of communication.

The present available force has been drained to meet this requirement. Hope of an early successful end of the great man hunt has apparently been abandoned at army headquarters.

General Funston and members of his staff exhibited a pronounced air of pessimism. Funston himself frankly admitted that a continuation of the chase southward must be backed up by a stronger force than at present is available.

Americans Sustain No Losses.

Commenting on Colonel W. C. Brown's defeat of a Villista force thirty miles north of Guerrero April 1 Funston pointed out that troops under Pershing available for pursuit are undoubtedly now far south of the scene of the second engagement, which resulted in the killing of thirty Villistas. There were no casualties among the 200 negro troopers in Colonel Brown's Tenth cavalry command. Knowledge of the fight is limited to reports brought to General Pershing by Mexican ranchers. No detailed official report has yet been made.

General Funston believed the bandits who burned two bridges north of Monclova are Villistas, but is not certain, and admits himself somewhat at sea concerning the leadership of this new enemy faction. There have been no reports to headquarters of disaffections among Carranzistas except a circumstantial report of Colonel Sandoval's alleged Villa sympathies.

FORTY-TWO MORE ARE KILLED

Villa Force Attempts to Surprise Carranza Garrison.

Torreon, Mex., April 6.—A Villa band attempted to surprise the garrison in the mining town of Parras, several miles east of here, last Saturday. The garrison, under Colonel J. M. Gonzales, drove off the bandits, killing forty-two and capturing a quantity of arms and several horses.

Efforts to arrange the surrender under an amnesty grant of General Canuto Reyes and other Villista leaders of the Torreon district are being hastened. Meanwhile, it is reported, a band of Villa supporters have completely alienated the bandits' cause in the neighborhood of Sombrerete by wrecking a passenger train.

FRENCH GAINING GROUND

Paris Reports German Repulse With Heavy Losses.

Paris, April 6.—The French gained ground north of Caillette wood, northeast of Verdun, in the course of several engagements during the night, the war office announced.

Twenty mines which were thrown into the Meuse at St. Mihiel by the Germans were exploded by the French with no damage.

In fighting around Verdun the Germans lost gound and again suffered heavy casualties, notwithstanding the new formation of their attacking parties.

GEORGIA TRIPLE TRAGEDY

Jealous Husband Kills Two, and One, Dying, Kills Him.

Moultrie, Ga., April 6.—Jack and Cleve Calhoun, brothers, and William Logan are dead for the reason that Lagon believed the brothers were too friendly with his wife.

He invited them to his home. Whipping out a revolver he started firing. The first shot pierced Jack's heart. Two bullets entered Cleve's body and he fell. Dying, he jerked out his own weapon and shot Logan to death, pumping five bullets into his body.

Kills Wife; Takes Own Life.

Nokomis, Ill., April 6.—Evlyn Clapham, twenty-seven years old, shot and killed his wife, Jessie Clapham, wounded George Reed and then turned the gun on himself and inflicted a hurt from which he died.

Superior Ousts Saloons.

Superior, Wis., April 6.—Superior voted dry for the first time in its history, the foes of liquor carrying the election by thirty-three votes. Fred C. Tomlinson was re-elected city commissioner.

GERMAN POLICY IS MADE PUBLIC

Chancellor Makes Important Speech in Reichstag.

DENIES AMERICAN GOAL

Declares Stories of Contemplated Aggression on This Continent Are Absurd—Germany's Sons Dying to Preserve the Fatherland.

Berlin, April 6.—Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg protested vigorously in the reichstag against the report that Germany now or in the future contemplates aggression against the United States. The chancellor said:

"The latest offspring of the calumniating campaign directed against us is a report that we, after the end of this war, shall rush against the American continent and that we shall attempt to conquer Canada.

"This is the silliest of all the imputations invented against us. Equally silly are the reports that we contemplate the acquisition of any territory on American soil, as in Brazil or in any American country whatever.

"We fight for our existence and for our future. For Germany and not for space in a foreign country are Germany's sons bleeding and dying on the battlefield.

"Every one among us know this and it makes our hearts and nerves so strong. This moral force strengthens our will in order not only to weather the storm, but also to achieve final victory."

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg indicated in his speech that any suggestions of peace on the basis of destruction of Prussian military power would make possible only one answer—the German sword.

The chancellor stated that if Germany's adversaries desired to continue the slaughter of men and devastation of Europe the guilt would be their's and that Germany would have to "stand it as men."

INTENDS TO SPEED UP WAR

New Russian Minister Outlines His Proposed Plans.

Petrograd, April 6.—The new war minister, General Chouvaieff, announces in an interview in the Russian press that he intends to concentrate his efforts on providing the army with sufficient equipment to gain a victory over Germany. To do this, the minister said, the national defense committees and the All-Russian Zemstvo union must be improved, reorganized and freed from bureaucratic influence.

"In our military administration," General Shouvaieff said, "there must be more deeds and fewer words, and we must make quicker decisions. It must be seen to that not only our organizations for carrying on the war fulfill the work assigned to them, but that also they fulfill it in the appointed time."

SKIRMISH IN BALTIC SEA

German and British Vessels in Minor Clash.

Copenhagen, April 6.—A German squadron emerging from the Baltic dashed into the North sea and engaged in a minor skirmish with a British torpedo flotilla off the Norwegian coast, according to reports from two sources received here.

A dispatch from Stavenger, Norway, to the Politiken said a German squadron was sighted off that port. Skippers arrived later with reports that they heard gunfire near the coast.

From Kullen, Sweden, came the report that heavy cannonading was heard off the southern end of Norway and that a damaged torpedo boat was towed past Helsingborg a few hours later.

GENERAL MORRONE NAMED

Succeeds War Minister Zuppelli, Who Has Resigned.

London, April 6.—A Stefani dispatch from Rome says: "King Victor Emmanuel has accepted the resignation of War Minister Zuppelli and appointed General Morrone to succeed him.

"It is stated General Zuppelli desires to participate in active operations. Another report is that he resigned on account of ill health."

Spanish Steamer Sunk.

London, April 6.—The Spanish steamship Vigo, of 1,137 gross tons, was sunk in the Bay of Biscay by a German submarine, according to a Lloyd's report. The crew was set adrift in a boat and later was picked up by the British steamship Polo and taken to Gibraltar.

Four More Vessels Sunk.

London, April 6.—Four more vessels, three of them neutral ships, have been sunk in the past twenty-four hours with the loss of one life.

Boys Called to Colors.

Rome, April 6.—A statement issued here says that males born in 1897 will be called to the colors during the present year.

BIDS FOR ROSEAU BANK TO BE OPENED APRIL 21

Joseph C. Lutz, supervising architect in charge of the erection of the new Citizens State bank building at Roseau, left this morning for that place to look over the situation. The building is to cost about $25,000, and the bids for its construction will be opened on April 21. There will be five separate contracts—general, heating and plumbing, electric wiring, painting, and ventilating. The building will be two stories high, and basement, 53x100 feet. The bank entrance will be on the corner and a general merchandise concern will occupy the space around it. The basement will be partly occupied by a barber shop, the remainder of the space being used as a store room by the merchantile establishment and for the heating plant.

Notice For Bids.

Notice is hereby given that the town board of the town of Mayfield will meet at 10 o'clock a. m. on Saturday, April 15, 1916, at the Clerk's office for the purpose of receiving sealed bids for the removal of 8,500 cubic yards of dirt for road purposes. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Fifty-five and 83-100 Dollars ($55.83), which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Charles Bengtson and Hanna Bengtson, his wife, Mortgagors, to the Citizens State Bank of Thief River Falls, (a corporation under the laws of the State of Minnesota), Mortgagee, bearing date the 6th day of May, 1913, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, on the 12th day of May, 1913, at 4:00 o'clock P. M., in Book 7 of Mortgages, on page 238.

AND WHEREAS, The said Citizens State Bank of Thief River Falls, (a corporation under the laws of the State of Minnesota), the Mortgagee and Holder of said Mortgage, has duly elected and does hereby elect to declare the whole principal sum of said Mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice, under the terms and conditions of said Mortgage and the power of sale therein contained; and whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of six hundred and No-100 Dollars ($600.00), with interest thereon at the rate of Ten (10) per cent per annum from the 31st day of May, 1914, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage, or any part thereof;

NOW, THEREFORE, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, viz: Lots numbered Three (3), Four (4) and Five (5) in Block numbered Thirty-nine (39) of the Original Townsite of Thief River Falls, according to the plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Pennington County, State of Minnesota, lying and being in Pennington County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, except the South Half (S½) of said Lot number Three (3) in said Block number Thirty-nine (39) which has heretofore been released from said mortgage by the said Mortgagee; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Pennington County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Thief River Falls in said County and State, on the 17th day of May, 1916, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of Seven Hundred nine and 64-100 Dollars ($709.64), and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and Fifty and No-100 Dollars ($50.00), Attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 28th, A. D. 1916.

Jerdee & Reedy

"The home of good clothes"

The firm of Jerdee & Reedy was established one year ago by Hans Jerdee and Tom Reedy, two competent men who have had many years' experience in the line of business. This store is located in the Evenson building on the corner af Main Ave. N. and Third St. W., and is one of the finest in the city. The long experience of the owners of the business has placed them in such a position that they are able to know the wants of their customers and are continually adding new lines to suit the wants of their trade. This firm handles only the best quality goods and they are willing to return your money or exchange goods if they are not satisfactory. The Manhattan line of shirts, which is known to be the best on the market is handled by this company and they always have a complete and "up-to-date" line of the latest styles and patterns.

Hirsch Wickwire, Sophomore and Kirshbaum brand clothing is handled by this company. These clothes shops are famed for tailoring, workmanship and other esentials of good clothes. This store is in a position to give you clothes satisfaction that only experienced merchants can give. They can help you pick the right shade and pattern, suggest the right model suited best to your build, give skilled advice regarding its fit, and drape on you. In short they made the word "service" in their famous slogan, "style, service and satisfaction" mean more to you. This firm also carries a large and well selected stock of shoes for men and boys. They handle the well known Brockton and Bench-Made brand, which are made for service and satisfaction. When you are looking for men's and boys' clothing or furnishings you need look no farther than the Jerdee & Reedy store. If you want to save time, go to this store first and you will not have to look farther.

CRANDALLS WIN BY 22 POINTS

MAKE GAIN OF 50 POINTS

Good Attendance and Much Interest Shown at all Games of Series—Supper Provided By The Vanquished.

The whist team captained by Dr. C. R. Crandall won by 22 points over that chaperoned by F. H. Herrick, after a series of four games, the last of which took place last night at the Commercial club rooms. The tournament has been very interesting from the start and the honors were very even. In two of the games the Crandall adherents had the better of the argument, while in the other two the Herricks were ahead. In the first game Herrick lead by 8 points; the next went to Crandall by majorities of 54 and 36 respectively, and the last was captured by Herrick with 50 points to the good. After the game the defeated players took the victors to the Soo cafe, where a fine lunch had been prepared.

Table No. 5: For Crandall—Benson and Bothun, 34; for Herrick—Neste and Daniels, 32.

WANTS 80,000 ACRES FOR GAME PRESERVE

Pennington County Asked to Join In Movement For Protection Of Birds.

William Munch of Crookston, deputy state game warden, was in Thief River Falls on Saturday for the purpose of interesting sportsmen and others in the establishment of a preserve for game birds within the limits of Pennington county. His idea is to have the gun clubs in the county take the matter up and request the state to declare a tract of 80,000 acres closed territory for a term of ten years in order that the birds now in danger of extinction may be left unmolested and given a chance to increase. The state will stock such preserve with quail, prairie chickens and pheasants, but exacts a guarantee that these shall not be hunted for a period of five years. The only way in which this guarantee can possibly be forthcoming in a county such as Pennington is for every land owner to positively forbid hunting on his premises during the closed period.

Unless the people themselves take this matter in hand and do all in their power to prevent the killing of game birds, there is not the slightest doubt but that a state law will be passed making it a punishable offense to do so. The birds are in danger of extermination and that the present laws do not offer sufficient protection is generally conceded.

All the counties in the state have been asked to take the matter up, and Polk county has recently set aside 80,000 acres as a preserve through the co-operation of land owners.

BANKERS MEETING TO BE HELD ON MAY 16

Date Selected For Ninth District Group at Thief River Falls.

Arrangements are going forward for the meeting of the Ninth District Group of the Minnesota Banker's association to be held in Thief River Falls on May 16. The committee of the local bankers having the matter in charge will hold a meeting shortly to make all arrangements, and these will be such as will make the visit of the bankers a memorable occasion. Besides the regular meeting, which will be held at the Commercial club, there will be a banquet in the evening and sight seeing trips by automobile in the afternoon.

At the regular session in the morning, Mayor F. H. Gambel will welcome the delegates on behalf of the people of Thief River Falls, while President George G. Johnson of the Commercial club will perform the same pleasant duty for that organization. W. W. Prichard, sr., dean of the bankers of Thief River Falls, will act as toastmaster at the banquet in the evening. The program will be substantially as published in the Times last week.

The public, and particularly the farmers, will be invited to the open session of the association in the afternoon. Matters of as much importance to the ordinary citizen as to the bankers themselves will here be discussed and it will prove an excellent opportunity for forming a closer acquaintanceship. The local bankers extend an invitation to everyone to be present at this gathering and there is no doubt that all will be profited by a free and open discussion of the problems which at the present time confront bankers, farmers, professional men and laborers alike.

POLK COUNTY TOWNSHIP HAS BIGGEST INCREASE

Two Hundred Dollars Awarded By Cummins Committee Misses Goodridge By Four Votes.

The $200 in cash offered by the Cummins campaign committee to the Minnesota township showing the biggest percentage of increase in its vote during the past two years goes to Tabor the town of Polk county. The returns show that this township cast 71 votes at the last election, whereas two years previously but 26 votes were cast, an increase of 45 votes; Goodridge township in Pennington county cast 39 votes two years ago and 80 at the last election, an increase of 41.

Boy township in Cass county was the first to make an application for the money. This town cast just twice as many votes at the last election as at the previous one—36 this year as compared with 18 in 1914. A few days afterwards Ann Lake township in Kennebec county proved that it had the Cass county town beaten by one vote, and then Tabor township came along with its showing and secured the money.

MORE GOOD ADVERTISING FOR THIEF RIVER FALLS

The City Auditorium Held up As A Patern for Similar Building At Bemidji.

Bemidji is figuring on building a city Auditorium, and to prove that an enterprise of this kind is a good thing for the town, President Frank S. Lycan of the city council at a meeting of that body the other night, called particular attention to the success that has attended the building of an Auditorium here. As is the case in almost every other community, the item of first cost is an important one with our Beltrami neighbor, but President Lycan has evidently looked into the matter very thoroughly and believes that the building can be made self-sustaining. In his report to his fellow-councilmen the other evening he said:

"I believe the income derived from sub-letting the auditorium for various purposes would take care of the interest on the bonds issued to complete the building to say nothing of saving of money absolutely thrown away in making continual repairs on the old City Hall, the maintenance of a rest room etc. Thief River Falls which has tried out this plan, is an enthusiastic supporter. They say their city building with its fine auditorium is one of the city's best assets, if not the very best.

The Great McClure Mystery Story, Written by FREDERICK LEWIS In Collaboration With JOHN T. M'INTYRE, Author of the Ashton Kirk Detective Stories. Read the Story and See the Essanay Moving Pictures

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Page, actress, is accused of the murder of James Pollock and is defended by her lover, Philip Langdon. Pollock was intoxicated. At Mary's trial she admits she had the revolver. Her maid testifies that Mary threatened Pollock with it previously, and Mary's leading man implicates Langdon. How Mary disappeared from the scene of the crime is a mystery. Brandon tells of a strange hand print he saw on Mary's shoulder

HER MOTHER'S STORY

THE District Attorney stood at the window of his private office adjoining the court and stared down at the hurrying throngs while one nervous hand beat a devil's tattoo again the somewhat grimy pane.

It had been raining, and the identity, even the sex of the crowd was submerged beneath a sea of bobbing black umbrellas between which the wet and shining tops of the motor cars darted like huge black beetles. But the prosecutor saw neither the crowd nor the traffic—he saw only Mary Page! She had become almost an obsession with him now, and though it was not yet time for court and there were other clients besides the State whose business claimed his attention in his other office, he had drifted here, as he had drifted unwittingly each morning to mentally test the links in the chain of his evidence against her.

It SHOULD be strong enough to bind her upon the merciless wheel of the law, and yet he was conscious that more than one of its links was weak—so weak, in fact, that not even his masterly summing up for the jury had been entirely able to gloss it over. He did not doubt for a moment that Mary Page was guilty of the murder of James Pollock, but he had not PROVED her so to his own satisfaction.

He had shown that Pollock was in her eyes an enemy; he had proved that the dead man was a wooer whose pursuit was unwelcome; he had shown that twice during the recent years Pollock had forced Mary to promise to be his wife, but that once the necessity for that step was removed she had claimed her freedom again. She had everything to gain by his death, which was surely motive enough; added to which, if she were not guilty he felt she would not have fled that night after the murder.

Time after time as he went back to the testimony—to the fact that Mary had had the revolver in her bag, HAD gone into the room and HAD been found beside Pollock's body, he strove to glimpse some faint clue that would give a chance for "fresh evidence." In the meantime, it was Langdon's turn, and the keen-eyed District Attorney wondered curiously just what defense he would bring. Langdon's continual refusal to cross-examine the witnesses for the State had naturally kept his defense wonderfully well hidden.

The newspapers were, however, full of theories as to what the defence would be. Several claimed that it would be the "unwritten law," the guarding of Mary Page's honor; another that it would be proved that Pollock shot himself when he found that not even his support of her stardom could make Mary marry him; while still a third said that the real criminal would "confess" when put upon the stand. Absurd, all of them, and yet the third theory brought a frown to the lawyer's face. Suppose Langdon himself confessed to the murder!

"Hello, Chief!" A voice from the door interrupted his revery and he turned quickly.

"Hello, Sheenan. Have you got anything?"

"No," he said, "not a thing along the lines you spoke of. Slade doesn't know anything except what he told, and I've traced Langdon's movements for three days before the murder, down to each minute, and there's nothing to hang a dog's hair to."

"Did you find out about the automobiles parked on that night?"

"Yep; but Casey was on the job at that corner, and there wasn't as much as a ghost of a motor went into the street back of the hotel. The back gates of the houses were locked—had been tried by the watchman just a few minutes earlier, and the police were on the job anyway, on account of the club there. The Page woman must have gone down the fire-escape and climbed into the hotel at another floor—that's the only answer."

The prosecutor turned again to the window. "All right," he said, curtly. But the detective lingered.

"Say, Chief," he suggested hesitatingly, "have you talked to Daniels? Little fat guy that runs the Covington? I saw him yesterday and he looks—well, sick."

The prosecutor laughed.

"He doesn't know anything. I've pumped him dry as powder."

A discreet knock sounded, and the bailiff put his head in at the door.

"His Honor is ready to go into Court, sir," he said; and with a nod of relief the prosecutor gathered up his papers.

"Defence begins today, don't it?" asked the detective as he left. "What do you guess it's going to be?"

"I'm not guessing anything," said the District Attorney grimly, "except that his witnesses are going to have a bad time when they get into my hands."

"Tell me something I don't know!" chuckled the detective with honest admiration, though after a moment's pause he added behind his superior's back, "But Mary Page has got the sympathy of the crowd at that, by glory!"

She HAD won the the sympathy of the spectators now—there was no doubt of it, and the hostility that was writ so large on the faces for her at the beginning now greeted the prosecutor instead, and it was a hostility that somehow was the more acute because the faces were so oddly familiar—so familiar, in fact, that he had almost spoken to one of the men who sat in the front row when he had passed him in the corridor the day before.

"His witnesses are going to have a bad time when they get into my hands."

The reporters seemed like old friends, too, and he noticed with a grim little smile that one of the "sob sisters" had on a new and very becoming hat, and he wondered ironically whether it was in honor of the defence or because the day before one of the star writers on a big daily had changed his seat in order to sit beside her.

There was an extra briskness about the newspaper group today, for today the defence of Mary Page would begin. Today Langdon must strip off the mask of a smiling confidence and show what lay behind it.

The mask, or at any rate the smile, was still there when he came into court, not with Mary, this time, but with her mother. His hand was tucked protectingly under the arm of the little gray-haired woman, and his lips were close to her ear as if he were murmuring a final encouragement—or a final instruction!

Mary, too, was smiling, and silently repeating:

"Today we will begin my defence. Today Philip will start to set me free!" And not even in her own heart would she let herself contemplate the thorny path that must be traveled before that elusive freedom had struck the invisible gyves from off her wrists and heart. Suddenly she heard the first witness of the day called.

"Mrs. Annie Page!"

The frail little woman seemed to have visibly shrunk when she took her place in the witness-stand.

"Mrs. Page, how long ago was it that you met the man who later became your husband?"

"Thirty-one years ago at Christmas."

"But it was some years before you were married, was it not?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Because of—of Mr. Page's habits My parents insisted upon my breaking the engagement."

"But it was later renewed?"

"Yes. He promised me that he would stop drinking, and I believed. God knows, a woman always believes that—from a man."

"Will you tell us, please," Langdon's voice was warning in its sharpness, "as concisely as you can what happened after your marriage?"

"What happened," she said wearily, "is what happens to thousands of women. We hadn't been married very long before my husband began to drink again. The—the—night that the certainty that Mary was coming to us from God came to me—he was out till dawn and had to be brought home too drunk to even know where he was. And all the while that I was making ready for her, he made my inability to go out with him an excuse for debauch. And oh, your Honor—" she added, turning to the Judge with a catch in her voice, "night after night I used to walk the floor, praying like a wicked woman that my baby might die before it came into the world—because I was afraid it would bear the taint—would be born with that awful devastating thirst."

"Did your husband ever strike you when he was drunk?" Again Langdon's voice held that warning note, but now the prosecutor broke in sharply:

"May it please the court, I protest against this evidence, as irrelevant! As being a palpable effort to arouse sympathy towards the prisoner and her mother and therefore a menace to the progress of justice."

"On the contrary, your Honor," Langdon took an eager step forward, and there was a sharp thrill almost of triumph in his voice as he spoke. "It is my intention to prove by this testimony that Mary Page, through prenatal influence, was born with so great a horror of drink, as to induce, in her, moments of temporary insanity even when she was a little child. And if Mary Page fired the shot that killed James Pollock she did so while suffering from an attack of 'repressed psychosis' to which she has been subject all her life."

The words spread like a flame through the tinder of curiosity and leapt from lip to lip not only through the court itself, but spread by some telepathic means to those hovering in the corridor without. The defence was known at last. It was temporary insanity under a new and delightfully erudite title!

It caught the prosecutor unawares. He appreciated its cleverness, even though he doubted its honesty. It offered an excuse for everything—the shooting, the flight, Mary's repeated and hysterical assertions that she remembered nothing except Pollock's endeavor to make her drink—but it was so unexpected that he had no quick parry for Langdon's appeal, and he was not surprised when the Judge bade the latter continue his questioning.

"Mrs. Page, I will repeat my former question to you. Did your husband ever strike you when he was drunk?"

"Yes." The word was no more than a whisper.

"Did he ever strike you just before your child was born?"

"Yes." The answer came more quickly now, fiercely, the mother dominant above the wife.

"Will you tell us of the circumstance, please?"

"It was one night when I had been sitting up sewing. My husband came home very drunk. He—he frightened me and I ran from him. That infuriated him—he ran after me—and seized me by the shoulder! Then—he—he struck me. But he held me so tight that my shoulder for days bore the imprint of his fingers in a great bruise on the flesh."

"Have you ever seen another bruise like that?"

"Yes."

"Where?" The question snapped out brutally, and Mary, leaning forward, stretched out one shaking hand toward her mother—in appeal or encouragement, it was hard to say which.

"Did your husband ever strike you when he was drunk?"

"Upon the shoulder of my baby! When Mary was born the imprint of five fingers, like purple bruises, showed on her shoulder."

"Did they remain there?"

"No. They faded as she grew older."

"Did they ever recur?"

"Yes. The first time was when Mary was five years old. Mr. Page had come home—intoxicated—and was sitting in the library. Mary ran to him and he took her on his knee. Suddenly she began screaming and striking at him, and he pushed her off his lap. Then—" she faltered a little, but went bravely on, "Mr. Page took a flask of whiskey out of his pocket, and half in fun, half in anger, grabbed Mary and tried to force the liquor on her. She—she seemed to go mad, and when I snatched her away from him her little nightgown had slipped off her shoulder and there—plainly—could be seen the marks of the hand!"

A murmur of excitement crept about the reporter's t[illegible] as well as among the spectators [illegible] was "great stuff," and when Mary's trembling hand came back from its impotent reaching toward her mother, and went sharply to her left shoulder, there was no one in the room who needed the answer to Langdon's question.

"How long was it before the child stopped screaming?"

"Several hours, and she was feverish and ill for days."

Langdon's voice now changed abruptly, and the prosecutor's eyes narrowed to the watchfulness of a cat's, as the former asked:

"On the night when your daughter repudiated her engagement to James Pollock, were you sitting up waiting for their return from a dance?"

"Yes."

"Will you tell the court as briefly as possible what occurred?"

"It was very late. I had been waiting what seemed to me hours before they came in. Mr. Page, who was very much under the influence of liquor, was berating Mary, and once he started to strike her, but Mr. Pollock interfered, telling me that Mary and I had better go and try and get some rest. Once in her own room, however, my daughter broke down and sobbed and said, 'Your grief and father's danger made me accept Mr. Pollock. Tonight I tried to run away with Philip, because he is the man I love—but I am helpless in your hands.'"

"Did you still urge Miss Page to marry Mr. Pollock?"

"No. My daughter's happiness was too great a price to pay to save my husband from the penalty of his crime, and I told Mary that she and I together would go to James that very day and plead with him to set her free. It was dawn then, and finally she went to sleep."

"Did you make that plea to Mr. Pollock?"

"No. We went to the office—but—but—we didn't see Mr. Pollock."

"Will you tell the Court why? Not me; Mrs. Page, but the court—as if I were not present."

"Well, your Honor," she said, turning to the Judge, "when my daughter and I reached Mr. Pollock's office the door was open and Mr. Langdon was in there. As we came up we heard Mr. Pollock say, 'Give me a fair chance—that's all I ask, and I've never had it. You leave town for two weeks, and if on your return Mary Page still prefers you—I will withdraw and give her up to you.' Mr. Langdon demurred at first. Then he said he would go that day and hurried out without seeing either Mary or me. I felt we ought to see Mr. Pollock, anyway, but before we could go into the office we heard a door creak, and my husband's voice." She broke off with a smothered sob, and Langdon prompted her quickly:

"He said, 'With Langdon out of the way, our little scheme should work nicely.' Then—then Mary pulled at my sleeve and said, 'Come away without seeing them, Mother. We must warn Philip—and they mustn't know we have been here.' So we went to Mr. Langdon's office, and he arranged to come to the house late that night in the hope that we would have learned by that time what the scheme was."

"Did you learn?"

"Yes. Shortly after Mr. Langdon had come, my husband and Mr. Pollock came in and Mr. Pollock told us that he had bought the mortgage on our home. He said that if Mary would marry him within a week he would give her the mortgage and the forged check as a wedding gift. If she didn't—he would foreclose and put the check into the hands of the police."

"Did Miss Page agree?"

"She said she would answer him the next day, and he said he would wait, though my husband was angry that there should be any delay. Then Mr. Pollock went, and Mary joined Mr. Langdon, and they started for a walk."

"Did you see them go?"

"No. I went to the kitchen to fix the fire for the night. But I was drawn to the window by hearing angry words and saw my husband berating Mr Langdon. I was so terrified over it all and—and—so heartbroken at the thought of losing my home, that I hurried out and begged Mary to come in—to do anything to quiet her father. So she said goodnight to Mr. Langdon and, coming in, went straight to her room."

"Did you go to your room also?" Langdon's voice shook ever so little as he spoke, for her words brought back so vividly that time of horror when he had stood silently in the little garden waiting for the quiet of night to settle over the house that held the girl he loved so well and seemed so likely to lose—the girl whom he was next to see in so terrible a guise!

"No. I—I—went to my husband, who was in the kitchen, and tried to make him stop drinking and go to bed. But he—he was violent. He accused me of—of urging Mary not to marry Pollock, and when I said that she shouldn't if it would make her unhappy he—he struck me. The blow knocked me down. Mary, who was partially undressed, heard us—and came down, and he turned on her He—struck her, and then he caught her by the shoulder and forced her to her knees."

Sobs caught in her throat. She could not go on for a moment, and the tears rolled unheeded down her cheeks, as, stammering a little and speaking almost incoherently, she cried, "And then, your Honor—Mary screamed! Screamed the way she had before, and I—I—saw her go mad before my very eyes! Mr. Langdon, who had been waiting in the garden—to be sure all was right with us—heard the scream too, and came running in. My husband saw him—and he snatched the poker out of the fire where in my haste I had left it, and swung it at Mr. Langdon. But it was Mary he hit. I heard the sound of it—I smelt the burnt flesh, and as Mr. Langdon flung my husband to the floor I ran to her. But before I could reach her—or stop her—she ran, still screaming, out of the house and disappeared!"

A passion of tears shook her as she finished, tears that were mirrored in all the eyes in the room. Even Langdon's voice was unsteady as he said gently:

"That is all, Mrs. Page."

Mary was sobbing too, but they were the tears of sad memories rather than present suffering, and she flung a grateful glance from beneath her wet lashes towards the prosecutor when his curt,

"I—I—saw her go mad before my very eyes!"

"No questions," released Mrs. Page from the stand and set her at liberty to drag herself back to her quiet corner.

She had laid bare all the tragedy of her married life for the sake of her child; and what it had cost her to tell so calmly the story of shame and want and suffering and of the efforts of the drunken father to sell his daughter to a man she did not love—only she herself knew. There was more than one woman among the spectators who could and did guess what it cost her, and whose heart went out to her in pity.

It was, however, an unfinished story that she had told, and the room was vibrant with the unspoken query, "Where did Mary go?" when Langdon called his next witness:

"Alexander MacPherson!"

The burly Scotchman, with his deeply tanned face, his heavy beard and rough clothes, was a striking contrast to the delicate little witness who had gone before him, and he surveyed the Judge and jury with a wary hostility that under less tragic circumstances would have won a smile from the spectators.

"MacPherson, you are a woodsman, are you not?"

"I am, sir."

"Where were you employed six years ago?"

"I was wurkin' to the Paisley estate, clearin' out the auld timber in the woods." There was a hint of a Scottish accent in his speech, though long years in America had left it no more than a burr, pleasantly suggestive of the wide woodland spaces among which his life was spent.

"Did you ever see Miss Page?"

"Yes, sir. She came tae the woods often. She had a luve of the wild things in her heart, and I'd coom across her many times, sittin' wie a book, or just dreamin' in the woods."

"MacPherson, can you remember the last time that you saw Mary Page in the woods of the Paisley estate?"

"I've a gude memory," he answered rebukingly, "and it was a time to set in anyone's mind. 'Twas on the night of the party Jim Hanley give, up to the ridge."

"Will you tell us, please, what occurred on that night?"

"I had been tae the party and was comin' home. We had sat sae lang it were pretty late, and I says to myself, 'I'll na go way round by the road, but straight through the woods.' I knew them too well to lose my way, even in the dark. I had coom almost to the Hollow, which is like a bowl in the middle of the wood, when I heard somebody singin'. It came strange like in the night, and I am nae ashamed to say I was scared, so I stood—not hidin', mind ye, but waitin' tae see what it was. Then I seen a figure on the other side of the hollow coomin' through the trees—all in white—and wavin' its arms, daft-like, and singin' and laughin' and cryin' all in one."

"Could you see who it was?"

"Not at first, it were too far away, but I says to mysel', 'It's nae a ghost, or a fairy. 'Tis some puir daftie got away from its keeper. I'll wait till it gets nearer, then try and stop it.'"

"Could you hear what she was singing?"

"Nae. But presently I heard another voice—a voice shoutin', and I knew it were someone after her. I was minded to shout back, but I was afraid of fearin' the poor daft thing, so I stood watchin' till suddenly she coom out into a patch of moonlight and I saw her face. It was Mary Page!"

A little gust of whispering comment rippled through the room, and the Judge, leaning forward, broke in sharply:

"How far distant was this figure when you first thought you recognized it as Mary Page?"

"I dinna ken, exactly," said the woodsman thoughtfully, "'twas no more than maybe twice the width of the space of yon door," nodding towards the entrance into court, "but to get to her I would have had to skirt the lip of the hollow, so I stood still, watchin'."

"Will you tell us how Miss Page looked?"

"Her dress or her petticoats was all torn and muddy, her hair was hangin' down onto her shoulders, and her face and arms were scratched and bloody and there was something that looked like a great sore on her forehead. She moved like a blind person, stumblin' over stumps and bumpin' into the trees, and yet she kep' on that strange croonin' song—laughin', too, at times."

"Could you hear any other sound?"

"Aye, I heard a voice callin', 'Mary! Mary!' And I could hear the smashin' of the underbrush as somebody came runnin', but she didna look around."

"Did she pass you?"

"No; she skirted the hollow round the other side, but I could see her. I wouldna let her out of my sight, till she were safe, but I didna want to lay hands on a daftie mysel'. Then suddenly I saw a man come runnin' through the woods, and when he saw her, he gave a great cry and shouted, 'Thank God!' Then he called again, 'Mary, Mary—wait for me—wait for me, dear!' The echo in the hollow caught it up so that the whole woods were full of the cry, and at that she turned, and stood swayin'—like a young sapling cut at the root. Then she gave a cry, and fell all crumpled in a little heap."

"Did you go forward then?"

"I started, but before I could get around to them, the man had pickit the lassie up and carried her down by by the brook in the hollow."

"Could you still see them?"

"Aye, like in a theatre, for the moon shone down there, while I stood above them in the trees. The man, who was Mr. Langdon, here, kep' wettin' his handkerchief and bathin' her poor face till she opened her eyes and said, 'Philip, Philip!' And at that, he held her close and sobbed like a child, and said, 'Mary, Mary, are you all right now, dear?' And she said, 'I'm tired—where have I been?' And he said, 'Never mind, dear, you can rest now—you are safe in my arms.' Then suddenly she gives a scream and cries, 'Don't let father touch me—don't let him touch me! Oh, Philip, I can feel it on my shoulder—it burns—it burns!' And he kissed her and said, 'There is nothin' on your shoulder except my kisses, Mary. Put the fear out of your head; nothin' can harm you while I have you safe.' And she says, 'Not even James?' And he says, 'Not even James, d—— him!' Then she gives a little sigh like a bairn that is tired, and holds up her lips to be kissed, and then snuggles her puir head in his shoulder, and he knelt there holdin' her."

"Mr. Langdon flung my husband to the floor."

"You went up to them then, did you not?"

"Well, you know that," answered the Scotchman with some scorn. "I went up and I said, 'Can I help you carry the puir lassie home?' And he said, 'No, I shall not move her till she has rested a bit.' Then he wraps her in his coat and sits watchin' her, but after a bit he says, 'She's been sleepin' sound, I can carry her now,' and he picks her up in his arms and starts off."

"Did Miss Page speak when she was moved?"

"Yes; she said 'Am I still safe with you, Phil?' And he says, 'Yes.' And she says, 'Oh, I wish I was dead—except for you, dear.' And he said, 'I wish those who torture you were dead, my darling, but I'm going to guard you myself in the future.' Then, still holdin' her in his arms and carryin' her careful like, he went off through the trees."

THE "FLYING SWITCH"

Fireman On Vacation—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harris departed last Friday evening for Minneapolis and other southern Minnesota points to spend a short time as the guests of friends and relatives. Mr. Harris is fireman on the Minneapolis-Winnipeg flyer, No. 109, from Glenwood to Thief River Falls.

To Minneapolis—Mr. and Mrs. William Funnel took their departure last Friday evening over the Soo flyer for Minneapolis, where they will spend a short time visiting with friends and relatives. Mr. Funnel is firing on the morning flyer, No. 109, between Glenwood and Mahnomen.

On Vacation—Andrew Hoium, mechanic helper at the Soo round house, departed last Friday night for Minneapolis on a pleasure trip. Before returning he will also visit at his old home at Albert Lea.

Called By Illness—G. E. LeDou, Soo fireman running out of this city, left the latter part of last week for Dillworth, Minn., where he was called by the illness of his wife. Mr. LeDou is employed on one of the southbound freights.

Canadian Stock—The first trainload of Canadian stock to arrive here this spring, came in last Friday night from Winnipeg bound for South St. Paul. The last shipment was made some 3 or 4 months ago. About that time the British government issued orders to seize all crops and see that Canadian produce was not shipped out. Previous to this time two or three trains a week passed through here, according to Henry Hoium yard clerk.

To Tour East—A. E. Hankins, switch foreman at the Soo yards, has been granted a thirty day leave of absence and will depart the latter part of this month for an extended trip through the east. He will visit the cities of Chicago, New York, Boston, Pittsburgh and other places of interest.

Back On Job—Aimen Hoveland, store room clerk at the Soo yards, who recently underwent an operation at the Physician's hospital for appendicitis, resumed his duties the latter part of last week. He expects to take an extended pleasure trip this summer.

Inspector Calls— G. P. Zachritz, general car inspector of the Soo line with offices at Shoreham, passed Friday in Thief River Falls on a tour of inspection, paying the local yards and shops a visit.

Washout On "J" Line—Trains entering the city over the Wheatline have been delayed several hours during the past week on account of washouts in the neighborhood of Forest River, due to the spring thaw. The rapid melting of the snow has caused several "lakes" to be formed along the tracks and section crews along the line are at work remedying the matter. On this same division trains are also meeting difficulty with snow.

Emerson Fears Flood— Reports coming from the Canadian border city state that the rapid rising of the Red River near that city is giving cause to much alarm, and it is feared that a flood may be the result. Local railroad men who make the Emerson run, state that it is quite probable a flood may result there to such a degree that railroading would be hampered. Precautions are, however, being taken by railroad employees.

Rip Track Crew Busy—G. J. Conkin, foreman of the rip track crew, has had his men engaged in repairing damaged box cars for the past week. Most of the cars had undergone a severe winter and were assigned to the "bad order" section of the yard. All of the cars will be in use after the repairing has been completed.

Fossum Relieved—Ingvald Fossum, who acted as store room clerk at the Soo yards during the recent illness of Aimen Hovland, was relieved the latter part of last week on the return of Mr. Hoveland. Mr. Fossum acts as keeper of the store room.

G. N. Delayed—The Northbound Great Northern local arrived nearly three hours late last Saturday, being delayed at Crookston by the Barnesville train, which was late in getting in. Last week an extra coach was carried on both the local runs, in order to accommodate the traveling public.

Called Home—H. B. Schmidt, employed as brakeman at Spooner Wisconsin, on the Omaha line, arrived in Thief River Falls the latter part of last week being called here by the illness in his family, who reside in the city.

Sunday In Minneapolis— Frank Hammergrin, baggageman on the Wheatline passenger, passed Sunday in Minneapolis, where he was the guest of friends. He departed Saturday evening and returned early Monday morning, to resume his duties on the 8:15 run.

On Wheatline Run—Alfred Johnson, who has been unable to attend to his duties on the road for the past two weeks, on account of illness, resumed work last Friday morning. Mr. Johnson is firing on No. 202, Soo passenger train going west at 8:15 a. m.

Fireman To Minneapolis—F. E. Schultz, Soo line fireman, left last Friday night for Minneapolis, on a short vacation. Schultz is on one of the westbound runs.

"Joe" Returns—After spending the past two months "brakeing" in the fifth district, between Kenmare and Overly, N. D., Joe Zavoral returned last Saturday evening. He expects to run out from Thief River Falls in the future.

Scott To Michigan—Edward Scott, who has been firing on the Wheatline passenger, No. 202, left last Friday evening for Gladstone, Michigan, being transferred to that division of the Soo line.

Olson Receives Clearance—E. O. Olson, who has been employed during the winter in the fifth district of the Soo, between Kenmare and Conway, N. D., spent Monday in Thief River Falls, greeting his railroad friends, while enroute to Gladstone, Michigan, to which point he has been transferred. He departed in the evening over 110.

Snow Plow "Interns"—Last Sunday afternoon the large rotary snow plow which has been used on the Wheatline during the winter months, arrived in the city and showed signs of having fought some hard battles. The rotary will be "interned" at the Soo round house at present to undergo needed repairs, after which it will be taken to Shoreham. Another snow plow of the same type is also "interned" at the round house, ready to be taken to Shoreham, but is being kept here in case a call is received that its services are needed. The former plow was taken from Adams to this city with Messrs. Jewiski, engineer, and G. Johnson, fireman, occupying the cab. The Adams train crew was made up of Conductor "Christy" Christianson, and Brakemen C. E. Dalton and C. Noel. Brakeman Noel reported that between Forest River and Conway, N. D., considerable time was lost on account of the danger of washouts, and that the situation was becoming acute.

On Business Trip—C. Sjoberg, engineer on the Wheatline passenger, No. 202, took his departure Sunday evening for Minneapolis to spend the first of the week attending to business affairs of a personal nature. He was accompanied by Mrs. Sjoberg and little daughter.

"Safety First"—Few movements for the good of the general public have attained greater national importance and influence than that of the "safety first" movement, which was started by the officials and employees of the Soo Line railway and which later has been instituted by various societies and organizations during the past year. The slogan "safety first" has become one of vital human meaning and great work has been done to reduce accidents and the chance of accidents by the use of this slogan. One of the most important of this character, which has been started within the last year, is that of the National Automobile chamber of commerce, which comprises practically every big automobile manufacturing concern in the country. In order to educate not only automobile owners, but pedestrians, as to the rights of each, the president has appointed a committee to investigate the matter and make recommendations to the national body.

Line Changes—G. P. Philstrom, who has acted as station agent at Strandquist, was checked out Tuesday for Forest River, where he will take charge. C. F. McCown will occupy the Strandquist office, and F. Ford of Forest River, will go to Oslo. T. A. Suprey goes to Strandquist. All these changes were effective Tuesday.

Bridge Intact—Reports coming to this city to the effect that the Red River of the North is "splashing all over itself," flooding cities and towns and flooding railroad bridges, is not being received with much alarm here. Referring to the situation Chief Train Dispatcher W. D. Boyce said: "Our trains are a trifle delayed from the west by minor washouts near Forest River, but the condition there is not serious. We don't expect to have trouble by the high water in the Red River as our bridge is the highest crossing the river."

Goes To Cities—Fireman James S. Steen is spending the week-end in the Twin Cities, where he is the guest of friends. He departed Tuesday night over 110. Steen has been holding the 109-110 flyer run, between Glenwood and Mahnomen.

"Con" Curtis Back—Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Curtis have returned from Waupaca, Wisconsin, where Mr. Curtis was called by the death of his mother.

Auditor Goes West— Traveling Auditor C. A. Philstrom, with headquarters in Thief River Falls, spent the first of the week visiting towns along the Wheatline division in his official capacity. He left Monday morning.

Sleeper Increase—According to the monthly report of Walter Bens, day ticket agent at the Soo, a marked increase in the sleeper receipts for the month of March, 1916 is shown over the record of March 1915. About a year and a half ago the Soo line instituted this splendid sleeper service at Thief River Falls, by "sidetracking" a sleeper from the regular morning flyer, whereby passengers are permitted to stay in their berths until 8 o'clock in the morning instead of being roused out at the "wee smaa hours of the morning," when the train arrived. In the evening, passengers going south are allowed to enter the car at 8 o'clock. The fact that this city is provided with a special sleeping car is causing much favorable comment by the traveling public and has resulted in more or less advertising for Thief River Falls, besides being an ad for the Soo line in their efforts to give service.

Made Short Call—J. W. Hendry, assistant master mechanic at the Soo round house, spent Friday at Noyes, attending to business affairs, going up on the Winnipeg-Minneapolis flyer and returning on the evening train.

Takes 184-185 Run—T. G. Daily, who has been employed as conductor in the fourth division of the Sooline, between Overly and Adams, N. D., spent Saturday evening in Thief River Falls enroute to Superior, Wisconsin. Conductor Daily will have charge of 184 and 185, running between Moose Lake and Federal Dam, this being one of the Superior division runs.

Wheat Trains—Pat Keating, grain inspector at the Soo yards, reports that for the past six weeks two trains of Canadian bond wheat, comprising 125 carloads, have daily passed thru Thief River Falls to Duluth. From Duluth it is shipped through the Great Lakes to Liverpool, England. This wheat is, however, inspected at Duluth by Canadian authorities, as it is under the custom seal when passing through here. Over eleven million bushels of Canadian wheat are stored at Duluth awaiting shipment across the pond.

Conductor Returns—Bert Rounds, who for the past three weeks had a run on the Fordville-Drake line as conductor, returned Monday evening, having been transferred to this point.

Western Trip—James Steen and Knut Mellby, who have occupied the cab on the Minneapolis-Winnipeg flyers, 109 and 110, between Mahnomen and Glenwood, have been granted a leave of absence and will leave shortly for an extended trip through the western part of the United States. Their first stop will be Minneapolis from which place they will go to Memphis, Tennessee, thence to New Orleans,. San Francisco and Portland, Oregon. Their trip will consume a period of six week's duration. At present they are on the Minneapolis-Thief River Falls local passenger run.

To Play Ball—It appears that the few days of mild weather that frequented this section of the state during the week, has had some effect upon the round house employees in that the base ball bug has bitten them severely. Within the walls of the big workshop, employees, who have once cavorted about the base ball diamond, are discussing the matter of organizing a nine. Among them are many strong and versatile candidates, who are capable of handling the willow stick as well as the sledge.

Resumes His Duties—Engineer "Jack" Anderson, who was injured at Grano, N. D., last February, has fully recovered from the injuries received and commenced his duties in the cab the first of the week.

Elesenpeter Improved—Chief Train Dispatcher W. D. Boyce received a telegram Tuesday afternoon stating that Conductor J. Elesenpeter, who was taken to St. Mary's hospital at Minneapolis five months ago, where he was operated upon for appendicitis, has improved greatly and would probably be able to come home to-day (Thursday). Shortly after Mr. Elesenpeter underwent the operation he suffered a relapse and was at that time in a very grave condition. The conductor is one of the old time Soo railroad men here and is well known to many people in Thief River Falls. The news of his complete recovery is being received here with much gratification.

Michaels In City—Superintendent Michaels, of the Superior division, spent Tuesday night in Thief River Falls, coming up from Plummer in his special car on the Duluth passenger, No. 63, after spending the day along that line on a tour of inspection. He returned to Superior Wednesday morning on No. 62.

Recovering Rapidly—Brakeman L. McAdams, who had his right hand mangled at Viking a few weeks ago, when he lost grip of the "grab-iron" and fell to the ground in such a position that the wheels passed over his little finger and injured two others, has practically recovered and will be ready to report for duty soon.

Big Vote For Bonding.

Baudette.—Last Friday in one of the most exciting elections ever held in Baudette, and one in which the women took as much interest as the men, the school board was authorized to bond the district for $40,000 to pay for the construction of the beautiful new school. The decision was decisive the bonds being carried by a vote of 298 to 46. Three hundred and fifty votes were cast in an hour, which is a record for this district. The number of women voting was unusually large.

Will Run Two Shifts.

Baudette—E. A. Engler Lumber company will employ two shifts this year. From the time that the ice goes out of the Rainy within the next two weeks until winter sets in, day and night crews will be kept working. This means that 350 men will find employment for the coming seven months and that a monthly payroll of $25,000 will be distributed. The company has plenty of logs, and C. H. Dodds, local manager, states that the prospects are bright for the best season's run since the company began to operate several years ago.

Re-Building at Red Lake.

Red Lake Falls.—Business buildings of a more substantial nature will replace those destroyed recently when the row of five frame buildings burned.

The ground is being cleared and several men have been hauling gravel so that the work of construction may begin as soon as the condition of the ground will permit.

The Y. M. Higinbotham Land company will erect a modern office building. P. F. Pouliot has decided to erect a modern store building for his harness business. Others will build and there is no doubt that the row of buildings destroyed will be replaced with more substantial and modern buildings, though the plans for them are yet somewhat indefinite.

Wessel Will Soon take Charge.

Crookston.—Joseph A. Wessel of Crookston will become United States marshal April 16. The postponement was agreed on in order to tide over the April term of United States district court to be opened in Minneapolis Tuesday.

Thirty alleged violators of the Indian liquor law now in custody at Duluth are to be removed to Minneapolis for trial early next week.

Marshal William H. Grimshaw will remain until Mr. Wessel qualifies.

Red River On Rampage.

Fargo.—The Red River of the North continues to rise at the rate of one-tenth of a foot an hour, and at 5:30 Saturday had passed over the 14 foot mark. The increased rise is believed due to the fact that the dam at Fergus Falls, on the Otter Tail river, a subsidary of the Red had given away before the rushing waters and ice jams. At Fargo the river is rising at an alarming rate, but reports from Whapeton state that the stream has ceased to rise and the danger point near that city is believed to be passed.

Crookston Streets Flooded.

Crookston.—More than one-half the width of West Robert street, near the Sampson's addition bridge over the Red Lake River, slid into the river this morning, closing the street to all traffic. The slide is ten rods long and repairs will necessitate extension piling and several train loads of stone for anchoring. The street will be closed for weeks and perhaps months, as it will take thousands of yards of dirt to bring the street up to grade again.

Fears are entertained that the slide is not ended and that two buildings, but a few feet away, may also slide into the river. Underlying quicksand and much water caused the disastrous slide.

Welcome The Change.

Grygla.—As a result of the prospective change of mail service from Thief River Falls via Germantown to Grygla, to Goodridge-Grygla service, a rural route running west from this place to take care of patrons cut out by the change will be established soon after the change. Owing to the distance, a route will probably be started out of Goodridge to Germantown and another out of Mavie to connect with the west end of that route. In this way all on the present Germantown star route will be taken care of and all will get as good service and Grygla much better. There is also much talk of trying to get a star route established between this place and Hag, 15 miles northeast in the Moose River country, as nearly all the people residing there make this place their business point and a direct communication is quite important. Good roads prevail over the entire route which does away with the greatest objection.

Thumb Torn From Hand.

Frank LaBine, son of Eugene La Bine, living west of Argyle, met with a painful accident on Wednesday of last week when he had the thumb torn from his right hand. The young man was working with a gasoline engine and while his glove was wet he caught hold of a revolving shaft. The glove stuck to the frosted metal and the thumb was torn away from the hand leaving just the sinews at the second joint. The attending physician found it necessary to amputate the member at the second joint.—Argyle

Have a Skunk Farm.

Pillager.—Dan Phillips and Willard Mann have gone into the skunk farm business at the Phillip's farm down river, and expect to make a success. They have already secured 8 skunks with which to stock their farm, and as they multiply rapidily expect to have a large number in a short space of time. The hides are quite valuable, and for the little care they take, generally prove a good investment. Their new venture will be watched with interest.

Commercial Club Notes

Meeting Of Autoists.

A meeting of the members of the Automobile club and all others interested in the re-organization of the club for the purpose of doing something toward securing better roads this spring will be held at the club rooms Monday evening, April 10, at 8 o'clock sharp. It has been suggested that the club be organized as an auxilliary or committee of the Commercial club and it is important that every auto owner and all who are connected with the old organization be present at the meeting on Monday evening. Let's get down to business and bring out results. Talk will not do it. Be there yourself.

A Town And Country Club.

The club sports committee, composed of C. A. Nason, H. P. Miller and D. H. Backus, has been outlining a program for the summer that will keep them somewhat busy. Two subjects are at present being considered. One of these is the organization of a Town and Country slub, and the other the selection of the most promising baseball material and forming a team therefrom. A dozen or fifteen business men have signified their intention of joiningg a town and country club as soon as one is organized, and committees have been appointed to look after the preliminary work. The grounds of the new club would be selected with a view to their adaptability for golf, tennis, croquet and other games, and a committee composed of D. H. Backus, C. L. Hanson, G. G. Johnson, W. H. Fredrick and Harry Pritchard has been appointed to look up suitable sites. Another committee composed of F. T. Lincoln, H. H. Spink and Willis Akre has been appointed to look after the matter of general plans and initial upkeep. It is not improbable that all sports will be amalgamated as one department of the club and given in charge of a general committee The entire matter will be probably decided at a meeting to be held at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

If you are interested in baseball, do not fail to attend the meeting at the club rooms on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. No American city is considered alive unless it supports a first-class baseball nine, and there is no good reason why Thief River Falls should not shine in this particular branch of athletics as well as in all others.

Invited To Grand Forks.

Upon his return from Grand Forks last Saturday. Secretary Lincoln stated that the Commercial club of the Dakota metropolis would be glad to entertain the members of the local organization some time this summer. He was told while there that no matter when a delegation from here arrived, they would find everything in readiness for their reception. Should anything happen so that the pilgrims could not get their until midnight, they would nevertheless find someone ready to receive them, and a banquet would be forthcoming in short order. The trip is being considered and may be made when the roads dry up.

Land Inquiries Plentiful.

Inquiries concerning the farming opportunities in this section are fairly pouring in at the club office. Most of these are from people residing in Southern Minnesota, but a goodly number are from other states. Dairying is the subject most generally asked about, the reputation of this section as a grass-growing region having reached to every part of the country. All the available data is at once sent to the people making these inquiries, and the result will likely be a largely augmented immigration to this region during the summer.

Membership Growing.

Secretary Lincoln reports twelve new members taken into the fold during the month of March. This is a very good record for a month usually slow.

A Big Sale.

On Wednesday, April 12, Tice & Wallace will conduct a sale of their personal property at the farm, located two miles south of Hazel and seven miles southeast of St. Hilaire. The live stock features of this sale will be particularly interesting, there being 43 head of cattle, nine horses, 10 heifers and seven hogs offered. Besides this there is a large amount of farm machinery and household goods offered.

MAVIE FARMERS WANT SHIPPING FACILTIES

Driving Live Stock Six Miles To Goodridge Works Hardship, They Claim.

No regular meeting of the Cloverleaf Farmers club was held at Mavie on Saturday, but a number of the members got together and discussed matters pertaining to their welfare in an informal manner. It was unanimously agreed that a petition should be forwarded to the general manager of the Minnesota Northwestern Electric railway asking that some provision be made for loading cattle at Mavie. At present there is only a platform there and stock must be driven six miles to Goodridge before it can be placed on cars for shipment. This the farmers considered a hardship and decided to request that a cattle shute be built at their station.

These farm club members claim that the business of the railroad at Mavie is steadily growing and that better accomodations would make it much greater, and that as the territory is settling up at a very rapid rate the business of the road will be steadily increased. The farmers present did not think there would be any trouble in getting a shute built, and while they would greatly prefer a regular yard they realized that the business from the station at the present time would hardly justify the expense.

The club will meet again on Saturday afternoon, April 15, at which time all farmers in the neighborhood are requested to be present as the organization will then be perfected, by-laws adopted and many other important business matters transacted.

John Phillip is president of the new club, and T. H Smith secretary.

OUR WONDERFUL GRASS IS BRINGING THEM BACK

Settlers Who left Here Because of Unfavorable Conditions Are Again Returning.

When the reservation lands were thrown open to the settlers about ten years ago, Christian Thorson was one of those who took up land in the ceded section. Because of the lack of markets and the poor drainage he left in company with many others, for more favored regions, but retained his land. He returned last fall to look over his holdings, and what he concluded at that time is best attested to by the fact that he arrived this week with one carload of settlers' effects and another of thoroughbred stock and will again go onto the land abandoned a decade ago. In addition to this he has purchased another quarter section and added this to his original holding. He will begin farming at once, paying particular attention to the stock-rasing feature. Mr. Thoreson says that what he saw last fall on the farms of his old neighbors decided him, and he at once upon his return made arrangements for disposing of such property on his farm in the neighborhood of Granite Falls as he did not wish to take with him, and moved to Pennington county as early as practicable. He claims that in his opinion this is going to be the greatest stock-raising country in America, as the grass grown here is superior to anything he has seen.

Olaf Camplin is another farmer who will go onto a farm in the neighborhood of Erie. Mr Camplin also brought with him a carload of necessary farming implements and stock. Another farmer arriving this week is C. Gustafson, who will settle about three miles east of Grygla.

Just to prove that the people in the farming section to the east of Thief River Falls are not alone concerned with blooded cattle, the fact might be mentioned that last week a carload of automobiles went out over the Minnesota Northwestern electric line, bound for Grygla. This shows the natural rotation on a farm in Northwestern Minnesota—thoroughbred stock, followed by automobiles.

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS DRAW RECORD CROWDS

Closing of One Show House Proves Good Thing For Patrons and Proprietors.

That the people of Thief River Falls will liberally patronize anything worth while was proven on Friday and Saturday of last week, when both the Lyceum and the Princess put on special attractions at the same time. The theatres were crowded on both nights, and besides this Manager Mugridge of the Lyceum reports the biggest Saturday matinee in the history of the city. Both houses presented high class vaudeville features besides the regular picture show and the excellent turnout was deserved. At the Lyceum the attraction was Gus Edwards and a good company in the farce comedy "School Days," while the Frank Rich company held the boards at the Princess.

No better pictures than those now being offered the people of Thief River Falls are produced anywhere. The closing of the old Grand has made it possible for both Mr. Mugridge and Mr. Brumund to present the very best obtainable, because the patronage formerly divided between three houses is now given to two. Both managers have cut away from the cheap and vulgar in comedy or drama and in its place are presenting the same high priced and high grade productions that are to be seen in the very best American theatres. And the patrons are giving every indication that they appreciate this compliment to their intelligence.

ELABORATE CELEBRATION OF NORWAY'S NATAL DAY

Seventeenth of May to Be Appropriately Observed by Northmen Of Thief River Falls.

May 17th, the day on which the people of Norway in the year 1814 declared their independence from the Kingdom of Denmark and embarked as a free and independent state, will be celebrated by Norwegians and their desendants in Pennington county by a monster gathering at Thief River Falls. The event will be under the auspices and direction of the Sons and Daughters of Norway and is expected to eclipse anything of its kind ever attempted in Northwestern Minnesota. This section owes more to people of Norwegian birth and descent than to any other class, and it is to commemorate not only the achievements of their forebearers in the old country but to voice their appreciation of the opportunities offered in this land that these people gather on each succeeding 17th of May. There is nothing hyphenated about a Norwegian. He recognizes that his first and foremost allegiance is to the United States, and he is none the worse American because of the fact that he maintains a decidedly tender regard for the land of his forefathers.

Per Stromme of Grand Forks, journalist, traveller and orator, will deliver the principal address of the occasion. He is one of the most widely known Americans of Norwegian birth, is in great demand at gatherings of this kind and it is something of an honor to be able to thus secure him for an address. There will also be other addresses, both in the American and Norwegian languages, and a varied program of appropriate songs and recitations. A supper will be served by the daughters of Norway at the Auditorium, to be followed by a dance.

PROMISES TO BE CLOSE CONTEST

Republican Senatorial Race an Event of Stellar Interest.

CANDIDATES ALL "BIG ONES"

Kellogg, Eberhart and Clapp Well Known in Every Section of the State.

St. Paul—(Special)—Whether or not Governor Burnquist will succeed himself, how far Sam Iverson will get with his gubernatorial aspirations, or how soon Secretary of State Schmahl will unburden his mind as to his future political intentions, should be receiving the attention of the politicians at this time, but they are not. There is bigger game—the Republican contest for the nomination for United States senator, and take it from yours truly the contest is going to be some battle. Ordinarily the selection of a party standard bearer in a candidate for governor is the all absorbing event, but it is due to be shoved aside this year, and the shoving process is now in the making. Of course you know who the candidates are—Frank B. Kellogg, the well known St. Paul attorney; former Governor A. O. Eberhart and Moses E. Clapp, the present incumbent. Mr. Eberhart has parted with $100 for the privilege of getting his name on the ticket, but neither of the others have done so, although Mr. Kellogg has announced that he will file and the same action on the part of Senator Clapp is certain. So, you see, as a ticket in the way of big ones the whole is out of the ordinary and the contest one of more than usual interest when it is known that this is the first time that the junior senator has had to carry his troubles to the voting public direct.

✣ ✣ ✣

Former State Auditor Iverson, who from present appearances will be the only rival of Governor Burnquist for the governorship, it not letting any grass grow under his feet. At the state capitol the kingmakers, taking their cue from the organized effort in behalf of Governor Burnquist, do not pick the former state auditor to win, but it is certain that Mr. Iverson will not prove a poor contender for the title. Sam is not getting much publicity from the Twin City prints and the chances are that the denial of their columns to him will continue, but this lack may prove an asset instead of a liability. If there is a district in the state where the name of S. G. Iverson is not known you will have to show me, and that counts some. Mr. Iverson probably is not scattering his savings, but he is doing much traveling and if reports are true few counties have lacked his presence in the past two months.

Out of a total voting population of about 350,000, less than 200,000 voters took the trouble to go to the polls when the presidential preference primary was held. According to figures compiled by Secretary of State Schmahl 191,531 votes were cast and these were distributed as follows: Cummins 54,214, Estabrook 12,693, Webster 3,710, Wilson 45,136, Foss 2,465 and Sulzer 3,334. Those named are the several candidates for president, the last two being on the Prohibition ticket. In the finals Fred C. Stevens of St. Paul nosed out O. J. Nelson of Duluth for one of the Republican delegateships at large and there was much rejoicing among the elect as a result. Larson had the backing of Manager Caswell and the Cummins organization.

✣ ✣ ✣

A Minneapolis publication is now attempting to ascertain by blank ballots printed in its columns Minnesota's second choice for the Republican nomination for president. At the state capitol the Cummins forces have been industriously filling them out, and in Minneapolis, it is said, the Estabrook forces have been working overtime in an effort to induce friends to sign up all the ballots they can get their hands on.

✣ ✣ ✣

Applications for filing blanks have been made to the secretary of state by two possible aspirants for the coming vacancy on the state railway and warehouse commission, which means that Judge Mills, the retiring member, will not be without competition. Both applicants were unknowns and when asking for the blanks refused to give their names.

HOCKEY CLUB MASQUE ON FRIDAY, APRIL 28

Last Party To Be Given By Northwestern Champions to be Best of the Series.

There will be one real Masquerade Ball given in Thief River Falls this spring, and it will be under the auspices of the Hockey club. The date fixed upon is Friday, April 28, and as this will be the last event of the season at which the hockey boys will be the hosts, preparations are under way for making it the biggest thing yet attempted by them. As appropriate costumes are the most important of the things that go to make up a successful masquerade, this feature will be left to an experienced costumer from St Paul, who will be on hand with a full and complete assortment of the proper disguises. The matter of music has not been definitely decided upon, but it will be of the best procurable.

Everyone should turn out to this grand ball. The boys are entitled to the support of the people of Thief River Falls for the good work they did during the winter, and as this party is for the purpose of raising sufficient money to clear up the club indebtedness it should be more liberally patronized than any event of the kind given this winter. The boys put in their time and energy to give the city a lot of excellent advertising and they should not be asked to personally meet the expenses necessarily incurred while doing it.

Good energetic committees have been appointed to look after the details and the dance is going to be a big success. These committees are as follows:

Arrangements—F. H. Herrick, C. A. Nason, George C. Johnson, Dr. C. R. Crandall, M. C. Cutter, Dr. J. E. Douglass.

Music — Programs—Costumes and Decorations—David Backus, W. A. Devenney, G. Howard Smith, Fred Haug, George Loken.

Printing and Publicity—Fred T. Lincoln, Jos. C. Lutz, R. H. Ross.

Power

DON'T overlook this matter of power. It is important. You want an automobile that will carry you through mud, sand and snow, and do it easily. You want a car that will climb hills, that will get away quickly without laboring and straining its every part.

Not all cars can do these things, but you know that the Maxwell can because you have the proof.

When the Maxwell stock touring car set the World's Motor Non-Stop Mileage Record a few weeks ago, it encountered all sorts of unfavorable conditions—rain, mud and hills, over country and city roads—yet it covered 500 miles per day, day after day, for more than six weeks.

Let us give you a booklet telling all the details of this record breaking Maxwell car. And let us take you for a ride anywhere. We have the very car you want and we will prove it to your satisfaction. Don't put it off. We have a few Maxwells now, but we may not be able to supply you later.

Are You Wasting The Price Of a Titan Engine?

TITAN engines run on kerosene.

Average cost of gasoline so far this year, 16.9 cents per gallon.

Average cost of kerosene 7.7 cents per gallon.

At present fuel prices Titan engines, using kerosene, save their owners about 1.1 cents per horse power per hour.

Are you running a gasoline engine? What horse power is it? Figure what you'd be saving if you had a Titan kerosene engine. Rather surprising, isn't it? How long would it take that saving to pay for a Titan engine of the same size?

$2.25 Aluminum Griddle
For 85 Cents in Cash

Special Offer to Karo Users
Read the Offer and Write Today So As to Be Sure To Get Your Griddle

BY special arrangement you can get this fine 10½ inch Solid Aluminum griddle for less than the wholesale price.

Go to your grocer, get 50 cents' worth of Karo and send us the labels and 85 cents and you'll get the Aluminum Griddle by prepaid parcel post.

You know Aluminum ware—you know how long it lasts, how much easier it is to cook with. It doesn't chip, it doesn't rust and it always looks so bright and clean and inviting.

You don't have to grease this Aluminum Griddle, it does not smoke up the house; it bakes griddle cakes and corn cakes crisp and light—the way you want your griddle cakes to be. And the cakes are far more digestible and better flavored.

At great expense we are seeking to place a Karo Aluminum Griddle in the homes of all Karo users, so that Karo—the famous spread for griddle cakes and waffles—may be served on the most deliciously baked cakes that can be made.

Last year the people of this country used 65,000,000 cans of Karo —the largest demand ever given any syrup.

That shows you what people who know Karo think of it, how much better they like it than any of the old kind of syrups.

Take advantage of this chance to get this solid Aluminum Griddle at a clear saving of $1.40 in cash.

Get the Karo Today—and send us the labels and 85 cents (P. O. money order or stamps) at once. We will also send you free the Corn Products Cook Book.

St. Hilaire News

Opening of Rest Rooms.

On last Monday, April third, occurred the opening of the Ladies' Civic club's new rest rooms on Main street. Some of the members of the club were on hand all through the day and hot lunches were served to everyone. A great many people took advantage of the opportunity to visit the new rooms and also receive a good lunch. This is a feature this town has needed for some time as St. Hilaire has a large farm trade and there has never been any particular place for the farm ladies to rest or get warm after their long drives. We all hope it proves as successful as the opening day and also that the ladies will feel free to step into the rest rooms at any time.

Rebekah Lodge.

About twenty-three would-be members of the new Rebekah lodge met at the lodge room last Thursday evening and voted on a name for the new lodge. The name chosen was "The Iris Rebekah Lodge," and all felt very satisfied as they thought the name to be very appropriate. Iris meaning, "A message from the Gods."

Card Party.

Mrs. G. I. Fellman and daughter, Mildred, entertained a number of their friends at a little social card party last Thursday evening. A very pleasant evening was spent and a most delicious luncheon was served. The guests all declare Mrs. Fellman to be a very competent hostess. Those present were: the Misses Alice Hall, Louise Wilson, Echo Olson, Lilly Johnson, Mae Barragy and Olive Porter, and Mrs. Hall.

Dinner Party.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Pitkin were host and hostess at a delicious one o'clock dinner at their home on Water street Sunday, when Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hooper and family were their guests. After dinner a few of the guests remained and spent a pleasant afternoon.

Noetzel Orchestra.

Mr. Benson has been successful again in being able to secure the Noetzel Orchestra to furnish music for a dance at the Imperial hall next week. This orchestra played here on St. Patrick's evening and all who attended the dance then will be more than glad to come again.

New Council Take Seats.

On Monday, April third, the council of St. Hilaire for last year held their last regular meeting at the village hall and after the accounts were all straightened, turned their books over to the new council. The present council held their first regular meeting Tuesday evening. A number of important matters were brought up, not the least of which is the proposition of the North bridge, which they feel will have to be completed speedily so as to be able to use it before and during the spring thaw.

FOR BASE BALL AND AUTO CLUB

Enthusiastic Meeting on Monday Evening Goes On Record as Favoring Both.

COMMITTEES ARE AT WORK

Every Automobile Owner Present Signs Roster And More Will Follow—Chances For Base Ball Particularly Good.

At a meeting held in the Commercial club rooms on Monday night the first steps were taken for the formation of a live, energetic automobile club and a penant-winning base ball team. Committees were appointed to make a "preliminary survey" of the field and report at a meeting to be held soon.

The first meeting was that of the automobile enthusiasts. H. E. Ives, president of last year's club, presided and at once invited a free discussion of the subject under consideration. There seemed to be no division of opinion as to whether or not an auto club should be organized, everyone seemingly admitting this at the outset, and the matter of dues was broached. Chairman Ives thought that by placing the fee at a low figure practically every one of the 200 or more auto owners in the city could be prevailed upon to join. Others believed that the present fee of $5.00 was low enough and that as many could be secured at this figure as for a smaller amount. It was finally decided to appoint a committee for the purpose of getting together all the owners who could be reached for a meeting to be held on Friday night, the matter of fees, officers, etc., to be left open for settlement at that time. This committee is composed of Fred Haug, H. W. Protzeller, C. L. Hansen, R. G. McGinn and Leonard Peterson.

May Join State Body.

The suggestion was made and favorably considered that the local club apply for membership in the state organization. It was pointed out that the fee for joining this body was only one dollar per member for the season, and that the benefits were many and varied. For instance, such membership would insure recognition by autoists anywhere in the state, would place Thief River Falls on the maps of the association, together with such descriptive matter concerning roads and accomodations as would be of advantage to anyone contemplating trips through this section. This proposition was also left to be decided at a future meeting.

There were 20 autoists at the meeting, and all of these signified their intention of becoming members of the new club. They were: George Johnson, J. H. McKinney, H. W. Protzeller H. E. Ives, Thomas A. Way, Leonard Peterson, R. G. McGinn, John Aos, Maurice Giller, L. B. George, Henry Holt, C. L. Hansen, I. Halseth, Dr. J. F. Douglass, Fred Haug, C. R. Crandall, Fred T. Lincoln, M. McFarland, W. J. Labree and John Bratrud.

Base Ball Enthusiasm.

If there is not a prize-winning base ball team in Thief River Falls this season it will not be for want of enthusiasm at the outset. In the absence of Chairman C. A. Nason of the sports committee, the meeting was presided over by President Johnson of the club. He stated at the outset that he did not consider it wise to make any suggestion as to who should compose the team, this being a matter left entirely to the manager. He said that there was no question in his mind but that a base ball team would be supported if it showed any disposition to play the national game in a manner that warranted such support. He was in favor of selecting a manager who would pick out the best material available without regard to anything except the candidate's ball playing proficiency. Other speakers expressed themselves in like manner.

Committee Appointed.

A committee of Dr. G. A. Penny, G. G. Johnson, C. L. Hansen, C. A. Pitkin and W. A. Deveney was appointed to select a manager and making such other preliminary arrangements as might be necessary in order to get the team properly started. W. J. La Bree was present and stated that the county fair association would permit the use of the fair grounds for base ball games, but it would retain the grand stand privileges.

It is expected that the committee will get busy at once and that a meeting for the selection of a manager and to provide a system of financing the enterprise will be held in the near future.

Good Base Ball Town.

In spite of the fact that the city has not been particularly fortunate in its base ball experience, the people have always been very liberal in their support of the different teams. Good crowds attend the games here almost invariably, and these will be larger as soon as it is definitely demonstrated that the team intends to stick to the job and make good. Mortey Johnson, one of the local players, stated at the meeting that there was excellent material in sight, and while it might be advisable to secure the services of a competent battery, the rest of the line-up could be easily found right at home. H. W. Hoffmeister, a catcher of experience and ability, has this year signed up with the Duluth White Sox, and if he makes good on that job another man will have to be found to fill his place.

The base ball team, however, starts out this season with a better promise of success than at any time for many years past.

SOUTHERN MINNESOTA IS BOUND TIGHT BY MUD

The Spring work in That Section Will be Delayed Some Time, Says Visitor.

Erick Torgerson, a prominent farmer of Grand Meadow, Minn., was in the city last week, enroute to North Dakota, where he also owns considerable farm property. Mr. Torgerson, who is an uncle of John Bratrud of this city, said that spring was as far advanced in Northwestern Minnesota as in the southern part of the state. The thaw came all at once down there and the result is mud about two and a half feet in depth. "You people up here are better off than they are further to the south," said Mr. Torgerson. "The snow here has kept the ground covered all winter and has gone away gradually this spring. Down where I come from it has alternately frozen and thawed for a month past, and this is one of the worst things possible when plant life is just beginning to awaken."

WAR MAY BE DECLARED ON NEAR-BEER SELLERS

Polk County Attorney Orders Its Discontinuance—Will be Left To Grand Jury Here

"The keeping for sale, selling, giving away or disposing of malt liquors, whether intoxicating or not, in any other place than a licensed saloon, is hereby prohibited." That is the way the statutes of the state of Minnesota read, and County Attorney Youngquist, of Polk county, has ordered all places within that jurisdiction to cease the sale of all such liquors by the 20th of April, or suffer the consequences. It would appear that the county attorney is right about the matter, as a similar case brought in Clearwater county a short time ago resulted in conviction. Upon appeal to the district court the verdict was affirmed.

No such action has as yet been taken in Pennington county against vendors of "near beer" or malt liquors not coming under the head of "intoxicating." Since the saloons were closed by county option last winter the sale of these non-intoxicating malt drinks has been permitted everywhere, and there is no doubt but that practically everyone engaged in the business considered themselves within the law. County Attorney H. O. Kjomme said he knew of the law, but considered it wiser to allow the matter to come up before the grand jury for action together with a number of other matters along the same lines which will be investigated by that body at the next term of the district court in June.

GREAT NORTHERN MUST ABATE PUBLIC NUISANCE

Railroad And Warehouse Commission Orders Road to Remove Closets at Depot Here.

The Great Northern railroad has been ordered to show cause why it should not be compelled to remove the outhouses at the depot in Thief River Falls. Upon complaint of residents in that neighborhood the city council a short time ago instructed City Attorney Quale to call attention of the commission to the unsanitary condition of the premises of the company, and he is in receipt of the answer to his complaint. A copy of the commission' order has been sent him by Secretary A. C. Clauson, and is as follows:

You are hereby required to satisfy the complaint of the above named Complainant, which is hereto annexed and herewith served on you, and grant the relief demanded therein within Twenty (20) Days after service of this notice on you, exclusive of the date of such service, or show cause why such relief should not be granted, and file said answer with the Railroad & Warehouse Commission at its office in the Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota, and mail a copy to Mr. Theo. Quale, Lawyer, McGinn Block, Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

ROAD MEN MEET; SUGGEST ROUTE

Enthusiastic Gathering of Jefferson Highway Enthusiasts at Bemidji On Tuesday.

DANIEL SHAW PRESIDENT

Representatives of seven Northwestern Minnesota counties met at Bemidji on Tuesday for the purpose of devising ways and means for furthering the work of constructing the Jefferson highway, and in order to agree upon the most feasible and least costly route for the road. A total of seventy-five delegates were in attendance, all of whom pledged their enthusiastic support to any program having for its object the early construction of the highway.

Daniel Shaw of Thief River Falls, was elected president of the permanent organization formed at the meeting. E. M. Sathre, secretary of the Bemidji Commercial club, was chosen secretary, and L. Jenson of Clearbrook, treasurer. The largest delegation from any one county was that of Clearwater, the villages of Bagley, Clearbrook, Gonvick, and Gully all being represented by a goodly number of hustling citizens.

Two From Each County.

A standing committee composed of two members from each of the counties represented was appointed for the purpose of working for the adoption of the route suggested at the meeting and to furnish such aid and information as the highway commission or any other interested parties might be in need of. This committee is composed as follows: Beltrami county, F. S. Lycan and A. E. Rako, Bemidji; Red Lake county, F. L. Farley, Red Lake Falls, and A. P. Toupin, Oklee; Polk county, A. Strak, Gully, and Joseph Dahl, Trail; Pennington county, A. H. Pitkin, St. Hilaire, and C. L. Hansen, Thief River Falls; Marshall county, I. M. Mybro, Viking, and E. M. Wilson, Newfolden; Kittson county, C. J. Forsberg, Karlstad, and P. H. Konzen, Hallock.

The Resolutions.

"Be it resolved, by the Committee here assembled that we hereby recommend following route for the Jefferson Highway from Bemidji to Noyes on the International boundary by utilizing existing State Highways, and agree to stand by and support said route and use all lawful means to secure its adoption in full by the State Highway Commission, as it is understood that the Jefferson Highway Association has left the matter of selecting a route between said points to said Minnesota State Highway Commission, towit:- from Bemidji to Solway; Solway to Bagley over State road No. 2; From Bagley to Clearbrook, Gonvick and Winsor over State Road No. 1. From Winsor over Red Lake Trail which is on an old lake beach, through Gully and Trail by Oklee to Lambert. Thence in Red Lake county over State road No. 3 to a connection with state road No. 1 of Pennington county, and over it through St. Hilaire to Thief River Falls; thence west over state road No. 3 to old Pembina trail, which is now a judicial state highway; north on said highway to Karlstad on south line of Kittson county; thence west and north through Hallock by way of Donaldson and Kennedy over state roads, or north and west through Halma, as may be later determined; thence from Hallock over state road through Northcote, Humboldt and St. Vincent to Noyes on International boundary.

It will be seen by the above that the route will follow the state highways already established practically the entire distance through this section. This is in accordance with the intention of the promoters of the highway, whose intention it is to link up with existing state highways whereever this is practicable.

Good Roads Movement Growing.

The fact that nearly one hundred representative men from different counties can be brought together at their own expense to discuss a prospective road enterprise like the Jefferson highway, goes to show what importance is attached to the movement. There is no longer any doubt but that the route through Northern Minnesota will be selected by the meeting at Bemidji.

The following were the Pennington county representatives at the gathering: Daniel Shaw, C. L. Hansen, G. G. Johnson, John Bratrud, John McKinney, W. W. Pritchard, D. G. Mc Cormick, and Matt Barzen, Thief River Falls; A. H. Pitkin and A. S. Wilson, St. Hilaire.

WANTS WATER TANKS MOVED

Ordinance Introduced Provides That These be Placed 125 Feet From Any Public Sidewalk.

REVETMENT AID REFUSED

Proposition to Approriate Sum to Assist in This Work is Tabled—Dr. Douglass Reports On Health Situation.

An ordinance by Alderman Ihle at the regular meeting of the city council on Tuesday evening stipulates that all water tanks must be placed at least 125 feet from any public sidewalk. The measure provides that a notice of 60 days shall be given to any person or corporation maintaining tanks less than this distance from the walks and stipulates that unless these are moved at the expiration of this period the street commissioner will take the matter in hand.

The request of the parties having charge of the building of the revetment along the river bank in the township of Highlanding, asking that the city make an appropriation to help defray the expenses of that work, was tabled.

Dr. Douglass Reports.

Dr. J. E. Douglass, city health officer, made a verbal report of the work done by Dr. Burns of the state board of health during a recent visit here. In addition to the findings of the state officer, as publisher in the Times last week, Dr. Douglass gave a short history of the conditions leading up to the sending of Dr. Burns to this city at this time. He concluded a very comprehensive report of the situation by still more urgently advising against the use of hydrant water for any purpose. Dr. Douglass said that there is not the slightest doubt but that the water is highly dangerous, and believed that the people might consider themselves very fortunate in that so far but few cases of typhoid fever or intestinal disorders had been reported.

Dr. Douglass also informed the council that he had received word from the office of the state board of health, stating that a sanitary engineer would be in Thief River Falls during the week of April 17, and advised that the matter be allowed to rest until a report is received from him. This was also the action taken with regard to a remonstrance put in by a number of residents in sewer district No. 2. These object to a sewer being constructed along certain streets at this time, and upon recommendation of City Engineer Walker the question of whether or not such sewer was at this time necessary was left to the decision of the sanitation expert.

Those Crossing Gates.

Chairman Ihle of the committee in charge of the railway crossing matter, reported that meetings with the officials of the Soo had been held and that a definite understanding had not been reached. The railroad company asked that some other way out of the difficulty be found, as the maintaining of a watchman at the crossings complained of would mean a very considerable outlay. Alarm bells were suggested as a substitute and the committe instructed to see whether or not these would answer the purpose.

It was pointed out that if the Red Lake boulevard were graveled and put in shape, much of the traffic now going by way of Eighth street would be diverted over the first-named highway and the greater part of the danger at this crossing would be thus averted. The company would be willing to haul the gravel for this improvement, thus minimizing the expense of the work to the city. The council is not disposed to act hastily in this matter as it is no part of the intention to saddle an extra expense onto the roads. The electric bell system will be thoroughly investigated, and if found dependable, will probably be installed at all interesections where any considerable travel occurs.

North Bridge Helped.

The council approriated the sum of $200 to be paid to the county of Pennington upon the completion of a certain bridge across Thief River north of town. This is the enterprise for which the farmers of the section have raised in the neighborhood of $1700 with the expectation that Pennington and Marshall counties and the city of Thief River Falls would appropriate the balance necessary.

The reports of the different city department heads were read and accepted. The document of the greatest interest was that of Treasurer F. M. Evenson, which showed that the city has about $26,000 in the treasury.

A Sizable Cap.

City Clerk Fasel reported that he had ordered caps for the members of the police force, but that there would be a slight delay in receiving them as a repeat order had to be sent in the case of Chief Berge. This officer wears a size seven and seven-eights, and the manufacturer thought that some mistake had been made. Clerk Fasel replied: "That's some head, but it's all right."

The hitching post matter came up for discussion as per schedule, but nothing was done except talk the matter over.

Dumped In The Mud.

M. C. Cutter, publisher of the Thief River Falls News-Press, was rather severely handled by Howard Gesell, who took this particular means of displaying his objection to certain articles appearing in Mr. Cutter's paper. The two men met at the corner of Third and La Bree, when, it is asserted, Gesell knocked the newspaper man down three times, and choked him. Further damage was averted by Chief of Police Berge. Gesell rushed to the presence of Judge Tarrant of the municipal court and asked permission to pay a fine for fighting on the street. As the chief of police corroborated this statement, Gesell was assessed $10.00 and costs.

GOV. BURNQUIST ASKED TO ADDRESS LOCAL CLUB

Chief Executive May Be Heard Here at Anniversary Dinner of Commercial Club.

Governor J. A. Burnquist may be the principal speaker at the anniversary dinner of the Thief River Falls Commercial club on Wednesday, May 3. An invitation has been extended to the chief executive to attend this meeting and get a good look at the foremost city in Northwestern Minnesota, and it is expected that if nothing of more importance intervenes to prevent his doing so, he will be glad to avail himself of the opportunity. The governor has never been a visitor to this section of the state, at least not in any official capacity, and all our people would be very glad to welcome hime.

Preparations for the annual dinner have already been begun and it is the intention to make this an event of much importance in the history of Thief River Falls. The club has accomplished much important work during the past year, and it is likely that a general resume of this work will be a feature of the dinner. The arrangements are not all completed and nothing definite along this line will be done until it is learned whether or not Gov. Burnquist will be present.

CULVERT CONCERN SUES FOR CONTRACT BALANCE

County Refuses Payment, Claiming Culverts Were Not Placed According to Specifications.

County Attorney H. O. Kjomme was last week served with the papers in a suit brought by the Illinois Steel Bridge company against Pennington county for the sum of $300 claimed to be due on a contract for the installation of culverts on Judicial road No. 25. This is a highway built jointly by Pennington, Marshall and Roseau counties and of which the share to be paid by the first-named county was $2,149.42. Of this amount the complaint alleges that but $1,849.42 has been paid, leaving a balance of $300.

The county commissioners in refusing to pay this money claimed that certain of the culverts had not been placed according to specifications and would have to be moved, the sum mentioned being withheld for the purpose of covering the cost of this work. It is asserted that in some cases the culverts were put in fully 300 feet from the section lines along which the roads runs, and that these will either have to be placed where they should go or it will be necessary to curve the road out to correspond with their present location.

POOL ROOM MEN ASK TEST CASE

Request Court To Grant Order Restraining City From Enforcing Sunday Closing Regulation.

TO BE HEARD ON APRIL 17

Provisions Disregarded Last Sunday But Action On Cases Withheld Pending Outcome of Suit.

The validity of the recently enacted ordinance for the regulation of bowling alleys, poolrooms and skating rinks in the city of Thief River Falls, is to be tested before the district court in a case brought by proprietors of these places. The action will be heard before Judge Grindeland on April 17.

The new ordinance provides, among other things, that all pool and billiard rooms shall be closed on Sundays except between the hours of one o'clock and six, and that bowling alleys and skating rinks shall remain closed all day. Several proprietors of such places disregarded this provision last Sunday, and on Monday morning City Attorney Theodore Quale had papers already prepared for service when the owners in question appeared and requested that these not be served.

District Court To Decide.

Through their attorney, C. E. Boughton of Red Lake Falls, the owners of the offending places stated that they wished to ask the district court to grant a restraining order, preventing the city authorities from carrying out the provisions of the ordinance, claiming that these were an unwarranted interference with the conduct of their business, and tendered to exercise an unreasonable control over their actions. The suit brought by them would be in the nature of a friendly test case and simply for the purpose of having the court pass upon the validity of the ordinance. Mr. Quale interposed no objection to this proceedure, and the matter will be decided on Monday, April 17.

COMMISSION WILL HEAR TELEPHONE CASE MAY 22

The Action Brought by Owatonna to Come Before State Body At That Time.

The question whether or not the Tri-State Telephone company and the Northwestern Telephone company can be compelled to provide a physical connection between their lines in the city of Thief River Falls will be decided by the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission at St. Paul, on May 22. The case is brought by the city of Owatonna, but as the connections of the people of that municipality are identical with those advanced here, the decision will affect both cities alike. The first hearing was held at Owatonna on March 20, the second on April 3, and now the matter is expected to be finally disposed of at the meeting on May 22.

In the Owatonna case the position of the companies is just the reverse of that at Thief River Falls. Here the Tri-State people are willing to make the connection, the Northwestern opposing the change, while at the first-named city the situation is transposed, the Tri-State people being the objectors. This is because of the fact that in Owatonna the Northwestern is the company conducting the local exchange, while here the Tri-State performs this service. Both concerns claim that the company having this exchange possesses a great advantage over the other in the matter of long-distance business, as their lines are naturally employed where this is possible. For this reason it is maintained that the order to form the connection would work to the very great advantage of the company having a practical monoply of the local business.

W. F. Sawyer, city attorney of Owatonna, has written to City Attorney Theodore Quale of Thief River Falls, asking if it would not be possible to secure something in the way of financial aid from this city. He maintains that inasmuch as other Minnesota municipalities are as heavily interested as is Owatonna, he considers it no more than proper and right that they should bear a part of the expense.

Mrs. Gambell, Slightly Improved.

Mrs. F. H. Gambell, who has been seriously ill during the past ten days, is reported as slightly improved this morning. Dr. W. H. Whittis, medical instructor at the university of Iowa and a brother of Mrs. Gambell, arrived last evening and will remain for a few days.

THAT CORN EXHIBIT.

Pennington county farmers will no doubt be very glad to learn that they can procure Minnesota No. 13 seed corn at the South Dakota experiment station. They will probably not be able to discover, however, just why the South Dakota product should have been singled out for their use, as there must be seed corn to be had also in Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma. Inasmuch as it seems to be the intention that all their work in experimentation, selection and propagation shall be set at naught, it cannot much matter to them just where they start again breeding toward a hardy, thoroughly acclimated variety.

As The Times understands the situation, the corn now on display at the rooms of the Commercial club is considered too valuable to plant for the purpose of securing a greater supply of the same value. That may not be exactly the way the matter is put by those responsible for this wrong-headed policy, but it is what it amounts to. They certainly would not maintain that no more corn of equal value can be grown in the county. To do so would be to advertise to the world that Northwestern Minnesota once upon a time had an excellent corn crop, but that it is doubted if it will ever have another. This would not be a fact, but if it were the intention to convey such impression no better means for accomplishing the purpose than the course now taken could possibly be devised.

Every ear of corn in Pennington county has this spring fifty times its ordinary value because of the scarcity of native stock for seed. To tell a farmer that he can secure a seed corn in South Dakota bearing the same number as that which he has been in the habit of growing here, will likely make him smile. He knows, even if the exhibit managers at the Commercial club do not, that corn in South Dakota has for years been selected with a view to its living through drought and hot winds, while the qualifications necessary in seed here are ability to withstand early frost and plenty of moisture. It may be that this makes no difference so long as they are both numbered "Minnesota 13," but The Times is not looking for the job of convincing the practical farmer that such is the case.

Prof. Bull of the university of Minnesota, on seeing the corn display at the club rooms, stated that he considered it valuable "for seed." And Prof. Bull has studied Minnesota corn for a longer period of time than most people have been growing the cereal in Pennington county.

And seed is all it is good for. The display is no longer a representative exhibit. It is misleading if gathered during the only year in which such corn could be raised, and it is useless for advertising purposes if better corn can be raised now.

There is a shortage of home-grown corn. Get every available ear out among the farmers in order that the proper tests may be applied and the supply put into the ground where it belongs. There will be more for exhibition purposes, while it may take years to properly acclimate an entirely new supply.

If the general value of a congressman is to be decided by his vote on any one measure, there will be mighty few of them ever returned to Washington for a second term. A congressman is somewhat like the rest of us in one respect—he can't always be right on every subject. Things may look quite different to him in Washington from what they do to the folks at home, and his chances for being right are about as good as those of his critics. When a man proves that he is the peer of his colleagues both in judgment and ability; when his vote and voice have invariably been employed to the best interests of his constituents and the nation at large, and long service at Washington have placed him in an influential position in the House—under such circumstances it would be a short-sighted and carping critic who would even suggest his being replaced by an untried man because he did some one thing that did not meet with the approval of everyone. A certain local paper and the few others in the district who are voicing their opposition to Congressman Steenerson because of his vote on the warning bill will find that this does not weigh much when cast into the balance against his long and valuable services. To compare him to Senator Clapp, who has been consistently and persistently wrong on a large number of the most important questions coming up during his career in Washington, is as unjust as it will prove futile.

The selection of a United States senator should be more than a local affair. The thing to take into consideration is his value to the country after he gets to Washington. Taking this view of the matter, which one of the avowed candidates for senator do you consider the best equipped to fittingly represent the state of Minnesota? At home considerations purely political and local will more or less color the answer to this question, but if you will take the trouble to read what important newspapers in other sections of the country have to say, at the same time realizing that they are in a position to judge of the matter more impartially than is possible right here, you will find that Frank B. Kellogg is regarded as being in every way so far superior to the other men seeking the honor that there is surprise expressed that any of the latter should be seriously considered. By electing him Minnesota will prove itself wide awake to its own and the nation's interests.

We will have a base ball team this summer, and it will be a hummer. That's the kind of a team Thief River Falls is in the habit of having. To send out championship winners in all divisions of fall and winter sports and then not have a base ball team to bring home the honors in summer is an unthinkable condition of affairs. Some foolish folks might get the idea into their heads that fall and winter are all we need prepare for in Northern Minnesota, as we have no summer. Base ball has been promised support of the most substantial nature if it is of a kind that warrants support at all, and from the indications now, it seems as if we were going to have just that kind.

Henry Rines of Mora, has announced himself as a candidate for state treasurer at the coming primaries. Rines would be a good man for this position—or any other, for that matter—and he is deserving of the nomination at the hands of the voters of his party. He is the man who came within 800 votes of being the nominee for auditor two years ago, making his canvas against one of the strongest and most popular men in the state. Mr. Rines has been tried in positions of trust before, and has never been found wanting. His selection would be popular with practically all classes.

The proposition to fix a "dead line" in Mexico, beyond which the soldiers of the United States may not go, is all right. It should be established about ten paces to the south of the spot where Villa is caught.

CLIPPING AND COMMENT

Or Use The Shorter Word.

Sam Gordon of the Brown's Valley Tribune, whose opportunities for observation have been as good as those of most folks, says:

"When some fellow makes the statement that "there is just as much liquor consumed in "dry" territory as in licensed territory" politely tell him that he is a plain unadulterated prevaricator, as the records of any railway station in any dry town will show."

It All Depends.

Says The Warroad Pioneer.—"We don't exactly figure that a man who spends the winter in California and comes back to the state of Minnesota to run for office is entitled to as much consideration as a man who sticks with the rest of us in the state all winter."

But at that he might make a better officer than some who have been spending their winters at Washington.

A Weak Argument.

The Duluth News Tribune does not think much of the people who attempt to defend the liquor traffic by saying that there will be as much liquor consumed whether a community votes dry or stays wet. Commenting on the election at Superior, the Duuth paper says.

"The weakest argument for saloons is that conditions are worse without them. This presupposes a lawless community and one unable to enforce its laws; one that will tolerate lawlessness and condone the lawbreaker. It is is as if the criminal said: "If you undertake to arrest me for burglary I will commit murder."

Worth Boosting For.

"Minnesota is essentially a state worth boosting for. We believe in "plugging" for every part of Minnesota, for that which benefits one section is sure to react to the credit and benefit of every other section. Too many in the past have taken a narrow view, and there has been too much of the dangerous doctrine of sectionalism preached. We are all Minnesotans together, no matter what part of the state we hail, and we should be united in a program that will result in building up every part of the state. Nature has done a great deal for Minnesota. Its up to Minnesota's energetic citizens to do the rest.

Dan W. Lawler is to file for United States senator with the backing of the Lynch organization. This is said to be the understanding reached since the return of Fred B. Lynch from the East. The Lawler-Lynch feud was patched up first when Lynch proposed Lawler for ambassador to Chile. When Lynch failed to land the place for his new ally many predicted that there would be another break, but since Lynch's return from the East he and Lawler have conferred and Lawler has reiterated his intention to support Lynch for national committeeman.

The real political race of the year is going to be for the Republican nomination for state treasurer. A. C. Gooding, who was appointed by Governor Burnquist to succeed Mr. Smith, is a wealthy banker of Rochester. It is stated that his bank handles practically all of the money that flows into the Mayo treasury through their big Rochester surgical institution. The work of handling that finance is a job in itself, and shortly after Mr. Gooding was appointed it was unauthoritatively stated that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself. I saw Mr. Gooding the other day. He stated that he had never said that he would not be a candidate, but that in fairness to prospective candidates he would have to make a definite decision before long. Since then several have filed for the position, the first being Robert L. Johnson of Austin. A day or two later Henry Rines, former member and speaker of the house of representatives and a candidate for state auditor two years ago, when he came within a few hundred votes of winning the nomination against the present incumbent, put in an appearance and laid down his filing statement with $50. Hardly had he departed before Sam A. Nelson, former senator from Fillmore county, now residing in Minneapolis also made a filing for the place. Several months ago Peter J. Schwarz of Dodge Center got into the race. It is also stated that Louis G. Vogel, county auditor of Brown county, is among the possibilities. Of the field Rines appears to have the best of it. His big run for auditor two years ago is a huge advantage.

✣ ✣ ✣

Thomas Frankson, one of the candidates for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, is covering much territory in his campaign. Tom never sleeps, and his opponents, J. A. Peterson of Minneapolis and Dr. J. A. Gates of Kenyon, must realize that he is the man whose footsteps are to be watched. And while all this is going on it might just as well be stated that H. H. Flowers of Le Sueur county, speaker of the last house, is jumping from town to town and flirting with the lieutenant governorship nomination.

BUSINESS COLLEGE WILL USE LIBRARY BASEMENT

Commodious and Convenient Quarters Selected For New Commercial School.

President G. M. Langum this week closed a deal whereby he secures a lease on the rooms in the basement of the public library building for use of the Thief River Falls Business college. This room, has heretofore been used as a meeting place of the Woman's club, but as few meetings of this body is held during the summer months, provisions will be made for them at the Commercial club rooms. The Christian scientists have also used this room for their Sunday services, and it is thought that this arrangement will be allowed to continue.

The business college is starting out with every indication of success. It is expected that there will be an enrollment of at least 20 students when the institution opens up for business on the 17, and that this will increase to over 100 by fall is certain. Many young people in the city who made a start in the studies in which the college sepcializes while attending school have signified their intention of completing their course now that a first class business training can be secured without their going from home. Besides these there are many inquiries from parties residing in other sections tributary to Thief River Falls, and all indications point to a flourishing college here by fall.

GETTING READY FOR BIG EVENT

This Will Be The Hockey Club Masquerade Ball at Auditorium On April 28.

COMMITTEE ARE HUSTLING

Most Startling Disguises Ever Seen At a Similar Event in Thief River Falls Being Invented For Occasion.

A list of handsome costumes, ranging in price from $1.00 to $5.00 has been received by Chairman Joseph Lutz of the special committee having this feature of the big mask ball planned by the hockey team at the auditorium on Friday evening, April 28 and judging from the number of inquiries already made, there will be many striking looking maskers on the polished floor of the ball room on the evening of this event, the announcement of which some weeks ago created immediate interest in society circles here and in neighboring cities.

Mr. Lutz will be pleased to have those who desire to order costumes phone their orders in early or call at his office in the afternoon and make selections. The list is too long to permit of publication but contains every imaginable costume from that of a clown to George Washington and from Cinderilla to a fencing girl in silk hose and French heeled slippers.

A number of prominent local young matrons are planning upon their own costumes, and as Thief River Falls is famous for its pretty young married women, say nothing about the beauty of its charming society girls, some innovations in the matter of costumes are certain and some startling surprises in store for hubby. Secrecy is being maintained and it will not be the fault of the ladies if the men folks know them when they trip across the ball room floor in some ravishingly becoming feminine creation.

Nothing Prudish.

You see, time works changes and the world has come to grant woman considerable latitude in the matter of her dress. There will be nothing prudish about this ball, in fact the gayer, the society folks say, and from all we can hear, the scene, as the famous Thief River Falls Band strikes up the strains of the grand march will be one calculated to drive dull care to the tall and uncut and give King Mirth full control of his vast army of maids and gallants, imps, nymphs, druids and butterflies. Dainty feet and lythesome forms will glide, in happy abandon during the all too short hours of the mask period and when the order, "un-mask" is given, it is quite likely that some dainty fairy whose form and half-hidden smile under a blue domino has set more than one ordinarily staid heart beating most rapidly, will have vanished from the room.

Why not? Its to be a jolly wholesome lark, clean, well conducted, full of life, vigor and merry frolic for the old world is moving on, just the same and life, at best is short. A good laugh, a jolly time under such unquestioned auspices as those who are promoting the ball, why yes, mayhaps a little harmless flirtation, will sour no ones temper not detract one whit from the charm of the affair.

Men folks beware. You may find yourself flirting with your own wife and take it from the writer, no such excuses as " I knew it was you all the time" will go. Rumor has it that a certain exclusive social set have planned a decidedly spicy coupe on "father." One can't get the inside of this dark, deep plot, but if the little bird has it right, a number of pretty Warren and Crookston young ladies are in it. Take a little heed, gentlemen, take a little heed.

Invitations were issued this week and from now all will be excitement, secrecy and keen interest in this, the most elaborately planned and unique social affair ever held in this section of Minnesota. The committee on invitations announces that they may have overlooked some and those who have friends who desire to attend the ball and who did not receive an invitation may secure the same from the committee, if properly vouched for. The ball is to be conducted along strict lines, in order that there may be no criticism and a strict censor will make it impossible for any who are not invited to attend. The galleries will be open to the public and it is a foregone conclusion that every available seat will be taken before the grand march begins.

SETTLERS STILL FLOCK TO THIS DAIRY SECTION

Four More Newcomers With Complete Farming Equipment Arrive During Past Week.

Charles H. Schnabel of Cedar Falls, Iowa, arrived in Thief River Falls last week and is making preparations to open a large farm in Section 20 of Norden township. Mr. Schnabel brought with him a full equipment of household goods and farm implements and will begin the erection of a commodious residence at once. A power outfit is part of the equipment and it is the intention to break up about 200 acres of the holding this spring. This farmer is going into the business in earnest, bringing with him the necessary fencing material, posts, etc. to put the place into condition at the earliest possible moment. He stated that parties represented by him stood ready to expend from $5,000 to $6,000 on the place, but that no very extensive attempt at crop raising would be made this year. Mr. Schnabel said that he would perhaps put in 10 or 15 acres of flax this spring as a starter. Mrs. Schnabel arrived with him and will make her home here until their new home is completed.

Alfred Kjos and C. H. Kjos, two brothers from Canon Falls, Minn., arrived Saturday with a carload each of farmer's effects and will settle on land in Highlanding township. A. B. Fellows of Mason City, Iowa, also arrived the same day with his movable belongings and will go to farming about four miles to the southwest of the first-named two. These farmers will devote their energies largely to the dairying industry, believing that this section holds forth particular inducements to men who will follow this line intelligently.

NO KNOWLEDGE HERE OF ADDITIONAL SOO TRAIN

Report From Bemidiji to Effect That One Is Contemplated Is Not Credited.

The daily papers of Sunday contained a dispatch under a Bemidji date line containing the information that the Soo railroad contemplated adding a night train from the east to connect with the flyer for the Twin Cities at Thief River Falls. Officials at the Soo here say they have no knowledge of any cuch addition to the service being contemplated. The article referred to is as follows.

"Reports received at Bemidji are that the Soo railroad will better its train service in Bemidji by adding two additional trains, dining, observation and sleeping cars.

"A day train, it is reported will run between Duluth and Winnipeg and will probably be an extension of the present Winnipeg flyer. A night train with a Pullman, will run frim this train to Thief River Falls and connect with a train for the Twin Cities.

"The change will be made, it is reported to permit travelers from Red Lake and points east and west on the Great Northern to make train connections with points along the Soo line without a stop at Bemidji.

"No reports were available as to when the change would be made, but it is believed that it will be within a few months.

"The Soo line, it is said, is planning to gravel the entire road bed from Duluth to Winnipeg.

"Railway officials in Bemidji refused to deny or affirm the reports."

FIRST SHIPMENT MADE BY NEW PRODUCE HOUSE

Carload of Eggs Gathered in Few Days—Other Products Will Follow Rapidly.

The Thief River Produce company will make its first shipment from this point in a few days. This consignment will consist of a carload af eggs, and the fact that the concern is able to thus ship a consignment of this size after being in business but a few days indicates that the farmers appreciate the fact that a handy and reliable market has been established for their product.

A carload of eggs represents quite a lot of hen effort. Such a shipment will average 450 cases of thirty dozen each. This is a total of 162,000 eggs, and if you allow an average of 19 cackles to each egg you will see that Pennington county "biddies" have been responsible for quite a lot of noise. They are also responsible for much of the prosperity on the farms, and now that a certain market for their product has been established their value is likely to be more than ever appreciated.

H. F. Pratt of Wadena, an expert egg candler, for a long time in the employ of the Peterson-Biddick company, has been transferred to the house at Thief River Falls, and will have charge of this important end of the business.

Mrs. C. H. Matthews and son, David, departed for their home at Annandale, Minn., Sunday evening,, after having spent a short time in the city visiting with Mr. and Mrs. George Walker. Mrs. Walker is the daughter of Mrs. Matthews. They were accompanied on their return home by Mrs. Walker.

On Saturday, April 22, the M. E. ladies will hold an A. B. C. sale in the church basement. In place of the annual supper served at this time there will be a sale of baked foods. Anyone desiring to purchase these products may place a special order for that time for cookies, doughnuts, bread, rolls, cakes, etc., with any of the following ladies: Mrs. C. N. Nason, 'phone 48; Mrs. J. H. Hay, 'phone 107; Mrs. W. W. Prichard, Sr., 'phone 344, and Mrs. L. N. Rayson, 'phone 428. Queen Esther Circle will sell home candy at the time.—A13-20.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Ramstad will leave Friday evening for Minneapolis to attend the marriage of Mr. Ramstad's brother, Otto, to Clara Otilia Ellertson, which will occur on Saturday evening at the Hope Lutheran church. Immediately after the wedding ceremony has been performed a reception will be held at the bride's home. The newlyweds will be at home at Poplar, Montana, June 1, where the groom is engaged in the banking business.

Mrs. James Wiley and little baby took their departure Wednesday night for Kankakee, Illinois, where Mrs. Wiley will be the guest of her mother, Mrs. E. A. Leach. She will be gone for a period of four weeks duration.

HAPPY WOMEN.

Plenty of Them in Thief River Falls, And Good Reason For It.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
When she finds freedom?

Many readers will profit by the following:

Mrs. A. Lindblad, 319 Knight Ave. S., Thief River Falls, says: "I suffered from backache and lameness across my loins for years. Whenever I caught cold, I was worse. It may have been lifting that affected my kidneys and made my back so weak. Besides this, my kidneys didn't act right and I felt languid and tired. I used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and was relieved in every way. My back stopped hurting and I felt stronger and better. My kidneys also became normal and I haven't had any trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Lindblad had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—A6-13.

2,000 BRITONS DIE IN BATTLE

Turks Report Repulse of Enemy Force.

GERMANS GAIN IN WEST

Teutons Operating Against Verdun Announce Capture of Position in Cailiette Woods—Use Flame Projectors in Attack on French.

Berlin, April 13.—A British Mesopotamia force, composed of troops transferred from the Dardanelles, was repulsed by Turkish troops in a sanguinary battle lasting six hours near Felapie Sunday, according to a Turkish headquarter's report. The statement adds that more than 3,000 dead British were counted after the battle.

German troops in the operations against Verdun gained some ground in Caillette woods, southeast of Fort Douaumont, according to the official statement issued by the German army headquarters.

GERMANS RENEW ASSAULT

French Say Attack on Caurettes Wood Is Repulsed.

Paris, April 13.—The German assault on the Verdun front west of the Meuse has been renewed. Troops advanced on Caurettes wood, south of Cumieres, the war office announced, using flame projectors, but were repulsed.

East of the Meuse in the Douaumont-Vaux sector there was only artillery fighting.

The war office says it has been confirmed that the German losses Tuesday were very heavy.

While bringing up reinforcements to resume their attack on Le Mort Homme, the hill of the Dead Man, the Germans are trying to recover the ground regained by the French in Caillette woods and to the north between Douaumont and Vaux.

The French positions there describe an arc from a point south of Douaumont fort to the center of the village of Vaux and the front is a little less than two miles in length.

For three days the only actions on the east bank of the Meuse have been centered there.

SEVERE FIGHTING ON RUSSIAN FRONT

Petrograd, April 13.—The fighting north and south of Dvinsk is being waged fiercely, but still without decisive advantage to either side.

Military opinion here is inclined to view the situation with the greatest complacency, since the main object of Russia's surprise attack on Field Marshal von Hindenburg's Dvinsk position—to create a diversion while the German attack on Verdun was in progress—is regarded as having been fulfilled.

The necessity of defending their Dvinsk position is said to have upset the calculations of the German general staff, who had counted on a period of quiet along the Russian front to enable them to transfer their troops to engage in the campaign against the French.

Instead, the Teutons were forced to bring up fresh troops destined for Verdun to prevent the possibility of being compelled to abandon the whole Dvinsk line.

No Report on Sussex.

Washington, April 13.—The state department has no advices from Ambassador Gerard to indicate whether the German note on the Sussex had been delivered to him or whether it had been started for the United States. Unofficial reports say it has.

German Offensive in Greece.

Athens, April 13.—Greek newspapers announce that the Germans have begun an offensive movement on the Greek frontier, capturing the Devetepe fortifications from the allies.

TROOP PASSAGE IS DENIED

Allies Not Permitted to Move From Corfu to Saloniki.

Berlin, April 13.—A report received from Athens says the Greek government has refused the request of the entente powers for permission for the passage of troops through Greek territory from Corfu to Saloniki, saying that Corfu is infected with cholera, according to the Overseas News agency.

SCULLY GOES TO PRISON

Given One to Seven Years for Offense Against Girl.

Minneapolis, April 13.—"Kid" Scully's true name is Henry Tipp, he disclosed to the court when District Judge W. C. Leary sentenced him to Stillwater penitentiary for a term of from one to seven years for an offense against the young girl whose story started the vice investigation.

FUNSTON PLANS CHANGES

Hopes to Improve the Lines of Communication.

San Antonio, Tex., April 13.—General Funston announced that change will be made soon that will affect the long line of communications between Columbus, N. M., and General Pershing's advanced forces. He declined to state what that change is, but barring the free use of the railroads it is assumed by most army officers that it has been decided either to reinforce the line materially or shift it to a shorter route.

Supplies are being shipped to Casas Grandes over the Mexican Northwestern railroad for distribution to the expeditionary force as rapidly as the limited use of the line will permit.

This coupled with General Pershing's action in moving his headquarters to Satevo, forty miles south of Chihuahua, on the same day that the report of Villa's death was given wide circulation, was taken as an indication that army officials do not place credence in the report.

SEVENTY BANDITS KILLED

Carranzistis Repulse Attacking Force at Paseje.

Torreon, Mex., April 13.—Details of a five-hour battle between the Carranza garrison at Pasaje, Durango and an attacking force composed of Contreras and Ceniceros bandits were brought here. The outlaws fled in disorder into the hills of the Nazas district after losing seventy killed, it is reported. The de facto troops had four dead.

The battle took place on Sunday. First reports were that the attacking force was commanded by General Canuto Reyes. As negotiations have been under way for the surrender of General Reyes under an amnesty grant bitter disappointment was expressed by Carranza officials. The latest details, however, seem to show that Reyes was not implicated.

NEITHER DEAD NOR WOUNDED

Report of Villa's Demise Declared to Be False.

El Paso, Tex., April 13.—The story of Villa's death was branded a hoax by a Mexican cattleman who has arrived here and said his ranch near Bachiniba recently was visited by a band of Villistas. This man said Villa neither is dead nor wounded, but Pablo Lopez, the bandit's notorious lieutenant and executioner-in-chief, had died and Villa had deliberately used his death as the basis of the story of his own finish.

The most reliable information now puts Villa in Northern Durango.

WORKS SCORES POLITICIANS

Denounces Efforts to Tempt Hughes to Seek Presidency.

Washington, April 13. — Senator Works (Rep., Cal.) coupled an attack on the army bill with a denunciation of politicians who he declared are trying to tempt Justice Hughes with a presidential nomination.

"Partisan politics," declared the California senator, "is ruthless in its demands and invades the most sacred precincts of the national government. It is seeking place and pelf and power wherever and whenever it can find entrance."

AMERICANS ARE BEYOND PARRAL

Flying Columns Near Chihuahua-Durango Line.

VILLA IN THE MOUNTAINS

Belief Expressed That Bandit Leader Has Reached Fastnesses of Durango and Is Now in Position to Join Scattered Forces There.

El Paso, Tex., April 13.—The American expeditionary force has penetrated far beyond Parral and is near it not actually at the Chihuahua-Durango border line, it is indicated in code dispatches received here by private concerns with interests in the Parral district.

These dispatches said that the American advanced columns now have a temporary base near Parral and that toward the end of last week two companies of the motor truck train had delivered supplies at this base. This is the first authentic information that has come from the flying columns of Colonels Dodd and Brown for several days.

It seems certain now that Villa, if he still lives, has passed into the mountain fastnesses of Durango and that he is in a position to get in touch with the scattered bandit forces of that district.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Its Subsoiling Feature Alone Will Pay For A "BIG BULL" TRACTOR

the first season. You know the value of subsoiling. You know it enables the soil to absorb, store up and hold moisture for dry spells and drain better during excessive rainy spells. It reduces the chances of the ruination of your crop by drouth. It insures larger crop yields.

WILL BURN KEROSENE OR GASOLINE

A kerosene mixing attachment can be put on all BIG BULL Tractors. This will be interesting news, we are sure, as it has been one draw-back this year, on account of the high cost of gasoline because the bull wheel runs in the furrow and is stubbed with "spade" lugs 3½" to 5" long. These lugs dig into the hardpan or plowsole made by horses and plow shares and tear it loose to a depth of 3 to 5 inches. This is "the best way of subsoiling known up to the present time" concludes Owney Meyers, Brookston, Ind. Reports from hundreds of Bull Tractor owners, on file at the factory office, show an average

THE "BIG BULL" SUBSOILS WITH ITS BULL WHEEL

INCREASED CROP YIELD OF 22 PER CENT.

The range was from 10 per cent to 33 per cent. Some used horses, some used other tractors before they got their Big Bull Tractors. In both instances there were increased yields.

Another advantage of this patented "Big Bull" feature is better traction. The "Bull" therefore needs less power to do the same work and this means cheaper operation" says G. C. Roundy, Aberdeen, S. D. "I would not do without this feature at any price" wrote Ed. Prichard, Terril, Ia.

"The Speed of The Big Bull." —without overheating, is another thing that puts it in a class by itself in my estimation" writes S. R. Conner, Pauls Valley, Okla. It is not the number of plows you pull, but the number of acres you plow that counts. "In comparing the power of two tractors the speed at which they are moving must always be considered" say the experts of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture in their weekly News Letter of January 26, 1916.

Now then, figure out for your self what it would mean to you in dollars and cents to have your crop increased, say even 10 per cent (a very conservative estimate.)

Note how close this gain would come to paying for a Big Bull the first season, or how much you would have left over its cost as clear profit.

The price of the Big Bull, f. o. b. Minneapolis, is ..... $645.

Then come in and let us tell you in how many other ways you will be money ahead by doing your plowing and other farm work with a Big Bull.

BURNQUIST WILL SOON OPEN FIGHT

Governor Desires Vote of Confidence by the People.

PLANS TO ISSUE STATEMENT

Present Executive Will Announce His Position on Questions of Interest to Constituents.

St. Paul—(Special)—I am told that the real noise, so far as the campaign for Governor Burnquist for the Republican nomination for governor of Minnesota is concerned, is to be about May 1. At that time the governor proposes to make a statement of how he happened to become governor—through the death of Governor Hammond—and that by reason of his succession and the following of precedence he desires a vote of confidence on the part of the people of Minnesota. In this announcement Governor Burnquist will state what he stands for. The liquor question will not be referred to, as he considers that settled by the passage of the county option law at the 1915 session of the legislature, when he was lieutenant governor. He will make no allusion to constitutional or statutory prohibition. But he will promise the people of the state a business administration, and that he will remain in his office enough of the time to see that the people obtain such an administration. The governor has had his troubles ever since he became chief executive of the state, and those troubles are growing. Naturally, when he was sworn in he cherished the ambition to succeed himself. That ambition was generally known, particularly among that group of adroit politicians who are looking out for themselves and the big interests they represent. As far as the govenorship filings are concerned there are two candidates in opposition to the present executive. Charles A. Lindbergh has never withdrawn his name from the secretary of state's office, where he paid his fee several months ago. He has stated that he was not a candidate, but officially he is. The other candidate is former Auditor S. G. Iverson, whose thirty years in public service make him well known to the voters of the state.

✣ ✣ ✣

Wild are the political rumors of these disagreeable April days, and just at present the air is adulterated with senatorial atmosphere. First was the rumor that Moses E. Clapp was going to drop out of the race to succeed himself. This was denied by Bill Rich, the Clapp manager, who insisted that before the particular day was out the filing would be made. It was not. Neither has it been up to the present writing. Then came that other rumor—apparently well founded—that Charles A. Lindbergh, the Sixth district representative in congress, who has been grooming for various places since he pulled out of the Sixth district race, would certainly file. It was freely stated that if he filed Clapp would not—that the two understood each other too well for opposing candidates. At any rate the Eberhart people had the worst scare of their lives. As the Lindbergh story went out the Eberhart managers were using long distance calls on the various editors of Scandinavian newspapers in Minnesota urging them to appeal to Lindbergh not to file—that the move would hurt Governor Eberhart's candidacy. Lindbergh has not yet filed. The pressure of the editors may have done some good, but there are reliable guessers who say that Lindbergh will be in the race. If he files it would give the Kellogg candidacy a boom that could hardly be equalled. Eberhart and Lindbergh would divide a certain vote and weaken both men, and Kellogg would be the beneficiary.

✣ ✣ ✣

Walter Smith, former state treasurer, and R. C. Pickitt, former clerk in the auditor's office, have pleaded guilty to misappropriating state funds and both were sentenced to indeterminate terms in Stillwater. It is reported that Mr. Smith's attorneys will work for an immediate pardon, claiming that he made immediate restitution as soon as the shortage was discovered and that he has been sufficiently punished. I am not trying to make a real guess on the attempt at immediate pardon, but I am venturing the assertion that it will not be granted. Two members of the board—Governor Burnquist and Attorney General Smith—come up for nomination and election this year and they are going to proceed mighty carefully before they act. They will want to know that public sentiment justifies a pardon. Chief Justice Brown is the other member of the board and he is naturally conservative in such cases. Pickitt's offense of forgery carries with it an indeterminate sentence of from two to five years. Nothing has been heard of an attempt for immediate pardon for him. On the contrary, the young man has already gone to the penal institution and will probably remain there until he can be paroled, after fourteen months, unless the board of parole lets down its own bars of not granting a parole before that period. The plight of both of these men is pitiful. Both were held in high esteem, both were occupying high positions, and nothing more than weak natures, combined with a desire to live beyond their incomes, has brought about their present conditions.

✣ ✣ ✣

J. T. Johnson of Fergus Falls, who has filed for re-election to the house, announces that if elected he will be a candidate for the speakership. Mr. Johnson and L. C. Spooner were senior members of the last house in point of continuous service. They have been on hand helping with the lawmaking since the 1907 session. Mr Johnson has had speakership aspirations before, and though not given to making speeches he has taken an important part in legislation.

WILL OPEN CHOP SUEY RESTAURANT

Well Known Grand Forks Caterers Secure Three Year Lease on Nels Berg Building.

Wong Yee and Yee Fong, representing the Chicago Restaurant company, a concern conducting high-class eating establishments in many northwestern cities, were in Thief River Falls last week and closed a lease for the Nels Berg property on Third street for a period of three years. These Chinese caterers will put in a chop suey restaurant and general eating house in the rooms now occupied by the Farmers' restaurant, conducted by Peter Ellingson. The lease stipulates that the owner is to make all necessary repairs and that the building is to be ready for occupancy by April 15. Some of the furniture in the place at present has been bought from Mr. Ellingson, but the greater part of the fixtures required by the new proprietors will be of the kind accepted as the proper thing in the fine restaurants of the cities. The kitchen will undergo a complete change, the new owners letting it be known while here that in this department particularly will the appointments be of the latest.

Reports from the other cities in which this concern conducts restaurants are to the effect that the parties at the head of them are business men of the highest order, and as their places are conducted with a view to attracting the very best class of trade the venture should be a success.

NEW SYSTEM WILL KEEP TRACE OF ASSESSMENTS

Convenient Records Will Make Each Succeeding Year's Valuation Matter Of Easy Comparison.

City assessor B. E. Dahlquist has worked out a system of card indexing which will greatly simplify the work of his office. There are three separate cards—one each for real estate, personal property and moneys and credits. Each card contains a list of the articles assessable with columns for placing the amounts at which they are assessed so arranged as to give the figures for ten consecutive years.

The cards on which will be represented the personal property and the moneys and credits will be particularly valuable, as they will enable the assessor to see at a glance the number of articles listed for taxation during any previous year and the amount at which they were assessed. It will also furnish him with a reliable reference index to the amount of property of this nature held by any citizen at the time of any previous assessment and enable him to discover any attempt at an evasion on the part of the party assessed. In this manner all taxable property in the city will in some manner have to be accounted for. If it has been sold or otherwise disposed of since the time of the last assessment, the fact will become known to him and he can take steps to insure its proper assessment at the new location.

The system will prove of inestimable value to a new assessor, as it will enable him to begin his work with an absolute knowledge of what has been done by his predecessor in office in any given instance.

Hospital Notes.

Richard Williams underwent an operation at the Physician's hospital Wednesday morning for tonsilitis and adnoids. His condition is very good.

Ernest Ristau, who underwent an operation at the hospital for rupture, was discharged today very much improved in health.

Herman Hoem of Greenbush, left for his home Wednesday morning after being discharged from the Physicians' hospital, where he had undergone an operation for appendicitis.

J. P. McAnders of this city was discharged from the hospital Wednesday morning, after receiving treatment there for a short time.

Richard Krikholt of Newfolden, entered the Physician's hospital the first of the week to receive treatment.

Willie Singer of Rhoda, came in the first of the week and entered the hospital for medical treatment.

Another Farmer Returns.

Paul Zacher, who has been spending the past two or three years in Washington and Oregon, returned last week and will at once go onto his land adjoining the townsite of Mavie and begin farming. Mr. Zacher is another of those who left this section because of the lack of roads and drainage made the farming proposition unattractive here, but who is glad to return after testing out the conditions in other sections. Ditches, good roads and an electric line almost to his door now makes his location one of the best in the county.

Feature at Lyceum.

"The Vengeance of The Wild," a five part animal story, will be the feature at the Lyceum on Thursday night, April 13. It is a romance of the African jungle produced by the Ray Motion Picture co., staring Lorraine Otto. It is one of the most intensely interesting stories of love and adventure ever filmed, carried along by acting of the most dramatic character. The entire story is unusual and one of the best seen here for a long time.

Town Clerks Want Pay.

Clerk of Court H. E. Ives has been busy of late explaining why he finds it impossible to pay the different township clerks the money due them for keeping the birth and death records in their respective townships. The law provides that they shall be paid 25 cents for each occurance of this kind recorded by them, and this money has not yet been forthcoming from the state. The health authorities claim that they are short of help at the office in St. Paul and have not reached this matter yet. Mr. Ives assures the clerks that he is not holding back their money, and that they will no doubt receive it in due time.

Citizenship Applications.

Anyone wishing to make application for citizenship with a view to securing their papers in time to vote at the fall elections must have their application in the office of Clerk of Court Ives before the 21st of April. The law requires that 90 days' notice must be given before the hearing is held, and as this takes place on July 20th, anyone applying after the first-named date will not be able to have their case considered. Another hearing of citizenship applications will not be held until sometime in December.

PREPAREDNESS FILM SEEN BY BIG CROWDS

"Battle Cry of Peace" is a Remarkable Production Showing Necessity For Preparedness Against War.

Record crowds attended the presentation at the Princess theatre of the film production, "The Battle Cry of Peace," on Tuesday and Wednesday. Not only were the evening performances attended by packed houses but the seating capacity of the theatre was insufficient to take care of those demanding admission in the afternoon.

The production itself is a masterpiece of film photography. The story employed as a vehicle for the action of the piece is the smallest part. The whole thing is intended to serve as a lesson in awakening the American people to a sense of their danger. The cut-in lectures interspersing the piece are calculated to bring home the importance of preparedness "against" war, and to judge by the comments heard on every side, they are succeeding in doing just this.

Securing this famous picture for Thief River Falls was rather an ambitious undertaking, and Manager Brumand is to be congratulated on the success attending the effort.

CHARTER COMMISSION IS ABOUT READY TO REPORT

Expected That Completed Document Will be Presented to Mayor Within Two Weeks.

The commission appointed by Judge Grindeland to revise the charter of the city of Thief River Falls is about ready to report. The work of revision is practically completed, and the arranging, correcting and indexing will be finished so as to place the completed document in the hands of the mayor within two weeks. The aim of the commission has been to produce a charter that would be concise, explicit and easily workable. The members have examined a large number of charters under which cities of the class of Thief River Falls are working, and have thus found material which could be adopted or worked over to fit conditions here. Much painstaking work has been put into the production of a local code to meet the demands not only of the present, but one that would meet the requirements for a long time in the future as well.

The completed work will be of medium length, as charters go. As an indication of how these documents differ in this respect Attorney H. C. Rowberg of the commission, called attention to two of these from different Minnesota cities. The local laws of the city of Taylors Falls contain 32 pages while those of Ortonville contain 108, both being 6x9 inches in size. The charter for Thief River Falls contains 80 typewritten pages, thus being nearer the size of the Ortonville code than that of Taylors Falls.

The commission is composed of the following citizens: Lars Bakke, chairman; E. J. Overland, clerk; Dr. G. A. Penny, Dr. H. G. Heiber, Dr. O. F. Mellby, Judge N. W. Tarrant, Matt Barzen, Anton Langseth, Fred Roth, Daniel Shaw, A. H. Akre, Bernard Knudson, Halvor Loken, T. L. Melgaard and Milton Forder.

GLYCERINE AND BARK PREVENT APPENDICITIS

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka, astonishes Thief River Falls people. Because Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH lower and upper bowel, ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. It removes such surprising foul matter that a few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-i-ka is astonishing. The Strange Case of MARY PAGE

The Great McClure Mystery Story, Written by FREDERICK LEWIS In Collaboration With JOHN T. M'INTYRE, Author of the Ashton Kirk Detective Stories. Read the Story and See the Essanay Moving Pictures

Copyright, 1915, by McClure Publication

HER FATHER'S DEATH

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Page, actress, is accused of the murder of James Pollock and is defended by her lover, Philip Langdon. Pollock was intoxicated. Shale, a crook and tool of Pollock, was on the fire escape watching for Langdon. At Mary's trial she admits she had the revolver. Her maid testifies that Mary threatened Pollock with it previously, and Mary's leading man implicates Langdon. Mary's escape after the murder is a mystery. Brandon tells of a strange hand print on Mary's shoulder. Further evidence shows that horror of drink produces temporary insanity in Mary. The defense is "repressed psychosis."

PSYCHOLOGISTS and those scientists who study the human brain declare that the focus of consciousness is dual, and that unless the sub-conscious mind supplements the conscious concentration, the attention is easily diverted. Thus it was that Mary Page, sitting in the prisoner's dock with the Damoclean sword of justice above her, was now unconscious of the crowd in the court-room.

Langdon and Mary Page.

Mind and soul were alike concentrated upon Langdon and upon the slow building of the evidence that was to free her from the charge of having murdered James Pollock.

A tumult of old memories was surging about her, as witness after witness told of the tragedy of a year before; (a tragedy that had so grim a sequel in the present,) and yet there were strange nightmarish blanks in those memories—spaces where fact had to give place to imagination, and during which she had hung in the nullity of uncounted moments, merging like a person under ether to momentary pain-seared consciousness, only to sink whirling back into oblivion. And it was of these moments of which Mary herself knew only by hearsay that the witnesses were now testifying.

Mary did not realize the subtlety with which Langdon was calling these witnesses. In fact, it was doubtful if any of those in the court-room except perhaps the Prosecutor and the Judge, appreciated the skill with which he brought out each detail in its turn.

In pursuance of his method of bringing out events as they had happened he had already, at a "bar side conference," asked permission to recall his witnesses a second or even a third time. Thus it came as a surprise only to the spectators when Mrs. Page again took her place in the witness-box.

"Mrs. Page, you told us yesterday of how your daughter, struggling with her drunken father, was struck by him and fled screaming from the house. Will you tell the court, please, what followed that flight? Did you go after her or remain at home?"

"It was impossible for me to follow as quickly as Mr. Langdon did," she said quietly, glancing toward the Judge. "So I stood at the gate waiting, feeling sure that it would only be a very few minutes before he would return with my poor, half-crazed girl.

"I went back as far as the window. It was very cold and I wanted to get a wrap, but I—I—was afraid of my husband. I saw him sitting by the table still drinking. At last, however, he fell over onto the couch asleep, and I went in and got wraps and blankets, thinking to start out myself in search of Mary. As I came out of the cottage I saw Mr. Pollock drive up in his motor. He said, 'My God, she'll die out there in the cold. They must be a pack of idiots not to have found her in this time.' Then he grabbed the other man by the arm and said, 'Get in the car and show me how to reach the place where the searching party is. I'll find Mary—I promise you that.'"

"Did he offer to take you with him?"

"Yes, but I felt that I must stay at home in case—in case—they brought her back, or she wandered back of her own accord."

"Did you go into the house after they had left?" Langdon's voice was very gentle now, and Mrs. Page smiled at him, a smile that was far sadder than tears as she said:

"No—I wrapped myself up and sat on the steps. I—I felt nearer to Mary out under the stars."

"That is all, Mrs. Page."

But now the District Attorney was on his feet holding up an arresting hand.

"Mrs. Page," he said harshly, one lean finger thrust towards her menacingly, "if your husband struck your daughter and injured her so terribly that she temporarily lost her reason, why doesn't she carry a scar?"

"Why, she does." There was a note of surprise in the quick answer, and Mary's fingers tightened ever so little about the rail in front of her.

"Is it possible to show the court that scar?" There was a sneer in the voice; a sneer born of the realization that something must be done to stem the great tide of sympathy for Mary, and cast disparagement upon this story from the past. But his request was a boomerang, for when Mary, trembling a little, took her place before the court and, lifting the soft hair from her forehead, showed the great livid mark of a hideous scar, the murmuring of compassion that swept through the room found a mute echo on the Bench itself, and the Prosecutor, discomfited, swung curtly away and dropped into his seat as Langdon called the next witness.

"John Alexander MacPherson!"

"Mr. MacPherson, you have told of seeing Miss Page running through the wood and of my finding her. Will you tell us now, please, whether you saw me again on that night and under what circumstances."

"I saw Mr. Langdon again on that nicht wi'in the hour. I had nae more than reachit home and were tellin' my gude wife of the evenin' when there coom a knock at the door. I opened it, and there stude Mr. Langdon. He was all in a feery farry—not to say commotion, and his face were white. Beyant him I cude see twa or three other men—all excited like."

"Did you recognize them?"

"Aye, there were men from the town—I had seen them often, and taken a wee drappie wie them at the hotel come Saturday nicht. But it were Mr. Langdon who spoke. 'Have you seen Miss Page,' he cried, catching at my sleeve. 'We are looking for her.' 'Div you mean tae say you've lostit her again?' I asked; and he said, 'Yes. I sat doon to rest a bit and I must have lost consciousness. When I came to, she was gone.'"

"Did you go with any of the three men?"

"Havers, no, man! I came back for my cap and coat, and I got to the door just in time tae save Mr. Langdon from a bad fall, for he would hae gaen over in a heap if I hadna caught him. My gude wife and I took him in the house, and when he was revived a bit I was for leavin' him, but he wouldna stay. He said, 'I must find Mary mysel'—it was I lost her the second time.' So we went oot together."

"I—I felt nearer to Mary out under the stars."

"How long was it before you got a trace of her?" Langdon's voice was toneless, but his eyes were alight with fire as he pictured to himself that strange night hunt for the slender girl he loved. The occasional shouts of the other searchers; the flash of a lantern; the heavy shadows and vividly white snow; the cold that stung his face and hands and the aching weariness that numbed his muscles. It had been like a nightmare to him, a dream that set his head to throbbing, and in which the only real thing was the stalwart bulk of MacPherson encouraging him forward—and then—the little shoe! He roused himself with a start, realizing that the Scotchman was answering his question.

"It might hae been fifteen minutes—mayhap more, when we coom to her little footprints in the snow. Then—" he paused a moment and his voice softened, "we found her wee slipper in a snow bank. A bit further we found t'other one—and the snow began tae be flecked wi' draps of blood. But I should say it was mair than half an hour before we coom upon the lassie hersel', lying in a faint like."

"Was she conscious?"

"Nae, and we could na bring her to, so we wrappit her in oor coats and took her back to the gude wife."

"Will you tell us please in what condition Miss Page was when I—when you—arrived at your house with her?"

MacPherson frowned at the memory and a deeper note crept into his tones as he said slowly:

"She was nae conscious, and her clothes were tairn to pieces and hangin' in ribands. Such clothes as she had on, puir lassie! Her feeties were cut wi' the ice and the stones, and there was a terrible wound on her forehead and an ill faured queer bruise on one shoulder."

"Was your wife alone in the house when you returned?"

"Nae, there was maybe half a dozen men frae the town, who had heard of the lassie and had coom to help the search. They set up a shout when they saw us, and I had one of them fire his revolver to tell the others Miss Page was wi' us."

"Did they show any emotion at the sight of Miss Page's condition?" asked Langdon, and a little shudder shook Mrs. Page, who alone of all those present knew of the tragedy to which that "emotion" had led. MacPherson's voice, too, was grim as he said:

"I wouldna call it 'emotion,' but there was a gude bit of murmurin' against those who had driven so sweet a lassie distractit and sent her to maybe her death in the snow. The murmurin' grew louder when they saw the hurt and there were cries to know who had done it. When Mr. Langdon told them, the murmurs grew louder and finally one of the lads cried out in a loud voice, 'This town has na room for wifebeaters and drunken brutes—he ought to be hung.'"

A stir of excitement swept through the court-room, for MacPherson, without a gesture, with no more than a rising inflection of his voice, had brought before them a vision of the snowy night and the little house from whose doorway the lamplight streamed out, mellowing the snow to gold, and touching with its fingers of light the grim faces of that group of men stirred to the deep anger of the mob at the thought of Dan Page's brutality.

"Did the other men make any threats?"

"Aye. Another one of them cried oot, 'Killin' is too good fer Dan Page. He should be horsewhipped out of town.' At that, my wife coom up to me and says, 'For the lassie's sake, don't let them be takin' the law into their oon hands or there'll be murder done this nicht.' So I cried 'Dinna take the matter too personal, lads—we've law and a gaol in this town. Somebody get the sheriff.'"

"Did they heed you?"

"I couldna tell at the time, because just then a cutter comes dashin' oop with twa men in it, and one shouts oot, 'Have you found Mary Page?' And they all answers, 'Yes, she's found!' Then he says, 'I'm James Pollock—her fiance—and I have come to take her home.'"

"Was Miss Page still unconscious?" The question came sharply. MacPherson shook his head.

"Nae, she was conscious, and when she heerd him she gave a cry of 'No, no, no!' and dragged hersel' up from where she lay and clung to Mr. Langdon. At that the man Pollock pushit by me and cried, 'Mary! Mary—I have come to take you home.'"

"Did Miss Page answer him?"

"Nae, she just shookit her head, and Mr. Langdon said, 'Miss Page is not going home yet.' But Mr. Pollock was sair angry and shouted, 'What the devil have you got to do with it? Haven't you made trouble enough?'"

"Did Mr. Pollock make any move toward Miss Page?"

"Aye. He tookit a quick step forward like he would carry her off, but the gude wife stoppit him. 'Ye'll na move the puir lassie till she is warm and restit,' she said, and put her arms aboot her and tookit her into the bedroom beyant. Mr. Langdon helpit her, and when he came oot he said, 'Miss Page will not return to her drunken father. My friend Dr. Jamison and his wife will give her temporary shelter and the proper medical attention.'

"Did Mr. Pollock acquiesce?" Langdon's voice was dry with reminiscences.

"Mr. Pollock was sair angry, and he said, 'It is not for you to say what my future wife shall do. I'll not have her put with your friends. She shall go home with me—I can protect her from her father. I suppose you think you can carry her right off under my nose. Well, let me tell you that's called by an ugly name!' At that Mr. Langdon shouts, 'What do you mean, Jim Pollock? Tell me what you mean by that!' He lookit so fierce I feared a fight, so I went between them and said, 'Dinna fash yersels like that. Think of the puir lassie—and be quiet.' Then I says to Mr. Pollock, 'Ye'll gang outside a bit and when the lassie is restit, I'll let ye know.'"

"Did Mr. Pollock go then?"

"Aye, for I went wi' him to the door mysel'."

"Were the men still outside?"

"Na, and it gi' me a shock like, for I cude see na one exceptit the friends of Mr. Pollock. The ithers had all slippit awa' towards the town."

"Did you speak of their absence when you re-entered the cabin?"

"Na, for I had ither matters to make clear. I had made up ma mind that it was na with Mr. Pollock that the lassie should go, so I pit it tae Mr. Langdon, that wi' my horse in the sleigh, we cude carry the lassie out the door to the kitchen and drive off, leavin' the gude wife to tell the ithers."

"I can protect her from her father."

"Did you carry this plan out?"

"Aye. We fillit the sleigh with blankets, and I pit my shot-gun in the front and we helpit the lassie oot—"

"Will you tell us please," broke in the Judge with some asperity, "what you expected to do with a shot-gun?" And a little twinkle sparkled for an instant in MacPherson's eyes.

"Mr. Pollock was in an automobile," he said, "and shot is a grand thing for tires. Nae doot you can guess yoursel' how much chance they have to escape it."

A ripple of laughter swept through the room, instantly hushed at the warning frown of the Judge, and MacPherson, his huge brown hands gripped about the edge of the stand, turned inquiringly towards Langdon.

"Will you tell us, Mr. MacPherson, as briefly as possible, what occurred while you were on your way to the residence of Dr. Jamison?"

"We had na mair than got startit when the noise of the horse brought one of Pollock's friends to the corner of the house to look oop the back road. At sight of us he gave a cry and ran back, shoutin' to Mr. Pollock. * * * We had a fair getaway, but na horse is as gude as one of those devil machines, and they were after us at once. So I tookit the reins and give them to Mr. Langdon and said, 'You drive, and pit the lassie doon. I've a way of stoppin' them as is behin', but I need my hands.' At thot I tookit my gun and stude up in the sleigh. I cude see the ithers plainly, and I shoutit, 'Go back, unless ye want to be hurtit!' But they only swore at me, and when I saw they were gainin' I sent a load of shot towards them. It did na harm, but they stoppit short, tae see if there was hurt. 'They'll na coom after us again the nicht,' I said; but it was no mair than a few minutes before Mr. Langdon said, 'I hear the motor!' And I said, 'There's anither barrel to the gun.'"

It was a strange scene that he drew for them in his deep, quiet voice—a scene so unreal that it was incredible to most of those present that it could all have happened not so very many miles from the court-room where they now sat—a scene with the dark, snowy road and the silent woods for its setting, with the flying sleigh speeding almost noiseless over the slippery road. Langdon, his face white and set with fatigue and anxiety holding the tugging reins in one hand while the other arm held close the half-conscious form of Mary, her bandaged head ghastly above the enwrapping blankets; while over them towered the grim figure of the great Scotchman, his shot-gun to his shoulder, his big body swaying with the speed of the flying sleigh.

"I waited till they came oop too close," he finished, a deep note throbbing in his voice, "and then I did fer a tire wi' the second shot. The auto nigh upset wi' the force of the explosion, and they all jumpit oot. And that was the last we saw of them."

"Did you remain at Dr. Jamison's house when you reached there?"

"Na. For when I had seen the puir lassie taken away by the kind gude wife of the doctor, and I knew she were safe, I keepit thinkin' of how fast the men had gone fra the hoose that nicht, and I says to Mr Langdon 'I will jes' take a run back to the town, I'm thinkin', and make sure there's na harm coom to Dan Page through this nicht's work.' And Mr. Langdon says, quick like, 'What do you mean?' So I told him and the doctor, and Mr. Langdon was all fer comin' wi' me, but the doctor wouldna let him. 'Dinna fash yersel',' I said, when I saw the doctor was richt. 'I'll gae fast, and if there is need for you I'll come richt back.' And the doctor said, 'You're all worn out, Philip. You've got to have some rest. Be sensible.' So I went back alone."

"At what hour did you reach the home of Miss Page?"

"I dinna ken the exact hour, but it were aboot daylight, and I cude see quite a ways ahead of me."

"Will you tell us, please, what you saw when you approached the Page house?"

Slowly one great hand clinched itself into a knotted fist, and the muscles of his jaw tightened, and across those who sat between, the gray eyes of the Scotchman and the tear-dimmed eyes of Mrs. Page met in a mute communion of terrible memories. Then, slowly, with a new tone of suppressed excitement lending a thrill to his voice he said:

"When I got nie enough to see the hoose, I cude see a great black splotch in front of it, that I made oot to be men. Then I cude hear shouts: 'Come oot, Dan Page, we've summat to say to you!' So I didna drive right oop to the place. I stoppit in the road and crepit through the wood at the back and, hiding under the hedge, got oop to the rear. Then I wrote on a wee scrap of paper, 'I've news of Mary—and I come to bring help.' Then I tappit on a window, till I saw Mrs. Page peerin' oot—and I held up the paper.

"After a minute or so she unlatchit the back door and I slippit in. 'Oh, Mr. MacPherson,' says the puir lady, cryin', 'is my girl safe?' And I says, 'Safe and sound asleep.' And she says, 'Thank God.' Then I heerd another voice sayin', 'Annie, Annie—who is it? Don't let them get me—oh, my God, don't let them get me!' And I saw that Dan Page was hidin' behind her, clingin' to her skirts like a scared bairn. His face were all drawn and twistit like, and his mouth was sloberin', and he kept cryin', 'I was drunk—I was drunk! You tell them, Annie—You tell them!' At that she says like one speakin' to a child, 'There, there, Dan—you're safe!' And then there came an awfu' cry from ootside: 'Come oot, Dan Page—or we'll smoke ye oot like the beast that ye are!' At that Mrs. Page began to sob and says, 'Oh, what shall I do? What shall I do! They will na talk to me—and they'll burn oor hoose, they'll burn oor hoose! Oh, if Philip were only here!'

"'Dinna greet,' I said, 'I'll get him, but he mun ha' time. Let Dan Page go upstairs and talk to them from a window.'

"'Oh, Dan,' says the puir lady, 'Dan—will you do that? Tell them you didn't mean to hurt Mary or—or me.' 'No, no,' he whimpered, 'I can't, I can't!' But I grabbit him by the arm and pulled him to his feet. 'Be a man,' I cried, and I shookit him. 'Be a man and get you upstairs.'

"'You'd be safe in the cupola, Dan,' says Mrs. Page. 'I'll stay with you—and this kind man will go for Philip.' But he kept sayin', 'No, no,' and I could hear the others bangin' at the door and I dared not stay, so I slippit oot the way I came and went off for Mr. Langdon."

Mrs. Page, whose anxiety to be near Mary had kept her from returning to the witness room, shuddered at the memories that MacPherson was conjuring up out of the past. The softness which time has lent the tragedy of that chill winter morning was stripped off, exposing the old horrible wound, and she could feel again those groping fingers, icy cold, clutching at her as she strove to drag Dan Page up stairs towards the cupola.

She could hear his voice, now thick with drink, now athrill with terrible fear—as he pleaded with her to hide him and to save him. She had been mercifully numb with the horror of it then; consumed only with the desire to hold those men at bay long enough for MacPherson to bring help, and it was that desire which gave her the strength to drag the heavy bulk of her husband up the two flights of stairs into the little cupola at the top.

She could feel again the sting of the cold dawn wind against her face as she stepped out on the platform of rough boards and dropped the inert figure of her husband at her feet.

Then with all the eloquence of her great fear she had pleaded with the mob below to go away. They had seemed all eyes floating on a great pool of blackness against the snow as she looked down, but later she could see the grim mouths below the eyes and knew that her pleas were falling on deaf ears.

Finally one who seemed to be the ringleader had stepped forward and cried:

"Where is your husband? It is he that we want to talk to." And she had lied and said, "He is sleeping."

They muttered ominously at that and again the ringleader spoke: "We have no quarrel with you, Mrs. Page, but no drunkard who strikes his daughter and drives her insane shall stay in this town—Dan Page has got to go."

"He will, he will," she promised wildly. "I'll take him away today. He didn't mean to hurt us—he didn't know what he was doing— But he'll go away,—oh, I promise that." And again the grim voice answered her:

"He'll go, but WE'LL see him off. Let him stand up like a man and talk to us."

At that they all took up the shout for Page, and he, lying on his face on the boards, moaned and prayed to the God he had long forgotten, to save him.

How long she talked and urged and wept and pleaded Mrs. Page herself did not remember, but somehow she had held them—still threatening—still ominous—till far down the road she saw a small speck that she knew was an approaching sleigh with two figures in it.

At sight of it she had forgotten everything except an infinite relief, and crying in her joy had sped down stairs, leaving Dan Page still huddled in the windy cupola.

If she hadn't—she shuddered, and caught her breadth in a smothered sob, and for a moment the court-room hung in a haze before her and the voice of MacPherson speaking on the witness-stand receded to a vast distance and seemed to be again the murmuring voices of that angry mob. But she fought back the impending faintness and the rising tears, and as one bracing himself against the impact of some great weight, she straightened her slender shoulders to meet without flinching the story of that morning's tragedy.

"When Mr. Langdon and I drove oop," MacPherson was saying, "the men were still there, and Mr. Langdon stood oop in the sleigh and made a speech to them urging them to go home quietly. 'Miss Page is safe in the hands of a good doctor,' he said, 'and you will only make a bad matter worse if you attempt to carry out this plan of whipping Dan Page out of town. I'll see to it that he leaves the community, but if you drive him out this way, it's going to mean disgrace to the town and to Mary Page, too. Do you suppose she could bear the thought of her father's having been publicly whipped?' 'Well,' shouted one of the men, ''tis not beatin' her the way he has done it— Drivin' her and—the brute!' And the crowd began to murmur again. Then Mr. Langdon told them that the drink was like a ragin' beast inside Mr. Page, that he knew nought of what he did; that he probably didn't remember anything—that he really loved his wife and his girl. And while he was talkin' one of the men gave a cry and pointit oop, and there in the cupola stood Dan Page—wild like the daft, clingin' to the rail, and he cried oot, 'What he says is God's truth. I love my wife and girl as much as you men love yours— It's whiskey that hurt them—not me. I've been a slave in the grip of a fiend all my life. I've tried—my God, men, I've tried—to keep away from it—but it gets me. The sight of it—the smell of it—the taste of it—is ever in my mind. I drink because I must, and drink more to drown the memory of it! I've lived in hell for years, and no horsewhipping could punish me—as does the knowledge of this night's work.' Then suddenly he burst out cryin'—sobbin' like a child, while the men stood starin' oop at him. Then he flung out his arm and said, 'Philip—take care of them—be careful of Pollock—I'm going to take myself out of the community—now!' And at thot he leapit oop onto the rail and jumped."

MacPherson broke off abruptly, and his hand shook as he wiped the drops of sweat off his forehead—and the shudder that gripped him swept through the entire room at the thought of that body hurtling through the air down upon the snow to stain it with that swiftly flowing stream of crimson.

"Was Mr. Page killed instantly?"

Only Mrs. Page sat erect and unmoved, but her eyes were pools of an agony too deep for expression.

"Was Mr. Page killed instantly?"

"Yes, he was dead when we pickit him oop, and the men spread their coats over him and carried him to the hoose."

"Did you go into the house with them?"

"No," said MacPherson, "as well ye know, sir, I tookit you back to the doctor's hoose."

Langdon smiled a little. "It's not what I know, but what I want you to tell the court, Mr. MacPherson; so will you please tell them, as succinctly as possible, what occurred upon your return to the residence of Dr. Jamison?"

"It were the gude wife of the doctor that met us, and toldit us that the doctor had Miss Page in his laboratory making some tests about the brain."

"The doctor had already said that he had been making some special tests for the brain." Langdon's voice rasped sharply through the room. "Did he make the results of those tests known in your presence?"

"He said, 'She is sane now, and these tears will relieve her, but I would advise you to have Dr. Foster, the alienist, make an examination. She has still much to suffer, and—this thing will come back!— You'll have to take good care of her and guard her, Philip.'"

THE "FLYING SWITCH"

Sunday In City—William LeGee, Soo line brakeman working out of Harvey, N. D., situated in the fourth district of the main line, spent Sunday in Thief River Falls greeting his many railroad friends, enroute to Minneapolis and other southern Minnesota points on a pleasure trip. Mr. LeGee is out on a leave of absence.

Saturday at Plummerr— Irving Carter, Soo station agent at Harlow, N. D., who is out on a thirty day leave of absence, and who is the guest of friends in this city, passed Saturday at Plummer, where he visited with Glenn Richardson.

To Grand Rapids—J. E. Neilson, who has been firing on 109 and 110 between Glenwood and Mahnomen, left the latter part of last week for Grand Rapids, Minn., to look over his claim near that place. He will return the latter part of this week.

Elevator And Box Cars Burn—Fire of an unknown origin, completely destroyed the Atlantic elevator containing 10,000 bushels of grain, and two empty Soo line box cars at Conway, N. D., last Thursday evening. Chief Night Train Dispatcher "Jim" Wiley received the "S. O. S." call about twelve o'clock from the neighboring town and through his presence of mind, a greater loss was prevented. "Jim" as he is popularly known, is now the next Thief Riverite deserving of a Carnegie Medal. The report received here stated that the elevator was in flames, two cars of a string of seven, standing along side the structure were ablaze and that the other 5 were endangered. Two of these were filled with wheat. "Jim" then dispatched the following: "Get a couple of teams, uncouple the cars and pull them down the track." A short time afterwards the telegraph clicked and said: "Cars saved by being pulled down track by teams." The loss on the elevator is well covered by insurance.

To Hold "Exams"—Examinations for Soo line firemen, who have been in the service for three years, to be be advanced to the position of engineers, will be held in Thief River Falls in the latter part of April. Firemen who have had eighteen months experience, will also be quizzed. The place where the examinations are to be held will be announced later.

To Minneapolis— Ed. Halmgren, brakeman, left Monday night for Minneapolis, where he expects to be employed by the Soo line running out of that city.

Smashed Fingers—H. J. Peterson, car repairer at the Soo yards, is unable to attend to his duties as the result of having two fingers on his right hand smashed. Mr. Peterson was pushing a pair of car wheels on a side track and happened to get his hand in between the two in some manner, when the wheels met. It is feared that blood poisoning will set in.

Spring Clean-Up—With the passing of the snow, Section Foreman Arthur Belland of the Soo, began the annual spring clean-up along the tracks and yards the latter part of last week, and it now presents a first-class appearance from top to toe. A part of the crew has been employed in "spikeing." Mr. Belland's line extends from the round house, to a point south of the lumber yards.

Promoted— A new night round house foreman took charge on Monday of last week, when Thomas Houfek , who for a number of years has been employed at the big workshop as day engine dispatcher, was promoted to the position mentioned above. Tom has been in the employ of the Soo line for many years, starting in on the section crew and gradually taking step by step in the railroad game. He is a hard and conscientious worker and is well deserving of the promotionn awarded him. A. E. Cataline, who has temporarily held the position of night foreman, is now acting as the day engine dispatcher.

To Minneapolis—D. W. Russel, fireman on the extra board, departed last Friday night for Minneapolis on a short pleasure trip.

Erskine Agent Here—F. C. Payne, Soo agent at Erskine, spent Saturday in Thief River Falls receiving medical aid. He was accompanied by his wife.

Switchman Takes Trip—E. Blomquist, Soo switchman on the day crew, was an over-Sunday visitor in Minneapolis, going down Saturday night and returning Monday morning in time to resume his duties.

O'Brien Returns—T. L. O'Brien, employee on the repair track at the Soo round house, returned Saturday evening from Warren, where he had spent the past three weeks receiving medical aid in the hospital at that place. Mr. O'Brien is greatly improved and will resume his duties in a short time.

12 Feet Snow—Train No. 202, running between Thief River Falls and Kenmare, N. D., was delayed exactly 12 hours and 50 minutes last Friday evening by a snow storm that filled several of the large cuts to a depth of 12 feet of the "Beautiful." The train is due here at 7:40 p. m. but did not arrive until 8:30 the following morning. Earlier in the evening the large rotary, which is "interned" at the round house, was ordered out, but when later reports were received stating that the engine was "bucking" the enemy successfully, the call was cancelled.

Platform Repaired—A bridge gang, on the Crookston-Warroad branch of the Great Northern, was busily repairing the platform at the local station the latter part of last week, taking out the defective planks and replacing them with firmer ones. It is thought that the present platform and cinder walk will be replaced with three inch planks during the summer. Rumors are also afloat that an entire new station will be erected.

Soo Stand Sold—A. Stoyanoff of Duluth, by a transaction which was consumated the first of the week, became the owner of the "Cigar Stand and Cuiosity Shop" at the Soo depot, owned by Miss Agnes Anderson of Grand Forks, who conducts a similar business there. The local stand has been conducted by her sister, Miss Mabel, during the past year, and she will continue to do so until May 1 when the new owner will take charge.

On Business Trip—Claim Agent E. H. Taylor, with offices on the second floor of the Soo depot, spent the latter part of last week in Minneapolis attending to official business. He left on Friday night on 110.

Soo Men Promoted— Coincident with the promotion of "Tommy" Sands to the position of freight traffic manager of the Soo road, several other men on the Soo staff have been promoted, and as several are well known in Thief River Falls considerable interest is shown in their advancement. E. G. Clark, who was assistant general freight agent at Minneapolis, succeeds Mr. Sands as general freight agent of the road; A. L. Peterson succeeds Mr. Clark as assistant freight agent with headquarters in Minneapolis; G. T. Huey becomes assistant general freight agent, with headquarters in Chicago.

Goes To Mahnomen—Brakeman S. Culbertson, who has been employed in the fourth district of the Soo Line during the winter, between Adams and Overly, N. D., spent Friday in Thief River Falls greeting his railroad friends. Mr. Culbertson left in the evening for Mahnomen to occupy a berth running out of that place.

Passes Through City—James Turnbaugh, Soo line engineer on the Fordville-Drake line, passed through Thief River Falls last Friday enroute to Goodridge, where he was called by the illness of his father, who was suffering from a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Turnbaugh is well known in this city, having formerly resided at 1041 Horace avenue north.

On Business Trip—Conductor J. O. Yotter was a business caller in Minneapolis on Sunday, going down Saturday night on 110 and returning on 109 Monday morning. Mr. Yotter has charge of the Federal Dam way freight.

On Extended Vacation—W. H. Halbert, Soo brakeman on the Winnipeg division, has been granted a thirty day leave of absence and took his departure last Friday for a month's vacation through the southern and eastern part of the United States. "Chesty" will make his first stop at Memphis, Tennessee from which place he will go to Hot Springs, Arkansas, then to New Orleans. From New Orleans he will tour the eastern coast cities, returning to Thief River Falls by the way of Chicago.

Visit With Relatives—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Clausen left last Friday night on 110 for Minneapolis, to enjoy a visit with friends and relatives. Mr. Clausen is fireman on the Federal Dam way-freight.

Engineer Sjoberg Returns—C. H. Sjoberg returned the latter part of last week from Minneapolis, where he had spent a short time attending to business affairs of a personal nature. He was accompanied by his wife and little daughter. Mr. Sjoberg resumed his duties in the cab, as engineer on Saturday.

Goes To The Fifth—Fireman E. L. Mills, who has been running out of this city, left Saturday morning for the fifth district. He will fire on one of the freights between Overly and Kenmare, N. D.

Sunday In Cities—"Joe" Bartley employed by the Soo line here as day call-boy, left Saturday night for Minneapolis and St. Paul where he spent Sunday as the guest of relatives; He returned Monday morning.

Bridge Crew To Oslo—A. J. Berg, who has charge of the bridge crew on the Wheatline, left Tuesday morning with his men for Oslo, to strengthen the bridge at that place, as the ice in the river was beginning to move.

Has Good Record—Oscar Liden, car inspector at the Soo depot, has a record that is hard to beat. Five years ago this coming July Mr. Liden entered the Soo service. During the first six weeks of railroading he officiated as day car inspector, after which he was transferred to the night job, and is still holding this position. Throughout these years he has lost but five days, and these are accounted for by illness. For nearly five years Mr. Liden has seen and O. K'd the Soo's evening and morning trains, and when July 1, 1916 arrives, he will have the honor of having examined approximately 14,522 trains.

Machinist Leaves—F. S. Patten, who has been employed at the Soo round house as machinist, left last Friday morning for Grygla. Mr. Patten owns a claim east of that village, and expects to reside there in the future.

Planning Their Trips—Now that old man winter seems to have loosened his grip on this section of the country, Soo railroad employees, who have been fenced in during the winter months, are now scanning the tourist maps, picking out their route for the customary month of recreation. Many of the employees have planned their trips while others are still undecided. Walter Bens, day ticket agent, will be granted a 30 day leave of absence about May 30, when he will leave for Brownsville, and El paso, Texas, Alberquerque, New Mexico, and other points in the west. Arthur Alnes express agent, will leave about May 15 to visit the southern part of the United States, having been granted a thirty day leave of absence. Floyd Carpenter, night ticket agent, will leave on the return of Walter Bens, for a visit in southern Minnesota. He also plans on visiting in Chicago. "Jim" Wiley, night train dispatcher, contemplates on touring the east in company with Mrs. Wiley. At Philadelphia they will be the guests of Mrs. Wiley's parents.

Colonel Bullard Dead.

Wadena.—Col. C. E. Bullard, civil war veteran, lawyer, politician and for thirty-eight years a highly popular and useful citizen of Wadena county, passed peacefully away Tuesday morning, death coming wholly unexpected and unannounced. He had just finished a hearty breakfast when his head nodded, then settled forward, indicating that life was extinct. Immediate efforts made by members of the family to revive him availed them nothing.

Wheat Thief Sentenced.

Warren.— Lincoln William Henry Blake, town of Eagle Point, pleaded guilty before Judge Grindeland on Monday to the charge of stealing 47 bushels of wheat from the granary of D. H. Wiley, of said town, on March 10, and afterwards selling the same at an elevator at Erick N. D. He was given an indefinite sentence to the reformatory at St. Cloud.

Clearwater Court House Troubles.

Clearbrook.—Residents of Clearbrook have again begun injunction proceedings to restrain the county commissioners from issuing bonds and ordering the construction of a new court house at Bagley. The notice of injunction was served Tuesday by attorney M. J. Brown of Bemidji, who will represent the Clearbrook residents at the hearing which will be held sometime this month. This is the second time within a few weeks parties of Clearbrook have taken legal steps to prevent the county board from providing a new court house for the county.

May Be Division Point.

Bemidji.—This city will be a division point for the Great Northern railroad and car shops will be constructed here, according to reports. Rumors are that the railway has completed plans, has purchased property near Nymore and will begin the construction of car shops within a month.

Additional equipment will be added to the station and a large number of men employed to take care of the increase of freight shipments. The Great Northern at present has its division point at Cass Lake.

To Form Interscholastic League.

Bemidji.—The Bemidji school authorities here are considering a plan submitted by the schools of Cass and Hubbard county for the forming of the "Beltrami, Cass and Hubbard Tri-County Interscholastic League. The object of the league is for the development of strong bodies through wholesome high school atheltics; to foster an interest in debate and public speaking to the end that the youth will thus be better prepared for citizenship; to develop a happy and progressive school sperit not only locally but also in the relation to other schools; to give full opportunity to the mental and physicial development of the individual in order that he may give the highest service to society.

Ditch Contract Awarded.

Red Lake Falls.—Last Saturday County Auditor George Dupont and Engineer Glenn F. Martz awarded the contract for the construction of county ditch No. 57, a big drainage proposition in eastern Red Lake County. Of several bids that of the Union Drainage company of Crookston was the lowest and the contract went to that company. The contract price for excavation is 9.7 cents per cubic yard, the company agreeing to do all turnpiking in an approved manner. According to the engineer's figures the ditch will cost approximately $25,000. A smaller contract, that for the repair of county ditch No. 20, was awarded to Gunder Skreland and Ben Hegland of Oklee. They will get 13 cents per cubic yard for dirt removed.

To Speak On Consolidation.

St. Hilaire.— Prof. G. F. Heward, connected with the extension division of the Agricultural Department of the university of Minnesota, will deliver an address here on April 11. on the subject of agriculture and consolidation of schools. It is planned to have Mr. Howard speak at the Aug. Svenson school at 8 p. m. Tuesday evening, at the Aubol school the same hour Thursday evening. On Friday afternoon a meeting will be held in the imperial hall.

Cass County Wants Highway.

Walker.—A Cass county Jefferson Highway association composed of representatives from every village in the county, was organized here today and the sum of $1,000 was voted to carry on the work of having this famous highway routed through Cass county over its new 100 mile Elwell road. All the larger villages of the county were represented at the meeting which was called by the local auto club and a smoker and luncheon was given at the club rooms. Speakers from Cass Lake, Pine River, Pillager, Walker, and Backus were present and as a result every village council, commercial or auto club of the county will assist in the organization and maintenance of this new association.

Deserters Drown In Rainy.

Warroad.—Word comes from Fort Frances of the death by drowning in the Rainy of three young Americans, who had enlisted in the Canadian army, and who deserted after receiving their pay just prior to the departure of the troops for Port Arthur. There were eight in the party, and four had gone across the river in a boat, while three others waited for the next trip because the boat would not hold them all. On the second trip the boat struck a dead head and capsized. One of them swam ashore but the other three sank to their death in the icy waters.

A Good Move.

Warroad Pioneer.— The Thief River Falls Commercial club is establishing an experiment station that will try to solve problems connected with the cultivation of peat lands.

That is a good move.

There is very little available knowledge on this subject, and it is of immense importance to the north country and to the new settlers.

The Pioneer would like to publish the experiences of the settlers on this point.

Write us what you know about it.

SCHOOL NOTES

Dr. James Parsons of Minneapolis, has been engaged as commencement speaker. He is highly recommended by prominent citizens of this part of the state, both as an orator, and as a gentleman who delivers a message worth listening to. He appears here the evening of June 1st.

All the normal training students are required to spend one week during the year in actual teaching in a rural school. To date, nearly all have complied with this requirement. This week the following are absent on this duty: Ward Long, northeast of town three miles; Katherine Thill, Goodridge; Jane Jensen, Grygla; Emma Hanson, near Lancaster.

When school called at 8:15 last Monday morning in the five Junior high rooms in the Washington, only three pupils were absent. The new plan of making double use of some of the rooms is apparently developing no unforseen difficulties. The afternoon conference is a most valuable feature of this scheme.

The first grade rooms have been filled to the limit all year, so that beginners cannot be accepted this spring term. Under the present organization of the grades, the beginners starting September 1st enter second grade the following year, so no delay in the child's progress is possible. In fact, this method is to be preferred to the old system, as it assures strong and complete first grade work.

Two of the domestic science classes will serve weekly lunches to their friends until the close of the school year. The cost per plate is placed at fifteen cents instead of ten cents, which was the price last year. This class exercise trains the girls along the lines of dining and kitchen service as no other labratory method can.

The well diggers at the Lincoln are down about 235 feet and have not yet struck water. The soil through which they have drilled is a uniform clay with small rocks interspersed. In places it partook of the nature of hardpan.

The manual training boys, who are studying concrete have made, among other things, a handsome concrete hitching post.

The following set of Modern History questions is a fair sample of the high school tests:

1. Give changes in the government of France from 1789 to 1870 with dates and rulers.
2. What territorial changes were made by the Congress of Vienna?
3. Trace the revolutions in the Austrian dominions from the fall of Metternich through the battle of Novara.
4. Outline Napoleon's consolidation of Germany.
5. State the events leading to the drawing up of the Constitution of 1792.
6. Give reasons for the organization of Public Safety. Its powers.

"FLYING SWITCH"

Agent Resigns—A. E. Beaudry, who has been acting as station agent at Plummer, handed in his resignation last Saturday. A new agent will take charge the latter part of this week.

On Brief Visit—William Kline, brakeman on the Fordville-Drake line, spent the latter part of last week in Thief River Falls renewing acquaintances. He was accompanied by Mrs. Kline. Mr. Kline formerly worked out of this city and resided at 702 Duluth avenue north.

Return From Cities—Mr. and Mrs. William Funnel returned Tuesday morning from Minneapolis, where they had enjoyed a short visit with friends and relatives. Mr. Funnel is now firing on the Wheatline passenger.

Man Killed—Wheatline passenger train, No. 203, leaving Thief River Falls at 8:15 a. m., struck and instantly killed a farmer named David B. Hasseth three miles east of Nekoma, on Wednesday morning of last week. From reports received here the man was driving across the track as the train approached, and the horses became unmanageable, failing to clear the crossing in time and the crash resulted. The body was taken to Nekoma. The deceased is survived by a wife and four children, who are left to mourn his loss.

Week In Cities—L. McAdams, the brakeman who is unable to attend to his duties on the road as the result of having his fingers run over in an accident near Viking, when the "grabiron" gave away, is spending this week in Minneapolis and St. Paul attending to business affairs of a personal nature. He departed on Monday night.

Engineers Get "Joy Wagons"—A. E. Preston and E. Thoreson, engineers working out of Thief River Falls, became bonified members of the "Get Out and Get Under" club the fore part of this week, when each one of the gentlemen purchased a 1916 Model Overland. The cars are equipped with all the late conveniences and will seat five to seven passengers.

Bigger Engines—On account of the heavy freight traffic on trains No. 71 and 76, known as the north end freight runs between Emerson and Thief River Falls, the Soo line has found it necessary to replace the "Compound" model engine with a more powerful and larger one. The "Compounder" was eliminated from this run on Tuesday and an engine of the "Super Heater" model replaced it.

A New Invention.

Alferd Somondson, a resident of Pennington county, has invented a "pencil printer," and is assured by W. F. Fitzgerald & Co., patent attorneys, that the contrivance is patentable and valuable. Mr. Somondson expects to hear from Washington in a few days, and will at once make arrangements for the manufacture of the article.

Mr. Went-And-Cut-It —Here's Mr. 'Gets-It'

The New Plan Corn Cure That's as Sure as the Rising Sun.

"Glad to meet you!" says the razor to the corn. "I'll bleed for you!" says the corn to the razor. Razors and corns love each other. Corns love to be cut, picked, gouged, salved, plastered and jerked out,—they grow faster. Mr. and Mrs. Went-and-Cut-It realize it now,—they use "Gets-It" instead—it's the wonderful, simple corn-cure that never fails. Stops pain. You apply it in 2 seconds, it dries at once, the corn is doomed. Nothing to stick to the stocking or press on the corn. It means good-night to plasters, salves, diggers, razors and toe-bundling. You can wear smaller shoes. Your corns will come right off, "clean as a whistle." Never inflames healthy flesh. The world's biggest selling corn cure.

"Why, O Why, Did I Do It? 'Gets-It' for Me After This—If I Live!"

Sold in Thief River Falls and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by J. P. Curtis and F. J. Stebbins.

MINNESOTA FARMER BOY REACHES TOP

NOTED FOE OF CRIMINAL WEALTH

Rochester, Minn., April 10.—Every red blooded man likes a winner, especially when the winner has had to make a hard and long fight against odds.

Few men have had more obstacles to overcome or have achieved greater fame than our former fellow townsman, Frank B. Kellogg.

THE OFFICE SEEKS THE MAN.

Rochester swelled with pride when it learned that more than 125 representative country editors had signed a petition or written Mr. Kellogg to become a candidate for United States senator. It was one of those rare events in modern times—a genuine case of the office seeking the man.

Frank B. Kellogg was raised on a farm in Viola township near this city. His boyhood was similar to that of thousands of other farmers' boys. It was a life of hard work, many sacrifices and few pleasures, attending country school in the winter and doing the usual farm work after school.

NEIGHBORS BELIEVE IN HIM.

His old neighbors say that he is still the same, every-day sort of a man and that his manner is democratic and cordial to all.

In 1875 he began to study law in the office of H. A. Eckholdt of this city. During the winter he took care of a farmer's horses and cows for his board and in the spring he went back to the farm and worked through seeding time for $13 per month. He also went out during harvest and worked in the field.

FRANK B. KELLOGG.

He served five years as county attorney of Olmsted county. One of his first important cases was when he represented the villages of Plainview and Elgin, in Wabasha county, against the Winona and St. Peter Railroad company and recovered from the railroad about $200,000 for these villages on bonds which had been illegally taken by the railroad and sold on the market. This case was brought to Mr. Kellogg after other lawyers had lost it for the villages of Plainview and Elgin, and made many friends for him in Southern Minnesota.

In 1887 Senator Cushman K. Davis made him a partner with himself and C. A. Severance.

ROOSEVELT CALLS KELLOGG.

In 1906 President Roosevelt was attracted to Kellogg because of the latter's conspicuous success in private practice. In consequence he put Mr. Kellogg in charge of the most important trust prosecutions ever tried, among them being the paper trust, the Standard Oil company and the merger of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads. All were carried to the supreme court of the United States and all were decided in favor of the public.

WINS GREAT LEGAL DUELS.

His brilliant cross-examination of the wizards of Wall street, as well as his legal duels with the great corporation lawyers of the East, won for him the approval of the public and at the same time the bitter enmity of the financial giants.

FOUGHT FOR FARMERS.

As member of the resolutions committee of the Republican national convention he champicned some important labor planks. He vigorously opposed the reciprocity bill and the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill before congress, in so far as they discriminated against the farmers of the Northwest.

SETTLED RAILROAD STRIKE.

In 1908 President Roosevelt sent for Mr. Kellogg and asked him to prevent a wage reduction on the Chicago Great Western, for which road Mr. Kellogg was general counsel.

With characteristic energy Mr. Kellogg applied himself to the task and was soon able to have the order reducing the trainmen's wages set aside—a great victory for the trainmen.

A REPUBLICAN.

In politics Frank B. Kellogg has always stood with the progressive wing of the Republican party, but he did not go so far as to leave that party four years ago.

It is freely predicted here that he will receive a larger vote for United States senator than all other candidates put together.

HEADS AMERICAN BAR.

In 1912 the American Bar association elected him president in recognition of his eminent legal ability.

TELEPHONE DIRECTORY SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Over One Thousand Subscribers On New List Turned Out This Week By Times Office.

No more certain index to a communities growth can be found than the increase in the number of telephone subscribers.

The new directory for the Tri-State Telephone company, this week turned out by the Times job department, contains a total of 1,050 names, inclusive of the rural phones with connections on the local switchboard, but exclusive of the Grygla, Red Lake-Eastern Marshall and other connecting lines.

The growth of the system during the past few years has been rapid and steady, but the company has always kept pace with the demand made upon it and the service at the present time is the best to be found anywhere.

Twelve years ago the number of phones on the Thief River Telephone exchange list was 239, or just nine more than the present number of farmer subscribers. Miss Rose Moran, chief operator at the present time, was the only "central girl" employed when the directory for the year 1904 was printed. Now she has seven assistants at the switchboard, besides which there is a bookkeeper to take care of all charges.

There are four times as many business houses, residences, offices and farms represented as there were twelve years ago. The only falling off is in the case of liquor establishments. There were 19 saloons and wholesale beer houses enumerated on the 1904 list, these being entirely absent in the present book.

Greater value is given to the present directory by the addition of the names of subscribers on the lines of the Red Lake and Eastern Marshall Farmers Telephone company, the Grygla Co-operative Telephone company, the Eastern Development Telephone company and other connecting lines.

LOKEN BROTHERS READY TO WEAR DEPARTMENT

FIRST SPRING CONCERT BY BAND A BIG SUCCESS

Large And Appreciative Audience Listen To Rendition Of Sacred Music Sunday Afternoon.

The first free concert of the 1916 season was given by the Thief River Falls Concert Band at the Auditorium on Sunday afternoon. A good crowd was present and gave every evidence of appreciating the excellent playing. Two numbers on the program were of an order which called forth the most generous applause. These were the overtures "Raymond" by Thomas, and "Norma" by Fisher, both of which were handled with appreciation and intelligence. The trombone duet by Messrs. Tuel and Gaslin was one of the features much enjoyed by the audienec, and the cornet solo by Mr. Peterson received its share of merited approbation.

County Attorney H. O. Kjomme delivered a short address on "City Amusements." He said that the recreation and amusement problem of the city is a serious one and a subject to which more attention should be given. He spoke particularly of the credit due to the band boys for their readiness to at all times respond to any call in order to aid in furnishing entertainment for the people. They put in their time and work night after night at rehearsals and then play any time they are asked to do so—and never with a thought of any reward except some slight show of appreciation. "In addition to all this," said Mr. Kjomme, "we cannot very well ask them to go down into their pockets and produce the money necessary to defray the necessary running expenses of the organization. Under the direction of Mr. Greenfield the band has steadily improved until it is now regarded as one of the best in the state," continued the speaker, and the city has been given some very valuable advertising through the work of its musicial organization.

"We are not asking any financial assistance just at this time," said Mr. Kjomme. "What we want now is your enthusiastic appreciation. It requires in the neighborhood of $150 per month to meet the actual running expenses of the organization, but is more eaisly procurred than the moral support of the community. This last the band must have if it is to keep up its present excellent form."

Mr. Kjomme spoke in the highest terms of the work done by Director Joe Green field, and the audience showed by liberal applause that they agreed with every word he said.

SNOW FALL DURING PAST WINTER HEAVIEST EVER

Conditions at Grand Forks Fairly Indicative of Those Existing Throughout Section.

All previous records for snowfall in northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota were broken during the winter just past, according to Prof. H. E. Simpson of the state university at Grand Forks. The observations apply particularly to the North Dakota city, but may be taken as an indication of the conditions general throughout this section.

Prof. Simpson's report was given out on the 5 of April, and it is likely that some snow has fellen since that time. Without this, however, the record has the high mark of any previous season beaten by over 30 inches. The report states:

"The snowfall here during the present season up to date has been 52.2 inches. Previously the record for one winter was 49.5 inches, made during the winter of 1896-97. The largest snowfall for any one month this year was made during March, when 17.3 inches of "the beautiful fell."

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN IN COMING STATE MEET

Meeting of State Sunday School Convention At Austin on April 27, 28 and 29.

Mr. John L. Alexander of Chicago, "Teen Age" expert for the International Sunday school association says, there is no "Boy Problem" or "Girl Problem" but a problem of Leadership. Mr. Alexander will be one of the leading speakers at the coming state Sunday school convention.

On Saturday evening April 29 he will address a Men's mass meeting at the M. E. church and his subject will be "The Real Boy Problem." Every man in Minnesota should hear him on this subject. He is a forceful speaker and is master of his subject.

Mr. Alexander will direct the "Teen Age" school of Methods at this state convention each afternoon of Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of April 27 28-29. Richard W. Bowden, the state superintendent of the Teen Age work is confident that this department of the convention will be the best ever held in Minnesota.

There are at this writing 1150 Teen Age Bible Classes in the Sunday schools of Minnesota definitely organized for Christian service. This makes an army of about 15,000 of these classes that will have representatives at the state convention.

Another special feature of the state convention will be a rural section of the school of methods. This will be held in the First Christian church on Friday afternoon.

Mr. E. C. Hickman of Winona, who is one of the most successful rural and community workers will have charge of the conference. His success last year at Byron, Minnesota, increased the enrollment of his Sunday school over 400 per cent in one year, and startled the entire community round about with enthusiasm for a higher type of social work and Christian education.

Rev. John O. Ferris of Minneapolis, State Secretary of the American Sunday school union, will read a very valuable paper on "The Rural Sunday Schools Objective."

Many other successful Rural Sunday schools workers from all parts of the state will have a part on the program of the Rural Section. Rural Sunday school workers will find many helpful suggestions to take back to their local schools.

All indications point to a big attendance.

The Gotzian "Bend Easy" Shoe

For Men Who Want Foot Comfort

When you are at work, at play or at rest, you want to be unconscious of your feet, for foot troubles distract the mind.

So "walk on air" in "Bend Easy" Shoes—they are always soft and pliable—the feet are never overheated, and they are cool in summer and warm in winter.

The Patented Construction prevents humps and welts which form in ordinary cushion sole shoes. Wearing "Bend Easy" Shoes means that your foot troubles are at an end.

The Gotzian Shoe

"Fits like your footprint"

Stop in at the merchant showing the Gotzian trade mark and be fitted with these comfort shoes. The "Bend Easy" trade mark is stamped in the sole.

Maxwell

Reliability

OUR absolute faith in the Maxwell car is due to two reasons:

First, we have known that the Maxwell Company uses nothing in the entire car but the very best that money can buy. We have known that the steel is scientifically heat treated, that the car is built under the supervision of able engineers, that every car is rigidly tested many times before it leaves the factory.

Second, we have known that the big and well established company behind the car is building for the future, that they value a satisfied owner above everything else.

Now that the Maxwell has set the World's Motor Non-Stop Mileage Record, by travelling continuously for 44 days and nights—averaging 500 miles per day—you will understand the benefits you personally may derive from the Maxwell policy. Did you ever hear of any car going 22,000 miles without once stopping the engine, without any repairs or readjustments, with only one gallon of gasoline to every 22 miles?

There is no reason why you shouldn't have a reliable, serviceable and economical Maxwell car. The first cost is low, the operating cost is low and the health and happiness dividends are big.

Let us see you about this now, before our allotment is exhausted.

The Lily is a Simple Cream Separator

IF you ever owned a cream separator before you knew the Lily, you will appreciate Lily simplicity. It used to be tighten this, and move that—adjustments that you never felt quite safe in making yourself. Although even a wasteful separator was much better than hand skimming, you were far from satisfied.

Most of those adjustments are now done away with. There is only one place where wear affects the work of the Lily and that is on the hardened steel point that carries the weight of the whirling bowl. And since this point is made of finest tool steel, tempered like a fine razor, you can see that the adjusting will not take much of your time.

Go to the dealer and see this feature and the many others—the simple splash oiling system, the easy operation, the ease of cleaning. The Lily is a real cream separator.

HOW TO GET THIS
$2.25 ALUMINUM GRIDDLE
AT A SAVING OF $1.40

Get 50 cents' worth of Karo from your grocer, and send the labels to us together with 85 cents and we'll send you this $2.25 Solid Aluminum Griddle by prepaid parcel post.

HERE is a clean cash saving of $1.40—and thousands of housewives have already taken advantage of this remarkable chance to get an aluminum griddle for less than the wholesale price.

This Aluminum Griddle needs no greasing. It doesn't chip or rust. It heats uniformly over entire baking surface—doesn't burn the cakes in one spot and leave them underdone in another. It doesn't smoke up the kitchen—and the cakes are more digestible than when fried in grease.

At great expense we are seeking to place a Karo Aluminum Griddle in the homes of all Karo users, so that Karo—the famous spread for griddle cakes and waffles—may be served on the most deliciously baked cakes that can be made.

You know Karo, of course. Nearly everybody does—65,000,000 cans sold last year alone. And you doubtless know the wonderful cleanliness and duribility of Aluminum ware.

If you are a Karo user already then you know all about this wonderful syrup—you know how fine it is as a spread for bread; how delicious it is with griddle cakes, waffles, hot biscuits and corn bread.

Get 50 cents' worth of Karo from your grocer at once, and send the labels and 85 cents (P. O. money order or stamps) to us and get one of these Aluminum Griddles by prepaid parcel post.

Remember that our supply is going fast—so get your Karo today. We will also send you free one of the famous Corn Products Cook Books.

North Bridge.

The timbers for the North bridge arrived here last Thursday and Friday. The lumber has all been delivered at the bridge and an extra crew has been put on to work on same. It is expected that the bridge will be completed for traffic by the latter part of next week. It has been rumored that it would be impossible to complete the bridge before the ice left the river but owing to the late spring the bridge will be finished without any serious trouble on that score.

Bond Election Monday.

The election for bonding school district number 102 for $5,000 was held in the village hall, Monday evening. The result showed that our citizens were strongly in favor of bonds as 53 voted for bonds and 5 against. This $5,000 together with the present school building and site, appears to be a generous donation to the new district in case of consolidation. This goes to show that our citizens are willing to do their share towards a consolidated school for St. Hilaire and its adjoining territory.

Delegation to Bemidji.

A delegation composed of A. H. Pitkin, A. S. Wilson and G. I. Fellman, representing the St. Hilaire Commercial club, left Tuesday morning via Hazel over the Soo for Bemidji. Similar delegations from several of our neighboring villages are also represented at this meeting and will do all in their power to have the site for the Jefferson highway laid out through this community. Other villages and cities in the northern part of the state are trying to have this site laid out in their different localities but it is hoped that the highway will come through our district.

Band Suits Arrive.

The band boys received their uniforms Tuesday. The uniforms are all that the boys expected them to be and they are all satisfied with them. This will greatly add to the appearance of our classy little band. If you want to see and hear our band you want to be on deck in the Imperial opera house Tuesday, April 25th.

Card Party.

Mrs. G. W. Hooper entertained friends at cards last Thursday evening. A very enjoyable evening was spent and a delicious luncheon was served. The guests present were Mesdames Burkee, Bohan, Wilson and Misses Kate and Ann Patterson, and Alice Hall.

Meetings Postponed.

Prof. G. F. Howard of the Agricultural department of the Minnesota university, arrived here Tuesday morning with the intention of speaking in the rural schools near town on the subject of "Consolidation;" but owing to the poor condition of the roads in this vicinity it seemed almost impossible to expect crowds at these meetings. He left for St. Paul Tuesday evening but expects to return next week and will then try to fulfill his appointments. It is to everyone's interest to see and speak to Mr. Howard while he is here and receive his views on consolidation, as it is a subject the people in this vicinity should all be interested in.

I. Wallace held a public auction at his farm Wednesday.

Iver Rolstad was at St. Hilaire Friday looking after the car of posts ordered by the Farmers club.

Mrs. Chas. Ulrich and son Wilfred, left Monday for Bemidji, where Wilfred will enter school.

Mr. and Mrs. Keller were callers at the county seat Monday.

J. Denhart made a business trip to the Wallace home Monday.

Fred and Elmer Peterson were Sunday callers at the Sumpter home.

Mabel Peterson, Jane Tuff, Ellen and Elmer Peterson called on Ethel Keller Friday evening.

Miss Jane Tuff left Saturday for Thief River Falls to visit with her sister for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Peterson were business callers at the county seat Saturday.

SPECIAL RATES CANNOT BE GRANTED DELEGATES

Soo Railroad Unable to Reduce Fares For Annual Y. M. C. A. Convention.

Special rates over the Soo line cannot be secured for delegates to a convention of the state Y. M. C. A., should Thief River Falls be selected as the place for holding such convention. It is understood that for the road to grant any reduction would be in conflict with the provisions of the federal regulations.

When the matter of securing the convention for Thief River Falls was first discussed, the question of rates was naturally the first considered, and W. A. Barnard, division superintendent of the Soo in this city, was requested to find out what could be expected in this regard. He took the matter up with the proper officials and the reply has been handed to Secretary Lincoln of the Commercial club. The road finds it impossible to make any cut rates for the convention. This does not necessarily mean, however, that the meeting is lost to Thief River Falls, as other localities will be as badly off in the matter as is this city. Efforts to land the convention will be continued and the chances for their success are good.

Visiting At Grand Forks.

A. L. Neurauter, of the Electric Shop, left for East Grand Forks Saturday afternoon to spend Sunday with his family. Saturday morning Mr. Neurauter received a message from his wife stating that the water in the Red River had risen to such an extent that it was just but a few feet within the kitchen door. On leaving Mr. Neurauter said he contemplated on removing all his best furniture into the attic before returning.

How Many Miles

Are There In A Gallon Of Gasoline?

That Depends on the Type of Motor in your Car.

WHEN you buy a Buick six cylinder, valve-in-head motor car you not only get the last word in comfort, style, power and speed, but we guarantee that you get an automobile which will give you the highest gasoline mileage.

It is an admitted fact that the valve-in-head motor does give 15 per cent more power than any other type of gasoline motor which means 15 per cent more mileage per gallon of gasoline.

This is not a theory but a fixed engineering principal resulting from the perfecting of the Buick valve-in-head motor.

Thousands of users of Buick valve-in-head six cylinder cars give evidence daily that they are getting 20 miles an hour or more per gallon of gasoline consumed while touring with full passenger load and many users report over 25 miles per gallon.

SENSELESS AND FALSE CHARGES

Local Publication Accuses People of Thief River Falls of Violating State Liquor Laws.

STUDIOUSLY SPURNS FACT

Less Drunkenness And Crime in Evidence Since Option Law Went Into Effect Than Ever Before In City's History.

Under the heading, "DELUGE OF BOOZE POURS INTO CITY"—KEG PARTIES REAL RAGE EVERY DAY," etc., an article appeared in a local publication last week that cannot be too strongly condemned by every self-respecting citizen of Thief River Falls. It was an insult to this city and a direct attempt to discredit the county option law now in force here and the officials in public office. That the fair name of the city should be smeared by the publication of such deliberate misrepresentations as appeared in the article above referred to, is the most regrettable part of the incident. Such an article is certain to be picked up by the brewery organization and published broadcast as a glaring example of the failure of the county option law in Pennington county.

For this reason it would be criminal for the Times to let the article go unchallenged and as briefly as possible we shall point out the untruths.

Last Saturday 64 kegs of beer, 37 cases of beer, many gallons of whiskey and other high proof liquors, arrived in Thief River Falls for the refreshment of its citizens on the Sabbath day. Each and every day when there is train service; the flood of liquor pours into the city.

This was the opening paragraph of the article. The freight and express agents are not allowed to give out any figures in connection with the shipment of liquor and for that reason it is impossible to give the exact figures and show how far from the truth this first statement is. We are, however, permitted to state that no such amount of beer, whiskey or any other liquors arrived in Thief River Falls, consigned to local parties, on the Saturday referred to or any other day since the saloons closed. It would be quite possible for a person without any regard for the truth to go down to the depots and count the number of kegs and cases coming into this city and group them under the head of "intoxicants." A more careful investigator, however, would take a little time to discover what these shipments contained, and in so doing would find that by far the greater part of them are non-intoxicating beverages. "Malt" and "Near Beer," the two substitutes for the regular article permitted to be sold by soft drink establishments, come in exactly the same kind of containers as do the prohibited liquor. The same government stamp is also required on them, and anyone not knowing that such is the case—or anyone preferring not to know it—could easily make the "mistake" of designating them as beer.

Quite a lot of brewery products are also shipped in here for transfer to points along what is known as the "Wheat Line" of the Soo. These shipments very naturally remain at the stations between trains, and an investigator seeing them there might assume that they were the property of Thief River Falls people. This would be all the more natural when such person's purpose in being there was to find that "enormous shipments of booze were being received by the citizens of Thief River Falls," whether such was the fact or not. Had his purpose been an honest investigation he would have found something altogether different. It might, for instance, have dawned upon him that whereas now the liquors of all kinds coming into the city are shipped by express and are consequently plainly to be seen by anyone who cares to look for them, these shipments formerly came in by the carload and were placed in warehouses where no one except those handling the stuff ever saw it.

Most of this liquor is being consumed in private houses, the favorite method being "keg parties," and afternoon teas are no longer the rage, instead the host or HOSTESS gets a keg, a bung starter spigot, and many of the homes are equipped with special pewter or crockery receptacles for the serving of the amber fluid.

It must be highly pleasing to the good housewives of the city of Thief River Falls to be numbered among that despicable class of law-breakers known as "blindpigers." The article in the publication referred to states that the fact that the liquor is disposed of in their home otherwise than by actual sale does not alter their responsibility in the eyes of the law. They are legally guilty of blindpigging as well as morally guilty of aiding and abetting the downfall of their guests. It is a flattering commentary upon their status as wives and mothers and one that is no doubt appreciated at its true worth.

The flood of liquor is astonishing. Special express cars operate on the Soo from Plummer, on the G. N. from Red Lake Falls.

This statement is denied by the agents of both lines entering this city.

Thief River Falls has been in the dry column since December 18th, 1915. From that date up to the first day of April there had been arrested and brought before Judge N. W. Tarrant of the municipal court, just 12 persons charged with drunkenness. In the corresponding period of the year previous there were 39 such cases disposed of by the same municipal court. And one thing to take into consideration with reference to the persons arrested since the saloons went out of business here is the fact that in nearly every instance were they taken in shortly after the arrival of a train from some wet town and it was conclusively shown that they had secured their liquor there. This fact, however, would probably be considered good argument for again establishing saloons here by those who consider the loss of revenue from this source the most lamentable thing that can befall a community.

Plummer is held up as an example of what a thriving community ought to be. People are prosperous there, according to the article against which this comment is directed. In this connection The Times simply wishes to say that the kind of prosperity made possible by intemperance and the other evils following in its train is just the kind of prosperity that Thief River Falls can most easily get along without. To make the assertion that drunkenness and crime ought to be permitted because they are profitable is an insult to the intelligence of a progressive, law-abiding people, and an attempt to deaden their moral sense by an appeal to their cupidity.

J. A. DUFFY FILES FOR LEGISLATURE

Red Lake Falls Banker Announces Himself as Candidate From Fifty-third.

J. A. Duffy of Red Lake Falls, has announced himself as a candidate for the Sixty-third district, comprising the counties of Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater.

At a mass meeting of citizens held at his home city last week, Mr. Duffy was asked to become acandidate and while he hesitated to enter the race because of the state of his health, his fellow-citizens made their demand so strong that he finally consented to run.

His is the only name thus far mentioned for the place now held by Oscar Stenvick of Clearwater county, the latter having as yet given no intimation as to whether or not he will become a candidate.

The Red Lake Falls Gazette says that Mr. Duffy will go into the campaign with the united support of his home town and adds:

"Red Lake county is the oldest county in the legislative district, yet it has been many years since a citizen of this county has been a member of either branch of the legislature. It is true that geography is not the all-important consideration in choosing a man for an important public office, yet there are two reasonable propositions that Mr. Duffy's friends believe should have fair consideration from the people of the legislative district—that Red Lake county is reasonably entitled to have one of its citizens honored and that at this time a candidate is presented who is in every way qualified to serve the people in the important office with ability.

WOMEN'S CLUBS ON MAY 4 AND 5

Arrangements and Program Practically Completed for Entertainment Of Ninth District Delegates.

TO SPONSOR FAIRY PLAY

"Rumpelstilskin" Will Be Presented At Princess Theatre Under Club Auspices on May 25—Will Also Serve Lunch.

The Woman's club met at the Commercial club rooms on Monday afternoon and completed arrangements for the convention of the Ninth District Federation, which will be held here on May 4 and 5. The day session will be held at the club rooms while the public meeting in the evening will be at the Auditorium.

A complete program is not at this time available, but the following are known to be among those who will take part: Mrs. L. G. Larson, president of the Thief River Falls Woman's club will welcome the delegates, after which Secretary Fred T. Lincoln will extend the usual courtesies on behalf of the Commercial club and the city. Among the local people taking part will be Dr. O. F. Mellby, who will speak on the subject of "Home Prevention of Tuberculosis." Addresses of much interest will be those of Miss Bessie Roe of St. Paul, whose topic will deal with the subject of home economics, and Mrs. Huntington of Fergus Falls, whose remarks will concern directly the work being done by Woman's clubs in the state. Mrs. Rygstad, also of Fergus Falls, will speak on a Shakespearean topic in the afternoon, this number being of particular interest during this general tri-centenary celebration of the bard's birth.

The musical program will be a particularly notable feature of this meeting. Among the local musicians who will take part are: Mrs. O. F. Mellby, Mrs. Gay Halvorson, Miss Ritta Palmer and Miss Doris Halvorson, piano soloists. There will also be a piano duet by Mrs. G. F. Harris and Mrs. H. P. Miller, and a cello solo by Claude Crandall of the Princess orchestra.

Fairy Play at Princess.

"Rumpelstiltskin," a good old fashioned fairy tale—a regular thriller—for children and grown-ups alike, will be presented at the Princess theatre at afternoon and evening performances on May 25. This picture is one of the Mutual masterpieces, and the cast includes such well known artists as Clyde Tracy, Elizabeth Burbridge, Kenneth Browne, J. Barney Sherry, Louis Morrison, George Fisher, Margaret Thompson and H. C. Kern. The picture itself is the product of that greatest of all film directors, Thomas H. Ince.

The pictures are exquisite in their scenic beauty, ranging from the court of King Cole to the Enchanted tower where the dwarf spins straw into gold, and from the dungeon cell of the prince to the vaulted sky where the two lovers go sailing away to their haven of refuge. The entire picture is "something entirely different," and has received the highest praise whereever shown.

To Serve Lunch.

On the afternoon of Monday, May 24, the Wonman's club will serve coffee and cake at the dining room of the Hotel Brumund. The proceeds from this luncheon, as well as the club's share of the theatrical entertainment on the following afternoon and evening, will go toward helping to meet expenses incident to entertaining the federation members on May 4 and 5.

Discharged From Hospital.

Willie Singer of Rhoda, was discharged from the hospital the first of the week, after a confinement there with an attack of pneumonia.

HIGHEST WATER IN MANY YEARS

Unusual Winter and Spring Conditions Cause River to Reach Highest Point Since 1897.

BUT SLIGHT DAMAGE HERE

Ditch System of County Again Justifies Its Cost by Quickly Taking Off All Overflow—Conditions Now Normal.

The Kretzschmar dam was damaged to the extent of about $3,000 when the ice from the upper Red Lake river came down on Sunday afternoon. While the water had been high for 24 hours previous to that time, no particular damage had resulted. Sunday afternoon the water reached a stage three feet higher than the high water mark last fall, and when to this volume was added the ramming ice floes, the presure proved more than certain sections of the dam could stand.

From mid-night Thursday until Friday morning no perceptable raise was noticed in the river. On Friday, however, the ditches along the course began discharging their contents into the stream, and it is stated that between three and six o'clock on Saturday morning the stream raised three feet. This brought the water to a level higher than at any time since 1897.

Gates and Piers Go Out.

The crest of the high water reached here about the middle of the afternoon on Sunday. The breaking of the fending booms, placed for the purpose of forcing ice away from the gates and over the apron of the dam, were torn out. The piers and gates placed for a proposed additional wheelpit were swept away, as were also the top of the log-chute and the walk along the coping. The dam proper, however, withstood all assaults and is not thought to have been damaged, although this will not be definitely known until after a thorough examination has been made.

Dynamite Used.

On Friday and Saturday the ice formed against the Soo bridge and the Great Northern bridge, and dynamite was used to dislodge it. The cement structure of the first named road was in no way damaged, but the wooden bridge of the Great Norther was put out of commission as far as traffic is concerned, although it did not collapse. The bridges further up the river are generally said to have held out against the pressure of ice and water and the damage in this respect is not great. Further down the stream, however, considerable the loss from wrecked spans is said to be considerable. The Great Northern railroad bridge at Red Lake Falls was put out of business on Sunday night, and no trains over that road from the south reached Thief River Falls until Monday evening.

Ditches Proving Value.

The vast amount of snow and ice in the ditches helped to swell the volume of water when the breaking came. As soon as the river had fallen, however, these proved their value by quickly draining all lands along their course. While reports of considerable inconvenience are coming in from the farming sections, the damage to property has been so small as to amount to practicly nothing. The country is rapidly drying up and spring work will be no later than usual because of the surplus of water. Were it not for the ditches, however, the water would stand on the soaked ground for a long time and seeding would be retarded.

The value of these ditches has been proven by the late developments. Conditions were such in many cases as to practically nulify their usefulness, but in spite of these they performed their work well. Ordinarily the ice is all gone when the spring freshets strike, but this year the river remained solid after the ditches began to thaw out, and naturally a vast amount of water was stored up when the ice finally began to go.

Boat Comes Down Stream.

The "Rover," a houseboat used by drivers during the logging days on the river, but which for years has remained high and dry upon the bank about three miles up the stream, was lifted up by the water and carried down over the dam here. A section of ice used during the winter as a road across the river came down practically intact until it struck the ice piers about three miles above the city, when it was broken into fragments.

Conditions Again Normal.

By Monday night the river had fallen to practically normal. Reports from all directions were to the effect that the ditches had gotten rid of most of the surplus and were draining the surrounding country in fine shape. No further trouble is anticipated, the damage in this neighborhood has been slight and, as far as can be learned, no one was at any time even frightened over the outlook.

EX-GOVERNOR WILL BE HERE ON MAY 3

A. O. Eberhart Will Deliver Principal Address at Annual Dinner On May 3.

A. O. Eberhart, ex-governor of Minnesota, will be the principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Commercial club on May 3. Word to this effect has been received by Secretary Lincoln, who is busy outlining the remainder of the program for one of the most important meetings in the history of the organization.

While the address of the ex-governor will be the big feature of the evening, other matters of perhaps fully as much importance to the club itself will come up. There will be a general resume of the accomplishments of the organization during the past year, and it is likely that tentative outlines for the coming season's work may be discussed.

The dinner will be served at six o'clock and will be on a more elaborate scale than any similar affair that has preceded it. The complete arrangements for this part of the anniversary celebration have not been made, but good committees have the matter in hand and they promise something decidedly out of the ordinary both in the way of refreshments and entertainment.

In making up your schedule for the first part of May, just recollect that on the 3rd it will be impossible for you to be anywhere except right here in Thief River Falls. Your presence is needed and no excuses go.

STRIKE WATER ON SCHOOL PROPERTY

After Drilling to Depth of Over 260 Feet Fine Flow of Pure Water is Result.

Ihle & Myrum, contractors in charge of drilling a well midway between the Washington and Lincoln schools, were rewarded for their persistency on Wednesday, when a vein of fine water was struck at a depth of 263 feet. The drill penetrated into what is known as blue sand, this being invariably an indication of water, according to well-diggers.

This well was begun last fell, and work has continued whenever the weather permitted through the winter. Just how much of a flow has been struck cannot, of course, be determined, but at that depth there is no doubt that the supply will be sufficien to meet all demands made upon it.

This new well is about in a line with that of the one at the Great Northern depot. The well there is about 60 feet deeper than at the schools and has never failed, although the demand upon it has at times been great. The new water supply will prove a great convenience to the new schools.

POSTAL REPORT IS INTERESTING

Shows Receipts of Past Year Largest in History of Thief River Falls Office.

RECORD FOR DOZEN YEARS

The Business Has Grown From $5,767.37 Twelve Years Ago To a Total of $20,333.43 For Year Just Closed.

The report of Postmaster John Morgan for the fiscal year ending ~~March 31, 1916~~, shows the total receipts at the Thief River Falls office for the period to have been $20,333.43. This is practically double what they were six years ago, and while the increase during the past year has not been as great proportionately as in the previous five, conditions were such as to make this easily explainable. The postal reports from all over the country show that during the June and September quarters of the past twelve months business fell off everywhere. No local conditions were in any way to blame for this, at least so far as concerns the Thief River Falls office. Postal inspectors say that the falling off is without doubt directly chargeable to the unsettled conditions caused by the war as no good reason appears for a decrease in the volume of domestic business.

Doubled in Six Years.

The receipts of the office have practically doubled in six years and are four times as great as twelve years ago. The following table will show the receipts at the office for each of the years since 1905, and a comparison is of interest in showing the steady growth of the city:

Year	Receipts.
1905	$ 5,767.37
1906	7,222.00
1907	8,156.25
1908	8,654.13
1909	9,009.49
1910	10,376.70
1911	11,251.70
1912	12,458.13
1913	16,088.80
1914	17,348.28
1915	20,250.64
1916	20,333.43

The receipts for the fiscal year just closed are itemized as follows:

Sale of stamps and stamped paper	$ 19,049.44
Excess sale of stamped envelopes	12.75
Postage on second class matter	217.24
Box rents collected	1,054.00
Transfers	3,310.00
	$23,643.43

Leaves Good Surplus.

After paying expenses the postoffice showed a surplus over and above expenses of $2,681.09, the balance of the receipts going for the following purposes:

Salary of postmaster	$ 2,575.00
Special delivery fees	67.12
Salary of asst. postmaster and clerks	7,206.11
Rent, light and heat	663.87
Janitor service	120.00
Canceling machine rental	62.00
Laundry	4.10
Salary Railway mail clerks	7,774.29
Weighing mails	186.00
City delivery service	2,195.70
Transfer to money order account	100.00
Miscellaneous	8.15
Balance of postal refunds remitted to Depository	2,681.09
Total	$ 23,643.43

Parcels Post Increase.

The increase in the parcels post business has been phenominal. Since the insurance feature was added this has amounted to nearly 250 per cent. and is steadily growing. The reduction in the insurance fee from five to three cents for values up to $5.00, and the increasing of the indemnity from $50 to $100 at an additional cost of 25 cents, has made this branch of the service very popular.

A Busy Crew.

Besides Postmaster John Morgan and Assistant Fred A. Gobler, the postoffice crew comprises six clerks. There are also [illegible] city carriers, and a substitute, who it is expected will be made a regular in June, three rural and two star route carriers directly connected with the office. Because of its location, the post office in this city is an important transfer point and requires that part of the crew remain on duty during the entire twenty-four hours.

Undergoes Operation.

Earl Isacson of Strandquist, was operated upon for rupture, at the hospital Monday. The boy is improving very much.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

R. H. ROSS, Editor and Publisher.

An Independent Legal Weekly Newspaper Published Every Thursday at Corner of Main Avenue and First Street, Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice at Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

If there is one class of men above another whom the people are interested in seeing work reasonable hours it is the railroader. Some may think this is a matter that should be left entirely to the railroad officials and men themselves to settle but such is decidedly not the case. Neither the companies nor the workers are more interested in the safe conduct of trains and the proper maintenance of schedules than is the general public. Eight hours has been found enough in many callings not near so trying as that of railroading, and the general impression seems to be that it would be better for all concerned if the demand of the men should be granted. They have made friends by the dignified manner in which they have carried on this campaign for a reduction of the hours of labor, maintaining at all times that when their case is thoroughly understood public sentiment will be with them.

H. Mayne Stanton and Walter Marcum have bought the Bemidji Sentinel from F. A Wilson, and will this week issue their first paper. Mr. Stanton is the son of Judge C. W. Stanton of the Thirteenth judicial district, and a newspaper man of experience and decided ability. He has for a year past been associate editor of the Grand Rapids Herald Review, and previous to that time was connected with the Bemidji Pioneer and Hibbing Tribune. Mr. Marcum, his partner in the new venture, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Marcum of Crookston, and has been connected with the Pioneer at Bemidji during the past few years. This should prove a winning team as one is a high-grade newspaper writer and the other a thorough mechanical superintendent. The Sentinel has always been one of the best papers in Northern Minnesota and the new owners will make it still better.

It has been finally decided that Roosevelt is to be the nominee at Chicago. The peculiar thing about this is that the decision has been reached by Democratic newspapers. The Duluth Herald, for instance, says: "The Republicans must take him whether they want him or not; and there's an end of that." The Times does not believe it absolutely necessary for the Republicans to do anything of the kind. Anyone whose memory extends back four years will recollect without much effort just what happened to the Republican party because of this "must-take-him" business, and it is not at all likely that the convention will repeat so costly a mistake.

The opposition to Governor Burnquist—if there was any real opposition—seems to have died for want of nourishment. Sam Iverson,—who by the way, is a good scout with a very considerable personal following—still manages to keep himself mentioned occasionally, but there seems to be but slight pressure back of the demand for his services. Sam should not get discouraged, though. Just look at the length of time it took Capt. Van Sant to realize his ambition.

The refusal of the state board to recommend a pardon in the case of Ex-Treasurer Smith will be generally upheld by the people. It would certainly be highly dangerous to permit boys and young men to get the notion that many penalties for wrongdoing may be escaped if only you are a "good fellow." Nearly everyone is sorry for Smith, but then, so should they be for any young man making a similar mistake.

In offering himself as a candidate for congress, C. B. Buckman of Little Falls, says that he "believes in progression and practical evolution." As a perfectly safe and sane declaration this ought to fill the bill even better than that of Mr. Dooley, who announced himself as "A Raypublican with strong Dimicratic leanings."

It will hardly be necessary to put on extra clerks to count the Eberhart vote in Thief River Falls. The people have not forgotten that normal school deal yet, and they are not going to.

CHENEY UNABLE TO TAKE PLACE

Turns Down Offer of Private Secretary to Burnquist.

DULUTH MAN MAY BE NAMED

Charles S. Mitchell, a Newspaper Man of That City, Is Strongly Backed for the Position.

St. Paul—(Special)—Ever since the unfortunate death of Governor Hammond and the accession of Lieutenant Governor Burnquist to the throne he has been looking around to find a man to take the place of Charles M. Andrist, private secretary to Governor Hammond, and who was the opponent of Governor Burnquist for the position of lieutenant governor at the election of 1914. A number of friends would like to have been named for the place, and a number of men had friends whom they wanted the governor to name. The governor did not give a whole lot of consideration to the various recommendations. He felt that this was a place entirely personal to him and that outside interference should not be brooked. He finally hit upon Charles B. Cheney, the political writer of the Minneapolis Journal, and the announcement was almost ready to give to the public two weeks ago. As agreed between Governor Burnquist and Mr. Cheney the latter was to take charge of the Burnquist campaign headquarters and remain as such until after the June primaries. Mr. Andrist was to remain in the private secretary berth until that time. The only thing necessary to clinch the arrangement was the sanction and official approval of the head of the Minneapolis Journal. The matter was laid before him and after careful consideration that gentleman decided to withhold his approval, and stated that if Mr. Cheney decided to go the Journal could not prevent it, but it could not consent to his appointment as being pleasing to the management of that paper. Mr. Cheney at once announced that, in line with his understanding with Governor Burnquist, he could not accept the appointment. Now the governor is attempting to find another secretary. Who it will be is a query. One of the men strongly recommended to him was Charles S. Mitchell, editorial writer on the Duluth News-Tribune, at one time connected with the Dunn campaign, and who is backed strongly by Hon. R. C. Dunn of Princeton, for the private secretaryship.

I can state positively that Lyndon A. Smith will not be a candidate for associate justice of the supreme court, but that he will be a candidate for his present position of attorney general, and that he is not likely to have any opposition for his present place. For years past it has been the desire of Lyndon A. Smith to round out his political career on the supreme bench of Minnesota, and 1916 saw the brilliant opportunity, but it caught the attorney general in a peculiar frame of mind. It is understood that E. E. Smith and George H. Sullivan have been pleading with him not to be a candidate against their old political friend, Albert Schaller, appointed to the bench by the late Governor Hammond. This influence, as well as the long friendship existing between Mr. Schaller and the attorney general, has had a powerful effect in leading the attorney general to his decision. But a still more potent effect has been the relations in the office of the attorney general. When Judge Nethaway and L. C. Stevenson retired from the staff of assistants General Smith felt that he needed two strong men to fill their places. In order to secure the acceptance of such men he was practically obliged to agree to stand for a renomination and re-election so that the two men could be assured of at least a three years' job before giving up their private practice in order to join his staff.

Newspaper men are being eagerly sought for as political managers. With the desire of Governor Burnquist to hitch Charles B. Cheney of the Minneapolis Journal on his staff as manager and secretary, there must not be forgotten that Thomas Frankson, a candidate for lieutenant governor, has hitched Sid Huntley, the well known Spring Valley newspaper man, on to his managerial staff. Sid is well known among the newspaper men throughout the state and is regarded as a good political asset. Then there is Bob Dunn, practically in charge of the Frank B. Kellogg campaign, and with him are aligned Charles J. Moos of the Volkszeitung, I. A. Caswell and J. S. Arenson, all old time newspaper men, while from Rochester comes the report that A. W. Blakely is to look after that end of the state for Mr. Kellogg. Just who former Governor Eberhart will name remains a question. Charles A. Lindgergh, the Sixth district representative, who recently broke into the senatorial limelight, has likewise failed to name his political manager. Bill Rich will do the Clapp shouting if the senator decides to stand, and Bill is ready to b termed a newspaper man, or any other old thing in order to accomplish the purpose of his chief. In other words, Bill can change his politics and occupation just as quick, if not quicker, than any old party or politician.

✣ ✣ ✣

There is something going on in the judicial districts. By reasons of deaths, resignations, etc., there is a vacancy in nearly every one of the nineteen districts in the state. Heretofore there has been a general sentiment in favor of the sitting judge, and no opposition has developed. This year Mr. Opposition has already made its appearance in two of the districts. Arthur B. Childress, the sitting judge in the Fifth district, is to be opposed by Hon. John J. Moonan of Waseca, former senator from that district, and an exceptionally able attorney. Over in the Eighth district C. M. Tifft filed for judge a day or two after Hon. P. W. Morrison, the present occupant, placed his petition on file in the secretary of state's office. Mr. Tifft has been probate judge of McLeod county for many years—in fact, the Tifft family has held the place for twenty-six years, and he claims a large number of attorneys throughout the district have asked him to oppose Judge Morrison, who is regarded as a royal good fellow. Down in the Eighteenth district there is likely to be opposition to James H. Quinn, the sitting member, in the person of E. C. Dean of Fairmont, one of the ablest attorneys in that judicial district. Judge Childress has held his office but one term, Judge Morrison has held his office two terms, while Judge Quinn has held his office ever since the district was created.

✣ ✣ ✣

Getting back to the state game, so far as the Republican ticket is concerned, there is going to be a real lively contest for lieutenant governor. Jim Peterson is regarded as some campaigner; Tom Frankson has been busy, and is pushing things along harder as June 19 approaches, while Dr. J. A. Gates has just started a well organized campaign. The latter is being carried on by bankers, business men and farmers of Goodhue county, and the line of dope sent out is making a whole lot of noise. Dr. Gates himself commenced the fireworks last week when he started a speaking campaign at Bemidji, and from this time forward proposes to talk to as many voters of the state as he can possibly reach. I believe that Jim Peterson will start his show during the next week or two, and it will certainly add to the real noise of the campaign.

✣ ✣ ✣

Sidney Anderson, the present representative in congress, O. M. Levang and Senator F. A. Duxbury are not going to have a three-cornered contest for representative in the First district, if all that I hear can be relied upon. It appears that Will Richardson, the well known Rochester attorney, is seriously considering throwing his hat into the ring, and to do his part toward making it a four-ring show. My own opinion is that in the three-cornered contest Sidney will have a good chance, while in the four-ring contest he is likely to be a sure winner.

CLIPPING AND COMMENT

Correct You Are.

The Duluth Herald says: "Somehow that prefix "sub" is unfortunate in most of the words it gets mixed up with—except, of course, subscribe.

An Important Amendment.

The papers in every section of the state seem to have awakened to the fact that the improvement of state land holdings is something besides a local issue. The Winnebago Enterprise says:

"Everyone should vote for Amendment No. 1, providing for a revolving fund to develop state lands in Northern Minnesota. These lands need developing. There is no doubt about that. And when they are developed it will help all the rest of the state. There is a whole lot of development work yet to be done in Minnesota and the quicker we get at it the better for the state as a whole."

Let Him Down Suddenly.

The Albert Lea Tribune does not think it would hurt Ex-Gov. Eberhart much to be defeated for the senate. It would't hurt anyone else. The Tribune says:

Senators Kellogg and Knute Nelson of Minnesota sounds good 'tus. Senator Clapp should be let down easy. Let the props out from under Ex-Governor Eberhart as suddenly as possible. It won't hurt him a bit—he will be bobbing up at the very next opportunity.

Buckman Has Opposition.

It looks as though the people of the Sixth district will have no trouble in finding someone to take Charlie Lindberg's place in Washington. The Grand Rapids Herald-Review, speaking of the situation over there, says:

"Edward L. Rogers, the Chippewa Indian county attorney of Cass county, has filed as a candidate for congress from the Sixth district. With one Indian, two Scandinavians, an Irishman and C. B. Buckman in the field the congressional fight ought to be interesting over there."

ULTIMATUM TOGERMANY

President Tells Congress of Action.

ASKS PROMPT YIELDING

Declares Berlin's Solemn Assurances Have Been Repeatedly Broken.

Washington, April 20.—President Wilson told congress, assembled in joint session, he has given Germany irrevocable notification that the United States will break off diplomatic relations if her illegal submarine campaign is continued.

A note, America's last word, practically an ultimatum and demanding an immediate reply, presumably was in the Berlin foreign office as the president was speaking. It was dispatched previously in accordance with the president's plan to have it before the German government at the same moment he was addressing the American congress.

The president asked no action whatever of congress. He simply informed it of the accumulation of facts proving Germany's assurances to the United States are being violated; that the submarine campaign, despite the earnest protests of the United States, is being conducted with renewed vigor in contravention of all the laws of nations and humanity and that he means to sever relations unless it is brought within the law. Diplomatic history of the world shows that such a course is almost certain to be followed by war.

Ends Diplomatic Exchanges.

The president's note and his address to congress are final. They mark the end of diplomatic exchanges. A continuance of the long standing friendly relations, the president made clear, depends alone on Germany's conduct.

"I have deemed it my duty, therefore," the president told congress, "to say to the imperial German government that if it is still its purpose to prosecute relentless and indiscriminate warfare the government of the United States is at least forced to the conclusion that there is but one course it can pursue; and that unless the imperial German government should now and immediately declare and effect an abandonment of its present methods of warfare against passenger and freight carrying vessels this government can have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations altogether."

The president began his address speaking slowly and distinctly. His voice was heard throughout the chamber.

As he began the review of the German submarine campaign there was no demonstration to punctuate his recital of the sacrifice of American lives. Not a word was heard above the president's voice as he spoke the name Lusitania.

Hearers Listen Eagerly.

Every head bowed forward as the president indicated that he was approaching the keynote of his message, the announcement of the course he will pursue. His declaration that Germany had made it plain she intended to continue indiscriminate warfare in defiance of international law and the protests of the United States was followed by the statement that this determination had left but one course open to the United States.

When he pronounced the words of the ultimatum declaring that unless Germany should immediately declare and effect an abandonment of indiscriminate submarine warfare this government would have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations there was still no demonstration, only a tense silence and a reflection of the gravity of his words.

When he concluded with expression of hope that Germany would so act to avert a regretable break with America, the assembly broke into cheers.

The president spoke fifteen minutes and when he concluded he was liberally applauded from both sides of the chamber.

Alienists Report to the New York Prosecutor.

New York, April 20.—Alienists, who spent more than an hour examining Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, confessed slayer of his father-in-law, John E. Peck, a wealthy drug manufacturer of Grand Rapids, Mich., reported to District Attorney Swann that in their opinion Waite is sane, but somewhat abnormal.

Germans Destroy Culverts.

London, April 20.—A Reuter dispatch from Saloniki says the Germans crossed the Greek frontier Monday in the nighborhood of Doiran and destroyed railway culverts, apparently fearing an advance of the entente allies.

Attorney and Mrs. C. A. Pitkin left Saturday afternoon for Crookston, where they participated in the rendition of the cantata, "The Holy City" given there on Sunday evening. The cantata was in charge of Prof. Nason, and representatives from different surrounding towns composed the choruses and soloists.

EVERYTHING NOW IS IN READINESS

Finishing Touches on Elaborate Preparations For Hockey Team Masquerade Ball..

One week more and society will don gay apparel and enjoy one of the most pleasing and unique dancing parties of the year, that of the hockey champions at the auditorium on Friday evening, April 28. The details for this party have been carefully worked out and it is expected that this week will witness much preparation in the matter of costumes. Everything indicates that the committee's prediction that more elaborate and gay costumes will be seen at this ball than at any similar event held here came true.

A St. Paul costumer will furnish costumes and the list is now available at the Peoples Drug store, where tickets may also be secured. It is suggested that those who expect to rent costumes place their order at once, otherwise they will be disappointed. The committee will have a number of costumes for rental on the stage and the six dressing rooms will be available for those who care to use them. Attendants will be present to aid the maskers and masks may be secured from the committee in charge of this feature.

The Thief River Falls band is preparing a fine dance program for the evening's entertainment. The band is donating its services to the hockey team for the evening and this is much appreciated. The boys will in turn lend their aid in boosting for the concerts to be given by the boys this summer.

The invitations were issued and sent out this week and a number have been placed with the committee, so that all who desire may secure them by making request. That there will be a large delegation from Warren, Red Lake Falls and Crookston are certain, as parties have made plans to attend, indicating that there will be a number of outside guests present. The galleries will be a popular place and the number of spectators is certain to be large so that all who plan to watch the gay scene on the brilliant ball room floor are urged to "Come early and avoid the rush."

PROVIDES ARMY OF ONE MILLION

Senate Passes Substitute for House Bill.

ALL AMENDMENTS BEATEN

Measure Provides for Standing Force of 250,000 Men, a Federal Reserve Body of 261,000 and National Guard Strength of 280,000—School and College Corps to Make Up Balance.

Washington, April 20.—An army reorganization bill that would produce regular army and reserve military forces in the United States aggregating a million men was passed by the senate without a record vote.

It is a substitute for the Hay bill, passed by the house, and the differences will be worked out in conference.

On the eve of a joint session of the houses of congress to hear a message from the president on grave international issues, the senate hastened completion of the bill amid scenes of excitement, repeatedly rejecting all amendments tending to reduce the proposed strength of the army.

In the closing hours of debate the senate made provisions for a regular standing army with a peace strength of 250,000 men, as compared with 140,000 in the Hay bill, which passed the house.

Retain Federal Volunteer Plan.

The senate retained after a close fight the plan for a federal volunteer army reserve force calculated to aggregate 261,000 men and federalized the national guard forces of the states at an estimated strength of 280,000 men.

In addition to this combined regular and reserve force of 790,000 men an amendment was passed to create a school and college reserve corps in time of war or threatened war, which would recruit a force of trained young men, schooled by officers of the regular army, the strength of which is estimated anywhere from 200,000 to 400,000.

"We are creating here a peace army of a million men," declared Senator Myers, in supporting an amendment of Senator Reed to make the regular army 200,000.

The senate had agreed previously, by a vote of 43 to 37, to an amendment by Senator Brandegee increasing it from the proposed strength of 180,000 to 250,000.

The Reed reduction proposal was rejected, 42 to 31, after a brief speech by Senator Williams, in which he referred to the solemnity of the occasion which would confront congress.

Asks Pointed Questions.

"Are we or are we not threatened with war?" asked Senator Williams. "Are we, or are we not threatened with war from Mexico; are we or are we not threatened with war over the submarine controversy?

"Have we not been called to assemble in joint session, the solemn purpose of which we do not, ourselves, definitely understand?

"If the army cannot exceed a certain number except in a state of threatened war, we are now in a state of threatened war if the president of the United States thinks so.

"For myself I think we are pretty seriously threatened with international difficulties, both from the east and the south."

The apparently grave developments of the few hours preceding the passage of the bill also probably served to save the volunteer army provision. Champions of the national guard fought it bitterly in the committee of the whole, and it was retained by a vote of 34 to 32.

Last Saturday in Minneapolis at the Hope Lutheran church occured the marriage of Otto Ramstad, brother of Olaf Ramstad of this city. The following account is given by the Minneapolis Tribune on Monday: "Hope Lutheran church was the scene Saturday evening at 8 o'clock of the wedding of Miss Clara Otilla Ellertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ellertson of 417 Oak street SE, to Otto Ramstad of Poplar, Montana. The church was decorated with palms. The chancel was banked with foliage and vases of Easter lilies. Cathedral candles burned in tall holders.

Before the ceremony Mrs. G. A. Hanson sang "It is not Because Your Heart is Mine." Miss Agnes Bothne presided at the organ and played the Mendelsohn wedding march for the processional and recessional. During the service she played "Meditation" from "Thais." Mrs. T. Alm of Mayville, N. D., was the matron of honor. She wore a gown of pale green silk and net trimmed with iridescent trimming. The skirt was made short and full and the bodice was cut decollete and finished with short puff sleeves. She held an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Ine Johnson and Miss Helen Swanson wore gowns of pink silk and net, elaborated in silver lace, and held bouquets of Ophelia roses tied with pale green tulle. Little Margaret Hanson, in a frock of white organdie, carried a tiny basket filled with sweet peas and forget-me-nots.

The bride entered with her father. She wore a gown of white charmeuse made with a tunic draped over a foundation of tulle edged with bands of silver. The bodice was cut decollete and had tulle sleeves. A court train of satin completed the costume. The tulle veil arranged in cap effect, was held with a spray of lilies of the valley. She held a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. Rev. C. S. Thorpe, pastor of the church performed the ceremony. Carl Ellertson, a brother of the bride was the best man. Ushers were Raymond Hermann and Delmer Goode.

A reception for the relatives and intimate friends was given at the home of the bride's parents. In the reception room where the bridal party and Mr. and Mrs. Ellertson received, palms and Easter lilies arranged in tall baskets were used. Pink roses and lilies of the valley were in the sunparlor. In the dining room the table center was a tall silver vase with a shower of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Tall white tapers burned in silver holders.

Among the out of town guests were Mrs. K. Huseby of Mayville, N. D., a grandmother of the bride; Mrs. A. H. Johnson and Mrs. T. Alm of Mayville, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Ramstad of Thief River Falls, Minn.; and Miss Maud Hanson of Stephen Minn.

Mr. Ramstad and his bride have gone to Poplar, Montana, where they will be at home after June 1. The bride and groom are graduates of the university of Minnesota, class of 1913, and class of 1912 respectively.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Swanson, 2415 Bayless avenue, St. Anthony Park, gave a bridal dinner for Miss Ellertson and Mr. Ramstad Thursday evening. There were 18 guests. Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley were arranged as a centerpiece in a shower bouquet in a tall silver vase. Baskets filled with pink and white sweet peas stood at either side. Pink tapers stood in candelbra. A corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley marked the place of Miss Ellertson.

Mrs. C. F. McKissick and Mrs. C. O. Wold gave a luncheon at Dayton's tea rooms, Wednesday. There were eight guests. The luncheon was followed by a matinee party at the Orpheum. Miss Cora Brown of 2120 Como avenue, St. Paul, entertained 12 girls of the Faust club at her home Saturday afternoon. A dinner was given Wednesday evening for Miss Ellertson by Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Hanson. There were 18 guests. The decorations were in yellow.

Concert.

The Luther League of the Swedish Lutheran church will give a concert at the church on Friday evening, April 28. Miss Olga Hermanson, piano instructor at North Star College will render the principal numbers. Miss Hermanson is a musician of ability as all will admit, who heard her perform last November at the concert given in the Swedish Lutheran church. She will be assisted by Miss Anderson also of North Star College, who will render several vocal selections. Don't forget the date and place. Admission will be 50 cents and after the program a lunch will be served in the church basement by the Luther league.

SCHOOL NOTES

As Good Friday is a legal holiday, there will be no school on that date.

The Washington School conferences are proving of great value to the retarded pupils. These meetings are not regarded as punishments, but as privileges to the students.
